FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.NOTIFICATIONS.

No. 264S.R.—The 29th January 1920.—Babu Surendra Nath Ghose, Sub-Inspector of Excise and Salt, Calcutta, acted as an Inspector of Excise and Salt for one month, with effect from the 17th December 1919, during the absence on leave of Babu Satis Chandra Chaki, Inspector of Excise and Salt, Calcutta.

Babu Surendra Nath Ghose is also appointed to act as an Inspector from the 17th January 1920 to 5th February 1920, vice Babu Sripati Mohan Gupta, Inspector of Excise and Salt, Calcutta, on leave.

No. 293S.-R.—The 30th January 1920.—In exercise of the power conferred by rule 40 of the Bengal Opium Rules, 1918, published with Notification No. 562S.R., dated the 2nd March 1918, at pages 382-395 of Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of the 6th idem, the Governor in Council is pleased to make the following directions to regulate the export of opium by sea from Calcutta:—

1. On and from the date of the publication of the notification the directions published with the Board of Revenue Notification No. 5891B., dated the 10th October 1910, as subsequently amended, shall cease to have effect in the port of Calcutta.

Regulation of the export of opium by sea from Calcutta.

2. Opium may be exported by sea from the port of Calcutta if it has been purchased from the Government at a public sale held by the Local Government, and is covered by a Delivery Order and a certificate granted by the Local Government. A Delivery Order is an order of the Local Government addressed to the Intendant of the Presidency Opium Godowns for delivery of a certain number of opium chests; and a certificate is a document authorising the Collector of Customs to allow the shipment of the opium specified in it. The currency of a certificate is four days, exclusive of its date of issue, and exclusive of Sundays and Custom House holidays. No Delivery Order or certificate for the export of opium will be issued on the same day on which the opium has been sold.

3. A shipper wishing to export opium shall first present his Delivery Order to the Intendant of the opium godowns, and take out his chests of opium from the stacks and arrange them in the corridor, where he will mark them with his distinctive marks for shipment. Before removing the chests from the corridor the shipper shall obtain a pass from the Collector of Customs by presenting at the Custom House the certificate granted him by the Local Government, accompanied with a shipping bill (in duplicate) printed in red ink. The Custom House pass, which will be granted on the shipping bill, shall then be shown to the Intendant, who will then give permission for the removal of the opium chests for shipment. In the case of opium chests which are passed out through the Custom House gate the shipper is also to show the Custom House pass to the gate officer of the Custom House before taking away his chests.

4. If any opium covered by a certificate is not removed from the Presidency Godowns within a period of four days from the date of the issue of the certificate, the holder of the certificate must, within 24 hours next after the expiry of the said period, apply to the Local Government for a fresh certificate.

5. If any opium has been removed from the Presidency Godowns within the said period of four days, and has been passed out by the Customs authorities for export, but has not been shipped within the said period by reason of the opium being shut out from the ship in which it was intended to be shipped, or for any other reason, the shipper must, without delay, apply to the Local Government for a fresh certificate, and must, pending the issue of such certificate, either (a) return the opium to the Presidency Godowns, with the permission of the Collector of Customs, or (b) keep it, with the permission of the said Collector, under sealed hatches at a mooring ghat to be fixed by the Superintendent of the Calcutta Customs Preventive Service.

6. (a) On ordinary working days no Treasury receipt in payment for opium, and no Delivery Order for cancellation will be accepted by the Local Government after 3-30 P.M., and no certificate will be granted after 4 P.M.

(b) On Saturdays no receipt or Delivery Order will be accepted after 1-30 P.M., and no certificate granted after 2 P.M.

(c) A certificate is not transferable, and no one but the person named on the face of it by the Local Government will be entitled to export opium on it.

7. The certificates granted by the Local Government are to be returned to the Local Government within thirty days, duly cancelled.

8. Opium intended for export, which is not cleared from the Port Commissioners' Jetty No. 8 or the Docks at Kidderpore as the case may be, before 4-30 P.M., shall be conveyed to the steamer in covered cargo-boats with properly secured hatches.

9. On any day on which clearances are made from the Opium Godowns the Intendant shall give notice to the Collector of Customs, who will at once appoint a Preventive Officer to be in attendance at 4-30 P.M., at the Port Commissioners' Jetty No. 8 or the Docks at Kidderpore, as the case may be, to perform the duties mentioned in rule 10. When the Intendant is aware that clearances will be made from the godown after 4-30 P.M., he shall make immediate report to the Collector of Customs of the probable number of chests that will be removed after that hour, and the Collector will appoint one or more additional Preventive Officers to be in attendance for the performance of the duties above referred to.

10. In respect of opium chests not placed on cargo-boats before 4-30 P.M. for conveyance to the steamer the Preventive Officer at the Port Commissioners' Jetty No. 8 or the Docks at Kidderpore, as the case may be, shall perform the duties below named. He shall supervise the loading in covered cargo-boats with properly secured hatches of all opium chests lying at No. 8 Jetty or the Kidderpore Docks after 4-30 P.M., or brought there after 4-30 P.M. He shall see all such chests placed in the hold of covered cargo-boats and shall then secure and seal, with a distinctive mark, the hatches or other openings or doors of such cargo-boats by which access may be had to the hold, before allowing the boat to proceed to the steamer.

11. The Preventive Officer on board the receiving steamer shall carefully examine the seals affixed to the hatches or other openings or doors of a cargo-boat laden with opium, as soon as the boat arrives alongside the vessel, and shall not allow the seals to be broken in any case until he is prepared to receive the opium on board, and to superintend the removal of the chests from the hold of the cargo-boat.

12. If it appears to the Preventive Officer on board the receiving vessel that the seals placed on the hatches or other openings or doors of a cargo-boat have been broken in transit, or have been in any way tampered with, he shall immediately bring the matter to the notice of the officer in charge of the vessel, and shall examine each chest carefully. If any theft of opium is discovered, the Preventive Officer shall make an immediate report to the River Police and to the Collector of Customs, mentioning at the same time the number of the cargo-boat and the name of the owner and manjhi.

13. The procedure described in rules 8, 10 11 and 12 both inclusive, is enjoined especially in the case of opium cleared from the godowns after 4-30 P.M., but it may, on application by the shipper to the Intendant, be followed in the case of opium cleared before that time.

14. Rules regarding fees to be paid for delivery and clearance of opium from the Opium Godowns outside regulation hours, and for return of opium to the godowns which has been shut out by steamers, will be found in the Board of Revenue Notification No. 388A., dated the 5th February 1913.

The Second Schedule.

1. The Endowment hereby created shall be called “The Calcutta School of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene Endowments Fund.”

2. The Endowment is created for the promotion and assistance of research work in tropical medicine and in diseases of special importance in India, the teaching of tropical medicine and the training of research workers in the said subjects, all such objects to be carried out in Calcutta at the institution known as the Calcutta School of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene.

3. The income of the Endowment shall be paid by the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments for the Territories subject to the Government of Bengal to the person from time to time nominated to receive it by the committee to be constituted as next hereinafter mentioned and shall be administered by such committee.

4. The committee shall be constituted as follows.

The holders for the time being of the following offices shall be ex officio members :—

- (1) The Director General, Indian Medical Service, who shall be President.
- (2) The Surgeon-General with the Government of Bengal, who shall be Vice-President.
- (3) The Director of the Calcutta School of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene.

Until such time as a Director of the Calcutta School of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene is appointed, the Honorary Secretary of the School of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene shall be a member of the committee in his stead.

And as ordinary members—

- (4), (5) and (6) Three Professors, other than the said Director of the said school, to be nominated yearly by the President and Vice-President of the committee and Director of the School jointly.
- (7) A person to be nominated by the Indian Tea Association.
- (8) A person to be nominated by the Indian Jute Association.
- (9) A person to be nominated by the Indian Mining Association.

Provided that no nomination by any of the three last mentioned associations shall take effect unless, prior to the commencement of the year in which it is intended first to take effect, the nominating association shall have paid to the Treasurer or other proper officer of the School, for application in accordance with the terms of this Scheme, a sum of not less than Rs. 15,000, and any person, so nominated, shall cease to hold office at the commencement of any future year for which a similar payment shall not then have been made, and that the persons to be nominated by such associations shall always be medical men, unless the President shall otherwise permit in writing.

(10) Sir Kailash Chandra Basu, Rai Bahadur, Kt., C.I.E., O.B.E., during his life or until he shall resign.

(11) Mr. J. G. Apcar, during his life or until he shall resign.

5. If any nominated or elected member shall die or resign, the vacancy shall be filled up by the party or body of persons who nominated or elected him. On the death or resignation of the said Sir Kailash Chandra Basu, Rai Bahadur, Kt., C.I.E., O.B.E., or Mr. J. G. Apcar, the vacancy shall be filled up by the committee.

6. The committee may act notwithstanding any temporary vacancy in their body.

7. The committee shall meet together for the despatch of business, adjourn and otherwise regulate their proceedings as they think fit. Three members shall form a quorum. The President shall take the chair; in the event of his absence the Vice-President shall take the chair; in his absence the Director of the School of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene shall take the chair; and in his absence also the meeting shall elect their Chairman. Questions arising at any meeting shall be determined by a majority of votes, and in case of an equality of votes the Chairman shall have a second or casting vote.

8. The committee may delegate any of their powers to sub-committees consisting of such members of their body as they think fit. The Director of the School of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene shall be an ex officio member of all sub-committees. Each sub-committee shall have the power of co-opting additional members with special knowledge of the subject or subjects with which they have to deal, the number of such co-opted members not to exceed two-thirds of that of the original sub-committee. Any sub-committee so formed shall in the exercise of the powers delegated to them conform to any regulations that may from time to time be imposed upon it by the committee, and its meetings and proceedings shall be governed by the provisions contained in this Scheme for regulating the meetings and proceedings of the committee so far as the same are not superseded by any such regulations made by the committee as aforesaid.

9. All acts done by any meeting of the committee or by any person acting as a member thereof shall, notwithstanding that it shall afterwards be discovered that there was some defect in the nomination or election of any member or person acting as a member or that he was not qualified, be as valid as if every member or person acting as such had been duly nominated or elected or was duly qualified.

10. The committee shall appoint a Secretary or other proper officer and shall cause to be kept by him or some other proper person all proper accounts and records of the proceedings at meetings of the committee and sub-committees and of all resolutions or orders passed or made by them respectively, and every minute of the proceedings at any meeting of the committee or any sub-committee or of any resolution or order passed or made thereat, if purporting to be signed by the Chairman of the next succeeding meeting, shall be prima-facie evidence of the correctness of the matters stated in such minute. They shall also appoint a person, who may be the Secretary, to receive the income of the Endowment from time to time and any such other moneys as hereinafter mentioned and the receipt of the person so appointed shall be a good and valid discharge for such income and moneys.

11. The administration and application for the purposes aforesaid of the income of the Endowment shall be vested in the committee, and it shall be their duty to apply such income accordingly so far as the circumstances in their opinion allow.

12. Without prejudice to the general powers and duties conferred upon the committee by the last preceding clause, it is hereby expressly declared that the committee shall have the following powers and duties, that is to say :—

- (1) To apply such moneys as may be received from the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments Fund by way of income on the Endowment and the income of all other moneys subscribed, given, or left by will to or for the Calcutta School of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene and all subscriptions to or for the same or such part thereof as for the time being they think fit to or for the purposes aforesaid for which the said Endowment is made or given or one of such purposes in such manner in all respects as they may for the time being think fit and to the best advantage of the said School.
- (2) To appoint, and at their discretion remove or suspend, such officers, clerks, and servants for permanent, temporary or special services as they may from time to time think fit, and to determine their powers and duties and to fix their salaries or emoluments and otherwise:

Provided that this power shall not be exercised in respect of any officers, clerks or servants of the School of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene, or in such manner as to interfere with the functions or duties of such officers, clerks or servants, without the consent of the local Government.

- (3) Generally to do such things as they may consider necessary or expedient for the purposes of carrying out the objects of this Scheme.

13. The committee shall publish an annual statement of accounts duly audited, and an annual report of the work done in furtherance of the objects of the Endowment.

14. The committee may frame such rules as may be necessary for the discharge of business generally, including the conduct of correspondence and the holding of meetings.

15. No alterations shall be made in the above rules and regulations except by the vote of a majority of the members present at a special meeting of the committee called for the purpose.

ESTABLISHMENTS.

Delhi, the 22nd January 1920.

No. 133.—The following rules, approved by the Secretary of State for India in Council, for the appointment of Natives of India and Burma to the Indian Civil Service otherwise than by Open Competitive Examination, are published for general information.

Recruitment in India.J. & P. 6406-19.INDIAN CIVIL SERVICE.*Appointments (in India) otherwise than by Open Competitive Examination.

The Secretary of State for India in Council, in pursuance of the powers conferred upon him by section 1 of the Indian Civil Service (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1915 (5 & 6 Geo. V., c. 87), hereby makes with the advice and assistance of the Civil Service Commissioners the following rules for the appointment during the year 1919 to the Indian Civil Service otherwise than by the annual Open Competition (which will still continue to be held) of Natives of India and Burma. It will rest with the Government of India to determine whether candidates are qualified in respect of nationality, age, character, and education, as defined in the following regulations:—

1.—(a) Every candidate must be either a British subject or a ruler or subject of any State in India in respect of whom the Governor-General in Council has made a declaration under section 96 (a) of the Government of India Act, 1915, as amended by section 3 of the Government of India (Amendment) Act, 1916.

(b) If the candidate (being a British subject) or his father or his mother was not born within His Majesty's Dominion and allegiance, the father must at the time of the candidate's birth have been a British subject or the subject of a State in India and still be (or have continued to be until his death) a British subject or a subject of such State.

2. Every candidate must have been born on or after the 2nd August 1894, and on or before the 1st August 1898.

3. Every candidate must be of good moral character and sound physique.

4. Every candidate must produce satisfactory evidence that he possesses a degree in Arts or Science of an Indian or British University, or has passed the examination for the higher diploma of the Mayo College, Ajmer, or the diploma of the Aitchison Chiefs' College at Lahore.

5. Any person who possesses the qualifications prescribed in the foregoing rules is eligible to apply for nomination, whether he be already in Government service or not.

6. Every candidate, being a British subject, must submit to the local Government of the Province in which he resides an application in the form annexed to these rules, together with the fee prescribed in that form.

7. Every candidate, being a ruler or subject of a State in India who is qualified under rule 1, must submit his application through the Durbar of the State to the local Government of the Province in which he wishes to serve.

8. Candidates will be nominated by the Government of India on the recommendation of the local Government.

9. Candidates nominated by the Government of India will be accepted by the Secretary of State for India in Council as selected candidates for the Indian Civil Service, subject to any further enquiries that he may find it necessary to institute, and will be required to undergo a period of probation for two years at a College or University in the United Kingdom approved by the Secretary of State. Selected candidates will be entitled to free passages to and from the United Kingdom and will be paid an allowance at the rate of £200 sterling per annum during the period of probation, subject to good conduct. At the end of this period of probation they will be tested by the Civil Service Commissioners or by an authority in India specially empowered in this behalf, in Indian Law and Languages, and in any other subjects which may be prescribed, and in riding. They will not be appointed to the Indian Civil Service until they have been certified to have fulfilled these tests.

10. Any attempt on the part of a candidate to enlist support for his application through persons of influence will disqualify him for appointment. Spontaneous recommendations from persons who are not themselves acquainted with the candidate's work at School, or at the University, or otherwise, will be disregarded.

LIST C.

List C comprises all goods not included in List A or B.

Goods on List C may be exported without licence to all destinations with which trading is allowed.

APPENDIX NO. 1.

GENERAL LICENCES FOR EXPORTS.

An open General Licence has been issued, permitting the exportation of the following goods (without application to the Export Licence Department) to all destinations except those foreign destinations to which goods on list C are prohibited from export.

Alpaca, and noils, waste and yarns thereof.
 Bird Seed.
 Blanc-mange powder.
 Cake mixture.
 Camel hair, and noils, waste and yarns thereof.
 Cashmere, and noils, waste and yarns thereof.
 Cement for building and engineering purposes.
 Chillies.
 Cocoa and milk, coffee and milk, chocolate and milk sweetened or unsweetened, in tins.
 Custard powder.
 Gloy.
 Horseflesh.

Koffio.
 Lactol.
 Lactogol.
 Mango chutney, tomato chutney, and tomato ketchup.
 Marinite.
 Minced meat and mince pies.
 Mixtures and preparations containing not more than 10 per cent. aniline colour, not otherwise prohibited.
 Mohair and noils, waste and yarns thereof.
 Paisley flour.
 Paint, other than gold paint.
 "Phosto" animal food.
 Pudding powder.
 Puddings.
 Restorine.
 Vanilla custard.

SAMPLES.

An open general licence has been issued which permits the free export of all bona fide samples of prohibited goods to all non-enemy destinations, and to enemy territory with which trade is now permitted. Samples exported under this licence may be used only for genuine sample purposes, i.e., for obtaining orders from foreign buyers, and may not be sold except with the written consent of the Export Licence Department, but such consent may be dispensed with when it is desired to sell the articles in the country of destination after they have fulfilled their purpose as samples. Exporters will be required to satisfy the Customs Authorities that the goods presented for export under this licence are bona fide samples, and to make a declaration to that effect on the relative shipping documents.

This notice only applies to samples of goods which require licences for export to the particular destination concerned.

In addition, the consent of the Export Licence Department is not required for the sale of samples which, though within the scheme at the actual time they were exported could be exported outside the scheme at the actual time of the proposed sale.

OPEN GENERAL LICENCE FOR THE EXPORT OF EXPLOSIVES, DOUBLE-BARRELLED GUNS, ETC.

An open General Licence has been issued for the export of cartridges, charges, etc., industrial explosives, doubled-barrelled guns and sporting rifles, to the destinations given below, to which, therefore, exports may be made subject to the usual Customs formalities without applications for specific licences to the Export Licence Department:—

British Possessions and Protectorates.
 French Possessions and Protectorates.
 United States of America.

South America.

Africa.

Japan and Korea.

Asiatic Russia.

France, Belgium, Spain, Portugal, Greece, Italy, Serbia, Roumania, Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

The issue of this licence does not relieve exporters from the necessity of obtaining import permits from the country of destination in cases where local regulations render such a course necessary.

OPEN GENERAL LICENCE FOR THE EXPORT OF AIRCRAFT, ETC.

An Open General Licence has been issued for the export of the undermentioned goods to all destinations except Russia, Germany, Hungary, Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria. Applications are no longer to be made to the Export Licence Department in respect of the export of these goods to countries other than those mentioned:—"Aeroplane engines and their component parts. Aircraft, other than balloons of all kinds and their component parts, together with accessories and articles suitable for use in connection with aircraft."

OPEN GENERAL LICENCE FOR THE EXPORT OF PARCELS CONTAINING MISCELLANEOUS FOODSTUFFS.

An Open General Licence has been issued for the export (by parcel post of parcels containing miscellaneous foodstuffs (for the personal use of the addressee and not for trading purposes) to all destinations with which trading is allowed. Applications need, therefore, no longer be submitted to the Export Licence Department in respect of the export of such parcels by parcel post.

URGENT ORDERS.

The Board of Trade, Import and Export Section, announces that, in collaboration with the Department of Overseas Trade, an arrangement has been made whereby firms receiving orders which require immediate acceptance may telegraph details of any such order to the Department of Overseas Trade in order to ascertain whether a licence will be granted for the export of the goods if the order is accepted.

In the event of an applicant being promised a licence he will be enabled to deal with the order straightaway with the knowledge that upon application being made on the proper form to the Export Licence Department the licence will be granted.

The telegrams should be addressed to "Orders, c/o Advantage, Stock, London." They should give in each case, in addition to the name and postal or telegraphic address of the applicant, the quantity and description of the goods comprised in the order and the name and address of the ultimate consignee if the goods are destined for a neutral country. In the case of orders from Allied or British Territory or from Territory in the occupation of troops of the Associated Governments, the consignee need not be stated; and it will be sufficient merely to give the country of destination. A reply of 64 words ($) must be prepaid.

Applicants are requested in their own interest to confine their enquiries to orders needing a very urgent decision, since the fewer the enquiries the more promptly can answers be given.

Any subsequent correspondence that is necessary in connection with the telegraphic enquiries should be addressed to the Comptroller General, Department of Overseas Trade (Export Facilities Section), 4, Queen Anne's Gate Buildings, Westminster, S. W. 1.

TRANSHIPMENT IN THE UNITED KINGDOM.

6. Turning to certain characteristics of the educational system which are often regarded as inimical to the development of girls' education, it must be admitted that the influence of such defects as exist is very small in comparison with that of the larger causes which have been mentioned above, and, with the disappearance of those causes, such defects are likely to find their own remedy. The chief difficulties which may be termed educational are the following :—

Educational difficulties

- (i) The difficulty of providing an adequate supply of competent teachers. Resort is still necessary, and is for many years likely to be necessary, to the employment of foreigners and members of the domiciled community. Their services are expensive. Indian Christians are also available; but in many places, it is understood, orthodox opinion prefers instruction by members of the faith professed by the majority of the pupils. Hindu and Muhammadan women adopt the teaching profession only in small numbers. The employment of men in girls' schools is generally deprecated.
- (ii) The unsuitability of the curriculum. It is frequently asserted that the curriculum for girls too closely follows that for boys. Over half a million girls are studying in boys' schools; and for these it is not easy to devise any suitable system. In secondary schools there is a tendency on the part of many parents to oppose any course save that laid down for the university matriculations. Elsewhere attempts have been made to introduce a variety of courses. The question whether these attempts go far enough is discussed below.
- (iii) The dominance of the examination system. This defect prevails only in post-elementary institutions and to a much lesser extent in middle than in high and collegiate institutions. But the extent to which, at least in Bengal, it affects higher instruction is forcibly pointed out by Sir Michael Sadler's Commission. Secondary education for girls, says their Report, "labours under exceptional difficulties in Bengal; it is surrounded by prejudices; it is distorted, even more unnaturally than the education of boys by the malign influence of the examination fetish." The Commission "feel that the schools must be saved from the desolating domination of the examination system which now mischievously influences all their work."

In addition to these three main defects, there are others of minor importance. In the following paragraphs the different grades of education will be considered and suggestions made for improvement with special reference to the difficulties mentioned in this and in preceding passages.

Primary Education.

7. More than nine-tenths of the girls under instruction are in the primary stage. Of a total of 19,595 primary schools, 554 are managed by Government, 3,106 by local bodies and 15,735 by private agency. Of these last, 13,067 are in receipt of aid from public funds. The Government of India have laid down the principle that local bodies should assume a more direct responsibility for the evolution and management of primary education. In their circular letter No 873, dated the 19th September 1916, they suggested the withdrawal, whenever this is reasonably feasible, of such restrictions as at present exist on the activities of local bodies regarding such matters as the provision of buildings, the hours of attendance, the grant of holidays, the rates of pay, the levy of fees, the disbursement of grants-in-aid, the creation and filling up of appointments, the punishment and dismissal of teachers and (subject to certain conditions) the opening and closing of schools. Difficulties have been anticipated by some of those consulted in the application of these suggestions to girls' schools. Some local bodies have not evinced much interest in the education of girls. There is a tendency to subordinate it to that of boys. Expert opinion is often lacking. On the one hand Government, on the other some special sort of agency, is regarded as a suitable organisation for the management of institutions. The Government of India have carefully considered these opinions. Where Government already manages schools, they have no desire to see the system radically altered, since the existence of such institutions evinces the interest of Government in this branch of education and sometimes results in the maintenance of model institutions. Still less do they desire to interfere with privately managed schools, the good work done by many of which they are glad to recognise. But in view of the relation between boys' and girls' education, the advisability of engaging local sentiment and interest to the utmost and the policy of strengthening local bodies by the delegation to them of large and important functions, the Government of India maintain that those bodies, already constituted as the proper agencies for the diffusion of elementary instruction, must continue to be such in the case of girls and that upon their enthusiasm and the capability for management which they display the future of girls' primary schools will largely depend. The same remarks apply to the divisional boards recently set up in Burma where there are no district boards.

8. At the same time the Government of India realise that local bodies, as at present constituted, may sometimes be found lacking in zeal for girls' education and in the particular experience which would enable them successfully to handle it. There is no objection therefore to the establishment of advisory committees or to the inclusion of persons versed in the problem of girls' education as supernumerary members on the educational committees to which local bodies ordinarily delegate some portion of their functions. It is desirable that in such matters the assistance of ladies should, so far as possible, be utilised.

9. The most important matter for consideration in the education of girls is its wider expansion. Recent legislation has placed new powers in the hands of local bodies in certain provinces. In Bombay, Bengal, the United Provinces, the Punjab and Bihar and Orissa some classes of local bodies can now elect for compulsory elementary education in the case of boys; and in Bombay and the United Provinces the provision for compulsion can be extended to girls. It is hoped that these measures will bear fruit. In the meantime, however, local Governments and local bodies would do well to collaborate in the work of surveys for expansion. The Government of India are aware of the difficulties of the question. The grounds which lead to the opening of a Government or board school often consist in the belief that there is some demand for education at the centre selected. The results are sometimes disappointing and it is occasionally found necessary to close the school in order to obviate waste of funds. It is suggested that even at the risk of incurring expenditure which, in the first instance, might appear unremunerative, it would be well to create opportunities for education upon some systematised plan, such as the founding of a girls' school in every centre which contains a secondary boys' school, whether of the middle or the high grade. Other systems will doubtless suggest themselves to local Governments as guides.

10. In order to obviate the possibility that educational benefits may in some places be monopolised by those classes of the community which have enjoyed the larger share of them in the past it will be necessary to keep a watchful eye upon the interests of the depressed and less fortunate classes. It is to be recognised, however, that in some cases the feeling against association with certain castes is more strongly accentuated in the case of girls than of boys. Such feeling, if it were to be ignored in favour of the principle of free admission for all, might result in the occasional collapse of a school. While, therefore, it cannot be denied that maintenance or assistance from public funds involves the right of any child to admission to an institution, some reasonable discretion to be exercised in unavoidable cases must in practice be left to local authorities and the establishment of special schools for lower castes may be found necessary in some areas.

11. Since no measure is to be overlooked which promises even a possibility of success in prosecuting this most important object, the Government of India would emphasise not only the foundation of new schools, grant of scholarships, etc., but also the retention and, if necessary, the further development of other measures which are at present found in different provinces. Thus, over 500,000 girls study in boys' schools. The defects of such an arrangement are fully appreciated; but in default of more adequate arrangements, it seems desirable that facilities should be offered for small girls in boys' schools where girls' schools are not to be found. Such devices, however, can in no case be regarded as a substitute for the foundation of girls' schools and it is doubtful whether the offer of special grants for girls studying in boys' schools should be retained at any centre where a girls' school is opened.

12. The general practice hitherto has been for a local Government through its Department of Public Instruction to prescribe for adoption such courses as the Department considers generally suitable, with or without a certain measure of latitude for local or individual needs. There is a good deal of public criticism of this arrangement on the grounds, firstly, that the courses do not allow sufficient variety and, secondly, that they are not properly adapted for the special use of girls. In regard to both these criticisms it is to be remembered that the bulk of the girls under primary education—over 95 per cent.—are in the lower primary or most rudimentary stage of education, and that if, as is inevitable, they are first taught to read, write and figure in their own vernacular, the margin for a variety of subjects either in the lower or in the upper primary stage is very narrow. The period during which girls are at school is very short and their attendance often irregular, so that out of the several additional subjects which are usually suggested for their instruction, it is impossible to expect that more than two or three at the most could be taught adequately in one school, even when teachers competent to handle them are to be found, without hopelessly overloading the curriculum and subjecting to a degree of study incompatible with their physical powers even the few girls who proceed beyond the rudimentary stages. It is however the duty of Departments of Public Instruction to review from time to time the schemes of study so that these may correspond as far as possible with modern ideas and ~~and~~ ^{and} opinion and to suggest for the higher primary classes a limited number of alternative courses. For the rest, the procedure laid down in the circular of the 19th September 1916, already alluded to, should be followed. Account should be taken of the fact that any such alternatives are meant primarily for schools where girls alone are taught and of the varying needs of different classes and tracts and of town and country; and it would add to the authority of these schemes if they could be set forth after consultation with intelligent unofficial opinion. The courses having thus been devised, the local bodies concerned would be at liberty to prescribe for the classes concerned—both in their own schools and in those to which they give aid—the particular subjects to be studied, provided of course that the staff possesses the qualifications necessary for the teaching of those subjects.

13. Two special points arise in connection with the curriculum. It is a matter for consideration whether it would not be well to produce special text-books suitable for girls in the higher classes of primary schools. In some provinces the production of special text-books is believed to have been attended with success. Second, there is a growing feeling against the exclusion of religious teaching and observances from school life, and the feeling is more accentuated in the case of girls than in that of boys. In Government and board schools such teaching cannot ordinarily be given in school hours; but the codes in several provinces admit of facilities for religious teaching out of school hours, and when there is a demand for such teaching local arrangements may be made as far as possible to meet it. In Hindu schools the teaching of elementary Sanskrit, of tales from the epics or of religious music is often advocated with the object of introducing a religious element into the teaching. In schools predominantly Muhammadan the reading of the Koran is demanded and facilities for this can generally be given. The Government of India are of opinion that it would not be advisable to lay down any uniform system to be followed in all localities in respect of religious teaching either for boys or for girls, but they feel that in the case of girls a rather greater degree of elasticity can be given to the curriculum in this respect and local bodies should do what they reasonably can to meet genuine local sentiment in the matter.

Secondary Education.

14. Of the girls at school something less than two per cent. are in the secondary stage, but the influence of this stage of education on the future of the country is very considerable and the problems which it presents are among the most difficult in the educational administration of the country. The management of the existing secondary schools is almost entirely in private hands, Government having but few schools of its own and local bodies fewer still, though the bulk of the schools receive financial aid from Government. In the case of boys, primary education is quite as much as local bodies can undertake. They may be expected to interest themselves in girls' primary education also. In these circumstances and for various reasons they cannot be expected to do anything substantial for girls' secondary education. It will probably be necessary, therefore, that the general control and supply of funds should rest with the Government, but this need not involve the management by Government of any large number of schools. The working of secondary education among girls is a matter of some delicacy in which a special degree of elasticity and personal feeling is required which Government can seldom hope to provide as adequately as private societies or individuals, and the general form of management should as at present be of a private character, aided by funds from Government, and under Government inspection and control. It would seem advisable, where possible, to associate with the Education Department one or more advisory committees, consisting as far as possible of ladies, similar to that previously constituted by the Government of Eastern Bengal and Assam. Such committees would be unnecessary where secondary schools are under fairly effective managing boards, and the personnel of the advisory committees would largely be a repetition of that of the managing boards of the several schools. Efforts, however, might be made to induce the school authorities so as to constitute their own boards as to render them, as far as possible, responsive to local public opinion as regards the character of the education to be imparted in the schools.

15. There is no point upon which there is greater diversity of opinion than the character of the secondary education which should be imparted to girls. As in other countries, there are two main schools of thought. The difference between them is for various reasons more marked in India than elsewhere. The one school would bring up girls on lines as similar as possible to those laid down for boys and would prepare them for a university career. The other would prepare girls primarily for home life and hold that women should be educated in all that concerns enlightened mothering, a good standard of maternal physique, better care of infancy, appropriate feeding, care and management of children, effective attention to children's diseases, and generally to their physical condition, good sanitary environment and other matters of domestic concern.

16. This question has been discussed at length in the opinions which reached the Government of India as a result of their reference. The Government of India have also had the advantage of the views of the Calcutta University Commission on this subject and on that of the collegiate education of women. The portions of the report of the Commission which deal with this subject are Chapters XIV and XXXVI, together with certain recommendations in Chapter LII. The condition of things, which the Commission reviewed in Bengal, is not entirely reproduced in other parts of India, although the inadequate number of girls' schools may be regarded as a common feature.

17. The Commission recognise as already in existence two types of secondary schools. They suggest that in future schools should be so organised as to meet, on the one hand, the needs of the majority who will spend their lives in the zenana and whose education will cease at an early age and, on the other hand, those of the small but important minority who will take to professional service or play a part in the progressive section of Indian society. Both these types would fall under the general control of a body which the Commission call the Board of Secondary and Intermediate Education. It is an important part of their proposals that this board should generally manage the education now classed as secondary and also that which at present ends with the Intermediate examination. They propose, however, for schools for the former type of girls (which they denominate purdanushin schools) a special body acting under the board and consisting very largely of women. For girls of the second type they consider that the maintenance of schools of the existing pattern will still be necessary and that the standard of attainment should as nearly as possible correspond with that of boys' schools. At the same time the subjects of the course might with advantage be modified so as to avoid too sharp a differentiation between the purdanashin and the non-purda school. The Commission have recommended the creation of a standing committee on girls' education which would be advisory to the Secondary and Intermediate Board and which would frame the curricula and conduct the examinations for these schools. The Government of India have not yet fully considered the various proposals of the Commission. They recognise that the creation of purdanashin schools will be a matter of difficulty and of very great expense and they do not overlook the obstacles which in some parts of India have stood in the way of what is now known as the system of zenana classes. They fully accept however the two principles which underlie the proposals of the Commission, namely, the modification of the curriculum in order to suit the needs of girls and women of different classes and, secondly, the utilisation of the advice of ladies in formulating a suitable system of instruction. They also heartily endorse the statement of the Commission that the purdanashin school will eminently be a field for the munificence of enlightened Indians, without whose aid and encouragement schools of this type are scarcely likely to come into existence or to thrive.

18. The oppressive effect of examinations upon girls has been a matter of constant complaint. The Government of India endorse the view of the Commission that in the case of purdanashin schools there should be some form of examination at the end of the course, but that it should not be compulsory and that it should be differentiated from the corresponding examination for boys and conducted in part through oral tests by competent women visiting examiners; and that in non-purda schools it would be the duty of the secondary and intermediate Board to ensure that the standards of attainment represented by the examination correspond to those of the examination for boys, though this would not imply the use of identical papers, nor preclude the use of oral tests or the weighing of records of school work, which in view of the small number of pupils concerned would be specially practicable and easy.

19. The remarks made above apply especially to high schools. But for a long time to come the middle school will represent an institution of great importance in the education of girls, seeing that in view of the paucity of high schools, the great expense involved in their maintenance and the social causes which still hamper progress, the middle school is likely often to remain the only institution to which the majority of girls who desire education above the elementary stage can aspire and beyond which it will be impossible for many of them by reason of social exigencies, etc., to proceed. Opinions are divided regarding the stage at which the teaching of English should commence. This is one of those matters in which the Government of India consider that respect should be paid to local opinion. It is obvious, however, from reports which have reached them that the value of English education among girls is much appreciated and they would strongly urge upon local Governments the advisability of establishing a close network of Anglo-vernacular middle schools which will provide women suitable for training as teachers of lower classes and will perhaps more than any other type of institution disseminate an interest in the advancement of girls' education.

Collegiate Education.

20. The number of girls at present studying in Arts Colleges is 914. Collegiate education of women almost non-existent. The Calcutta University Commission have declared that the intermediate classes do not properly form a part of collegiate or university education. If this proposition is accepted (and it had previously been put forward by various authorities in India) then the number of girls who are doing real university work is infinitesimal—in the three colleges in Calcutta the Commission found that there are only 53 students attempting such work. The Government of India, however, are impressed with the success (already mentioned) of the two women's colleges in Madras.

21. Among the recommendations of the Commission are the following Calcutta University Commission's recommendations. In view of the small number of girls concerned the work of the intermediate and degree stages might continue to be carried on under the same direction and by the same teachers, though, so far as possible, the intermediate work should be done by school methods and should also be developed at some selected high schools. There is need for inclusion in university courses for girls of subjects which are likely to appeal specially to women. A Board should be constituted in the reorganised University of Calcutta on lines (similar to the standing committee advisory to the Board of Secondary and Intermediate Education), which would organise the provision of advanced education and make proposals regarding the adaptation of the degree courses to the needs of women, subject to the approval of the academic authorities of the University. On the difficult subject of economy in university training for women the Commission emphasise the need of co-operation among the colleges. They consider that, while university classes should as a matter of principle be open to qualified women students, under existing circumstances such facilities will be very little used. The conditions which prevail in Bengal in this respect are not to be found in all portions of India. In Bombay and elsewhere a certain number of women study in men's colleges and this is particularly the case in professional colleges. The Government of India, however, fully realize the desirability of instituting separate collegiate institutions for women staffed by women, but with arrangements, if necessary, for lectures in certain subjects by the professors of neighbouring men's colleges. Their views upon the other recommendations of the Commission must naturally await the consideration of the Commission's proposals for university education as a whole.

Training of Teachers.

22. It is desired on all hands that schools should be staffed by trained women teachers; but the number of Indian ladies who are willing to teach or capable of doing so is yet limited. The number of those under training has indeed shown an appreciable increase during recent years and now stands at 3,096 as against 2,234 in 1915. These numbers, however, are altogether inadequate. It is therefore often unavoidable to employ to a large extent the services of mission societies, of English ladies specially recruited and trained, of members of the domiciled community and of Indian Christians. The labours of these classes of workers are responsible for much of the progress which has already been made. Naturally, however, there is a feeling in many quarters that Indian girls should be instructed by those of their own race and creed. A considerable number of European ladies at present employed in education in India are actually engaged in the preparation of Indian women for this profession.

23. The Calcutta University Commission recognise that women teachers of two types are required—those capable of doing high school work and of teaching through the medium of English, and those who teach in primary schools and the lower classes of secondary schools. The Government of India consider that the supply of the second class of teachers will best be met from among the pupils of the middle schools which they would like to see established after the pupils have undergone a supplementary course of training; and from the Widows' Homes which have been established in several parts of India. These sources of supply, however, should not be utilised to the exclusion of the existing training schools, which, on a limited scale, are doing most useful work.

As regards teachers of higher type, the Commission recognise that, if their programme of development is to be carried out, the necessary recruits can at present only be obtained from Britain or America. This remark, however (written in application to the Presidency of Bengal, though undoubtedly applicable to a large degree elsewhere), is tempered by the recognition that the more orthodox section of Indian society fears the unsettling influence of western women and that for the purdanashin type of schools there must be a large increase in the number of well-educated Indian women teachers. The Government of India are fully alive to the advantage of supplementing the efforts of Government by the service of competent private bodies in the task of training women teachers. They incline also to the view of the Commission that this work should not be treated as apart, that it can be carried on as a portion of the ordinary teaching work of schools and university courses, and that education may fitly form a subject in the courses leading to the intermediate and degree stages. In this connection, the following passage from chapter XXXVI of the Commission's Report is quoted :—

“We would suggest (1) that post-graduate classes in the university department of education which we shall propose should be thrown open to women equally with men ; (2) that education should be introduced as one of the subjects for the degree, and that instruction for this purpose should be provided by the three Calcutta women's colleges in co-operation ; (3) that an introduction to the methods of teaching should be also made one of the possible subjects at the intermediate stage, as has already been suggested in the case of intermediate colleges for men, and that this option should be offered in all the women's colleges ; (4) that training for the L. T. diploma and for the B. T. degree should be given in the women's colleges on a co-operative system under the direction and advice of the university department of education, which might afford much assistance.”

Professional Training.

24. Apart from the training of teachers it has been recognised by many authorities, including the Calcutta University Commission, that the profession in which there is greatest need for women is the medical. After discussing the difficulties of the situation and the proposal, now abandoned, to exclude women from the Calcutta Medical College, the Commission conclude that all the existing arrangements are little better than makeshifts and that until Hindu and Mussalman society has materially modified its attitude on the training of women no real solution for this problem will be possible. They consider, however, that one obstacle should be removed, namely, the difficulty of obtaining the requisite preliminary training. While it would be very expensive to provide this in any single college it might be possible to arrange for some concentration of effort among the women's colleges in Calcutta. Another suggestion made by the Commission is that as the student will later on attend mixed classes in the medical colleges it might be possible to make use of some of the teachers in the laboratories provided for men in the preliminary medical subjects. The suggestions are endorsed by the Government of India and the attention of the Governments both of Bengal and of other presidencies and provinces is invited to them.

Conclusion.

25. In some of the opinions received by the Government of India it is contended that the progress of female education is not primarily a matter of money but of social development, and it is urged that in many cases schools have been opened but have failed to attract scholars. By many others it is held that the expansion of girls' education is mainly a matter of finance and that if only more money can be spent on schools and on the training of teachers the number of scholars will rapidly advance. There are doubtless parts of the country in which the former of these views is a correct representation of facts. There are tracts, however, where substantial sums of money can be spent usefully in starting new schools, in strengthening the inspectorate, in experimenting with widows' homes, secondary schools of the types described above, and the like. Where anything can be done by the expenditure of money in such cases it is hoped that local Governments and local bodies will be liberal in doing what their resources permit. At its present stage the education of girls needs more financial fostering than that of boys ; primary education must mainly be free ; scholarships and studentships must be given more lavishly ; grants-in-aid must be calculated more generously ; and the greater expensiveness of secondary education has to be practically recognised. For part of the expenditure involved it is hoped that private endowments may be forthcoming, and so far as public money is required the responsibility rests primarily with the provincial Governments and the local bodies concerned. The Government of India have of late years given considerable grants to help in various educational activities, more especially in primary education and the training of teachers, and the utilisation of these grants is by no means confined to the education of boys. But since the impending changes in the relations between Imperial and Provincial finance will in all probability involve the complete dissociation of the former from educational expenditure in the provinces, the provincial and local agencies will become not merely primarily but exclusively responsible for the future development of the education of girls. It will rest with them to decide how far they will be able to devote public money to furthering this form of education, and it is hoped that the suggestions which have been put forward in the preceding paragraphs will be of assistance in indicating the objects on which such money can most usefully be spent and the directions in which the education of girls can most profitably be guided. Hitherto the difficulty has often been not so much in the actual provision of funds as in the discovery of opportunity for their fruitful expenditure. There can be little doubt that in future such opportunities will largely increase. Although it has to be admitted that the total number of girls under education is at present infinitesimal the progress made in the last few years is significant, the interest now evinced in the subject is a hopeful sign and the enhanced rate of development in the education of boys, especially in its higher branches, is bound to influence favourably the popular attitude towards the education of girls. There is every reason, therefore, to hope that the demand for girls' education and the supply of means to foster its growth may in the future so react upon each other as to provide for an early and substantial development of this important factor in the progress of India.

UNIVERSITY OF CALCUTTA

NOTIFICATION.

THE Senate of the Calcutta University will proceed, in the month of March 1921, to appoint the first Lecturer for the Stephanos Nirmalendu Ghosh Lectures endowed for a course of lectures on Comparative Religion, to be delivered at the University.

The honorarium of the Lecturer will be Rs. 9,000 and he will be required to deliver his lectures in English not more than twice a week. The course is expected to consist of eight lectures. The Lecturer will have to deliver to the University a complete copy of his lectures within a month after their delivery. In dealing with the subjects of his lectures, the Lecturer should endeavour to show that the highest ideal for man lies in love and service to his fellow-men according to the essence of the teaching and life of Christ and that life lived under the guidance of this ideal constitutes the highest advancement of human personality, the acceptance of a particular creed or dogma being of subordinate importance.

The lectures are to be delivered during the cold weather of the session 1921-22. The copyright of the lectures will belong to the University.

Applications from candidates for the Lectureship should reach the Registrar of the University not later than the 31st January 1921, and should be supported by—

(1) a brief syllabus indicating the scope of the lectures proposed to be delivered,

(2) a statement of the original work or investigation in Comparative Religion which a candidate may have done

A. H. CLAYTON, Collector.

Chittagong, the 28th January 1920.

Notification of Sale.

TO be sold pursuant to an order, dated the 7th day of July 1919, as modified by an order, dated the 8th day of December 1919, both made by the Hon'ble the High Court of Calcutta in the matter of clause 13 of the Letters Patent and in the matter of Smt No 203 of 1905 and in the matter of Execution Case No. 304 of 1907 of the Court of the 1st Subordinate Judge, Midnapore (Srimati Kristomayini Das versus Prince Mahomed Bukhtyar Shah), by the undersigned the Official Receiver of the said High Court and the Receiver appointed in the said suit at his office in the Court house on Saturday, the 14th day of February 1920, at 12 noon, the under-mentioned property —

All that the right, title and interest vested in the undersigned as Receiver of the estate of the late Prince Mahomed Bukhtyar Shah, cum in the valuable mining rights in and about the Dalbhum mining estate, situate within the pargana and district of Singhbhum, thana Ghatsila, sub-registry and chowki Chaibassa, and within thana and sub registry Jhargram in the district of Midnapore, being tauzi No 1, in the Singhbhum Collectorate, measuring, more or less, 1,100 square miles, bounded and luted on the north by the boundary of Silda pargana, in the district of Midnapore, and the boundary of Barababhum pargana, in the district of Manbhum, on the east by the boundary of pargana Nayabassan Betsabera, pargana Janboni and pargana Silda, within the district of Midnapore, on the south by the boundary of Mayurbhanj, in the district of Cuttack, on the west by the boundary of pargana Seorikela, in the district of Singhbhum, and known as the Dalbhum mining estate, which said premises are held under a Bengal Instrument of moudarati mukarari patta, dated the 27th day of Pous 1306 BS, corresponding with the 10th day of January 1900, granted by Raja Sattrughan Deo Dhubal Deb, of Nussingrah, Raja of Dalbhum, to the said Prince Mahomed Bukhtyar Shah, and supplemented by an indenture, dated the 1st day of September 1919, made between James Edwin Scott, Deputy Commissioner of Singhbhum, in his capacity as Manager of the Dalbhum incumbered estate of the one part and the said Official Receiver as Receiver of the estate of the said Prince Mahomed Bukhtyar Shah, deceased, of the other part.

The entire property is believed to be rich in minerals. Out of the total area of 1100 square miles about one third of the whole area is at present covered by certain mining leases and prospecting licences granted in respect of gold, copper, iron ore, phosphate of lime, wolfram, kaolin, etc. These leases and licences at present yield a gross annual income of about Rs 36,400 subject to certain royalties payable to the Dalbhum encumbered estate under the said patta and indenture.

A preferential right to purchase the said property was claimed by Mr V G Pigott, but it has been held by the said High Court as declared in the said order of the 8th December 1919 that this preferential right claimed by the said Mr Pigott no longer exists. The said property will be sold subject to all existing mining lease, and prospecting licences granted by the said Receiver, but free from all other encumbrances and attachments whatsoever including the said claim of Mr. Pigott.

If at this sale the undersigned considers that the highest bid offered for the estate in one lot is insufficient he will put the estate up for sale in the undermentioned lots —

Lot I.—All the areas covered by the existing mining leases and prospecting licences.

Lot II.—The remainder of the estate over which no lease or licence has as yet been granted and which at present produces no income and covers an area of approximately 750 square miles

Owing to the war, it has not been possible up to now to have this area properly surveyed by experts, but it is believed that it contains minerals which when properly developed will produce a handsome profit

Full particulars of the leases and licences granted in respect of the said property and the areas covered thereby can be obtained from the office of the undersigned and will be produced on the day of the sale.

The abstract of title and conditions of sale may be seen at the office of Messrs Orr, Dignam & Co, 52, Dalhousie Square, or at the office of the undersigned.

RESOLUTION REVIEWING THE REPORTS ON THE WORKING OF MUNICIPALITIES IN THE BENGAL PRESIDENCY (EXCEPT CALCUTTA) DURING 1918-19.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT.

Municipal Branch.

CALCUTTA, THE 2ND FEBRUARY 1920.

RESOLUTION—No. 212M.

Read—

Reports from the Commissioners of Divisions on the working of municipalities in the Bengal Presidency (except Calcutta) during the year 1918-19.

1. Number of municipalities.—The number of municipalities remained unchanged, viz., 115.

2. Elections.—The elective system was introduced in Budge Budge and general elections were held in 68 municipalities. They were, as a rule, keenly contested, but there was no poll in 9 towns; and in three others the ratepayers having failed to elect some of the Commissioners, Government had to appoint them under section 16 of the Bengal Municipal Act. Eight elections were followed by litigation in the civil courts or objections before the District Magistrate. Pending the decision of the civil suits, new municipal boards could not be formed at Rishra-Konnagar and Sirajganj. In the former town an ex-parte injunction issued by a Munsif restraining the Chairman from forming a new Board had unfortunate results, as it tied the hands of the municipal authorities in dealing with an outbreak of cholera. Fortunately the officers of an adjoining mill gave prompt and valuable assistance, but there was a regrettable loss of life. The case, as the District Magistrate remarks, illustrates the pressing need for the establishment of special tribunals to deal promptly and effectively with election disputes. Government are contemplating legislation to remedy the present state of affairs.

3. Meetings.—Altogether 150 meetings, or one in every 15, failed for want of a quorum. At Murshidabad 7 out of 19 meetings proved abortive. The Commissioners of seven municipalities failed to hold one meeting a month.

4. Ratepayers and Voters.—The total number of ratepayers rose from 316,563 to 317,117, or a little over 16 per cent. of the population residing within municipal limits. The ratio varied from 38·7 per cent. in Bogra to 3·6 per cent. in Titagarh, a mill town with a large cooly population. The average number of voters per elected Commissioner is 159. It falls below 100 in 37 municipalities, the minimum being 31, and it is over 300 in only 13 towns: the maximum (892) is reached in Howrah.

5. Assessment and taxation.—The average incidence of taxation per head of the population rose from Rs. 2-4-11 to Rs. 2-9-1. Latrine rates were levied in 99 municipalities, water rates in 23 and a lighting rate in 4 municipalities. A water rate and a latrine rate were imposed for the first time in Uttarpara and a latrine rate in Ghatal. The threats of the Calcutta Corporation to cut off the water-supply in consequence of non-payment of its dues compelled the Commissioners of Tollygunge to raise the water rate to the maximum permissible under the law. There was an increase in the water rate at Narayanganj, in the latrine rates at Netrakona and Sherpur, in the house rate at Baranagar and in the tax on persons at Jamalpur. In Comilla a rate on holdings was introduced in lieu of the tax on persons.

6. Revision of assessment.—General or partial revisions of assessment took place in 68 municipalities. New assessments were responsible for an increase in the demand in 14 municipalities, but 22 municipalities report a net reduction of revenue due to remissions on appeal or poverty or other reasons not properly explained. The number of appeals is sometimes abnormal; in one ward of Howrah, for instance, there were 2,835 revised valuations and 2,096 appeals were made; in such circumstances delay in disposal of appeals is inevitable and collections suffer.

7. Collections.—There was a satisfactory increase of 5 lakhs in collections, the average percentage on the current demand rising from 92·3 to 97·7. Remissions represented 3·6 per cent. on the current demand. In Bansberia, Burdwan, Taki and Serampore the ratio varied from 10 to 16 per cent. In the Presidency, as a whole, the outstanding balances fell from Rs. 6,12,128 to Rs. 5,40,076. Eight municipalities had no outstanding balances and in 16 other cases they were less than Rs. 100, but they were heavy in 12 towns. Rampore-Boalia had nearly one-third of its current demand in arrear in the beginning of the year and so far from any improvement being effected, there was a further increase at its end.

8. Income and expenditure.—The aggregate receipts including opening balances rose from Rs. 83,58,974 to Rs. 89,06,396, the income from rates and taxes rising by nearly 5½ lakhs. The aggregate expenditure rose from Rs. 66,74,302 to Rs. 69,67,662, the largest increase, viz., Rs. 1,61,922, being under the head of "Public Health and Convenience".

9. General administration and collection charges.—The expenditure under this head was practically stationary and represented 8 per cent. of the total expenditure. The highest percentages were returned by Taki (27·7), North Dum-Dum (23·5) and Debhatta (20·4).

10. Public instruction.—The amount spent on education was Rs. 2,94,718 or 4½ per cent. of the municipal income. The actual increase was Rs. 33,204, and as Government grants exceeded those for the previous year by only Rs. 9,143, it may be inferred that the municipalities are showing greater readiness to discharge their obligations towards primary education. Twenty-four municipalities, however, or one in every five (as against 17 in the previous year) failed to spend even 3·2 per cent. of their ordinary income—this percentage is taken to represent the amount required for the education of half the boys of primary school-going age. On the other hand, 44 municipalities spent more than 5 per cent. of their income, and nine over 10 per cent., on primary education. The largest proportion of municipal income devoted to this object was 18 per cent. in Muktagacha.

11. Water supply.—The Uttarpara water-works scheme was completed during the year and substantial progress was made with those designed for Dacca, Mymensingh and Satchira. The construction of the water-works at Nator was impeded by the rains setting in unusually early, but the project was nearly completed by the end of the year. The Midnapore water-supply scheme has been revised and the cost is now estimated at Rs. 4,73,000, towards which Government is making a grant of Rs. 2,23,000, while the municipality is also taking a loan of one lakh from Government. A scheme for the supply of filtered water to Krishnagar received the final sanction of Government, which is making grants totalling Rs. 2,06,800. Cossipore-Chitpur extended its pipe system and Berhampore carried out improvements in its water-works. The Commissioners of Faridpur resolved to introduce a piped water supply, for which a scheme is being prepared. A sketch project for Patuakhali received the administrative sanction of Government; a scheme for Comilla was under preparation. The problem of water supply in the town of Noakhali became acute owing to the threatened erosion by the sea of the tank which is the only source of water supply.

12. Drainage.—Minor works were carried out in Asansol, Garden Reach, Midnapore, Serampore, Champdani, Berhampore and Madaripur. A drainage scheme in Bhatpara is nearing completion, and some progress was made in Mymensingh, where the Municipal Commissioners are carrying out a comprehensive project in instalments. The drainage schemes of Suri and Hooghly-Chinsura could not be taken up for want of funds and the execution of those prepared for Faridpur and Comilla had also to be postponed.

13. Conservancy.—There was an increase of Rs. 83,268 under this head, the Howrah Municipality being responsible for Rs. 58,448. A sewerage scheme, for which Government are making a grant of Rs. 50,000 and a loan of Rs. 30,000, is being carried out at Kurseong by the Sanitary Engineer. A beginning was made with the Dacca sewerage scheme, the total cost of which will aggregate Rs. 30 lakhs, of which Rs. 25 lakhs will be met by Government grants and the balance by a loan.

14. Public Health.—A gratifying feature of the year under review is the increasing interest displayed by most municipalities in public health. Measures were taken in many municipalities for the improvement of sanitation by filling up or clearing insanitary tanks, ditches and dobas and by removing jungle and noxious vegetation. Nawabganj is contemplating the adoption of a flood-flush scheme, for which a detailed survey has been begun.

A detailed project has been prepared for a similar scheme at Budge-Budge. In Panihati three anti-malarial co-operative societies were formed, which did useful work in filling up insanitary tanks and clearing away jungle and undergrowth on the holdings of their members.

There was a serious epidemic of influenza during the year. Steps were taken to check the spread of the disease by free distribution of medicine, and in some cases of diet, and by the circulation of printed instructions as well as by the appointment of special doctors. Epidemics of cholera were combated by disinfection, the protection of sources of water-supply and the employment of a special staff of medical officers. The number of vaccinators employed is reported to have been sufficient in the majority of cases and free vaccination has been introduced in several municipalities. Lantern lectures on hygiene and public health were given by Health Officers, and in some places quinine was distributed free to school boys and others during the malarial season.

15. Improvement Schemes.—Towards the end of the year the companies owning mills along the east bank of the Hooghly between Halishahar and Kamarhati initiated an important scheme involving combined action for the improvement of municipal sanitation. They decided to contribute at the rate of Rs. 100 per loom in the case of jute mills, and proportionately on the basis of the number of hands employed in the case of paper mills, towards such schemes of improvement as might be prepared by the Sanitary Engineer for the municipalities in which their mills are situated. The contributing companies made the reasonable stipulation that they should approve of the details of the projects on which their money is to be spent, and Government are naturally expected to contribute. Nearly 19 lakhs were deposited by them for improvement schemes in the towns of Halishahar, Naihati, Bhatpara, Garulia, Titaghar, Kamarhati and Bhadreswar. The mill companies have done much for municipal sanitation in the past, but their action has not been always co-ordinated; and the idea that they should co-operate to carry out large schemes of improvement is a new departure capable of great and lasting results.

16. Public Works.—The construction and maintenance of roads and buildings were handicapped by the high cost of materials and the difficulty of obtaining them. The proportion which the outlay on public works bore to the total expenditure varied in the smaller towns from 2·4 per cent. in Birnagar to 46·2 per cent. in Debhatta and in the larger towns from 3·5 in Bhadreswar to 40·3 in the South Suburban municipality.

17. Loans.—Altogether 39 municipalities were in debt to Government at the end of the year, the total amount of their outstanding liabilities on the 31st March 1919 being Rs. 41,48,994 in addition to Rs. 7,361 due for loans taken from private sources. The largest outstanding liabilities were those of Howrah (Rs. 20,57,351), Darjeeling (Rs. 6,18,145), and Dacca (Rs. 4,28,557). Meherpur and English Bazar liquidated their loans during the year. The Commissioners of Birnagar were directed by the Divisional Commissioner to refund a sum of Rs. 7,500 which was taken by them as a loan from private sources without the sanction of Government.

18. Closing Balances.—The closing balances rose from Rs. 16,84,672 to Rs. 19,38,734, the largest being held by Howrah (Rs. 2,39,084), Dacca (Rs. 2,34,079), Midnapore (Rs. 1,98,138), Maniktala (Rs. 1,22,253), Cossipore-Chitpur (Rs. 1,20,571) and Darjeeling (Rs. 1,18,850). No explanation has been furnished for the large balance in Howrah; in other cases they were mainly due to unexpended grants and the accumulation of funds for water-supply and drainage schemes. In ten municipalities, as against 15 in the previous year, the outstanding liabilities exceeded the closing balances.

19. Audit of accounts and embezzlements.—Embezzlements occurred in Burdwan, Raniganj, Baranagar, Rasirhat, Rajpur and Mymensingh. The accounts of Barasat were found to be in such confusion that Government had to pass special orders in exercise of its power of superior control. Even then the municipal executive pleaded inability to remove all the defects, as the irregularities extended over several years and some of the registers and papers had been eaten by white-ants.

20. General Remarks.—One of the most noticeable features of the reports for the year is the reiterated and general complaint of the inadequacy of municipal funds to maintain any high standard of administration combined with a general disinclination on the part of Municipal Boards to raise funds for the purpose. As shown however in paragraph 5 of this resolution, the rates have been enhanced in some cases, and allowance must also be made for the economic stress of the year, in consequence of which Municipal Commissioners were naturally averse to impose extra taxation. This aversion, however, persists during times of prosperity as well as in lean years; and the fact remains that many Boards have only elementary ideas of the duties and responsibilities of municipal administration. The incidence of taxation is below Rs. 1 per head in more than one-fourth of the municipalities, and at this figure it is impossible to expect much in the way of civic amenities. In this connection it is of interest to observe the difference between the systems of rating followed in England and Bengal. In England local bodies have a keen idea of their requirements, prepare their budgets accordingly and proceed to impose rates sufficient to meet their needs. In Bengal the rates rarely vary, and estimates of work to be done each year are framed in accordance with the known income and not in accordance with the needs of the town. To borrow a colloquialism, the municipalities in Bengal cut their coat according to a limited amount of cloth; in England they decide on the coat required and devise means for getting the cloth.

21. Frequent reference is made in the reports to the presence or absence of party spirit and faction. In some towns party spirit is carried to extreme lengths and has deplorable results. Too often there is opposition to the executive simply for the sake of obstructiveness with the result that the administration is paralyzed. In one municipality, for instance, it is reported that "between the two factions prevailing scarcely any practical work can be extracted either from the clerical or out-door staff." Party spirit, however, if based on principles and not on personal considerations and interests, is not to be deprecated. Healthy opposition is necessary to sound municipal life; where it is absent, administration is apt to be ineffective and slack. One of the great needs of municipal life in Bengal at present is the awakening of public spirit among the ratepayers so as to enforce the responsibility of the Municipal Commissioners for feeble or bad administration. A few ratepayers' associations have been started, but so far they are not very enlightened or effective. Want of public spirit on the part of the Commissioners themselves is frequently noticeable. In one municipality the Commissioners are reported to be always anxious to keep the approaches to their own houses in repair at the expense of more deserving roads. In another encroachments on the roads, already too narrow, are common and action is seldom taken because the Chairman and some of the Commissioners are themselves the worst offenders. In another district the Magistrate suggests that simple sanitary lectures should be given to Municipal Commissioners illustrated with magic lantern slides, in order to stimulate their interest in and knowledge of questions of public health.

22. Another regrettable feature of the reports is the failure of many municipal authorities to act on the suggestions made by inspecting officers and to remedy defects pointed out by them. This is especially the case in regard to public health. One District Magistrate, for instance, writes:— "Deputy Sanitary Commissioners come and inspect and record notes showing what should be done, and little is done. District Magistrates achieve similar results." He suggests that the present state of affairs shows the necessity for giving the sanitary authorities greater power of control.

23. Howrah.—A general election which was held in December 1918 caused considerable excitement, but the Commissioner of the Division observes that it was decided on purely personal considerations, and that there is nothing to show that the voters were influenced in any way by questions either of policy or principle.

The valuation of the town has been steadily rising since 1911, viz., from 37½ lakhs to nearly 66½ lakhs; and during the year under review the total ordinary income rose by over 3 lakhs, viz., from Rs. 10,31,000 to Rs. 13,46,000. Part of this increase, however, is accounted for by a lakh which was paid by the East Indian Railway on the last working day of the preceding year having been credited to the municipal fund during the year under review. The current demand on account of taxes rose by about Rs. 80,000 and amounted to Rs. 11,78,043. The percentage of total collections on the current demand reached the high figure of 100·8 and the remissions amounted to Rs. 60,000 or 5·6 per cent. of the current demand. The total ordinary expenditure grew from 10 to 12 lakhs. The balance outstanding at the close of the year was reduced from Rs. 2,21,000 to Rs. 1,42,000.

As in the previous year, normal receipts exceeded normal expenditure, but many schemes for the improvement of the municipality remain in abeyance. An increase in the supply of filtered water and the improvement of the drainage system are urgently required, and so long as these and other reforms are not carried out it is difficult to subscribe to the view expressed by the Chairman that the municipality is in a position to meet its ordinary requirements without raising the rates. There was very little capital outlay on water-supply, while the maintenance charges went up by over Rs. 44,000. The supply is reported to have been excellent in quality but deficient in quantity, and the Sanitary Engineer complains of very great waste of water due to insufficient metering of private connections within the municipality. No new drainage works were executed within the year and the canal scheme had again to be postponed as the loan received from Government for the purpose has been spent on the water-works. The powers of the Municipal Commissioners in respect of general conservancy arrangements and the cleaning of roads, bastis and drains were delegated to ten ward committees which were formed experimentally for one year from September, 1918. The Chairman is of opinion that the conservancy of the town has perceptibly improved under the new arrangements. The expenditure on conservancy rose by over half a lakh and it is not clear how much of the increase was due to the change of system. There was a satisfactory increase in the expenditure on the maintenance of roads, which had been neglected for some time, but shortage of wagons and the high price of road metal caused difficulties similar to those experienced in the preceding year.

The Chairman, the Hon'ble Babu Mahendra Nath Ray, C.I.E., continued to devote to the administration of municipal affairs such time as he could spare from his other public and professional duties. After the close of the year the Municipal Commissioners applied for the appointment of a whole-time salaried officer as Deputy Chairman in order that the Chairman might be relieved of a portion of his work. This request was acceded to by Government.

24. Burdwan Division.—The Commissioner of the Burdwan Division remarks that the working of the municipalities in his Division was on the whole fairly satisfactory.

The Burdwan and Hooghly-Chinsura municipalities were under the administration of the local officers of Government for the last six months of the year in consequence of the supersession of the Municipal Commissioners. The first step to be taken was to put the finances of the municipalities in order. In the case of Burdwan the assessment was found to be inadequate and inequitable, and a special revision was undertaken under the orders of Government which resulted in an increase of Rs. 27,000 or 22 per cent. over the previous demand—this, however, is liable to reduction on appeal. Before the end of the year the financial condition of the municipality had been substantially improved.

When the Hooghly-Chinsura municipality was taken over by Government, the office was found to be in a chaotic condition and it took some time to reduce it to order. The ascertained liabilities, apart from loans, amounted to Rs. 32,027, whilst the cash balance was only Rs. 850. Further liabilities continued to come to light and by the close of the year it had been ascertained that at the time of assumption of charge they had amounted to nearly Rs. 37,000. A sum of Rs. 30,000 was advanced by Government at the end of December to meet the liabilities and other urgent requirements. The steps taken to improve collections met with considerable success and the realizations exceeded the current demand. The District Magistrate reports :—

“A policy of economy was followed and retrenchments were effected wherever possible. The valuation of holdings has been revised under an order of Government, and the water rate has been raised to the maximum permissible. It was largely due to the reluctance of the Commissioners to effect the necessary enhancement of the water rate that the waterworks was mismanaged and that the water-supply fund continually drew on the general fund and caused the starvation of other necessary works, such as repairs to roads and repairs to and cleaning of drains. The arrangements for the supply of coal, which were extravagant and defective, were remedied immediately charge was assumed. It is of course out of the question that funds should be immediately available to repair the neglect of years, but there is no reason why with careful supervision the municipality should not be gradually brought into thoroughly good order.”

Since the close of the year the orders superseding both these municipalities have been withdrawn and the Governor in Council trusts that the new boards of Municipal Commissioners will steadily pursue the policy of reform and improvement initiated by his officers.

In the last annual resolution it was found necessary to administer a warning to the Municipal Commissioners of Serampore and Bansberia as to the necessity of reform. It appears that in both towns this warning has been effectual in securing some improvement. In Serampore steps are being taken to realize recoverable demands, but the Commissioner reports that the municipality is working at a deficit of over Rs. 6,500 and living on unauthorized advances from subsidiary funds. If, however, the dues of the municipality were realized, it would be in a strong position financially. The need for improving the collections is obviously imperative.

In Bansberia a revision of assessment resulted in a decreased demand and at the end of the year the liabilities exceeded the cash balance. Since the close of the year however a new Board has been formed. There has been some improvement in the financial position and the outlook is said to be hopeful. The substitution of a tax on holdings for the personal tax now imposed appears however to be necessary in order to secure funds adequate for the needs of the town, and the Municipal Commissioners have been requested to consider this suggestion.

In Rishra-Konnager work was brought to a standstill by the issue of an ex parte injunction of the Munsif of Serampore restraining the Chairman from forming a new Board. It is pleasant to notice the cordial relations between the European and Indian members of the Bhadreswar Board, all of whom take a lively interest in municipal affairs. Champdani is settling down to useful work. Notwithstanding its small income Kotrung continues to be efficiently managed.

In Bankura there was considerable discontent with the administration of the Municipal Board. The action taken by Government in the case of Burdwan and Hooghly-Chinsura is said to have spurred the residents into forming a Ratepayers' Association, and an organised effort to infuse new blood into the management proved successful, the result of the elections being to change almost entirely the personnel of the Board.

25. Presidency Division.—The following extracts are quoted from the report of the Magistrate of the 24-Parganas on the working of municipalities in that district :—"The past year has not seen any very marked improvement in the general level of municipal administration. While the affairs of the larger municipalities continued on the whole to be managed satisfactorily, in several of the rural municipalities there was a failure on the part of the Municipal Commissioners and the executive to realise their responsibilities. In Garden Reach, Cossipore-Chitpur, Baranagar, Titagarh, Bhatpara, Naihati and Baruipur a real effort is made by the Commissioners to improve gradually the standard of administration.

It is regretted that the proposal for a joint water-supply scheme for the riparian municipalities was not approved by most of the mill municipalities. Without such a scheme small riverside municipalities like North Barrackpore and Panhati cannot hope, under present circumstances, ever to have a satisfactory water-supply. Individual schemes are impossible from a financial point of view. Very little was done in rural areas towards improvement of water supply. Generally Municipal Commissioners approved in principle of reserving tanks but were unwilling to do so in practice. Gobardanga and Baruipur were exceptions.

"Want of money prevents most of the smaller municipalities from carrying out pucca drainage schemes and in any case, such drains are not of much use without arrangements for a regular flush. The condition of markets was one of the most unsatisfactory features in a number of municipalities. Too often the interests of the proprietors, who were well represented on the Municipal Board, were allowed to outweigh the interests of the public health.

"Many of the defects cannot be remedied because many of the municipalities are too poor to be able to afford an up-to-date administration, but in too many cases the defects are due to a failure on the part of the Commissioners and their executive to realise their responsibility to the rate-payers. There are too many Chairmen and Vice-Chairmen who are too busy with their public or private business to be able to afford the time required to look after municipal business, and, in consequence, everything is left to a badly paid and inferior subordinate staff with the natural results. But there are signs here and there that the rate-payers are awaking to the fact that under present conditions they are not getting the best possible results and are inclined to demand from their Commissioners and executive more attention to their local duties."

The administration of municipalities in the Nadia district has shown some improvement except in the unhealthy and decadent towns of Chakdaha and Birnagar. Party faction of a bad type is said to be rampant among the Commissioners of Santipur, Nabadwip and Ranaghat. The Chairmen of the two former towns are non-resident practising pleaders who live in Calcutta and Krishnagar, respectively.

The general complaint of all the municipalities in Murshidabad is want of funds, which handicaps their efforts to improve their systems of drainage and water-supply.

26. Dacca Division.—In the Dacca Division the public and the Municipal Commissioners are taking an increased interest in municipal work. Some advance has been made in the direction of recognizing the advantages of a good water-supply and there are signs that the value of efficient drainage is beginning to be understood.

The insufficiency of funds for carrying out ordinary work remains the most marked general characteristic of the municipalities of Mymensingh. In towns where the Municipal Commissioners are trying to improve matters, the results are uneven. For instance in one town the trenching ground was very well managed but there was only one rubbish cart. In Mymensingh progress has been made with the improvement of the water-supply. Of the other municipalities Sherpur and Jamalpur are reported to be the most progressive, Excluding Bajitpur, which is little more than a village, Kishorganj, a future headquarters of a district, is said to be the worst. Roads are bad, conservancy is inefficient and lighting is defective, but the Commissioners seem to be content with a small income, the incidence of taxation being only 10 annas and 8 pies.

The health of Barisal has improved owing to the introduction of the waterworks, but adequate steps are not taken by the Commissioners to prevent waste of water. Its requirements necessitate an increase of taxation to which the majority of the present Commissioners are averse. In Jhalakati and Patuakhali the sanitary arrangements are inadequate and a more energetic administration is desirable. The waterworks of Pirojpur proved a failure and had to be closed down, but the filter-beds have since been repaired under the supervision of the Sanitary Engineer and the supply has been resumed.

27. Chittagong Division.—No marked progress was made by the Chittagong municipality during the year. The water rate levied was insufficient, and the total expenditure exceeded the receipts by Rs. 14,930. The Municipal Commissioners have however raised the rate from April 1919. Difficulties were caused by house-owners refusing to fix meters at their own cost. They contested the legality of the statutory rule prescribing this procedure; an appeal to the High Court has been decided in favour of the Municipal Commissioners. Cox's Bazar and Comilla were efficiently administered. In Chandpur the roads were in bad order, and no important work could be taken up for want of funds. In Brahmanbaria an epidemic of cholera which broke out is ascribed to the absence of a supply of good drinking water: a waterworks scheme was prepared in 1915 but is apparently pending with the Municipal Board. Noakhali suffered from the erosion of the sea, which if continued may cause its disappearance; in the meantime the destruction of property is seriously diminishing its income.

28. Rajshahi Division.—The Commissioner observes that with two exceptions all the municipalities of the division have shown some progress but much more is required. The Municipal Commissioners as a rule are lacking in that sense of public spirit and responsibility which is necessary to good municipal administration. The two exceptions to which the Commissioner refers are Pabna and Rampur Boalia. Pabna suffered from bad collections and want of initiative and energy on the part of the municipal executive. Rampur Boalia was, as usual, characterized by lack of method and effective control and its financial position remained unsatisfactory: the uncollected taxes at the end of the year amounted to more than one-third of the current demand for the year. Bogra carried out a general revision of assessment, and collections were good in Sherpur, but the financial position of both municipalities still leaves room for improvement. The administration of Nator and Dinajpur was satisfactory. The Chairman and Vice-Chairman of Kurseong took a keen interest in municipal affairs and did much for the improvement of the sanitary condition of the town. Darjeeling with an able Chairman and Secretary maintained a high standard of administration. The death of the Vice-Chairman, Dr. Seal, whose experience of municipal work had extended over almost a quarter of a century, was a great loss to the town. In the three municipalities of Malda the Municipal Commissioners work harmoniously; two of them, however, are so small and their resources so limited that there can be no dispute as to how the funds should be employed. At the same time it is gratifying to observe that they are making the most of their opportunities.

29. The names of the following Chairmen and Vice-Chairmen have been specially brought to the notice of Government by the Commissioners of Divisions on account of the good work done by them; and the Governor in Council desires to express his appreciation of their public spirit :—

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final Forecast of the Sugarcane crop of Bengal, 1919-20.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1917-18, the area under sugarcane in Bengal has represented some 8·8 per cent. of the total area under sugarcane in British India.)

Character of the season.—At planting time the germination of the crop was retarded in places owing to insufficient rainfall. Subsequently up till the end of September the weather conditions were generally good, though some damage was caused by excessive rainfall in parts of Nadia, Jessore, Burdwan, Pabna, Faridpur and Noakhali. The cyclone in Eastern Bengal did some harm to the crop in Dacca, Faridpur and parts of Mymensingh. Lack of rain since the beginning of October has also tended to rather spoil what was otherwise a good season.

Acreage.—The area planted with sugarcane is estimated at 217,900 acres this year for the province, against 219,000 acres (revised) last year.

Outturn.—From the appendix attached to the report, it will be seen that three districts (namely Bankura, Mymensingh and Bakarganj) report a crop above the normal, five districts a normal crop, and fifteen districts a crop varying from 75 to 94 per cent. Four districts only, namely, Nadia, Pabna, Noakhali and the Chittagong Hill Tracts, report a crop as low as between 55 and 67 per cent.

According to the above estimates, the average outturn of the crop for the province works out at 89 per cent. of the normal against 77 per cent. last year.

Taking 36 maunds as the normal rate of cane-gur per acre, the gross outturn for the province is estimated at 5,129,300 cwts. this year against 4,460,100 cwts. (revised) last year.

Other sources of gur.—The total quantity of gur likely to be obtained from date-palm juice is estimated at 2,018,100 cwts. this year against 1,952,700 cwts. (revised) last year.

The total quantity of gur in the province from all sources is thus estimated at 7,147,400 cwts. against 6,412,800 cwts. last year.

APPENDIX I.

Final Forecast of the Sugarcane Crop of Bengal, 1919-20.

District.	Estimated normal area under sugarcane.	Estimated area under sugarcane.		Taking 100 to represent the normal, what would be the average outturn per acre cropped.		Date by which the harvesting of the crop generally commenced this year and whether that date was early, normal or late.	Remarks by District Officers.
		Last year.	This year.	Last year.	This year.
	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
24 Parganas ...	8,000	4,100	4,300	87	100	Beginning of November to December. Normal.	The increase in area is due to the high price of sugar. The weather has been favourable.
Nadia ...	7,800	5,400	6,100	67	67	December. Normal ...	The increase in area is due to high price of sugar. The weather has not been favourable as heavy rains damaged the crop to a certain extent.
Murshidabad ...	3,600	3,100	2,800	88	83	In Jangipura November to December. Normal. Elsewhere not begun yet.	The decrease in area was due to want of rain during the planting time. The weather has been fair. The drought at planting time affected the growth of the crop and has reduced the outturn by about 17 per cent.
Jessore ...	3,000	2,600	3,100	75	75	December. Normal ...	The increase in area was due to high price of sugar. The weather was favourable at planting time, but the outturn has fallen below the normal owing to insufficient rain in June and September.
Khulna ...	1,600	1,100	1,000	77	75	Beginning of November. Normal.	The decrease in area was due to want of rainfall at sowing time. The weather has been favourable. The outturn is expected to be below the normal for want of timely rain.
Burdwan ...	25,800	19,000	18,100	75	83	Not yet commenced ...	The weather was not favourable at the beginning but subsequently it has become favourable except in places where the growth of the crop has been affected by heavy rainfall in August and by absence of rainfall thereafter. This has caused the outturn to fall below the normal.
Birbhum ...	3,000	11,000	11,000	75	100	Ditto ...	The weather has been favourable.
Bankura ...	15,000	11,500	10,500	75	117	Ditto ...	The planting was delayed owing to want of rainfall at the beginning. The weather has since been good.
Midnapore ...	5,600	3,000	4,200	80	88	December ...	The increase in area was due to favourable conditions at sowing time and to high price of sugar. Since the submission of the second forecast, the weather was not favourable owing to want of rain in October. Hence the outturn has fallen below the normal.
Hooghly ...	7,300	5,000	4,900	87	94	Not yet commenced ...	From October to December the weather has not been favourable for want of rain, which has caused slight damage in the Arambagh and Sadar subdivisions.
Howrah ...	5,500	5,300	5,200	71	88	Ditto ...	Since the submission of the second forecast, the weather has not been favourable owing to drought which has caused some damage.
Rajshahi ...	18,000	13,200	13,300	70	75	Middle of November. Normal.	The weather was fair from October to December. The outturn is below the normal owing to unfavourable weather at planting time.
Dinajpur ...	25,000	20,500	20,600	78	87½	By the end of November. Early.	The increase in area is due to high price of sugar. The weather has been fair, but want of rain retarded the growth of the crop.
Jalpaiguri ...	5,000	4,000	3,700	80	88	Last week of November. Normal.	The decrease in area was due to want of rain at planting time. Unfavourable weather and want of rain since the planting time caused the outturn to fall below the normal. From October to December the weather was favourable.
Darjeeling ...	200	200*	200*	46	83	Middle of February ...	Favourable weather from October to December has improved the outturn.
Raipur ...	10,500	11,000	12,600	100	100	First week of December. Normal.	The effects of the weather on the growth of the crop have been good on the whole.
Boys ...	5,000	3,700	4,300	87	93	By the middle of January. Normal.	At the beginning the weather was not favourable but subsequently it has been favourable to the growth of the crop.
Farid ...	10,000	3,700	4,600	66	86	By the end of December. Normal.	The decrease in area is due to want of rain at planting time. Since then want of timely rainfall retarded the growth of the crop. Subsequently owing to excessive rain up to end of September and to want of rain in October to December the condition of the crop was not favourable.
Malda ...	800	800*	800*	100	100	October. Normal ...	The weather was dry at planting time, but it has since been favourable. A normal outturn is expected.
Dacca ...	21,100	38,900	33,700	74	75	Middle of July last. Normal.	Seasonable rain at sowing time and subsequently frequent showers did much good to the crop. The cyclone of the 24th September last and want of rain since then have reduced the outturn.
Mymensingh ...	11,100	10,300	10,300	80	108	December. Normal ...	Since the submission of the second forecast, the weather has been generally favourable from October to December. Some damage was caused by the cyclone in the Kishoreganj subdivision.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA ACT, 1919.

(9 & 10 GEO. 5, CH. 101.)

An Act to make further provision with respect to the Government of India.

[23rd December, 1919.]

WHEREAS it is the declared policy of Parliament to provide for the increasing association of Indians in every branch of Indian administration, and for the gradual development of self-governing institutions, with a view to the progressive realization of responsible government in British India as an integral part of the empire :

And whereas progress in giving effect to this policy can only be achieved by successive stages, and it is expedient that substantial steps in this direction should now be taken :

And whereas the time and manner of each advance can be determined only by Parliament, upon whom responsibility lies for the welfare and advancement of the Indian peoples :

And whereas the action of Parliament in such matters must be guided by the co-operation received from those on whom new opportunities of service will be conferred, and by the extent to which it is found that confidence can be reposed in their sense of responsibility :

And whereas concurrently with the gradual development of self-governing institutions in the Provinces of India it is expedient to give to those Provinces in provincial matters the largest measure of independence of the Government of India, which is compatible with the due discharge by the latter of its own responsibilities:

Be it therefore enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

PART I.

LOCAL GOVERNMENTS.

1.—(1) Provision may be made by rules under the Government of India Act, 1915, as amended by the Government of India (Amendment) Act, 1916 (which Act, as so amended, is in this Act referred to as "the principal Act")—

(Classification of
provincial subjects)

- (a) for the classification of subjects, in relation to the functions of government, as central and provincial subjects, for the purpose of distinguishing the functions of local governments and local legislatures from the functions of the Governor-General in Council and the Indian legislature;
- (b) for the devolution of authority in respect of provincial subjects to local governments, and for the allocation of revenues or other moneys to those governments;
- (c) for the use under the authority of the Governor-General in Council of the agency of local governments in relation to central subjects, in so far as such agency may be found convenient, and for determining the financial conditions of such agency; and
- (d) for the transfer from among the provincial subjects of subjects (in this Act referred to as "transferred subjects") to the administration of the governor acting with ministers appointed under this Act, and for the allocation of revenues or moneys for the purpose of such administration.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing powers, rules made for the above-mentioned purposes may—

- (i) regulate the extent and conditions of such devolution, allocation and transfer;
- (ii) provide for fixing the contributions payable by local governments to the Governor-General in Council, and making such contributions a first charge on allocated revenues or moneys;
- (iii) provide for constituting a finance department in any province, and regulating the functions of that department;
- (iv) provide for regulating the exercise of the authority vested in the local government of a province over members of the public services therein;
- (v) Provide for the settlement of doubts arising as to whether any matter does or does not relate to a provincial subject, or a transferred subject, and for the treatment of matters which affect both a transferred subject and a subject which is not transferred; and
- (vi) make such consequential and supplemental provisions as appear necessary or expedient;

Provided that, without prejudice to any general power of revoking or altering rules under the principal Act, the rules shall not authorise the revocation or suspension of the transfer of any subject except with the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council.

(3) The powers of superintendence, direction, and control over local governments vested in the Governor-General in Council under the principal Act shall, in relation to transferred subjects, be exercised only for such purposes as may be specified in rules made under that Act, but the Governor-General in Council shall be the sole judge as to whether the purpose of the exercise of such powers in any particular case comes within the purposes so specified.

(4) The expressions "central subjects" and "provincial subjects" as used in this Act mean subjects so classified under the rules.

Provincial subjects, other than transferred subjects, are in this Act referred to as "reserved subjects."

Borrowing

2.—(1) The provision in sub-section (1) of section thirty of the principal Act, which gives power to local governments to raise money on real or personal estate within the limits of their respective governments by way of mortgage or otherwise, shall have effect as though that provision conferred a power on local governments to raise money on the security of their allocated revenues, and to make proper assurances for that purpose.

(2) Provision may be made by rules under the principal Act as to the conditions under which the power to raise loans on the security of allocated revenues shall be exercised.

(3) The provision in sub-section (1) of section thirty of the principal Act, which enables the Secretary of State in Council with the concurrence of a majority of votes at a meeting of the Council of India to prescribe provisions or conditions limiting the power to raise money, shall cease to have effect as regards the power to raise money on the security of allocated revenues.

Revised

3.—(1) The presidencies of Fort William in Bengal, Fort St. George, and Bombay, and the provinces known as the United Provinces, the Punjab, Bihar and Orissa, the Central Provinces, and Assam, shall each be governed; in relation to reserved subjects, by a governor in council, and in relation to transferred subjects (save as otherwise provided by this Act) by the governor acting with ministers appointed under this Act.

The said presidencies and provinces are in this Act referred to as "governor's provinces" and the two first-named presidencies are in this Act referred to as the presidencies of Bengal and Madras.

(2) The provisions of section forty-six to fifty-one of the principal Act, as amended by this Act, shall apply to the United Provinces, the Punjab, Bihar and Orissa, the Central Provinces, and Assam, as they apply to the presidencies of Bengal, Madras and Bombay: Provided that the governors of the said provinces shall be appointed after consultation with the Governor-General.

4. (1) The governor of a governor's province may, by notification, appoint ministers, not being members of his executive council or other officials, to administer transferred subjects, and any ministers so appointed shall hold office during his pleasure.

There may be paid to any minister so appointed in any province the same salary as is payable to a member of the executive council in that province, unless a smaller salary is provided by vote of the legislative council of the province.

(2) No minister shall hold office for a longer period than six months, unless he is or becomes an elected member of the local legislature.

(3) In relation to transferred subjects, the governor shall be guided by the advice of his ministers, unless he sees sufficient cause to dissent from their opinion, in which case he may require action to be taken otherwise than in accordance with that advice: Provided that rules may be made under the principal Act for the temporary administration of a transferred subject where, in cases of emergency, owing to a vacancy, there is no minister in charge of the subject, by such authority and in such manner as may be proscribed by the rules.

(4) The governor of a governor's province may at his discretion appoint from among the non-official members of the local legislative council secretaries, who shall hold office during his pleasure, and discharge such duties in assisting members of the executive council and ministers, as he may assign to them.

There shall be paid to council secretaries so appointed such salary as may be provided by vote of the legislative council.

A council secretary shall cease to hold office if he ceases for more than six months to be a member of the legislative council.

5. (1) The provision in section forty-seven of the principal Act, that two of the members of the executive council of the governor of a province must have been for at least twelve years in the service of the Crown in India, shall have effect as though "one" were substituted for "two," and the provision in that section that the Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's Forces in India, if resident at Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, shall, during his continuance there, be a member of the governor's council, shall cease to have effect.

(2) Provision may be made by rules under the principal Act as to the qualifications to be required in respect of members of the executive council of the governor of a province in any case where such provision is not made by section forty-seven of the principal Act as amended by this section.

6. (1) All orders and other proceedings of the government of a governor's province shall be expressed to be made by the government of the province, and shall be authenticated as the governor may by rule direct, so, however, that provision shall be made by rule for distinguishing orders and other proceedings relating to transferred subjects from other orders and proceedings.

Business of governor in council and governor with ministers.

Orders and proceedings authenticated as aforesaid shall not be called into question in any legal proceeding on the ground that they were not duly made by the government of the province.

(2) The governor may make rules and orders for the more convenient transaction of business in his executive council and with his ministers, and every order made or act done in accordance with those rules and orders shall be treated as being the order or the act of the government of the province.

The governor may also make rules and orders for regulating the relations between his executive council and his ministers for the purpose of the transaction of the business of the local government :

Provided that any rules or orders made for the purposes specified in this section which are repugnant to the provisions of any rules made under the principal Act as amended by this Act shall, to the extent of that repugnancy, but not otherwise, be void.

7. (1) There shall be a legislative council in every governor's province, which shall consist of the members of the executive council and of the members nominated or elected as provided by this Act.

Composition of governors' legislative councils.

The governor shall not be a member of the legislative council, but shall have the right of addressing the council, and may for that purpose require the attendance of its members.

(2) The number of members of the governors' legislative councils shall be in accordance with the table set out in the First Schedule to this Act; and of the members of each council not more than twenty per cent. shall be official members, and at least seventy per cent. shall be elected members :

Provided that—

(a) subject to the maintenance of the above proportions, rules under the principal Act may provide for increasing the number of members of any council, as specified in that schedule; and

(b) the governor may, for the purposes of any Bill introduced or proposed to be introduced in his legislative council, nominate, in the case of Assam one person, and in the case of other provinces not more than two persons, having special knowledge or experience of the subject-matter of the Bill, and those persons shall, in relation to the Bill, have for the period for which they are nominated all the rights of members of the council, and shall be in addition to the numbers above referred to; and

(c) members nominated to the legislative council of the Central Provinces by the governor as the result of elections held in the Assigned Districts of Berar shall be deemed to be elected members of the legislative council of the Central Provinces.

(3) The powers of a governor's legislative council may be exercised notwithstanding any vacancy in the council.

(4) Subject as aforesaid, provision may be made by rules under the principal Act as to—

(a) the term of office of nominated members of governors' legislative councils, and the manner of filling casual vacancies occurring by reason of absence of members from India, inability to attend to duty, death, acceptance of office, resignation duly accepted, or otherwise; and

(b) the conditions under which and manner in which persons may be nominated as members of governors' legislative councils; and

(c) the qualification of electors, the constitution of constituencies, and the method of election for governors' legislative councils, including the number of members to be elected by communal and other electorates, and any matters incidental or ancillary thereto; and

- (d) the qualifications for being and for being nominated or elected a member of any such council; and
- (e) the final decision of doubts or disputes as to the validity of any election; and
- (f) the manner in which the rules are to be carried into effect:

Provided that rules as to any such matters as aforesaid may provide for delegating to the local government such power as may be specified in the rules of making subsidiary regulations affecting the same matters

(5) Subject to any such rules any person who is a ruler or subject of any State in India may be nominated as a member of a governor's legislative council.

8. (1) Every governor's legislative council shall continue for three years from its first meeting:—

Provided that—

- (a) the council may be sooner dissolved by the governor; and
- (b) the said period may be extended by the governor for a period not exceeding one year, by notification in the official gazette of the province, if in special circumstances (to be specified in the notification) he so think fit; and
- (c) after the dissolution of the council the governor shall appoint a date not more than six months or, with the sanction of the Secretary of State, not more than nine months from the date of dissolution for the next session of the council.

(2) A governor may appoint such times and places for holding the sessions of his legislative council as he thinks fit, and may also, by notification or otherwise, prorogue the council.

(3) Any meeting of a governor's legislative council may be adjourned by the person presiding.

(4) All questions in a governor's legislative council shall be determined by a majority of votes of the members present other than the person presiding, who shall, however, have and exercise a casting vote in the case of an equality of votes.

9. (1) There shall be a president of a governor's legislative council, who shall, until the expiration of a period of four years from the first meeting of the council as constituted under this Act, be a person appointed by the governor, and shall thereafter be a member of the council elected by the council and approved by the governor.

Provided that if at the expiration of such period of four years the council is in session, the president then in office shall continue in office until the end of the current session, and the first election of a president shall take place at the commencement of the next ensuing session.

(2) There shall be a deputy-president of a governor's legislative council who shall preside at meetings of the council in the absence of the president, and who shall be a member of the council elected by the council and approved by the governor.

(3) The appointed president of a council shall hold office until the date of the first election of a president by the council under this section, but he may resign office by writing under his hand addressed to the governor, or may be removed from office by order of the governor, and any vacancy occurring before the expiration of the term of office of an appointed president shall be filled by a similar appointment for the remainder of such term.

(4) An elected president and a deputy-president shall cease to hold office on ceasing to be members of the council. They may resign office by writing under their hands addressed to the governor, and may be removed from office by a vote of the council with the concurrence of the governor.

(5) The president and the deputy-president shall receive such salaries as may be determined, in the case of an appointed president, by the governor, and in the case of an elected president or deputy-president, by an Act of the local legislature.

10. (1) The local legislature of any province has power, subject to the provisions of this Act, to make laws for the peace and good government of the territories for the time being constituting that province.

Powers of local legislatures.

(2) The local legislature of any province may, subject to the provisions of the sub-section next following, repeal or alter as to that province any law made either before or after the commencement of this Act by any authority in British India other than that local legislature.

(3) The local legislature of any province may not, without the previous sanction of the Governor General, make or take into consideration any law—

- (a) imposing or authorising the imposition of any new tax unless the tax is a tax scheduled as exempted from this provision by rules made under the principal Act ; or
- (b) affecting the public debt of India, or the customs duties, or any other tax or duty for the time being in force and imposed by the authority of the Governor-General in Council for the general purposes of the Government of India, provided that the imposition or alteration of a tax scheduled as aforesaid shall not be deemed to affect any such tax or duty ; or
- (c) affecting the discipline or maintenance of any part of His Majesty's naval, military, or air forces ; or
- (d) affecting the relations of the government with foreign princes or states ; or
- (e) regulating any central subject ; or
- (f) regulating any provincial subject which has been declared by rules under the principal Act to be, either in whole or in part, subject to legislation by the Indian legislature, in respect of any matter to which such declaration applies ; or
- (g) affecting any power expressly reserved to the Governor-General in Council by any law for the time being in force ; or
- (h) altering or repealing the provisions of any law which, having been made before the commencement of this Act by any authority in British India other than that local legislature, is declared by rules under the principal Act to be a law which cannot be repealed or altered by the local legislature without previous sanction ; or
- (i) altering or repealing any provision of an Act of the Indian legislature made after the commencement of this Act, which by the provisions of that Act may not be repealed or altered by the local legislature without previous sanction :

Provided that an Act or a provision of an Act made by a local legislature, and subsequently assented to by the Governor-General in pursuance of this Act, shall not be deemed invalid by reason only of its requiring the previous sanction of the Governor-General under this Act.

(4) The local legislature of any province has not power to make any law affecting any Act of Parliament.

11. (1) Sub-sections (1) and (3) of section eighty of the principal Act (which relate to the classes of business which may be transacted at meetings of local legislative councils) shall cease to apply to a governor's legislative council, but the business and procedure in any such council shall be regulated in accordance with the provisions of this section.

Business and procedure in governor's legislative councils.

(2) The estimated annual expenditure and revenue of the province shall be laid in the form of a statement before the council in each year, and the proposals of the local government for the appropriation of provincial revenues and other moneys in any year shall be submitted to the vote of the council in the form of demands for grants. The council may assent, or refuse its assent, to a demand, or may reduce the amount therein referred to either by a reduction of the whole grant or by the omission or reduction of any of the items of expenditure of which the grant is composed :

Provided that—

- (a) the local government shall have power, in relation to any such demand, to act as if it had been assented to, notwithstanding the withholding of such assent or the reduction of the amount therein referred to, if the demand relates to a reserved subject, and the governor certifies that the expenditure provided for by the demand is essential to the discharge of his responsibility for the subject ; and

(b) the governor shall have power in cases of emergency to authorise such expenditure as may be in his opinion necessary for the safety or tranquillity of the province, or for the carrying on of any department ; and

(c) no proposal for the appropriation of any such revenues or other moneys for any purpose shall be made except on the recommendation of the governor, communicated to the council.

(3) Nothing in the foregoing sub-section shall require proposals to be submitted to the council relating to the following heads of expenditure :

(i) contributions payable by the local government to the Governor-General in Council ; and

(ii) interest and sinking fund charges on loans ; and

(iii) expenditure of which the amount is prescribed by or under any law ; and

(iv) salaries and pensions of persons appointed by or with the approval of His Majesty or by the Secretary of State in Council ; and

(v) salaries of judges of the High Court of the province and of the Advocate-General.

If any question arises whether any proposed appropriation of moneys does or does not relate to the above heads of expenditure, the decision of the governor shall be final.

(4) Where any Bill has been introduced or is proposed to be introduced, or any amendment to a Bill is moved or proposed to be moved, the governor may certify that the Bill or any clause of it or the amendment affects the safety or tranquillity of his province or any part of it or of another province, and may direct that no proceedings or no further proceedings shall be taken by the council in relation to the Bill, clause or amendment, and effect shall be given to any such direction.

(5) Provision may be made by rules under the principal Act for the purpose of carrying into effect the foregoing provisions of this section and for regulating the course of business in the council, and as to the persons to preside over meetings thereof in the absence of the president and deputy-president, and the preservation of order at meetings ; and the rules may provide for the number of members required to constitute a quorum, and for prohibiting or regulating the asking of questions on and the discussion of any subject specified in the rules.

(6) Standing orders may be made providing for the conduct of business and the procedure to be followed in the council, in so far as those matters are not provided for by rules made under the principal Act. The first standing orders shall be made by the governor in council, but may, subject to the assent of the governor, be altered by the local legislatures. Any standing order made as aforesaid which is repugnant to the provisions of any rules made under the principal Act, shall, to the extent of that repugnancy but not otherwise, be void.

(7) Subject to the rules and standing orders affecting the council, there shall be freedom of speech in the governors' legislative councils. No person shall be liable to any proceedings in any court by reason of his speech or vote in any such council, or by reason of anything contained in any official report of the proceedings of any such council.

reservation of Bills.

12. (1) Where a Bill has been passed by a local legislative council, the governor, lieutenant-governor or chief commissioner may, instead of declaring that he assents to or withholds his assent from the Bill, return the Bill to the council for reconsideration, either in whole or in part, together with any amendments which he may recommend, or, in cases prescribed by rules under the principal Act may, and if the rules so require shall, reserve the Bill for the consideration of the Governor-General.

(2) Where a Bill is reserved for the consideration of the Governor-General, the following provisions shall apply :—

- (a) The governor, lieutenant-governor or chief commissioner may, at any time within six months from the date of the reservation of the Bill, with the consent of the Governor-General, return the Bill for further consideration by the council with a recommendation that the council shall consider amendments thereto ;
- (b) After any Bill so returned has been further considered by the council, together with any recommendations made by the governor, lieutenant-governor or chief commissioner relating thereto, the Bill, if re-affirmed with or without amendment, may be again presented to the governor, lieutenant-governor, or chief commissioner :
- (c) Any Bill reserved for the consideration of the Governor-General shall, if assented to by the Governor-General within a period of six months from the date of such reservation, become law on due publication of such assent, in the same way as a Bill assented to by the governor, lieutenant-governor or chief commissioner but, if not assented to by the Governor-General within such period of six months, shall lapse and be of no effect unless before the expiration of that period either—
 - (i) the Bill has been returned by the governor, lieutenant-governor or chief commissioner, for further consideration by the council ; or
 - (ii) in the case of the council not being in session, a notification has been published of an intention so to return the Bill at the commencement of the next session.

(3) The Governor-General may (except where the Bill has been reserved for his consideration), instead of assenting to or withholding his assent from any Act passed by a local legislature, declare that he reserves the Act for the signification of His Majesty's pleasure thereon, and in such case the Act shall not have validity until His Majesty in Council has signified his assent and his assent has been notified by the Governor-General.

13.—(1) Where a governor's legislative council has refused leave to introduce, or has failed to pass in a form recommended by the governor, any Bill relating to a reserved subject the governor may certify that the passage of the Bill is essential for the discharge of his responsibility for the subject, and thereupon the Bill shall, notwithstanding that the council have not consented thereto, be deemed to have passed, and shall, on signature by the governor, become an Act of the local legislature in the form of the Bill as originally introduced or proposed to be introduced in the council or (as the case may be) in the form recommended to the council by the governor.

Provision for case of failure to pass legislation in governor's legislative council

(2) Every such Act shall be expressed to be made by the governor, and the governor shall forthwith send an authentic copy thereof to the Governor-General, who shall reserve the Act for the signification of His Majesty's pleasure, and upon the signification of such assent by His Majesty in Council, and the notification thereof by the Governor-General, the Act shall have the same force and effect as an Act passed by the local legislature and duly assented to :

Provided that where, in the opinion of the Governor-General a state of emergency exists which justifies such action, he may, instead of reserving such Act, signify his assent thereto, and thereupon the Act shall have such force and effect as aforesaid, subject however to disallowance by His Majesty in Council.

(3) An Act made under this section shall, as soon as practicable after being made, be laid before each House of Parliament, and an Act which is required to be presented for His Majesty's assent shall not be so presented until copies thereof have been laid before each House of Parliament for not less than eight days on which that House has sat.

14. An official shall not be qualified for election as a member of a local legislative council, and if any non-official member of a local legislative council, whether elected or nominated, accepts any office in the service of the Crown in India, his seat on the council shall become vacant :

Vacation of seat in local legislative councils

Provided that for the purpose of this provision, a minister shall not be deemed to be an official and a person shall not be deemed to accept office on appointment as a minister.

institution of new provinces, etc.,
and provision as to backward tracts

15. (1) The Governor-General in Council may, after obtaining an expression of opinion from the local government and the local legislature affected by notification, with the sanction of His Majesty previously signified by the Secretary of State in Council, constitute a new governor's province, or place part of a governor's province under the administration of a deputy-governor to be appointed by the Governor-General, and may in any such case apply, with such modifications as appear necessary or desirable, all or any of the provisions of the principal Act or this Act relating to governors' provinces, or provinces under a lieutenant-governor or chief commissioner, to any such new province or part of a province.

(2) The Governor-General in Council may declare any territory in British India to be a "backward tract," and may, by notification, with such sanction as aforesaid, direct that the principal Act and this Act shall apply to that territory subject to such exceptions and modifications as may be prescribed in the notification. Where the Governor-General in Council has, by notification, directed as aforesaid, he may, by the same or subsequent notification, direct that any Act of the Indian legislature shall not apply to the territory in question or any part thereof, or shall apply to the territory or any part thereof subject to such exceptions or modifications as the Governor-General thinks fit, or may authorise the governor in council to give similar directions as respects any Act of the local legislature.

16. (1) The validity of any order made or action taken after the commencement of this Act by the Governor-General in Council or by a local government which would have been within the powers of the Governor-General in Council or of such local government if this Act had not been passed, shall not be open to question in any legal proceedings on the ground that by reason of any provision of this Act or of any rule made by virtue of any such provision such order or action has ceased to be within the powers of the Governor-General in Council or of the government concerned.

(2) Nothing in this Act, or in any rule made thereunder, shall be construed as diminishing in any respect the powers of the Indian legislature as laid down in section sixty-five of the principal Act, and the validity of any Act of the Indian legislature or any local legislature shall not be open to question in any legal proceedings on the ground that the Act affects a provincial subject or a central subject, as the case may be, and the validity of any Act made by the governor of a province shall not be so open to question on the ground that it does not relate to a reserved subject.

(3) The validity of any order made or action taken by a governor in council, or by a governor acting with his ministers, shall not be open to question in any legal proceedings on the ground that such order or action relates or does not relate to a transferred subject, or relates to a transferred subject of which the minister is not in charge.

PART II.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

Indian legislature

17. Subject to the provisions of this Act, the Indian legislature shall consist of the Governor General and two chambers, namely, the Council of State and the Legislative Assembly.

Except as otherwise provided by or under this Act, a Bill shall not be deemed to have been passed by the Indian legislature unless it has been agreed to by both chambers, either without amendment or with such amendments only as may be agreed to by both chambers.

Council of State

18. (1) The Council of State shall consist of not more than sixty members nominated or elected in accordance with rules made under the principal Act, of whom not more than twenty shall be official members.

(2) The Governor-General shall have power to appoint, from among the members of the Council of State, a president and other persons to preside in such circumstances as he may direct.

(3) The Governor-General shall have the right of addressing the Council of State, and may for that purpose require the attendance of its members.

Legislative Assembly

19. (1) The Legislative Assembly shall consist of members nominated or elected in accordance with rules made under the principal Act.

(2) The total number of members of the Legislative Assembly shall be one hundred and forty. The number of non-elected members shall be forty, of whom twenty-six shall be official members. The number of elected members shall be one hundred:

Provided that rules made under the principal Act may provide for increasing the number of members of the Legislative Assembly as fixed by this section, and may vary the proportion which the classes of members bear one to another, so, however, that at least five-sevenths of the members of the Legislative Assembly shall be elected members, and at least one-third of the other members shall be non-official members.

(3) The Governor-General shall have the right of addressing the Legislative Assembly, and may for that purpose require the attendance of its members.

20. (1) There shall be a president of the Legislative Assembly, who shall, until the expiration of four years from the first meeting thereof, be a person appointed by the Governor-General, and shall thereafter be a member of the Assembly elected by the Assembly and approved by the Governor-General:

Legislative Assembly

Provided that, if at the expiration of such period of four years the Assembly is in session, the president then in office shall continue in office until the end of the current session, and the first election of a president shall take place at the commencement of the ensuing session.

(2) There shall be a deputy-president of the Legislative Assembly, who shall preside at meetings of the Assembly in the absence of the president, and who shall be a member of the Assembly elected by the Assembly and approved by the Governor-General.

(3) The appointed president shall hold office until the date of the election of a president under this section, but he may resign his office by writing under his hand addressed to the Governor-General, or may be removed from office by order of the Governor-General, and any vacancy occurring before the expiration of his term of office shall be filled by a similar appointment for the remainder of such term.

(4) An elected president and a deputy-president shall cease to hold office if they cease to be members of the Assembly. They may resign office by writing under their hands addressed to the Governor-General, and may be removed from office by a vote of the Assembly with the concurrence of the Governor-General.

(5) A president and deputy-president shall receive such salaries as may be determined, in the case of an appointed president by the Governor-General, and in the case of an elected president and a deputy-president by Act of the Indian legislature.

21. (1) Every Council of State shall continue for five years, and every Legislative Assembly for three years, from its first meeting:

Duration and
Legislative Assembly and Council of State

Provided that—

(a) either chamber of the legislature may be sooner dissolved by the Governor-General; and

(b) any such period may be extended by the Governor-General if in special circumstances he so thinks fit; and

(c) after the dissolution of either chamber the Governor-General shall appoint a date not more than six months, or, with the sanction of the Secretary of State not more than nine months after the date of dissolution for the next session of that chamber.

(2) The Governor-General may appoint such times and places for holding the sessions of either chamber of the Indian legislature as he thinks fit, and may also from time to time, by notification or otherwise, prorogue such sessions.

(3) Any meeting of either chamber of the Indian legislature may be adjourned by the person presiding.

(4) All questions in either chamber shall be determined by a majority of votes of members present other than the presiding member, who shall, however, have and exercise a casting vote in the case of an equality of votes.

(5) The powers of either chamber of the Indian legislature may be exercised notwithstanding any vacancy in the chamber.

22. (1) An official shall not be qualified for election as a member of either chamber of the Indian legislature, and, if any non official member of either chamber accepts office in the service of the Crown in India, his seat in that chamber shall become vacant.

Membership of both

(2) If an elected member of either chamber of the Indian legislature becomes a member of the other chamber, his seat in such first-mentioned chamber shall thereupon become vacant.

(3) If any person is elected a member of both chambers of the Indian legislature, he shall, before he takes his seat in either chamber, signify in writing the chamber of which he desires to be a member, and thereupon his seat in the other chamber shall become vacant.

(4) Every member of the Governor-General's Executive Council shall be nominated as a member of one chamber of the Indian legislature, and shall have the right of attending in and addressing the other chamber, but shall not be a member of both chambers.

23. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, provision may be made by rules under the principal Act as to—

- (a) the term of office of nominated members of the Council of State and the Legislative Assembly, and the manner of filling casual vacancies occurring by reason of absence of members from India, inability to attend to duty, death, acceptance of office, or resignation duly accepted, or otherwise; and
- (b) the conditions under which and the manner in which persons may be nominated as members of the Council of State of the Legislative Assembly; and
- (c) the qualification of electors, the constitution of constituencies, and the method of election for the Council of State and the Legislative Assembly (including the number of members to be elected by communal and other electorates) and any matters incidental or ancillary thereto; and
- (d) the qualifications for being or for being nominated or elected as members of the Council of State or the Legislative Assembly; and
- (e) the final decision of doubts or disputes as to the validity of an election; and
- (f) the manner in which the rules are to be carried into effect.

(2) Subject to any such rules, any person who is a ruler or subject of any State in India may be nominated as a member of the Council of State or the Legislative Assembly.

24. (1) Sub-sections (1) and (3) of section sixty-seven of the principal Act (which relate to the classes of business which may be transacted by the Indian legislative council) shall cease to have effect.

(2) Provision may be made by rules under the principal Act for regulating the course of business and the preservation of order in the chambers of the Indian legislature, and as to the persons to preside at the meetings of the Legislative Assembly in the absence of the president and the deputy-president; and the rules may provide for the number of members required to constitute a quorum, and for prohibiting or regulating the asking of questions on, and the discussion of, any subject specified in the rules.

(3) If any Bill which has been passed by one chamber is not, within six months after the passage of the Bill by that chamber, passed by the other chamber either without amendments or with such amendments as may be agreed to by the two chambers, the Governor-General may in his discretion refer the matter for decision to a joint sitting of both chambers: Provided that standing orders made under this section may provide for meetings of members of both chambers appointed for the purpose, in order to discuss any difference of opinion which has arisen between the two chambers.

(4) Without prejudice to the powers of the Governor-General under section sixty-eight of the principal Act, the Governor-General may, where a Bill has been passed by both chambers of the Indian legislature, return the Bill for reconsideration by either chamber.

(5) Rules made for the purpose of this section may contain such general and supplemental provisions as appear necessary for the purpose of giving full effect to this section.

(6) Standing orders may be made providing for the conduct of business and the procedure to be followed in either chamber of the Indian legislature in so far as these matters are not provided for by rules made under the principal Act. The first standing orders shall be made by the Governor-General in Council, but may, with the consent of the Governor-General, be altered by the chamber to which they relate.

Supplementary provisions as to composition of Legislative Assembly and Council of State.

Business and proceedings in Indian legislature

Any standing order made as aforesaid which is repugnant to the provisions of any rules made under the principal Act shall, to the extent of that repugnancy but not otherwise, be void.

(7) Subject to the rules and standing orders affecting the chamber, there shall be freedom of speech in both chambers of the Indian legislature. No person shall be liable to any proceedings in any court by reason of his speech or vote in either chamber, or by reason of anything contained in any official report of the proceedings of either chamber.

25. (1) The estimated annual expenditure and revenue of the Governor-General in Council shall be laid in the form of a statement before both chambers of the Indian legislature in each year.

Indian budget

(2) No proposal for the appropriation of any revenue or moneys for any purpose shall be made except on the recommendation of the Governor-General.

(3) The proposals of the Governor-General in Council for the appropriation of revenue or moneys relating to the following heads of expenditure shall not be submitted to the vote of the legislative assembly, nor shall they be open to discussion by either chamber at the time when the annual statement is under consideration, unless the Governor-General otherwise directs—

- (i) interest and sinking fund charges on loans ; and
- (ii) expenditure of which the amount is prescribed by or under any law ; and
- (iii) salaries and pensions of persons appointed by or with the approval of His Majesty or by the Secretary of State in Council ; and
- (iv) salaries of chief commissioners and judicial commissioners ; and
- (v) expenditure classified by the order of the Governor-General in Council as—
 - (a) ecclesiastical ;
 - (b) political ;
 - (c) defence.

(4) If any question arises whether any proposed appropriation of revenue or moneys does or does not relate to the above heads, the decision of the Governor-General on the question shall be final.

(5) The proposals of the Governor-General in Council for the appropriation of revenue or moneys relating to heads of expenditure not specified in the above heads shall be submitted to the vote of the legislative assembly in the form of demands for grants.

(6) The legislative assembly may assent or refuse its assent to any demand or may reduce the amount referred to in any demand by a reduction of the whole grant.

(7) The demands as voted by the legislative assembly shall be submitted to the Governor-General in Council, who shall, if he declares that he is satisfied that any demand which has been refused by the legislative assembly as essential to the discharge of his responsibilities, act as if it had been assented to, notwithstanding the withholding of such assent or the reduction of the amount therein referred to, by the legislative assembly.

(8) Notwithstanding anything in this section the Governor-General shall have power, in case of emergency, to authorise such expenditure as may, in his opinion, be necessary for the safety or tranquillity of British India or any part thereof.

26. (1) Where either chamber of the Indian legislature refuses leave to introduce, or fails to pass in a form recommended by the Governor-General, any Bill, the Governor-General may certify that the passage of the Bill is essential for the safety, tranquillity or interests of British India or any part thereof, and thereupon—

Provision for case of failure to pass legislation

- (a) If the Bill has already been passed by the other chamber, the Bill shall, on signature by the Governor-General, notwithstanding that it has not been considered by both chambers, forthwith become an Act of the Indian legislature in the form of the Bill as originally introduced or proposed to be introduced in the Indian legislature, or (as the case may be) in the form recommended by the Governor-General ; and

- (b) if the Bill has not already been so passed, the Bill shall be laid before the other chamber, and, if consented to by that chamber in the form recommended by the Governor-General, shall become an Act as aforesaid on the signification of the Governor-General's assent, or, if not so consented to, shall, on signature by the Governor-General, become an Act as aforesaid.

(2) Every such Act shall be expressed to be made by the Governor-General, and shall, as soon as practicable after being made, be laid before both Houses of Parliament, and shall not have effect until it has received His Majesty's assent, and shall not be presented for His Majesty's assent until copies thereof have been laid before each House of Parliament for not less than eight days on which that House has sat; and upon the signification of such assent by His Majesty in Council, and the notification thereof by the Governor-General, the Act shall have the same force and effect as an Act passed by the Indian legislature and duly assented to:

Provided that, where in the opinion of the Governor-General a state of emergency exists which justifies such action, the Governor-General may direct that any such Act shall come into operation forthwith, and thereupon the Act shall have such force and effect as aforesaid, subject, however, to disallowance by His Majesty in Council.

Supplemental provisions as to powers of Indian legislature

27. (1) In addition to the measures referred to in sub-section (2) of section sixty-seven of the principal Act, as requiring the previous sanction of the Governor-General, it shall not be lawful without such previous sanction to introduce at any meeting of either chamber of the Indian legislature any measure—

- (a) regulating any provincial subject, or any part of a provincial subject, which has not been declared by rules under the principal Act to be subject to legislation by the Indian legislature;
- (b) repealing or amending any Act of a local legislature;
- (c) repealing or amending any Act or ordinance made by the Governor-General.

(2) Where in either chamber of the Indian legislature any Bill has been introduced, or is proposed to be introduced, or any amendment to Bill is moved, or proposed to be moved, the Governor-General may certify that the Bill, or any clause of it, or the amendment, affects the safety or tranquillity of British India, or any part thereof, and may direct that no proceedings, or that no further proceedings, shall be taken by the chamber in relation to the Bill, clause, or amendment, and effect shall be given to such direction.

Composition of
executive council.

28. (1) The provision in section thirty-six of the principal Act, imposing a limit on the number of members of the Governor-General's executive council, shall cease to have effect.

(2) The provision in section thirty-six of the principal Act as to the qualification of members of the council shall have effect as though the words "at the time of their appointment" were omitted, and as though after the word "Scotland" there were inserted the words "or a pleader of the High Court" and as though "ten years" were substituted for "five years."

(3) Provision may be made by rules under the principal Act as to the qualifications to be required in respect of members of the Governor-General's executive council, in any case where such provision is not made by section thirty-six of the principal Act as amended by this section.

(4) Sub-section (2) of section thirty-seven of the principal Act (which provides that when and so long as the Governor-General's executive council assembles in a province having a governor, the governor shall be an extraordinary member of the council) shall cease to have effect.

council secretaries.

29. (1) The Governor-General may at his discretion appoint, from among the members of the Legislative Assembly, council secretaries who shall hold office during his pleasure and discharge such duties in assisting the members of his executive council as he may assign to them.

(2) There shall be paid to council secretaries so appointed such salary as may be provided by the Indian legislature.

(3) A council secretary shall cease to hold office if he ceases for more than six months to be a member of the Legislative Assembly.

PART III.

SECRETARY OF STATE IN COUNCIL.

30. The salary of the Secretary of State, the salaries of his under-secretaries, and any other expenses of his department may, notwithstanding anything in the principal Act, instead of being paid out of the revenues of India, be paid out of moneys provided by Parliament, and the salary of the Secretary of State shall be so paid.

Payment of salary of Secretary of State, etc., out of moneys provided by Parliament

31. The following amendments shall be made in section three of the principal Act in relation to the composition of the Council of India, the qualification, term of office, and remuneration of its members:—

Council of India

- (1) The provisions of sub-section (1) shall have effect as though "eight" and "twelve" were substituted for "ten" and "fourteen" respectively, as the minimum and maximum number of members, provided that the council as constituted at the time of the passing of this Act shall not be affected by this provision, but no fresh appointment or re-appointment thereto shall be made in excess of the maximum prescribed by this provision.
- (2) the provisions of sub-section (3) shall have effect as if "one-half" were substituted for "nine" and "India" were substituted for "British India."
- (3) In sub-section (4) "five years" shall be substituted for "seven years" as the term of office of members of the council, provided that the tenure of office of any person who is a member of the council at the time of the passing of this Act shall not be affected by this provision.
- (4) The provisions of sub-section (8) shall cease to have effect and in lieu thereof the following provisions shall be inserted:
 "There shall be paid to each member of the Council of India the annual salary of twelve hundred pounds: provided that any member of the council who was at the time of his appointment domiciled in India shall receive, in addition to the salary hereby provided, an annual subsistence allowance of six hundred pounds.
 Such salaries and allowances may be paid out of the revenues of India or out of moneys provided by Parliament."
- (5) Notwithstanding anything in any Act or rules, where any person in the service of the Crown in India is appointed a member of the council before completion of the period of such service required to entitle him to a pension or annuity, his service as such member shall, for the purpose of any pension or annuity which would be payable to him on completion of such period, be reckoned as service under the Crown in India whilst resident in India.

32.—(1) The provision in section six of the principal Act which prescribes the quorum for meetings of the Council of India shall cease to have effect, and the Secretary of State shall provide for a quorum by directions to be issued in this behalf.

Further provisions as to Council of India

(2) The provision in section eight of the principal Act relating to meetings of the Council of India shall have effect as though "month" were substituted for "week."

(3) Section ten of the principal Act shall have effect as though the words "all business of the council or committees thereof is to be transacted" were omitted, and the words "the business of the Secretary of State in Council or the Council of India shall be transacted, and any order made or act done in accordance with such direction shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, be treated as being an order of the Secretary of State in Council" were inserted in lieu thereof.

33. The Secretary of State in Council may, notwithstanding anything in the principal Act, by rule regulate and restrict the exercise of the powers of superintendence, direction, and control, vested in the Secretary of State and the Secretary of State in Council, by the principal Act, or otherwise, in such manner as may appear necessary or expedient in order to give effect to the purposes of this Act.

Before any rules are made under this section relating to subjects other than transferred subjects, the rules proposed to be made shall be laid in draft before both Houses of Parliament, and such rules shall not be made unless both Houses by resolution approve the draft either without modification or addition, or with modifications or additions to which both Houses agree, but upon such approval being given the Secretary of State in Council may make such rules in the form in which they have been approved, and such rules on being so made shall be of full force and effect.

Any rules relating to transferred subjects made under this section shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament as soon as may be after they are made, and, if an Address is presented to His Majesty by either House of Parliament within the next thirty days on which that House has sat after the rules are laid before it praying that the rules or any of them may be annulled His Majesty in Council may annul the rules or any of them, and those rules shall thenceforth be void, but without prejudice to the validity of anything previously done thereunder.

34. So much of section five of the principal Act as relates to orders and communications sent to India from the United Kingdom and to orders made in the United Kingdom, and sections eleven, twelve, thirteen and fourteen of the principal Act, shall cease to have effect, and the procedure for the sending of orders and communications to India and in general for correspondence between the Secretary of State and the Governor-General in Council or any local government shall be such as may be prescribed by order of the Secretary of State in Council.

35. His Majesty may by Order in Council make provision of the appointment of a High Commissioner for India in the United Kingdom, and for the pay, pension, powers, duties and conditions of employment of the High Commissioner and of his assistants; and the Order may further provide for delegating to the High Commissioner any of the powers previously exercised by the Secretary of State or the Secretary of State in Council whether under the principal Act or otherwise in relation to making contracts, and may prescribe the conditions under which he shall act on behalf of the Governor-General in Council or any local government.

PART IV.

THE CIVIL SERVICES IN INDIA

36.—(1) Subject to the provisions of the principal Act and of rules made thereunder, every person in the civil service of the Crown in India holds office during His Majesty's pleasure, and may be employed in any manner required by a proper authority within the scope of his duty, but no person in that service may be dismissed by any authority subordinate to that by which he was appointed, and the Secretary of State in Council may (except so far as he may provide by rules to the contrary) reinstate any person in that service who has been dismissed.

If any such person appointed by the Secretary of State in Council thinks himself wronged by an order of an official superior in a governor's province, and on due application made to that superior does not receive the redress to which he may consider himself entitled, he may, without prejudice to any other right of redress, complain to the governor of the province in order to obtain justice, and the governor is hereby directed to examine such complaint and require such action to be taken thereon as may appear to him to be just and equitable.

(2) The Secretary of State in Council may make rules for regulating the classification of the civil services in India, the methods of their recruitment, their conditions of service, pay and allowances, and discipline and conduct. Such rules may, to such extent and in respect of such matters as may be prescribed, delegate the power of making rules to the Governor-General in Council or to local governments, or authorise the Indian legislature or local legislatures to make laws regulating the public services:

Provided that every person appointed before the commencement of this Act by the Secretary of State in Council to the civil service of the Crown in India shall retain all his existing or accruing rights, or shall receive such compensation for the loss of any of them as the Secretary of State in Council may consider just and equitable.

(3) The right to pensions and the scale and conditions of pensions of all persons in the civil service of the Crown in India appointed by the Secretary of State in Council shall be regulated in accordance with the rules in force at the time of the passing of this Act. Any such rules may be varied or added to by the Secretary of State in Council and shall have effect as so varied or added to, but any such variation or addition shall not adversely affect the pension of any member of the service appointed before the date thereof.

Nothing in this section or in any rule thereunder shall prejudice the rights to which any person may, or may have, become entitled under the provisions in relation to pensions contained in the East India Annuity Funds Act, 1874. 87 & 38 Vict., c.

(4) For the removal of doubts it is hereby declared that all rules or other provisions in operation at the time of the passing of this Act, whether made by the Secretary of State in Council or by any other authority, relating to the civil service of the Crown in India, were duly made in accordance with the powers in that behalf, and are confirmed, but any such rules or provisions may be revoked, varied, or added to by rules or laws made under this section.

37.—(1) Notwithstanding anything in section ninety-seven of the principal Act the Secretary of State may make appointments to the Indian Civil Service of persons domiciled in India, in accordance with such rules as may be prescribed by the Secretary of State in Council with the concurrence of the majority of votes at a meeting of the Council of India.

Appointments to the Indian Civil Service.

Any rules made under this section shall not have force until they have been laid for thirty days before both Houses of Parliament.

• (2) The Indian Civil Service (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1915 (which confers power during the war and for a period of two years thereafter to make appointments to the Indian Civil Service without examination), shall have effect as though "three years" were substituted for "two years."

5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 87

38. (1) There shall be established in India a public service commission, consisting of not more than five members, of whom one shall be chairman, appointed by the Secretary of State in Council. Each member shall hold office for five years, and may be re-appointed. No member shall be removed before the expiry of his term of office, except by order of the Secretary of State in Council. The qualifications for appointment, and the pay and pension (if any) attaching to the office of chairman and member, shall be prescribed by rules made by the Secretary of State in Council.

Public service commission.

(2) The public service commission shall discharge, in regard to recruitment and control of the public services in India, such functions as may be assigned thereto by rules made by the Secretary of State in Council.

39. (1) An auditor-general in India shall be appointed by the Secretary of State in Council, and shall hold office during His Majesty's pleasure. The Secretary of State in Council shall, by rules, make provision for his pay, powers, duties, and conditions of employment, or for the discharge of his duties in the case of a temporary vacancy or absence from duty.

Financial control.

(2) Subject to any rules made by the Secretary of State in Council, no office may be added to or withdrawn from the public service, and the emoluments of no post may be varied, except after consultation with such finance authority as may be designated in the rules, being an authority of the province or of the Government of India, according as the post is or is not under the control of a local government.

40. Rules made under this Part of this Act shall not be made except with the concurrence of the majority of votes at a meeting of the Council of India.

Rule under Part IV.

PART V.

STATUTORY COMMISSION.

41. (1) At the expiration of ten years after the passing of this Act the Secretary of State, with the concurrence of both Houses of Parliament, shall submit for the approval of His Majesty the names of persons to act as a commission for the purposes of this section.

Statutory commission.

(2) The persons whose names are so submitted, if approved by His Majesty, shall be a commission for the purpose of inquiring into the working of the system of government, the growth of education, and the development of representative institutions, in British India, and matters connected therewith, and the commission shall report as to whether and to what extent it is desirable to establish the principle of responsible government, or to extend, modify, or restrict the degree of responsible government then existing therein, including the question whether the establishment of second chambers of the local legislatures is or is not desirable.

(3) The commission shall also inquire into and report on any other matter affecting British India and the provinces, which may be referred to the commission by His Majesty.

PART VI.

GENERAL.

Modification of s.
124 of principal
Act.

42. Notwithstanding anything in section one hundred and twenty-four of the principal Act, if any member of the Governor-General's executive Council or any member of any local government was at the time of his appointment concerned or engaged in any trade or business, he may, during the term of his office, with the sanction in writing of the Governor-General, or, in the case of ministers, of the governor of the province, and in any case subject to such general conditions and restrictions as the Governor-General in Council may prescribe, retain his concern or interest in that trade or business, but shall not, during that term, take part in the direction or management of that trade or business.

Signification of Royal Assent.

43. Any assent or disallowance by His Majesty, which under the principal Act is required to be signified through the Secretary of State in Council, shall as from the passing of this Act be signified by His Majesty in Council.

Power to make rules.

44. (1) Where any matter is required to be prescribed or regulated by rules under the principal Act and no special provision is made as to the authority by whom the rules are to be made, the rules shall be made by the Governor-General in Council, with the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council, and shall not be subject to repeal or alteration by the Indian legislature or by any local legislature.

(2) Any rules made under this Act or under the principal Act may be so framed as to make different provision for different provinces.

(3) Any rules to which sub-section (1) of this section applies shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament as soon as may be after they are made, and, if an Address is presented to His Majesty by either House of Parliament within the next thirty days on which that House has sat after the rules are laid before it praying that the rules or any of them may be annulled, His Majesty in Council may annul the rules or any of them, and those rules shall thenceforth be void, but without prejudice to the validity of anything previously done thereunder:

Provided that the Secretary of State may direct that any rules to which this section applies shall be laid in draft before both Houses of Parliament, and in such case the rules shall not be made unless both Houses by resolution approve the draft either without modification or addition, or with modifications or additions to which both Houses agree, but, upon such approval being given, the rules may be made in the form in which they have been approved, and such rules on being so made shall be of full force and effect, and shall not require to be further laid before Parliament.

principal Act to
effect, etc.

45. (1) The amendments set out in Parts I and II of the Second Schedule to this Act, being amendments to incorporate the provisions of this Act in the principal Act, and further amendments consequential on or arising out of those provisions, shall be made in the principal Act, and any question of interpretation shall be settled by reference to the principal Act as so amended. The provisions of the principal Act specified in Part III of that schedule, being provisions which are obsolete or unnecessary, or which require amendment in detail, are hereby repealed or modified, and shall be dealt with, in the manner shown in the second column of that schedule.

(2) Every enactment and word which is directed by the Government of India (Amendment) Act, 1916, or by this section and the Second Schedule to this Act, to be substituted for or added to any portion of the Government of India Act, 1915, shall form part of the Government of India Act, 1915, in the place assigned to it by the Government of India (Amendment) Act, 1916, or at schedule; and the Government of India Act, 1915, and all Acts, including Act, which refer thereto, shall, after the commencement of this Act, be construed as if the said enactment or word had been enacted in the Government of India Act, 1915, in the place so assigned, and, where it is substituted for another enactment or word, had been so enacted in lieu of that enactment or word.

A copy of the Government of India Act, 1915, with the amendments, whether by way of substitution, addition or omission, required by the Government of India (Amendment) Act, 1916, and by this section and the Second Schedule to this Act, shall be prepared and certified by the Clerk of the Parliaments, and deposited with the Rolls of Parliament, and His Majesty's printer shall print, in accordance with the copy so certified, all copies of the Government of India Act, 1915, which are printed after the passing of this Act and the Government of India Act, 1915, as so amended, may be cited as "The Government of India Act."

Sub-section (3) of section eight of the Government of India (Amendment) Act, 1916, is hereby repealed.

46. In this Act the expressions "official" and "non-official," where used in relation to any person, mean respectively a person who is or is not in the civil or military service of the Crown in India;

Definition of official.

Provided that rules under the principal Act may provide for the holders of such offices as may be specified in the rules not being treated for the purposes of the principal Act or this Act, or any of them, as officials.

47.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Government of India Act, 1919, and the principal Act, as amended by any Act for the time being in force, may be cited as the Government of India Act.

Short title commencement, interpretation, and transitory provisions.

(2) This Act shall come into operation on such date or dates as the Governor-General in Council, with the approval of the Secretary of State in Council, may appoint, and different dates may be appointed for different provisions of this Act, and for different parts of India.

On the dates appointed for the coming into operation of the provisions of this Act as respects any executive or legislative council all the members of the council then in office shall go out of office, but may, if otherwise qualified, be re-appointed, re-nominated or re-elected, as the case may be, in accordance with the provisions of the principal Act as amended by this Act.

(3) Any reference in any enactment, whether an Act of Parliament or made by any authority in British India, or in any rules, regulations or orders made under any such enactment, or in any letters patent or other document, to any enactment repealed by the principal Act, shall for all purposes be construed as references to the principal Act as amended by this Act, or to the corresponding provision thereof.

(4) Any reference in any enactment in force in India, whether an act of Parliament or made by any authority in British India, or in any rules, regulations, or orders made under any such enactment, or in any letters patent or other document, to any Indian legislative authority, shall for all purposes be construed as references to the corresponding authority constituted by the principal Act as amended by this Act.

(5) If any difficulty arises as to the first establishment of the Indian legislature or any legislative council after the commencement of this act or otherwise in first giving effect to the provisions of this Act, the Secretary of State in Council or the Governor-General in Council, as occasion may require, may by order do anything which appears to them necessary for the purpose of removing the difficulty.

CIVIL AVIATION.

Delhi, the 31st January 1920.

No. 66-C.A.—In exercise of the powers conferred by sections 3 and 6 of the Indian Aircraft Act, 1911 (XVII of 1911), and in supersession of the Indian Airship Rules, 1913, published with the notification of the Government of India in the Home Department, No. 525, dated the 1st May 1913, the Governor General in Council is pleased to make the following Rules.

PART I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. These rules may be called the Indian Aircraft Rules, 1920.

Definitions and interpretation.

2. (1) In these rules, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

“aerodrome” means any definite ground or water area intended to be used and capable of being used for the landing or departure of aircraft and includes all buildings, sheds, vessels, piers and other structures thereon or appertaining thereto;

“airship” means an aircraft lighter than air;

“approved aerodrome” means an aerodrome the proprietor of which has received a certificate of approval in respect thereof from an officer authorised by the Governor General in Council in that behalf, but does not include a Government or Royal Air Force aerodrome;

“Chief Customs-authority,” “Chief Customs-officer,” and “Customs-collector” mean respectively a person appointed to be a Chief Customs-authority, a Chief Customs-officer, and a Customs-collector under rule 53;

“customs-aerodrome” means an aerodrome notified as a customs-aerodrome under rule 53;

“examination station” means a space in a customs-aerodrome set apart under the orders of the Chief Customs-authority for the examination of goods;

“export” means the taking by aircraft out of British India;

“flying machine” means an aeroplane, seaplane, flying boat, or other aircraft heavier than air;

“foreign aircraft” means an aircraft which has not been registered in the manner provided by these rules, and is not ordinarily kept, in British India;

“Government aerodrome” means any aerodrome which is maintained by, or on behalf of, Government;

“import” means the bringing by aircraft into British India;

“passenger aircraft” and “goods aircraft” mean aircraft which carry, or are intended to carry, for hire or reward passengers and goods (including mails), respectively;

“personnel” in relation to any aircraft means the commander, pilot, navigator, engineer, and all other members of the crew;

the “proprietor” of an aerodrome includes any person responsible for the management thereof;

“visible” as applied to lights means visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere;

the expression “under way” applies to any aircraft when it is not made fast to the ground or to any object on land or water.

(2) The General Clauses Act, 1897, shall apply, for the purpose of the interpretation of these rules, in like manner as it applies for the purpose of the interpretation of an Act of the Governor General in Council. X of 1897.

PART II.

GENERAL CONDITIONS OF FLYING.

3. No person shall use, or assist in using, an aircraft save in accordance with the provisions of this Part in so far as they are applicable in the case of each such person, and compliance therewith to such extent shall be deemed to be a condition of every licence granted under these rules.

4. No person shall fly, or assist in flying, any aircraft which—

- (a) has not been registered in the manner provided in Part III, and
- (b) does not bear the nationality and registration marks assigned to it in the certificate of registration granted under that Part, affixed thereon in such manner as is provided in Part VI:

Provided that nothing in this rule shall apply to aircraft flown only for the purpose of experiment or test within three miles of an aerodrome or aircraft factory.

5. The pilot of every aircraft and the entire personnel of every passenger and goods aircraft shall be licensed in manner provided in Part IV:

Provided that nothing in this rule shall apply within a distance of one mile from an aerodrome in the case of personnel under instruction, and personnel under instruction beyond that distance may be exempted from the requirements of this rule by or under the orders of an officer authorised by the Governor General in Council by order in writing in that behalf.

6. No person in charge of any aircraft shall allow such aircraft to be flown unless its certificate of registration and the licence of each member of the personnel who is under these rules required to be licensed is carried therein.

7. No person shall carry in any aircraft, and no person in charge of any aircraft shall allow to be carried therein, any explosives, etc.

8. No person shall carry in any aircraft, and no person in charge of any aircraft shall allow to be carried therein, any mails or wireless telegraphic apparatus without the consent in writing of the Director General of Posts and Telegraphs.

9. No pilot or person in charge of any aircraft shall use any place as a regular place of landing or departure other than an approved aerodrome:

Provided that any aircraft may use any Government or Royal Air Force aerodrome which may be appointed for this purpose by or under the orders of the Governor General in Council or the Air Officer Commanding the Royal Air Force in India, as the case may be, subject to such conditions and directions as may be laid down in the case of each such aerodrome.

10. (1) No pilot shall fly any aircraft, and no person in charge of any aircraft shall allow it to be flown over any city or town except at such altitude as will enable the aircraft to land outside the city or town in the event of the means of propulsion failing through mechanical breakdown or other cause:

Provided that this prohibition shall not apply within a distance of one mile from an approved aerodrome or a Government or Royal Air Force aerodrome.

(2) No person in any aircraft shall—

- (a) carry out any trick flying or exhibition flying over any city, town area, or village site; or
- (b) carry out any trick flying or exhibition flying over any regatta, race meeting or meeting for public games or sports or other public assembly, except where a request in writing for such flying has been received by such person from the promoters of any such assembly; or
- (c) carry out any flying which, by reason of low altitude or proximity to persons or dwellings, is dangerous to public safety; or

(d) drop or cause or permit to be dropped from the aircraft any article except—

- (i) ballast the dropping of which is not prohibited by the provisions of sub-rule (13) or rule 49.
- (ii) mails as may be authorised by the Director General of Posts and Telegraphs, and
- (iii) any other article the dropping of which may be permitted by general or special order of the Governor General in Council or an officer authorised by him by order in writing in that behalf:

Provided that separate sheets of paper containing printed matter only may be dropped in any place if the written permission of the District Magistrate or, in a Presidency town or Rangoon, of the Commissioner of Police, be first obtained in each case.

11. Every pilot and navigator shall observe, and every person in charge of an aircraft shall cause to be observed, all the rules of the air as contained in Part VIII.

12. (1) No pilot of any passenger aircraft carrying passengers shall fly the same unless it has, in accordance with the provisions of Part V,—

Further conditions for passenger and goods aircraft.

- (a) been certified as airworthy;
- (b) undergone a periodical inspection and overhaul; and
- (c) undergone examination on the day of flight; and, unless all the certificates referred to in that Part and relating to such aircraft, are carried in the aircraft.

(2) No pilot or person in charge of any passenger aircraft shall use, as a regular place of landing or departure, any approved aerodrome which has not been appointed for the use of passenger aircraft by an officer authorised by the Governor-General in Council by order in writing in that behalf.

(3) No person in charge of any passenger or goods aircraft shall allow the same to be flown unless there are carried in the aircraft log books in accordance with the provisions of Part VII.

13. Every person arriving in, or departing from, British India in an aircraft shall comply with the provisions of Part IX in so far as they may be applicable to him.

Aircraft arriving in or departing from British India.

14. Any Magistrate, any Police-officer above the rank of constable, any Customs-officer, any commissioned officer of His Majesty's naval, military or air forces or of His Majesty's Royal Indian Marine, any non-commissioned officer of the Royal Air Force, or any other officer of Government authorised by the Governor-General in Council by general or special order in writing in that behalf may, for the purposes of inspection, demand the production by any member of the personnel of an aircraft of his licence or the production by the owner or person in charge of any aircraft of any certificate or log book relating thereto granted or maintained under these rules and every such person shall be bound to comply with such demand.

Production of licences, etc.

PART III.

REGISTRATION.

15. A certificate of registration for an aircraft may be granted by the Governor General in Council or an officer authorised by him by order in writing in that behalf, on the application by, or on behalf of, the owner of such aircraft;

Certificates of registration.

Provided that no such certificate shall be granted in respect of any aircraft owned by a person who is not a British subject or a firm or company having its principal place of business in His Majesty's dominions, save under a general or special order of the Governor General in Council.

16. Every such application shall be made in Form A set out in Schedule VI, and shall be accompanied—Nature of application.

- (a) by a fee of twenty rupees, which shall be returned if the application is not granted;
- (b) by a certificate of the nationality and suitability of the owner in Form B set out in Schedule VI granted and signed by a District Magistrate or, in a Presidency town or Rangoon, by a Commissioner of Police, within sixty days before the date on which the application is made; and
- (c) in the case of passenger aircraft, by a certificate of airworthiness in respect of the aircraft issued under rule 27 or rule 28.

17. If the application is granted there shall be delivered to the applicant a certificate of registration in Form C set out in Schedule VI.
 Grant of application

18. Upon any change of ownership of an aircraft registered under these rules, the certificate of registration of such aircraft shall be deemed to be cancelled.
 Change of ownership

PART IV.

LICENSING OF PERSONNEL.

19. The licences referred to in rule 5 may be granted by the Governor-General in Council or by an officer authorised by him by order in writing in that behalf:
 Grant of licences

Provided that no such licence shall be granted to any person who is not a British subject save under a general or special order of the Governor-General in Council.

20. Application for the grant of such licences shall be made as nearly as may be in Form D set out in Schedule VI, and shall be accompanied—Mode of application

- (a) by a fee of five rupees which shall be returned if the application is not granted;
- (b) by a certificate of the nationality and suitability of the person applying to be licensed, granted in the manner provided in clause (b) of rule 16; and
- (c) by two unmounted copies of a photograph of the person applying to be licensed.

21. (1) A person applying for a pilot's licence to fly aircraft other than passenger or goods aircraft will be required—
 Pilots

- (a) to produce a medical certificate in Form E set out in Schedule VI granted by an officer of the Royal Army Medical Corps or the Indian Medical Service or a medical officer of the Royal Air Force, stating to what extent the applicant fulfils the requirements of mental and physical fitness specified in Schedule I;
- (b) unless he is qualified as a Royal Air Force pilot, to produce an "A" certificate of flying competency for pilots of private flying machines in Form F set out in Schedule VI after examination conducted in the manner provided in Schedule II for the case of such applicants; and may be required to submit proof of recent reasonable flying experience, or failing such proof, undergo practical tests.

(2) A person applying for a pilot's licence to fly passenger or goods aircraft will be required—

- (a) to produce a medical certificate in Form E set out in Schedule VI granted by a medical officer of the Royal Air Force, stating to what extent the applicant fulfils the requirements of mental and physical fitness specified in Schedule I;
- (b) unless he is qualified as a Royal Air Force pilot, to produce a "B" certificate of flying competency for pilots of passenger and goods aircraft as nearly as may be in Form F set out in Schedule VI after examination conducted in the manner provided in Schedule II for the case of such applicants; and may be required to submit proof of recent reasonable flying experience on the class of aircraft for which the licence is required.

22. A person applying for a licence to navigate a passenger or goods aircraft will be required—Navigators.

- (a) to produce a medical certificate granted in the manner provided in clause (a) of sub-rule (1) of rule 21; and,
- (b) to produce a certificate of technical competency in Form G set out in Schedule VI after examination conducted in the manner provided in Schedule III for the case of navigators.

23. A person applying for a licence to be engaged as engineer on passenger or goods aircraft will be required—
Engineers

- (a) to produce a medical certificate granted in the manner provided in clause (a) of sub-rule (1) of rule 21;
- (b) to produce a certificate of technical competency in Form G set out in Schedule VI after examination conducted in the manner provided in Schedule III for the case of engineers; and may be required to undergo practical and theoretical tests.

24. A person applying for a licence as a member of the personnel of a passenger or goods aircraft in any other capacity than that of a pilot, navigator, or engineer will be required to produce a certificate in Form H set out in Schedule VI granted by a person approved in that behalf by the officer authorised under rule 19 to the effect that he possesses a good general knowledge of the rules of the air as contained in Part VIII.
Other personnel.

25. (1) Every licence under this Part shall be issued in Form I set out in Schedule VI, and shall, save as otherwise hereinafter provided, remain valid for a period of one year from the date of issue.
Issue, renewal, and cancellation of licences.

(2) Any licence issued under this Part may be renewed by the officer authorised under rule 19 to grant the same, for such further period as he may think fit, and such officer may before renewing the licence require the person applying for renewal to undergo practical or theoretical tests.

(3) A fee of five rupees shall be payable in respect of each licence renewed under sub-rule (2).

(4) In the event of any applicant for a licence, or for renewal of a licence being required to undergo any practical test, a further fee of twenty rupees shall be payable.

(5) It shall be deemed to be a condition of every licence issued under this Part that it is subject to cancellation or suspension at the pleasure of the Governor General in Council or of the officer authorised under rule 19.

26. Any pilot, navigator or engineer to whom a licence has been granted under this Part may be required, from time to time, to undergo further medical examination as may be directed by the officer authorised under rule 19.
Further medical examination.

PART V.

CERTIFICATES OF AIRWORTHINESS, PERIODICAL OVERHAUL AND EXAMINATION OF PASSENGER AIRCRAFT.

27. (1) In the case of passenger aircraft, a certificate of airworthiness in Form J set out in Schedule VI in respect of one aircraft of any particular type (hereinafter referred to as a "type aircraft") may be issued by the Governor General in Council or an officer authorised by him by order in writing in that behalf in such manner and subject to such conditions as are specified in Schedule IV.
Type aircraft.

(2) For each such certificate a fee of one hundred rupees shall be payable.

28. (1) After the issue of a certificate of airworthiness to a type aircraft, a certificate of airworthiness in Form J set out in Schedule VI may be issued in respect of any further aircraft of that type by the Governor General in Council or an officer authorised by him by order in writing in that behalf in such conditions as are specified in Schedule IV.

(2) For each such certificate a fee of twenty rupees shall be payable.

29. (1) Every passenger aircraft and each engine of every such aircraft must be periodically inspected and overhauled by a person approved, or by persons respectively approved, for the purpose of inspection and overhaul of aircraft and engines under this rule by the Governor General in Council or an officer authorised by him by order in writing in that behalf.

(2) If an aircraft or engine is, on such inspection and overhaul found to be fit for flight or in good order, as the case may be, the person making the inspection in each case shall grant a certificate in duplicate to that effect in Form K set out in Schedule VI.

(3) No passenger aircraft shall be flown.

(a) which has been flown for two hundred hours without having been certified under this rule during the period covered by such manner and subject to such flights as fit for flight, or

(b) of which any engine has been run for one hundred hours, without having been so certified during the period covered by such running as being in order.

30. Any person authorised by the Governor General in Council by general or special order in writing in this behalf may at any time inspect any passenger aircraft, and the certificate of airworthiness of any aircraft deemed as a result of such inspection to be unsafe may be cancelled or suspended by the authority by which such certificate was issued.

31. (1) No passenger aircraft shall on any day proceed on any journey carrying passengers unless it has previously been examined on that day by a person other than the pilot of such aircraft.

(2) Such examination shall be made of both the aircraft and the engine or engines by a person approved, or by persons respectively approved, for the purpose of examination of aircraft and engines under this rule, by such officer as may be authorised by the Governor General in Council by general or special order in writing in that behalf.

(3) If on such examination the aircraft and each engine thereof are found to be in every way fit for the flight or flights proposed, the examiner in each case shall sign a certificate in duplicate to that effect in Form L set out in Schedule VI, which certificates shall state the date on which and the hour at which they were signed and shall be countersigned by a person (who may be the pilot of the aircraft) in the employment of the owner.

32. One copy of each of the certificates prescribed in rules 29 and 31 shall be retained by the owner of the aircraft, and the other shall be carried in the aircraft.

33. The pilot of every passenger aircraft shall before commencing any flight, satisfy himself that the aircraft does not carry more than the load specified in the certificate of airworthiness, and that the aircraft is fit in every way for the proposed journey, and shall sign a certificate to that effect in Form M set out in Schedule VI, which certificate shall be carried in the aircraft.

PART VI.

NATIONALITY AND REGISTRATION MARKS.

34. (1) The nationality and registration marks shall be affixed in black on a white ground in the following manner, and underlined with a black line:—

Marks how to be affixed

(a) In the case of flying machines, the marks shall be painted once on the lower surface of the lower main planes, and once on the upper surface of the top main planes, the top of the letters towards the leading edge. They shall also be painted along each side of the fuselage between the main planes and the tail planes. In cases where the machine is not provided with a fuselage, the marks shall be painted on the nacelle.

(b) In the case of airships, the marks shall be painted near the maximum cross section on both sides and on the upper surface equidistant from the marks on the sides.

(3) The nationality mark in the case of flying machines and airships shall also be painted on the port and starboard sides of the lower surface of the lowest tail planes or elevators and also on the upper surface of the top tail planes or elevators, whichever are the larger. It shall also be painted on both sides of the rudder, or on the outer sides of the outer rudders if more than one rudder is fitted.

(4) (a) In the case of flying machines the height of marks on the main planes and tail planes respectively shall be equal to four-fifths of the chord, and the marks on the rudder shall be as large as possible. The height of the marks on the fuselage or nacelle shall be equal to four-fifths of the depth of the narrowest part of that portion of fuselage or nacelle on which the marks are painted.

(b) In the case of airships the nationality mark painted on the tail plane shall be equal in height to four-fifths of the chord of the tail plane and on the rudder shall be as large as possible. The height of the other marks shall be equal to at least one-twelfth of the circumference at the maximum transverse cross-section of the airship.

(c) In no case need the numbers or letters of the nationality and registration marks exceed eight feet in height.

(4) (a) The width of the numbers or letters shall be two-thirds of their height, and the thickness shall be one sixth of their height. The numbers or letters shall be painted in plain block type and shall be uniform in shape and size. A space equal to half the width of the numbers or letters shall be left between each number or letter.

(b) The thickness of the line underlining the mark shall be equal to the thickness of the numbers or letters, and the space between the bottom of the marks and the line shall be equal to the thickness of the line.

(5) Where the nationality and registration marks appear together, a hyphen of a length equal to that of one of the numbers or letters shall be painted between the nationality mark and the registration mark.

(6) The nationality and registration marks shall be displayed to the best possible advantage in view of the constructional features of the aircraft. The marks shall be kept clean and visible.

PART VII.

LOG BOOKS.

35. (1) The log books required to be maintained in the case of each passenger or goods aircraft are—

- (a) a journey log book;
- (b) an aircraft log book;
- (c) an engine log book for each engine; and
- (d) a signal log book

(2) Each log book shall be a separate book, but all log books shall be kept together in the aircraft in a waterproof bag.

(3) Log books shall be maintained in the manner, and shall contain the particulars, required in the case of each by the provisions of Schedule V, and aircraft log books and engine log books shall be maintained in Forms N and O, respectively set out in Schedule VI.

PART VIII.

RULES OF THE AIR.

Lights and Signals.

36. The rules concerning lights shall be complied with in all weathers from sunset to sunrise, and during such time no other lights which may be mistaken for the prescribed lights shall be exhibited. The said lights shall not be dazzling.

37. (1) A flying machine when in the air or manœuvring on land or water under its own power shall carry the following lights, namely:—

Lights to be carried

- (a) forward, a white light, visible in a dihedral angle of two hundred and twenty degrees bisected by a vertical plane through the line of flight, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least five miles;
- (b) on the starboard side, a green light, so constructed and fixed as to show an unbroken light between two vertical planes, whose dihedral angle is one hundred and ten degrees when measured to the right from dead ahead, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least three miles;
- (c) on the port side, a red light, so constructed and fixed as to show an unbroken light between two vertical planes whose dihedral angle is one hundred and ten degrees when measured to the left from dead ahead, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least three miles; and
- (d) at the rear, and as far aft as possible, a white light shining rearwards, and visible in a dihedral angle of one hundred and forty degrees bisected by a vertical plane through the line of flight.

(2) The green and red sidelights shall be fitted so that the green light shall not be seen from the port side, nor the red light from the starboard side.

(3) Where, in order to fulfil the conditions of visibility laid down in clauses (a) to (d) of sub-rule (1), a single light has to be replaced by several lights, the field of visibility of each of these lights should be so limited that in no case can more than one be seen at a time.

Explanation.—The angular limits referred to in this rule shall be determined when the aircraft is in its normal position for flying on a rectilinear horizontal course.

38. (1) The foregoing rules as to the lighting of flying machines shall apply to airships, subject to the following notifications, namely:—

Airships

- (a) All lights shall be doubled, the forward and aft lights vertically, and the side lights horizontally;
- (b) Both lights of each pair forward and aft shall be visible at the same time;
- (c) The distance between lights comprising a pair shall not be less than six feet.

(2) An airship when being towed shall carry the lights required by sub-rule (1), and in addition those specified in rule 40 for airships not under control.

39. A flying machine, when on the surface of the water and when not under control, that is to say, not able to manœuvre as required by the regulations for preventing collisions at sea, shall carry two red lights not less than six feet apart in a vertical line one over the other, and of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least two miles. In addition, the side lights must be shown if the flying machine is under way.

Flying machine not under control

40. (1) An airship, which from any cause is not under control, or which has voluntarily stopped its engines, shall, in addition to the other prescribed lights, display conspicuously two red lights, one over the other approximately in a vertical line, not less than six feet apart and constructed to show a light in all directions and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least two miles.

Airship not under control, etc

(2) By day an airship, when being towed, or which from any cause is not under control shall display conspicuously two black balls or shapes, each two feet in diameter, placed one over the other and approximately in a vertical line.

(2) By day an airship moored or under way, but having voluntarily stopped its engines shall display conspicuously a black ball or shape two feet in diameter, and shall be treated by other aircraft as being not under control.

41. (1) An airship, when moored near the ground, shall carry the lights required by sub-rule (1) of rule 38.

Moored airship.

(2) In addition, if moored but not near the ground, the airship shall carry below the car at a distance of not less than twenty feet, three lights in a vertical line one over the other not less than six feet apart. The highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character as to be visible in all directions at a distance of at least two miles.

(3) In addition, the mooring cable shall have attached to it at intervals of one thousand feet, measured from the airship, groups of three lights similar to those mentioned in the preceding paragraph. In addition, the object to which the airship is moored on the ground shall have a similar group of lights to mark its position.

(4) By day the mooring cable shall carry in the same positions as the groups of lights specified in the preceding paragraph, and in lieu thereof, tubular steamers, not less than eight inches in diameter and six feet in length, marked with alternate bands of white and red eighteen inches in width.

42. A flying machine stationary on land or water, but not moored or anchored, shall carry lights as prescribed in rule 37.

Stationary flying machine

43. In order to prevent collisions with surface craft the following provisions shall have effect, namely:—

Prevention of collisions

(a) A flying machine when at anchor or moored on the water shall carry forward where it can best be seen a white light so constructed as to show an unbroken light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least one mile.

(b) A flying machine of one hundred and fifty feet or upwards in length, when at anchor or moored on the water, shall in the forward part carry one such light, and at or near the stern, and, at such a height that it shall be not less than fifteen feet lower than the forward light, another such light.

Explanation.—The length of a flying machine shall be deemed to be the overall length.

(c) A flying machine of one hundred and fifty feet or upwards in span, when at anchor or moored in the water, shall carry in addition at each lower wing tip one such light as is specified in clause (a).

Explanation.—The span of a flying machine shall be deemed to be the maximum lateral dimension.

44. In the event of the failure of any of the lights prescribed in this Part, the aircraft shall land at the first reasonably safe opportunity.

Failure of lights

45. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any State with respect to the additional station and signal lights for two or more aircraft or for aircraft in formation, or with the exhibition of recognition signals adopted by owners of aircraft which have been authorised by their respective Governments and duly registered and published.

46. (1) Aircraft proposing to land at night on aerodromes having a ground control shall before landing fire a green

Landing at night

Very's light or flash a green lamp, and in addition shall make by international Morse code the letter group forming its call sign.

(2) Permission to land will be given by the repetition of the same call sign from the ground followed by a green Very's light or the flashing of a green lamp.

(3) The firing of a red Very's light or the display of a red flare from the ground shall be taken as an instruction that aircraft are not to land.

(4) An aircraft compelled to land at night shall, before landing, fire a red Very's light, or make a series of short flashes with the navigation lights.

47. When an aircraft is in distress and requires assistance, the following signals shall be used or displayed, either together or separately, namely :—

Aircraft in distress

- (1) the international signal, S.O.S., by means of visual or wireless signals ;
- (2) the international code flag signal of distress, indicated by NC ;
- (3) the distant signal consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball or anything resembling a ball ;
- (4) a continuous sounding with any sound apparatus ;
- (5) a signal consisting of a succession of white Very's lights, fired at short intervals.

48. In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rainstorm, whether by day or night, an aircraft on the water shall make the following sound signals with any sound apparatus, namely :—

Sound signals

- (a) If not anchored or moored, a sound at intervals of not more than two minutes, consisting of two blasts of about five seconds' duration, with an interval of about one second between them ;
- (b) If at anchor or moored, a sound at intervals of not more than one minute, consisting of one blast of about five seconds' duration.

Air traffic.

49. (1) Flying machines shall always give way to airships, and flying machines and airships shall always give way to balloons, whether fixed or free

General rules

(2) A motor-driven aircraft must always manoeuvre according to these rules as soon as it is apparent that, if it pursued its course, it would pass at a distance of less than two hundred yards from any part of another aircraft.

(3) When two motor-driven aircraft are meeting end on, or nearly end on, each shall alter its course to starboard.

(4) When two motor-driven aircraft are on courses which cross, the aircraft which has the other on its own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(5) An aircraft overtaking any other shall keep out of the way of the overtaken aircraft by altering its own course to starboard, and shall not pass by diving.

(6) Every aircraft coming up with another aircraft from any direction more than one hundred and ten degrees from ahead that is to say, in such a position with reference to the aircraft which it is overtaking that at night it would be unable to see either of that aircraft's sidelights, shall be deemed to be an overtaking aircraft ; and no subsequent alteration of the bearing between the two aircraft shall make the overtaking aircraft a crossing aircraft within the meaning of this rule, or relieve it of the duty of keeping clear of the overtaken aircraft until it is finally past and clear.

Explanation—As by day the overtaking aircraft cannot always know with certainty whether it is forward of or abaft this direction from the other aircraft, it should, if in doubt, assume that it is an overtaking aircraft and keep out of the way.

(7) Where under this rule one of two aircraft is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep its course and speed. When in consequence of thick weather or other causes, such other aircraft finds itself so close that collision cannot be avoided by the action alone of the aircraft giving way, it shall take such action as will best serve to avert collision.

(8) Every aircraft which is required by these rules to keep out of the way of another aircraft shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid crossing ahead of the other.

(9) In following an officially recognised aerial route, every aircraft, when it is safe and practicable, shall keep to the right side of such route.

(10) Aircraft on land or water about to ascend shall not attempt to take off until there is no risk of collision with alighting aircraft.

(11) Every aircraft in a cloud, fog, mist or other conditions of bad visibility, shall proceed with caution, careful regard being had to the existing circumstances and conditions.

(12) In obeying and construing the provisions of this rule, due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision and to any special circumstances which may render necessary a departure from the said provisions in order to avoid immediate danger.

(13) The dropping of ballast other than fine sand or water from aircraft in the air is prohibited.

50. (1) (a) At every approved aerodrome a flag hoisted in a prominent position shall be taken as an indication that, if an aircraft about to land finds it necessary to make a circuit or partial circuit, such circuit shall be left-handed (anti-clockwise) or right-handed (clockwise) according to the colour of the flag. A blue flag shall indicate a right-handed circuit, that is to say, that the flag is kept to the starboard side or side which carries the green light of the aircraft, and a red flag shall indicate a left-handed circuit, that is to say, that the red flag is kept to the port side or side which carries the red light of the aircraft.

(b) Similarly, aircraft leaving an approved aerodrome shall conform to the circuit as indicated by the flag.

(2) When an aircraft starts from an approved aerodrome, it shall not turn until five hundred yards distant from the nearest point of the aerodrome, and the turning then made shall conform with the circuit indication.

(3) An aircraft flying between five hundred and one thousand yards distance from the nearest point of an approved aerodrome shall conform to the circuit indication, unless such aircraft is flying at a greater height than six thousand five hundred feet.

(4) Side slip and trick landings are prohibited at approved aerodromes, and trick flying is prohibited within a distance in any direction of at least two thousand yards from the nearest point of any such aerodrome.

(5) An aircraft, when taking off from or alighting on an approved aerodrome, shall do so up-wind, except when the natural conditions of the aerodrome do not permit.

(6) In the case of two or more aircraft approaching an approved aerodrome for the purpose of landing, the aircraft flying at the greater height shall be responsible for avoiding the aircraft at the lower height, and shall, as regards landing, comply with the provisions of sub-rule (5) of rule 49.

(7) Aircraft showing signals of distress shall be given free way in attempting to make a landing on an approved aerodrome.

(8) Every approved aerodrome shall be considered to consist of three zones when looking up-wind. The right-hand zone shall be the taking-off zone, and the left hand shall be the landing zone. Between these two there shall be a neutral zone. An aircraft when landing should attempt to land as near as possible to the neutral zone, but on the left of any aircraft which have already landed. After showing up or coming to a stop at the end of its landing run, an aircraft will immediately move into the neutral zone. Similarly, an aircraft when taking-off shall keep as far as possible towards the right of the taking-off zone, but shall keep clear to the left of any aircraft which are taking-off or are about to take-off.

(9) No aircraft shall commence to take-off until a preceding aircraft is clear of the aerodrome.

(10) The above rules shall apply equally to night landings on approved aerodromes, when the signals, if exhibited, shall be as follows, namely:—

(a) A red light shall indicate a left-hand circuit, and a green light shall indicate a right-handed circuit. The right-hand zone will be marked by a white lights placed in the position of an "L," and the left-hand zone will be similarly marked. The "L's" shall be back to back, that is to say, the long arms of the "L's" will indicate the borders of the neutral zone. The direction of landing shall invariably be along the long arm of the "L" and towards the short arm. The lights of the "L's" should be so placed that the lights indicating the top extremity of the long arm shall be the nearest point on the aerodrome upon which an aeroplane can safely touch ground. The lights indicating the short arm of the "L" should indicate the limit of safe landing ground for the aircraft, that is, that the aeroplane should not over-run the short arm.

(b) Where it is desired to save lights and personnel, the following system may be used :—

Two lights shall be placed on the windward side of the aerodrome to mark the limits of the neutral zone, the line joining the lights being at right angles to the direction of the wind; two more lights shall be placed as follows, namely, one on the leeward side of the aerodrome on a line drawn parallel to the direction of the wind and passing midway between the two lights on the windward side, for showing the extent of the aerodrome and the direction of the wind; and the other midway between the two lights marking the limits of the neutral zone.

Additional lights may be symmetrically placed along the boundary lines of the neutral zone and on the ends of the taking off and landing zones, on the line through the three lights on the windward side.

(11) No airship shall, in the vicinity of any aerodrome, be moored otherwise than near the ground without the special authorisation of the proprietor of such aerodrome.

51. Every aircraft manœuvring under its own power on the water shall conform to any regulation for the time being in force for preventing collisions at sea, and for the purposes of such regulations shall be deemed to be a steam-vessel, but shall carry lights as laid down in this Part, and those specified for steam-vessels in those regulations. The sound signals specified in those regulations shall not be used by or apply to such aircraft, save as provided in rules 47 and 48.

52. Mere compliance with the provisions of this Part shall not be deemed to exonerate the owner or personnel of any aircraft from the consequences of neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of the air or by the special circumstances of any particular case.

PART IX.

RULES AS TO AIRCRAFT ARRIVING IN OR DEPARTING FROM BRITISH INDIA.

Customs-aerodromes and Customs-officers

53. The Governor-General in Council may for the purposes of this Part—

(a) by notification in the Gazette of India declare any aerodrome to be a customs-aerodrome; and

(b) appoint persons to be Chief Customs-authorities, Chief Customs-officers and Customs-collectors, and define the areas within which each such person shall exercise the powers and perform the duties conferred and imposed upon him hereunder.

54. (1) Every person in charge of an aircraft entering British India shall cause it to be landed in British India, and the first such landing shall be made at a customs-aerodrome, unless the aircraft is compelled to land before arriving at a customs-aerodrome by accident, stress of weather or other unavoidable cause.

(2) No person in charge of an aircraft shall fly the same or allow it to be flown to a place outside British India save from a customs-aerodrome unless compelled to land after departure from a customs-aerodrome by accident, stress of weather or other unavoidable cause.

55. (1) No person in any aircraft entering or departing from British India shall carry or allow to be carried in the aircraft any goods of which the import or export by sea or by land is prohibited by or under any law for the time being in force.

(2) No person in any aircraft entering British India shall break or alter any seal placed upon any part of the aircraft or upon any goods therein by an officer of customs at the aerodrome at which such aircraft departed for British India.

55. (1) The person in charge of any aircraft arriving at a customs-aerodrome from a place outside British India shall, on landing, forthwith cause the aircraft to be taken to the examination station at that aerodrome or, if, owing to circumstances over which he has no control, he is unable so to do, shall make the report required by sub-rule (2), and thereafter remove all goods carried in the aircraft to the examination station in the presence of a Customs-collector or some person duly authorised by the Customs-collector in that behalf.

(2) Within twenty-four hours after the landing at any customs-aerodrome of an aircraft from a place outside British India, the person in charge thereof shall—

- (a) make a report to the Customs-collector in such form as may be approved by the Chief Customs-authority;
- (b) deliver to the Customs-collector with such report his log book and a manifest, list of passengers and their baggage and declaration of the goods and stores on board the aircraft signed by the proper officer of customs at the aerodrome from which he departed for British India; and
- (c) land at such aerodrome for examination all passengers and their baggage carried in such aircraft, and, after making such report, produce, and, if required to do so, unload all goods in such aircraft for examination.

57. (1) The person in charge of every aircraft in which goods are to be exported shall, before any goods are taken on board, deliver to the Customs-collector at the customs-aerodrome of departure a notice of departure for a foreign destination in Form P set out in Schedule VI, containing the particulars specified in that Form.

(2) Every person in charge of an aircraft proceeding to any place outside British India shall deliver to the Customs-collector at the customs-aerodrome of departure, together with any log books belonging to the aircraft and a list of passengers and their baggage an application in duplicate for clearance from that aerodrome in such form as may be approved by the Chief Customs-authority, and also, if the aircraft carries any goods, a manifest and declaration in a form approved in like manner declaring the goods and stores on such aircraft, and shall truly state therein the particulars required by such forms; and such forms, when signed by such Collector, shall be the clearance and authority for the aircraft to proceed to its foreign destination.

58. (1) No person importing goods shall land the goods at any place in British India other than a customs-aerodrome, or shall, save as provided in sub-rule (1) of rule 56, unload the goods from any aircraft except at an examination station, or shall unload the goods except between such hours as the Chief Customs-authority by general or special order directs, or shall remove the goods from an examination station unless the same have first been duly entered in the manner provided in this rule and produced to the Customs-collector and duly passed by him.

(2) No person shall remove from any aircraft any goods imported therein until the report required by clause (a) of sub-rule (2) of rule 56 has been made, and the authority of the Customs-collector has been obtained.

(3) Any person importing goods shall deliver to the Customs-collector at the customs-aerodrome of importation a bill of entry of such goods in the manner provided in section 29 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, and shall truly furnish therein the several particulars required in a bill of entry under that section, and shall pay to such Collector duties thereon as if such goods were chargeable to duties under that Act.

(4) All goods imported into a customs-aerodrome shall be duly entered and unloaded within seven days from the time of the arrival of such aircraft at that aerodrome or within such further period as the Customs-collector or Chief Customs-officer may allow.

(5) All goods imported which have not been examined and passed by the Customs-collector shall be stored in a transit shed at the customs-aerodrome, and no person shall remove such goods from the transit shed before they have been examined and passed by such Collector.

59. (1) The exporter of any goods shall deliver to the Customs-collector at the customs-aerodrome of departure a shipping bill in the manner provided in section 29 of the Procedure on export

III of 1878

Sea Customs Act, 1878, and shall truly furnish therein the several particulars required in a shipping bill under that section, and shall pay to such Collector duties thereon as if such goods were chargeable to duties under that Act, and such bill when signed by the Customs-collector shall be the clearance and authority for the exportation of such goods.

(2) No person shall without the consent of the Customs-collector unload from any aircraft any goods loaded thereon for export which have been cleared under sub-rule (1), or open, alter, or break any lock, mark or seal placed by any Customs-collector on any goods in any aircraft about to depart from British India.

60. No person shall for the purpose of evading, or assisting the evasion of, the provisions of this Part make any signal from an aircraft entering or leaving British India.

Prohibition of signals in certain cases

61. If any aircraft arriving from a place outside British India shall be forced to land in any place other than a customs-aerodrome, or if any aircraft is so forced after departure from a customs-aerodrome for a foreign destination, the person in charge of the aircraft shall, if the place of landing is not an aerodrome, forthwith report to a Customs-collector or Police-officer, and shall on demand produce to such Collector or officer the log books belonging to the aircraft, and shall not allow any goods to be unloaded therefrom without the consent of such Customs-collector, and no passenger or member of the personnel thereof shall leave the immediate vicinity without the consent of such Collector or Police-officer. When the locality is one in which no Customs-collector or Police-officer is available, the person in charge shall not allow any goods to be unloaded without his consent, and no passenger or member of the personnel shall leave the immediate vicinity without his consent. The person in charge shall make in his log book a full statement of the action taken, and shall forthwith report the occurrence to the Customs-collector at the nearest customs-aerodrome. If the place of landing is an aerodrome, such person shall forthwith report the arrival of the aircraft and the place whence it came to the proprietor of the aerodrome, and the proprietor of the aerodrome shall forthwith report the arrival of the aircraft to a Customs-collector, and shall not allow any goods to be unloaded therefrom or any passenger thereof to leave the aerodrome, without the consent of such Collector.

62. (1) The person in charge of any aircraft shall permit any Customs-collector or other officer authorised in this behalf by the Customs-collector at any time to board and examine the aircraft and any goods laden thereon.

Examination

(2) The importer or exporter of any goods shall produce such goods to the Customs-collector at the customs-aerodrome of importation or exportation, as the case may be, and permit him to examine such goods.

63. All persons importing or exporting or concerned in importing or exporting goods or passengers into or from British India, and all persons in charge of aircraft arriving in or departing from British India, shall so far as may be observed, comply with and be bound by the provisions of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, as if any references in such provisions to ships or vessels and the masters or captains thereof, and to the loading or unloading of goods thereon or therefrom, included references to aircraft and the persons in charge thereof, and to the loading or unloading of goods thereon or therefrom, and as if references in such provisions to a port or quay included references to a customs-aerodrome or an examination station.

Provisions of Act VIII of 1878 to be deemed to apply to import and export

I of 1878

64. Nothing in this Part, save the provisions of rule 55, shall apply in the case of aircraft.

Exemption of aircraft proceeding to or from Indian States

(a) entering British India from a State in India and not bound for a place outside India, or

(b) departing from British India for a State in India.

PART X.

GENERAL.

Inspection.

65. Any officer of Government authorised by the Governor-General in Council by general or special order in writing in this behalf may—

Inspection

- (a) at all reasonable times enter any place to which access is necessary for the purpose of exercising his powers or carrying out his duties under these rules;
- (b) at all times during working hours enter that portion of any factory in which aircraft or parts of aircraft are being manufactured or assembled and inspect and examine any such factory, aircraft or parts and any drawings relating to such parts;
- (c) enter, inspect and search any aircraft which he has reason to believe contains explosives, arms, ammunition, wireless telegraphic apparatus or goods which are being or have been imported or are being exported;
- (d) enter and inspect any place where aircraft are kept.

Foreign Aircraft.

Exemption of foreign aircraft

66. The provisions of these rules as to—

- (a) registration of aircraft,
- (b) licensing of personnel,
- (c) airworthiness, and
- (d) log books.

shall not apply in the case of any foreign aircraft during one month from the date of its arrival in British India:

Provided that—

(i) no person shall fly or land, or assist in flying or landing, any foreign naval, military or air-force aircraft over or in British India except on or with the invitation or permission in writing of the Governor General in Council, and in the case of any such aircraft landing on such invitation or with such permission the exemption provided by this rule shall apply only to such extent and on such conditions as may be specified in the invitation or permission; and

(ii) where any foreign aircraft, after first landing in British India, is flown over any part thereof except in such manner as may be necessary in order to proceed to a foreign destination, all the provisions of these rules shall apply in the case of such aircraft, unless there are carried in the aircraft and produced for inspection, as and when required by any officer specified in, or authorised under, rule 14, certificates and licences issued, and log books in the form approved, by a responsible authority in the country to which the aircraft belongs, complying substantially with the requirements of these rules.

Exemptions.

67. The Governor General in Council may by general or special order in writing exempt any aircraft or class of aircraft or any person or class of person from the operation of these rules either wholly or partially, subject to such conditions, if any, as may be specified in such order.

General power to exempt

Penalty.

68. Any person contravening any of the rules contained in Part II or any other of these rules with which by any rule contained in Part II he is required to comply, shall, where no punishment is provided for such contravention in the Indian Aircraft Act, 1911, be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to one month, or with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, or with both.

Penalty

SCHEDULE I.

(See rules 21, 22 and 23)

QUALIFICATIONS FOR GRANT OF MEDICAL CERTIFICATE.

- (a) Good personal and family history, with particular reference to nervous stability. Absence of any mental, moral or physical defect which will interfere with flying efficiency.
- (b) The minimum age for pilots and navigators of passenger or goods aircraft shall be nineteen years.
- (c) The applicant must neither suffer from any wound, injury or operation, nor possess any abnormality, congenital or otherwise, which will interfere with the efficient and safe handling of aircraft.
- (d) The applicant must not suffer from any disease or disability which renders him liable suddenly to become incompetent in the management of aircraft. His heart, lungs, kidneys and nervous system must be capable of withstanding the effects of altitude and of prolonged flight.
- (e) The applicant must possess a degree of visual acuity compatible with the efficient performance of his duties. No pilot or navigator shall have more than two dioptries of latent hypermetropia; muscle balance must be good and commensurate with the refraction. He must have a good field of vision in each eye, and must possess normal colour perception.
- (f) The middle ear must be healthy. The applicant must possess a degree of auditory acuity compatible with the efficient performance of his duties.
- (g) The vestibular mechanism must be intact, and neither unduly hypersensitive nor hyposensitive.
- (h) The applicant must possess free nasal air entry on either side, and not suffer from serious acute or chronic affections of the upper respiratory tract.

SCHEDULE II.

(See rule 21)

NATURE OF EXAMINATION TO BE UNDERGONE FOR THE GRANT TO AN APPLICANT FOR A PILOT'S LICENCE OF A CERTIFICATE OF FLYING COMPETENCY.

I.—For Flying Machine Licence

Certificates are of two kinds—

"A" of flying competency for pilots of private flying machines (not valid for the flying of passenger or goods aircraft);

"B" of flying competency for pilots of passenger or goods flying machines.

Certificates may be granted in each case by two examiners approved in that behalf by the officer authorised under rule 19.

PRACTICAL TESTS.

The practical tests for certificates of flying competency shall be carried out within a period of one month.

They may be carried out in any order and each may be attempted twice.

They shall, save as otherwise provided, be witnessed by both examiners who will forward their official reports to the officers authorised under rule 19.

In each practical test the candidate must be alone in the flying machine.

"A" certificate of flying competency for pilots of private flying machines.

(a) Test for altitude and gliding flight.—A flight without landing during which the pilot shall remain for at least an hour at a minimum altitude of 6,000 feet above the point of departure. The descent shall finish with a glide, the engines being cut off at 4,500 feet above the landing ground. The landing shall be made without the engine being started again, within 150 yards of a point fixed beforehand by the examiners.

(b) Test of skill.—A flight without landing round two posts (or buoys) situated 500 yards apart, making a series of five figure-of-eight turns, each turn, reaching one of the two posts (or buoys). This flight shall be made at an altitude of not more than 600 feet above the ground (or water) without touching the ground (or water). The landing shall be effected by—

(i) finally shutting off the engine or engines at least when the aircraft touches the ground (or water), and

(ii) finally stopping the flying machine within a distance of 50 yards from a point fixed by the candidate before starting.

(c) Cross-country flight.—A cross-country or oversea flight of at least 50 miles, the final landing being made at the point of departure.

“ B ” certificate of flying competency for pilots of passenger or goods flying machines.

The practical tests shall be as in clauses (a) and (b) above. Candidates already in possession of the “ A ” certificate are not required to pass these tests again.

Further practical tests shall be as follows :—

Test of endurance.—A cross-country or oversea flight of at least 200 miles, the final landing being made at the point of departure.

This flight shall be carried out in the same aircraft within eight hours, and include two obligatory landings during which the machine must come to rest at a point or points which shall not be the point of departure but which shall be fixed by the examiners.

At the time of departure the candidate shall be informed of his course and furnished with a map. The examiners will decide if the course has been correctly followed.

Night flight.—A thirty minutes' flight at an altitude of at least 1,500 feet and also a landing to be made between two hours after sunset and two hours before sunrise.

Recent flying experience test.—This is to be carried out on the type of machine for which the licence is required. It is to be a flying test of at least two hours with four landings in each of which no part of the machine is damaged.

This test need not be carried out in the presence of the examiners ; but the candidate must submit proof to their satisfaction that he has performed this test.

TECHNICAL EXAMINATION.

The technical examination for both “ A ” and “ B ” certificates shall be in the following subjects :—

Rules of the air as contained in Part VIII.

Theoretical abstract knowledge of the resistance of the air in connection with planes, rudders, elevators and propellers ; functions of the different parts of the machine and of their controls.

Assembling of aeroplanes propellers, undercarriages, rudders, elevators and their controls.

Practical tests on rigging.

General knowledge of internal combustion engines, and their various functions ; valve gear, carburation, ignition, exhaust.

Characteristics of aero-engines and a general idea of their construction, adjustment and assembling.

Causes of the faulty running of engines. Fuel and oils. Description of the details of the aero-engines used. Adjustments, lubrication, upkeep, disassembling and assembling of the principal parts. Causes of breakdown.

Use of throttle and other controls.

Practical tests in running repairs.

II.—For Airship Licence.

The examination for certificates of flying competency for pilots of airships shall be conducted in a similar manner to those for the flying machine licence with such modifications as may be permitted by the examiners under the directions of the officer authorised under rule 19.

The Technical Examination shall also include knowledge of the properties of gases and the theory of Ballooning.

SCHEDULE III.

(See rules 22 and 23.)

NATURE OF EXAMINATION TO BE UNDERGONE FOR GRANT TO AN APPLICANT FOR A NAVIGATOR'S OR ENGINEER'S LICENCE OF A CERTIFICATE OF TECHNICAL COMPETENCY.

Certificates may be granted in each case by an examiner approved in this behalf by the officer authorised under rule 19. The examination shall be in the following subjects :—

For Navigators.

Rules of the air as contained in Part VIII.

Map and chart reading and location of position.

Compass—magnetic meridian—declination, deviation, variation.

Courses—bearings—and their corrections.

Compensation of compasses (theoretical and practical).

Calculations of azimuth.

Flight by dead reckoning—measure of the relative speed—drift, traverse table.

Chronometer—chronometer rate—comparisons.

Sextants—adjustments.

Nautical almanac.

Determination of positions by means of bearings and altitudes of stars.

Aeronautical navigational instruments.

Meteorology and weather charts.

International rules for aerial and maritime navigation and other international aerial legislation.

For Engineers.

Rules of the air as contained in Part VIII.

General knowledge of internal combustion engines and their various functions ; valve gear, carburation, ignition, exhaust.

Characteristics of aero-engines and a general idea of their construction, adjustment and assembling.

Causes of the faulty running of engines. Fuel and oils. Description of the details of the aero-engines used. Adjustments, lubrication, upkeep, disassembling and assembling of the principal parts. Causes of breakdown. Use of throttle and other controls.

Practical tests in running repairs.

SCHEDULE IV.

(See rules 27 and 28.)

CONDITIONS SUBJECT TO WHICH CERTIFICATES OF AIRWORTHINESS MAY BE ISSUED IN RESPECT OF TYPE AIRCRAFT AND TO SUBSEQUENT AIRCRAFT OF THE SAME TYPE.

Type Aircraft.

(1) The applicant shall forward with his application a copy of any certificate of airworthiness which may have been granted in respect of such type aircraft.

The applicant shall also send general arrangement drawings of the proposed aircraft, together with such particulars of load, fuel, engines, etc., as will enable a preliminary opinion to be formed as to general safety.

(2) The applicant shall forward either with the application or subsequently such drawings and particulars of the proposed aircraft as may be necessary for the checking in detail of the safety of the aircraft. (Blue prints or rough sketches may be sufficient to enable the said checking to proceed, provided they are fully dimensioned.)

(3) The applicant may proceed with the construction of any part or parts of the aircraft as and when these are approved by the officer authorised under sub-rule (1) of rule 27 (in this Schedule referred to as the Officer).

(4) The workmanship and materials of construction of the aircraft shall be approved by the Officer in accordance with detailed directions in clause (17) of this Schedule.

(5) On completion of the aircraft, flying trials shall be carried out by the applicant's or constructor's pilot in the presence of the Officer or persons nominated by him (in this Schedule referred to as the representatives of the Officer).

(6) After the satisfactory completion of the check calculations, inspection, and applicant's flying trials, and after any modifications considered necessary for safety have been completed to the satisfaction of the Officer, the applicant may be instructed to deliver the aircraft for official trials to such aerodrome as the Officer may specify (in this Schedule referred to as the official aerodrome).

(7) At any time prior to the delivery of the aircraft for official trials, modifications to the aircraft may be made by the applicant, provided that full particulars and drawings of the proposed modifications are first submitted to the Officer and that such as affect the safety of the aircraft are approved by him.

(8) During official trials, which may be attended by such number of representatives of the applicant as the Officer may approve, the aircraft will be in the charge of the representatives of the Officer, but the Officer and his representatives shall not be liable for any loss or damage caused to such aircraft during official trials.

(9) If any modifications are considered by the Officer to be necessary for safety as a result of such official trials, such modifications shall be carried out by the applicant, and on completion thereof the aircraft shall be delivered, if required, for further official trials.

(10) On the completion of official trials, the applicant will be notified, and reports on calculations and tests will be supplied to him by the Officer on application. The aircraft will, as the Officer may direct, either be handed over to the applicant at the official aerodrome for removal, or be delivered by an official pilot to an aerodrome selected by the applicant and approved by the Officer.

(11) On the satisfactory completion of the official trials, and after the completion to the satisfaction of the Officer of any modifications considered necessary for safety, a certificate of airworthiness will be issued. Prior to the issue of such certificate the applicant shall deliver to the Officer a complete set of working drawings (process tracings) of the aircraft.

Subsequent Aircraft.

(12) Following the receipt by the Officer of an application form duly completed, certificates of airworthiness for subsequent aircraft which conform in all essential respects with a type aircraft for which a certificate of airworthiness has previously been issued will be granted subject to the conditions and procedure hereinafter specified.

(13) The applicant may make modifications (including change of engine type) to the aircraft and may depart from the approved complete set of working drawings (process tracings) of the type aircraft which were delivered under clause (11) of this Schedule; but full particulars and drawings of the proposed modification shall first be delivered to the Officer and such as affect the safety of the aircraft shall be subject to his approval.

(14) During the construction of the aircraft the inspection of the workmanship, construction and materials shall be as approved by the Officer in accordance with the detailed directions in clause (18) of this Schedule.

(15) In the case of an aircraft which, in the opinion of the Officer, differs considerably from the type aircraft, or in the case of an aircraft built by a constructor not familiar with the type aircraft, the Officer may on completion of the aircraft require flying trials to be carried out by the applicants or constructor's pilot in the presence of representatives of the Officer, and may require the aircraft to be delivered to the official aerodrome for additional trials. The procedure in this case will be in accordance with the procedure governing similar trials in the case of a type aircraft, as laid down in clauses (8), (9) and (10) of this Schedule.

(16) On the satisfactory completion of the aircraft and of any trials that may be required by the Officer, and when any modifications considered necessary for safety have been completed to the satisfaction of the Officer, a certificate of airworthiness will be issued.

Prior to the issue of such certificate, the applicant shall deliver to the Officer a complete set of working drawings (process tracing) of any modifications to or departure from the type aircraft.

Method of Approval of Workmanship and Materials.

(17) In the case of type aircraft—

- (a) inspection of workmanship and materials will be carried out by representatives of the officer.
- (b) the officer will accept wherever in his opinion possible the inspection of details, components and materials for type aircraft made by employes of the constructor under the supervision of a representative of such constructor, but each component will be finally inspected and approved by a representative of the Officer, who will co-operate with the constructor's inspecting staff;
- (c) constructors must notify the Officer seven days before commencing work on any part of the aircraft, the inspection of which is necessary prior to further work;
- (d) the constructor must also fulfil the conditions detailed hereunder for subsequent aircraft.

(18) In the case of subsequent aircraft of a type—

- (a) constructors must satisfy the Officer that their inspecting staff is such as to ensure that aircraft passed by them conform in all essential respects to the type design;
- (b) constructors must purchase material to the specifications approved for the type design, and must arrange that each and every batch of material is proved to comply with those specifications by such examination, sampling and testing, as may be approved by the Officer;
- (c) constructors must make such arrangements at their works as will preclude the use of material other than that approved as in sub-clause (b);
- (d) constructors' inspecting staffs, referred to in sub-clause (a), must stamp, or otherwise provide means for the identification of, each and every detail in such a way that the individual responsible for such approval can subsequently be traced, selective inspection being adopted where considered possible;
- (e) constructors must issue only details or parts in respect of which the provisions of sub-clause (d) have been complied with to the shops for assembly into components;
- (f) constructors must maintain an efficient process inspection during such work of assembly and record such inspection on a process card for each component. Every component must be finally inspected by a qualified member of their inspecting staff, who will stamp the component in such a way that it may afterwards be identified and will also sign the process card;
- (g) constructor's methods of carrying out the following operations must be approved by the officer or his representative, namely:— heat treatment of steel, seasoning and conversion of timber, glueing of important parts, and doping;
- (h) constructors must ensure that all instruments and other parts affecting airworthiness purchased from sub-contractors have been inspected and approved in accordance with these conditions;

- (e) constructors (of aircraft or engine as may be arranged) must ensure that all engines have been inspected and approved in accordance with these conditions, and further that they have satisfactorily undergone such bench tests as are required by the Officer and for this purpose that suitable test stands and accessories are provided to the satisfaction of the Officer
- (f) aircraft constructors must carry out an efficient inspection of the installation of all engines, instruments and parts that are fitted by them into the aircraft, such inspection to ensure that they function correctly, the individual responsible being indicated by a signature on the process card referred to in sub-clause (f);
- (k) contractors must limit the power of their inspection staff to grant concessions to matters which do not affect the weight, the strength or the functioning of the part. Should any of these points be affected, the matter must be referred to the designer of the aircraft, and, if affecting the type design, to the Officer, as laid down in the case of modifications to type designs.

Aircraft constructed outside British India.

(19) In the case of any type or subsequent aircraft constructed outside British India the Officer may in his discretion issue a certificate of airworthiness, although the conditions specified in this Schedule have not been fulfilled, if he is satisfied that they have been substantially fulfilled in the construction of the aircraft

SCHEDULE V.

(See rule 35)

Instructions for maintenance of Log Books.

(1) The constructor, or the owner if the constructor is not in a position to do so, should fill in and sign the original entries in each log book. Subsequent entries should be made and signed by the pilot or other responsible member of the personnel.

(2) A copy of the certificate of airworthiness should be kept in a pocket at the end of the aircraft log book.

(3) All entries should be in ink, except in the case of journey and signal log books, the entries for which may be made in pencil in a rough notebook, but should be entered in ink in the log book every twenty-four hours.

In the event of any official investigation the rough notebook may be called for.

(4) No erasures should be made in, nor pages torn from, any log book.

(5) A copy of this Schedule should be inserted in each log book.

(6) The various log books shall contain in each case the following particulars namely :—

(1) in the case of a journey log,—

(a) the type to which the aircraft belongs; its nationality and registration marks; the full name, nationality and residence of the owner; the name of the constructor; the carrying capacity; and

(b) in addition, for each journey,

(i) the name, nationality and residence of each member of the personnel, and

(ii) the place, date and hour of departure, the route followed and all incidents of the journey, including landings and weather conditions;

(2) in the case of an aircraft log,—

(a) the type to which the aircraft belongs; its nationality and registration marks; the full name, nationality and residence of the owner; the name of the constructor; the carrying capacity; and the capacity of the tanks;

(b) the type and series number of engine, and the type of propeller, showing number, pitch, diameter and maker's name;

- (c) the type of wireless apparatus fitted, if any ;
- (d) a table showing the necessary rigging data for the information of persons in charge of the aircraft and of its maintenance ; and
- (e) a fully detailed engineering record of the life of the aircraft, including all acceptance tests, overhauls, replacements, repairs and all works of a like nature ;
- (3) in the case of an engine log,—
- (a) the type of engine, series number, maker's name, power, normal and maximum revolutions of engine, date of acceptance and date on which first put into service ; petrol consumption ; oil consumption ;
- (b) the registration mark and the type of aircraft in which the engine has been installed ; and

SAMPLES.

An Open General Licence has been issued which permits the free export of all bona-fide samples of prohibited goods to all destinations with which trade is now permitted. Samples exported under this licence may be used only for genuine sample purposes, i.e., for obtaining orders from foreign buyers, and may not be sold except with the written consent of the Export Licence Department, but such consent may be dispensed with when it is desired to sell the articles in the country of destination after they have fulfilled their purpose as samples. Exporters will be required to satisfy the Customs Authorities that the goods presented for export under this licence are bona-fide samples. Exporters will be required to satisfy the Customs Authorities that the goods presented for export under this licence are bona-fide samples, and to make a declaration to that effect on the relative shipping documents.

This notice only applies to samples of goods which require licences for export to the particular destination concerned.

In addition, the consent of the Export Licence Department is not required for the sale of samples which, though within this scheme at the actual time they were exported, could be exported outside the scheme at the actual time of the proposed sale.

OPEN GENERAL LICENCE FOR COAL EXPORTS.

An Open General Licence has been issued, with effect from Thursday, 1st January, 1920, permitting the export of coal, coke and manufactured fuel to all destinations abroad except Russia, Germany, Hungary, Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria, subject always to the approval, previously obtained, of the Controller of Coal Mines or his duly authorised representative, and subject to shipment being made in a vessel approved by the Commissioners of Customs and Excise or their Officers.

The Customs Authorities will require pre-entry to be made in all cases; and at ports where there is a duly authorised local representative of the Controller of Coal Mines (see list below), the approval referred to above will be signified by his endorsement on the pre-entry form, which must be presented to him for the purpose before shipment.

Where shipment is proposed to be made from a port not included in the list given below it will be necessary for application for the Controller's approval to be made to the Export Branch of the Coal Mines Department in London. Shipments from all ports in the United Kingdom to the destinations excluded from the purview of the general licence must still be covered by an export licence from the Coal Mines Department.

The following are the ports shipments from which will be covered by the local representative's endorsement on pre-entry:—

District	Controller's Representatives.
All Scottish ports ...	Mr. W. D. Fuller, 4, Dunlop Street, Glasgow.
From Amble to Middlesbrough inclusive ...	Mr. W. R. Fisher, Guildhall Chambers, Quayside, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Mersey ports ...	Mr. J. Melrandi, Dock Board Offices, Liverpool.

OPEN GENERAL LICENCE FOR THE EXPORT OF INDUSTRIAL EXPLOSIVES, SMOOTH-BORE GUNS, AND MUNITIONS FOR USE THEREWITH.

An Open General Licence has been issued for the export of industrial explosives, smooth-bore guns, and munitions for use therewith, to the destinations given below, to which, therefore, exports may be made subject to the usual Customs formalities without applications for specific licences to the Export Licence Department :—

British Possessions and Protectorates (see note below).
French Possessions and Protectorates (see note below).
United States of America.
South America.
Japan and Korea.
Asiatic Russia.
France, Belgium, Spain, Portugal, Greece, Italy, Serbia, Roumania, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, and Switzerland.

All destinations in Africa, with the exception of Algeria, Libya, and the Union of South Africa, are excepted from this Open General Licence, and will still require an export licence for all arms and ammunition.

OPEN GENERAL LICENCE FOR THE EXPORT OF AIRCRAFT, &c.

An Open General Licence has been issued for the export of the undermentioned goods to all destinations except Russia, Germany, Hungary, Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria. Applications are no longer to be made to the Export Licence Department in respect of the export of these goods to countries other than those mentioned :—“Aeroplane engines and their component parts. Aircraft, other than balloons of all kinds, and their component parts, together with accessories and articles suitable for use in connection with aircraft.”

OPEN GENERAL LICENCE FOR THE EXPORT OF PARCELS CONTAINING MISCELLANEOUS FOODSTUFFS.

An Open General Licence has been issued for the export by parcel post of parcels containing miscellaneous foodstuffs (for the personal use of the addressee and not for trading purposes) to all destinations with which trading is allowed. Applications need, therefore, no longer be submitted to the Export Licence Department in respect of the export of such parcels by parcel post.

URGENT ORDERS.

The Board of Trade, Import and Export Section announces that, in collaboration with the Department of Overseas Trade, an arrangement has been made whereby firms receiving orders which require immediate acceptance may telegraph details of and such order to the Department of Overseas Trade in order to ascertain whether a licence will be granted for the export of the goods if the order is accepted.

In the event of an applicant being promised a licence he will be enabled to deal with the order straightaway with the knowledge that upon application being made in the proper form to the Export Licence Department the licence will be granted.

The telegrams should be addressed to "Orders, c/o Advantage, Stock, London." They should give in each case in addition to the name and postal or telegraphic address of the applicant the quantity and description of the goods comprised in the order and the name and address of the ultimate consignee if the goods are destined for a neutral country. In the case of orders from Allied or British Territory or from Territory in the occupation of troops of the Associated Governments, the consignee need not be stated; and it will be sufficient merely to give the country of destination. A reply of 24 words (1s. 3d.) must be prepaid.

Applicants are requested in their own interest to confine their enquiries to orders needing a very urgent decision, since the fewer the enquiries the more promptly can answers be given.

Any subsequent correspondence that is necessary in connection with the telegraphic enquiries should be addressed to the Comptroller General, Department of Overseas Trade (Export Facilities Section), 4, Queen Anne's Gate Buildings, Westminster, S. W. 1.

TRANSHIPMENT IN THE UNITED KINGDOM.

PAPER CURRENCY.

Delhi, the 2nd February 1920.

No. 369-F.—The following announcement by the Secretary of State regarding the recommendations of the Indian Currency Committee, is published for general information :—

"The Secretary of State for India has considered in consultation with the Government of India the majority and minority reports received from the Committee appointed by him under the Chairmanship of Sir Henry Babington Smith to advise on the subject of Indian exchange and currency. The majority report, which is signed by the Chairman and all members of committee except Mr. D. M. Dalal, states as its object the restoration of a stable and automatic system and the maintenance of the convertibility of the note issue.

2. The fundamental recommendations of report are as follows :—

- (a) that the present rupee, unchanged in weight and fineness, should remain unlimited legal tender;
- (b) that the rupee should have a fixed exchange value and that this exchange value should be expressed in terms of gold at the rate of one rupee for 11·30016 grains of fine gold, that is, one-tenth of the gold contents of the sovereign;
- (c) that the sovereign which is now rated by law at rupees 15 should be made legal tender in India at the revised ratio of rupees ten to one sovereign;

- (d) that the import and export of gold to and from India should be free from Government control as soon as the change in the statutory ratio has been effected, and that the gold mint at Bombay should be open for the coinage into sovereigns of gold tendered by public;
- (e) that the notification of Government undertaking to give rupees for sovereigns should be withdrawn;
- (f) that the prohibition on the private import and export of silver should be removed in due course and that the import duty on silver should be repealed unless the fiscal position demands its retention.

3. These recommendations develop with the necessary modifications required by altered circumstances the principles on which the Indian currency system was established before the war, and are accepted by the Secretary of State in Council as expressing the goal towards which Indian administration, following the previous policy, should now be directed.

4. Under the conditions existing prior to the war sterling and gold were identical standards. The existing disparity has made a choice between these standards necessary, and the Committee's recommendation is in favour of placing the rupee on a gold basis.

5. In recommending a rate, namely that above mentioned, for the exchange value of the rupee the Chairman and majority have taken account of the high range of silver prices and of the importance of safeguarding the convertibility of the Indian note issue by providing so far as possible that the token character of the rupee shall be restored and maintained, i.e., that the Indian Government may be in a position to buy silver for coinage into rupees without loss. They were also impressed by the serious economic and political risks attendant on a further expansion of Indian prices such as must be anticipated from the adoption of a low rate.

6. The arguments advanced in favour of a gold basis and of a high rate of exchange appear to the Secretary of State in Council to be conclusive, and he has decided to take the necessary steps to give immediate effect to the recommendations on these points. Accordingly, the Government of India have to-day announced that the rate which they will pay for gold tendered to them under the Gold Import Act by private importers will henceforth be fixed at one rupee for 11·30016 grains of fine gold, i.e., Rs. 10 for the gold contents of the sovereign. The consequential changes in the regulations relating to the sale of Council drafts by the Secretary of State in Council and of reverse drafts by the Government of India will be notified separately.

7. The question of the internal ratio presents special difficulties. The Committee recommend the maintenance of gold on a legal tender footing especially in view of possible difficulties in obtaining adequate supplies of silver. A fixed ratio must, therefore, be established between the rupee and gold, as used in the internal circulation, either one sovereign for Rs. 15 as at present or one sovereign for Rs. 10 in correspondence with new exchange ratio. The former alternative would give the sovereign the status of an over-valued token coin, necessitating permanent control over the import of sovereigns and making an open gold mint impossible. The Secretary of State in Council agrees with the Committee that such conditions ought not to be contemplated as a permanent arrangement. On the other hand, the lower ratio cannot be effectively introduced while a great disparity continues to exist between the commercial price of gold in India and the intended Indian mint par of one sovereign for Rs. 10.

8. Present conditions are a product of the war and in some sense artificial. They cannot be immediately remedied without the risk of shock to the economic and monetary system in India, and of reaction elsewhere to which India cannot in her own interests be indifferent; a gradual process of rectification and of adjustment to new conditions is required. For some time past action has been taken in India to reduce the premium on gold by regular Government sales of bullion to the public, and this measure will be further developed. It may be expected that in that way a natural adjustment may be effected until the path to legislation is cleared.

9. The Secretary of State has decided, therefore, first, that the import of gold shall continue for the present to be controlled by license under the Gold

Import Act, with a fixed acquisition rate as mentioned above: second, that meanwhile, periodical sales of gold bullion to the public shall continue; and third, that as a provisional measure during the transition period sovereigns shall remain legal tender at the present ratio of Rs. 15.

10. In arriving at these decisions the Secretary of State in Council has not failed to give careful consideration to the minority report signed by Mr. D. M. Dalal. Mr. Dalal's main object is the effective restoration and maintenance of the ratio of 15 rupees to a sovereign as a measure both of exchange and of the circulating value of the rupee. In order to secure this he relies upon freedom for the melting and export of rupees and correspondingly to freedom for the import of gold. To meet the possible result in shortage of silver coins he recommends that as long as the New York price of silver remains above 92 cents Government should coin two rupee silver coins of reduced fineness, the coinage of rupees of the present weight and fineness being meanwhile suspended, and only resumed when the price of silver falls to the figure named. He also recommends that sterling drafts on the Secretary of State should be sold only at 1s. 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ d.

11. The Secretary of State in Council is satisfied that this programme could not be adopted without untoward consequences. The heavy exports of silver coin to be anticipated under the scheme must threaten not only the whole silver circulation but also the Government reserves of silver coin, and entail the gravest risk of inconvertibility of the Government note issue. The demand for the gold required continually to make this deficiency good must greatly aggravate any strain there may be on the gold stock of the world when the freedom of import is restored. Nor is it safe to assume that these difficulties could be met by issuing new silver coins of inferior fineness; the evidence against the acceptability of an inferior substitute for the present rupee has impressed the majority, and their recommendation on this head is accepted by the Secretary of State as decisive. Mr. Dalal's recommendation in regard to the rate for sterling drafts, if adopted, must produce an immediate crash in exchange bringing unmerited disaster to those who have reasonably relied on some continuity of policy. The only cover which his scheme affords is the export of the country's circulating currency. In any case, even if a return to the pre-war level of exchange could be accomplished without a shock to trade or risk to the Currency system, it would lay India open to a further serious inflation of prices, while the majority's recommendation would tend towards a reduction of general price levels in India.

12. Both during and since the war Indian currency and exchange have presented problems previously unanticipated and more perplexing than any encountered since the decision to close the mints in 1893. But the Secretary of State in Council is satisfied that the decisions reached promise an eventual solution, and he desires to express his acknowledgments to the Committee and their Chairman for the ability and thoroughness with which they have explored the issues and have framed their recommendations."

RESOLUTION.

(MINERAL RESOURCES).

The Government of India have, for some time, had under consideration the question of devising means for reducing the large avoidable waste of coal known to occur at the Raniganj and Jharia coalfields, and due mainly to deficient methods of extraction, resulting in the total loss of a large amount of coal, to inefficiency in the generation and use of power, and to extravagant methods of coke-making. After consultation with the Governments of Bengal and Bihar and Orissa, the Indian Mining Association and the Indian Mining Federation, the Government of India decided, as a preliminary measure, to engage the services of a recognized authority on modern methods of extraction, with instructions to visit the coalfields and advise on the best means of securing greater economy in the production and consumption of coal, and to submit a report which might be placed before a Committee to be appointed in this country for consideration. For this purpose the Government of India secured the services of Mr. R. I. Trehearne Rees, a partner in the well-known firm of Messrs. Forster, Brown and Rees of London and Cardiff. Mr. Rees visited the Raniganj and Jharia fields and prepared a report which reached the Government of India in August last.

The principal recommendations of Mr. Trehearne Rees relate to the appointment of an inspecting and controlling authority for the supervision of the terms of leases, more efficient methods of coal extraction, including rotation of working and hydraulic stowage, the improvement of the conditions of colliery labour, the more economic use of power and more general employment of electricity, the improvement of methods of coke-making, the introduction of coal-mixing, the handling and despatch of coal, more extended employment of screening, and the possibilities of the manufacture of briquettes.

The Government of India have now appointed the following Committee to consider Mr. Rees' report :—

THE HON'BLE MR. B. FOLEY, I.C.S., Commissioner of the Chota Nagpur Division	} Chairman.
RAJA BAN BIHARI KAPOOR BAHADUR, C.S.I., Zamindar of Burdwan
MR. G. F. ADAMS, C.B.E., M.I.C.E., Chief Inspector of Mines in India	} Members.
MR. R. G. M. BATHGATE of Messrs. Jardine Skinner & Co.
MR. R. W. CHURCH, Mining Engineer to the Railway Board
MR. H. H. HAYDEN, C.S.I., D.S.C., F.R.S., Director, Geological Survey of India
THE HON'BLE MR. J. H. PATTINSON, nominated by the Indian Mining Association
MR. N. C. SIRCAR, nominated by the Indian Mining Federation
MR. L. B. BURBOWS, Deputy Collector, Bengal	Secretary.

The terms of reference are :—

To consider the recommendations, relating to the Raniganj and Jharia coalfields, made in Mr. Trehearne Rees' report, to report the action which it is possible and expedient to take in connection therewith, and, if legislation is involved, to consider the lines on which such legislation should be framed.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the resolution be forwarded to the Governments of Bengal and Bihar and Orissa, the Chairman, Members and Secretary of the Committee, the Indian Mining Association, the Indian Mining Federation and the Railway Board.

Ordered also that the resolution be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India for general information.

A. H. LEY,

Secretary to the Govt. of India.

SPECIAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Delhi, the 6th February 1920.

No 266.—The following is republished for general information :—

No. 17406, dated Delhi, the 31st December 1919.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Army Department.

On the departure from India of the Units of the Territorial Force which have garrisoned the country during the past five years, the Governor-General in Council desires to place on record his high appreciation of the services which these Units have rendered to the Empire since the commencement of the Great War.

Previous to the outbreak of hostilities in 1914, many of the officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers of these Units had, by joining the Territorial Force, given proof of that patriotism and public spirit which has earned for its members the gratitude and esteem of their fellow countrymen.

On the declaration of war, the ranks of the Force were quickly filled by eager volunteers. When called upon to undertake the further obligation of service overseas, the response of all ranks was immediate and unanimous, thereby setting free for service in the main theatres of war a large number of Regular Units whose presence in Europe was urgently required.

The Governor-General sympathises in the disappointment of the officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers of those Units of the Territorial Force whose lot it has been to serve in India during the war and who have thus been denied the opportunity of meeting the enemy on the battlefields of Europe. He is glad, however, that many of these Units have earned distinction in other fields, some in Mesopotamia, Egypt and Palestine, others at Aden and on the North-West Frontier, while others again, less fortunate, have, in the faithful performance of garrison duties, rendered no less valuable service to the Empire by the maintenance of internal security, thereby enabling India to devote her resources to the successful prosecution of the war.

In carrying out these various duties, all ranks have displayed soldierly qualities of the highest order and, by their efficiency, discipline and exemplary conduct, have won the respect and gratitude not only of their comrades of the Regular Army, both British and Indian, but of the people of India as a whole.

After the signing of the armistice in 1918 and the cessation of hostilities on the principal fronts, all ranks of the Territorial Force serving overseas looked forward to their early repatriation and release from military service. Owing to the uncertainty of the situation and the difficulty of providing reliefs, due to the reorganisation of the Regular Army and reversion to a voluntary system of recruitment, the progress of demobilisation was unavoidably delayed. These delays were prolonged in consequence of the shortage of shipping and the unexpected situation created in the spring of 1919 by the sudden incursion of Afghan troops into British Territory, concurrently with the outbreak of internal disturbances, which, for the moment, made it impossible to reduce the strength of the British troops in India.

The patience with which these disappointments were borne was highly creditable to all concerned and showed how readily they appreciated the difficulties with which the Government of India were faced.

The Governor-General in Council desires to express to all ranks of the (here enter name of unit) thanks of the Government of India for their patriotic services, which will long be remembered and will serve as a noble and enduring example of good citizenship to future generations.

ORDER.

Ordered that a copy of the foregoing Resolution be communicated to every Unit of the Territorial Force which served in India during the period of the Great War, 1914-19. Ordered also, that the Resolution be published in the Gazette of India.

Advertisement of Sale.

NOTICE is hereby given that the undermentioned plots of land no longer required by Government situated along the Ranaghat-Khulna Eastern Bengal Railway, in the district of Jessore, will be put up to sale at 12-30 o'clock on Friday, the 9th of April 1920, corresponding with the 27th Chaitra, 1326 B. S., at Bongaon subdivisional office.

The purchasers of the several plots will be subject to the following conditions:—

- 1st—The purchasers will have no power to make any excavation on the land nearer than fifteen feet from the railway boundary or to plough the land nearer than three feet from the same.
- 2nd—If the amount of purchase-money does not exceed Rs. 100, the whole amount must be paid down at once.
- 3rd—If the amount of purchase-money exceed Rs. 100, one-fourth of the amount must be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale reckoning the date of sale as one, or if that day be a close holiday then by noon of the first succeeding office day, the sale shall be cancelled, the sum deposited being forfeited to Government and the lot again put up for sale at the risk of the defaulting purchaser after issue of advertisement as in the case of original sale.
- 4th—The plots of land will be sold revenue free to the highest bidders.
- 5th—The purchasers shall be put in possession on receipt by the Collector of the orders of the Commissioner confirming the sale.

THE SEERAMPORE-BALLY ELECTRIC LICENCE, 1920.

AN application for the grant of a licence under the Indian Electricity Act, 1910, to supply electrical energy to the area described in the draft licence set forth below has been submitted to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Public Works Department by Messrs Nursing Sahay Mudun Gopal, at No. 12, Portuguese Church Street, Calcutta.

The latest date on which representatives in regard to this application will be received, will be the 30th of April 1920.

The following is a copy of the draft licence :—

DRAFT LICENCE.

Signature of applicant,—(Sd.) Nursing Sahay Mudun Gopal.

Address of applicant,—12, Portuguese Church Street, Calcutta.

Licence for the supply of energy granted by the Government of Bengal under the Indian Electricity Act, 1910.

Licensee is hereby granted to Babus Jannunadas, Gokuldas, Girdhardas, Gwalidas, carrying on business in partnership under the name and style of Nursing Sahay Mudun Gopal to supply electric energy in the area with the powers and upon the terms and conditions all specified below :—

Short Title.

1. This licence may be cited as "The Seerampore-Bally Electric Licence, 1920."

Interpretation.

2. The several words, terms, and expressions to which by the Indian Electricity Act 1910, or by the rules thereunder meanings are assigned, shall have in this licence the same respective meanings, provided that in this licence :—

(1) The Act shall mean the Indian Electricity Act, 1910.

(2) The expression "The Licensees" shall mean and include the said Nursing Sahay Mudun Gopal and their permitted assigns and

(3) The expression "deposited Map" shall mean the plan of the area of supply hereinafter specified which has been deposited with Government in pursuance of the Rules under the Act, which plan is signed for the purpose of identification by the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Public Works Department and by the Applicants under the name and style of Nursing Sahay Mudun Gopal.

Security.

3. The period within which under clause 1(b) of the Schedule to the Act, the Licensees shall deposit or secure such sum as therein mentioned and the sum so to be deposited or secured shall, unless otherwise ordered by the Government under that clause, be three months after the notification of this Licence and Rs. 5,000 (Rupees Five thousand only) respectively.

Area of supply.

4. The area above referred to within which the supply of energy is authorized by this licence (the area of supply under the Act) is the whole of the area bounded as follows :—

North—By French Chaudernagore,

South—By Mali Panghara Lane, Jallapara Road,

East—By the Hooghly River.

West—By E. I. R. Line and by the Grand Trunk Road from the level crossing near Balidyabati Railway Station up to the junction of Charackdanga Lane, Chillakhana Road, Trenching Ground Road and again by E. I. R. Line.

The said area is shown bounded by a red line on the deposited Map.

5. Limits within which the supply of energy is to be compulsory.

(1) The works to be executed to the satisfaction of the Government under clause IV of the Schedule of the Act are all such Works, in the Public Streets, as per list appended within the Municipal boundaries of Seerampore, Bally and Uttarpara.

(2) If the Licensees fail to comply with the provision of sub-clause (1) the Licence may be revoked.

6. Limits of price to be charged in respect of the supply of energy.

The prices to be charged by the Licensees for energy supplied by them shall not exceed the following maximum, namely :—

Rs. 0-8-0 a Unit (1000 Watt-hours) combined Flat rate for Lights & Fans Rs. 0-2-6 a Unit (1000 Watt-hours) for Motors up to 4 H. P., & Rs. 0-3-6 a Unit (1000 Watt-hours) for Motors above 4 H. P.

Purchase of undertaking.

7. (1) The option of purchase given by section 7, sub-section (1) of the Act shall not be exercisable on the expiration of 50 years from the date of the notification of this Licence and on the expiration of every subsequent period of 20 years. The percentage of the value to be determined in accordance with and for the purpose of section 7 (1) of the Act of the lands, buildings, works, materials and plant of the Licensees then mentioned to be added under the second proviso of that sub-section to such value on account of compulsory purchase shall be 20 per cent.

(2) In accordance with section 3, sub-section (2), clause (d) (iv) of the Act, it is hereby declared that the generating station to be used in connection with the undertaking shall form part of the undertaking for the purpose of purchase under section 5 or section 7.

Every local authority, company or person desirous of making any representation with reference to the application to the Local Government may do so by letter addressed to the Secretary to the Local Government in the Public Works Department within three months of the date of issue of this newspaper containing the first advertisement.

who, while not on active service,—

- (p) disobeys the lawful command of his superior officer; or
- (q) plunders, destroys or damages any property of any kind; or
- (r) being a sentry, sleeps at his post or quits it without being regularly relieved or without leave; or
- (s) deserts or attempts to desert the service; or
- (t) neglects to obey any battalion or other orders, or commits any act or omission prejudicial to good order and discipline, such act or omission not constituting an offence under the Indian Penal Code or any other Act in force in Bengal, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, or with both.

Act XLV of 1860

Minor offences and punishments

8. (1) A District Magistrate or a Commandant, or, subject to the control of the Commandant, an Assistant Commandant, and, subject to the same control, an officer not below the rank of a Jamadar commanding a separate detachment or an outpost or in temporary command of the battalion at the head-quarters of a district during the absence of the District Magistrate, Commandant and Assistant Commandant, may, without a formal trial, award to any bugler or sipahi who is subject to his authority, any of the following punishments for the commission of any petty offence against discipline, which is not otherwise provided for in this Act, or which is not of a sufficiently serious nature to call for a prosecution before a Criminal Court, that is to say—

Act 1912, 8

- (a) imprisonment to the extent of seven days in the quarter-guard or such other place as may be considered suitable, with forfeiture of pay and allowances during its continuance;
- (b) punishment drill, extra guard, fatigue or other duty, not exceeding thirty days in duration, with or without confinement to lines;
- (c) forfeiture of pay and allowances for a period not exceeding one month.

(2) Any of these punishments may be awarded separately or in combination with any one or more of the others.

Manner of imprisonment.

9. Any rifleman sentenced under this Act to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months shall, when he is also dismissed from the police force, be imprisoned in the nearest or such other jail as the Local Government may, by general or special order, direct, but, when he is not also dismissed from that force, he may, if the convicting court or the District Magistrate so directs, be confined in the quarter-guard or such other place as the court or Magistrate may consider suitable.

Bill, 1920.*

(Clauses 10—12.)

Powers of Com-mandants and Assistant Com-mandants for inquiring into offences under this and other Acts.

10. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Police Act, 1861, or in any other enactment for the time being in force, the Local Government may invest any Commandant or Assistant Commandant with the powers of a Magistrate of any class for the purpose of inquiring into or trying any offence committed by a rifleman and punishable under the Police Act, 1861, or this Act, and any offence committed by a rifleman against the person or property of another rifleman and punishable under any section of the Indian Penal Code or of any other Act in force in Bengal.

THE SCHEDULE.

STATEMENT.

(See sections 3 and 4.)

After you have served for three years in the Eastern Frontier Rifles (Bengal Battalion), you may, at any time when not on active service, apply for your discharge, through the officer to whom you may be subordinate, to a Commandant of the battalion, or to the Magistrate of the district in which you may be serving: and you will be granted your discharge after two months from the date of your application, unless your discharge would cause the vacancies in the battalion to exceed one-tenth of the sanctioned strength; in that case you must remain until this objection is waived by competent authority or removed. But when on active service you have no claim to a discharge and you must remain and do your duty until the necessity for retaining you in the battalion ceases, when you may make your application in the manner hereinbefore prescribed. In the event of your re-enlistment after you have been discharged, you will have no claim to reckon for pension or any other purpose your service previous to your discharge.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final Report on the Cotton Crops of Bengal, 1919-20.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1917-18, the area under the Cotton Crops in Bengal has represented some 0·3 per cent. of the total area under Cotton in India).

The "early" crop is chiefly grown in the Chittagong Hill Tracts, in the State of Hill Tippera and, to a small extent, in other districts. The "late" crop is unimportant and is mainly grown in Bankura and Midnapore.

Character of the season.—Since the issue of the third forecast, the dry weather has been generally favourable to the late crop. The early crop which suffered considerably from excessive rain at the time of maturity has not fared well specially in the State of Hill Tippera, where the outturn is reported to have further decreased owing to bad effects of the rain in September and October. On the whole the season may be regarded as fair for the late crop but unfavourable for the early crop.

Area sown.—The total area sown with the early crop is returned at 66,693 acres and that with the late crop 2,159 acres against 70,786 and 2,203 acres, respectively, in the corresponding forecast of last year.

Outturn.—The estimated outturn of the early crop is returned at 23,613 bales this year against 30,908 bales in the corresponding forecast of last year. The outturn of the late crop is estimated at 999 bales this year against 737 bales for last year.

(b) For Nadia, Murshidabad, Jessore, Khulna, Burdwan, Birbhum, Hooghly, Bogra, Malda, Tippera and Noakhali.

* Conventional area.

(1) The weather has been favourable especially for the high lands. The date of harvesting of the early crop was normal.

(2) The condition of the crops has not been good owing to excessive rain.

(3) The weather has been generally fair and the condition of the crop is good.

(4) The weather and general condition of the crop have been fair, the date of harvesting was normal.

(5) Though unfavourable at the outset, the weather was favourable to the crop subsequently, but the rain in September and October proved to have a 'bad' effect on the output. The general condition is fair and the date of harvesting was normal.

(6) In Burdwan, the weather has not been favourable. Elsewhere it has been favourable and the present condition of the crops is fair. In Khulna, the plants have all been destroyed by the cyclone in September.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

APPORTIONMENT ORDER.

No. 998L.R.—The 10th February 1920.—Under section 114 of the Bengal Tenancy Act (Act VIII of 1885) the Governor in Council is pleased to direct that the cost of the survey and the preparation of a record-of-rights in respect of the lands comprised in estate Enayetpur mahal bearing tauzi No. 60 in the district of Malda undertaken under Government notification No. 1717T.R., dated the 4th November 1915, shall be borne by the landlords and tenants in the manner specified below:—

The balance of the total cost remaining after recovery has been made in the said manner shall be borne by the applicant at whose instance the proceedings were undertaken, and his co-sharers or their representatives in interest in addition to what may be payable by them according to this apportionment order as landlords.

1. A rate of fourteen annas shall be levied per acre of which raiyats and persons holding non-agricultural tenancies shall pay annas $4\frac{1}{2}$ per acre, and the landlords of all grades together including the proprietors annas $9\frac{1}{2}$ per acre according to the following rules.

2. Landlords shall pay the raiyats' share for lands in their khas possession and raiyats shall pay the full raiyati share for lands sublet as well as for those in their khas possession.

3. As between the different grades of landlords, the landlords' share shall be apportioned thus:—

- (a) Permanent tenureholders, whose rent or rate of rent is fixed in perpetuity, shall pay the whole of the landlords' share;
- (b) other permanent tenureholders and temporary tenureholders, whose lease has over fifteen years to run, shall pay three-fourths;
- (c) temporary tenureholders, whose lease has fifteen years to run, shall pay 15-16ths of the share they would pay in accordance with (b) above, if they were permanent tenureholders, and so on proportionately according to the number of years of the lease to run. The remainder shall be paid by their landlords;
- (d) temporary tenureholders, who do not hold on a lease or for a fixed term shall pay half of the landlords' share. The other half shall be paid by their landlord.

Explanation.—The calculation shall be made from the lowest grade of landlords immediately above the raiyat. The period for which the lease of the tenure or under-tenure is to run is to be reckoned in each case from the close of the agricultural year 1325 B.S.

4. Rent-free holders, whether of the degree of raiyat or landlord shall pay the whole of the landlords' share for their lands.

5. Under-raiyats shall pay at the rate of four annas a tenancy.

6. The following minimum charges shall be adopted:—

- (a) the minimum charge shall be the charge for one acre;
- (b) for broken areas over one acre there shall be no charge for the broken portion, if less than half an acre; but if the broken portion be half an acre or upwards it shall be taken as a full acre;
- (c) broken parts of an anna shall be treated as an anna.

regulating the use of motor vehicles in Calcutta (including suburbs) and the Municipality of Howrah (published under Political Department notification No. 4095P., dated the 1st April 1915, on pages 1—25 of the Calcutta Gazette Extraordinary of the same date), is hereby published for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

11. The draft will be taken into consideration on or after the 31st March 1920, and any objection or suggestion received by the undersigned with regard thereto before that date will be duly considered.

Draft amendments.

(1) After rule 2 in Part IV of the said Rules (Motor-Cabs—"Taxis") insert the following as a new rule:—

"2A. The following measurements and requirements for a motor-cab should be adhered to:—

CHASSIS, WHEEL-BASE.—Should in all cases be so proportioned that skidding or other improper movements shall be as far as possible avoided.

If it is found that a motor-cab skids unduly or cannot be held under proper control, the Commissioner may serve a notice on the proprietor not to use the vehicle, and may refuse to license the vehicle again until the defects have been remedied.

CHASSIS, SPRINGS.—The springs of the chassis must be properly hung, and must be of sufficient strength and flexibility to meet all likely contingencies. Those springs carrying the load must be attached to, or bear upon the back axle, as near to the wheels as possible; the distance between the outsides of the rear springs shall not be less than 40 inches. The front springs must be as wide apart as possible, but not less than 26 inches from outside to outside.

BODY.—

Height.—Inside, from the top of the seat cushions to the hood at the lowest part, or, where the wind-screens are attached to the hood frame, must not be less than 40 inches.

Width.—Inside at any point must not be less than 40 inches.

BODY, LANDAUETTE OR OPEN TOURING PATTERN.—

Height.—Inside from the top of the seat cushions to the hood at the lowest part must not be less than 40 inches.

Width.—Minimum must not be less than 40 inches.

Width of doorway must not be less than 21 inches and the door must be so constructed that it opens to the fullest extent and causes no inconvenience to passengers.

Width.—Where the cab is provided with front and back seats the measurement between the front edges of the cushions must not be less than 19 inches.

Width of front seat.—Not less than 14 inches, and of back seat not less than 16 inches.

The total overall length of the chassis and body must in no case exceed 14 feet, nor the extreme breadth be greater than 5 feet 9 inches.

Horse power.—Maximum 20 horse power.

Cushions.—All cushions must be provided with clean cushion covers.

Paint.—The paint must be clean and of a uniform colour and must be properly varnished.

Hood.—The hood must be of the 'one-man' pattern."

(2) For rule 6A in Part IV of the said Rules (Motor-Cabs—"Taxis") substitute the following:—

"6A—No person other than the actual driver shall be employed on a taxi-cab as an attendant or otherwise."

No. 746 P.J.—The 16th February 1920.—The Governor in Council is pleased to sanction the establishment of an investigating centre at Bijpur in the district of the 24-Parganas.

2. No. 19 Marine—Notification.—In exercise of the power conferred by section 10 of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1859 (I of 1859), and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Governor in Council is pleased to make, in supersession of the previous rules on the subject, the following rules for the conduct of examinations for Masters and Mates of Foreign-going ships and Home-trade ships and as to the qualifications to be required.

2. Notification No. 113 Marine, dated the 14th November 1910, as subsequently amended, is hereby cancelled.

C. B. BAYLEY,

Deputy Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

REGULATIONS RELATING TO THE EXAMINATION OF MASTERS AND MATES.

CHAPTER I.

GENERAL RULES.

1. Authority for Regulations.—These regulations are issued in pursuance of Act I of 1859, as amended by Act V of 1883.

By sections 9 and 10 of that Act provision is made for holding examinations for the grant of certificates of competency and power is given to the Local Government with the sanction of the Governor-General of India in Council to make rules for the conduct of such examinations and the qualifications of the applicants.

In accordance with section 13 of the same Act no foreign-going ship* or home-trade ship* of a burthen exceeding 300 tons is allowed to go to sea from any port in India, unless the master and one officer besides the master have obtained and possess valid and appropriate certificates either of competency or service under that Act or under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, and whoever, having been engaged to serve as Master or Mate, goes to sea as afore said as such Master or Mate, without being at the time entitled to and possessed of such a certificate, and whoever employs any person as such Master or Mate without ascertaining that he is at the time entitled to and possessed of such certificate is, for each such offence, liable to a penalty of Rs. 500.

2. Time and place of examinations.—The times and places at which examinations are held are shown in Appendix A.

3. How to apply.—Candidates for examination must fill up a form of application (Form Exn. 2) at the Port Office. The form, properly filled in, together with the candidate's testimonials and discharges, must be lodged with the Port Officer, Calcutta, not later than the day before the day of examination; and the candidate must conform to any regulations in this respect which may be laid down by the Local Government. The discharges and testimonials should be handed in, together with the form of application, as many days as possible before the date of the examination which the candidate desires to attend. In the absence of the necessary verification the candidate cannot be examined.

The Examiner should be particularly careful to ascertain that there are no gaps in the candidate's service which are not properly accounted for, before he is allowed up for examination.

4. How to apply in special cases.—In cases where a candidate is in doubt whether his service complies with the Regulations, and wishes to submit his case for special consideration, all certificates, discharges, and testimonials, together with the form of application* properly filled in, should be submitted to the Port Officer. If necessary, the officer will, after seeing that all the required information is clearly set forth in the papers, forward them with his observations to the Local Government for decision.

5. Inquiries.—All other inquiries regarding examinations should be made and dealt with in the same way. The point on which information is sought should be clearly stated, and certificates, discharges, testimonials, etc., should be forwarded when they are material to the inquiry.

* "Foreign-going ship" includes every ship employed in trading between any port of the territories which are or may become vested in His Majesty by the Statutes 21 and 22, Vic., C. 106, entitled "An Act for the Better Government of India," and any port or place not in the said territories, nor on the Continent of India, nor in the Straits Settlements, nor in the Island of Ceylon; and "Home Trade Ship" includes every ship employed in trading between any ports of the said territories, or between any port of the said territories and any port or place on the Continent of India or in the Straits Settlements or in the Island of Ceylon.

6. Nature of service determined by actual position on board ship.—Sea service, in the foreign or home trade, cannot be regarded as qualifying for examination for certificates of competency unless it can be verified by reference to the articles of the ship on which it was performed, e.g., service claimed by testimonial or otherwise to have been as Mate when the actual rating as shown by the articles was only that of boatswain or other petty officer will not be accepted where officer's service is required. Where service as First (or Second) Mate is required to qualify for examination the candidate must actually have held the executive position next (or next but one) to the Master.

Candidates who represent themselves as having served in a higher capacity than that actually held in the ship render themselves liable to prosecution.

In this connection examiners should remember that it has been a common practice for officers to be rated on ship's articles as "Second Mate," although in reality they were only Third or Fourth Mates and acted in one of those positions on board ship.

In every case where a candidate for a Master's certificate of competency claims service as Second Mate, he should be requested to make a declaration in Divn. H of the Form Exn. 2*, to the effect that during his service as Second Mate he had only one officer over him, or if more than one, that a Third and Fourth Mate were also carried.

If the service claimed is as "auxiliary Second Mate" the candidate should be required to state the number of officers serving in a junior capacity.

A candidate with First Mate's service should make a declaration that he was the senior officer under the Master, or if not, he must comply with the requirements of rule 83, as it has been found that in some cases the Second Mate has been signed on the articles as First Mate, the proper First Mate being called chief officer simply for examination purposes.

It must be clearly understood that the amount of service laid down in the Regulations for each grade of certificate of competency is the absolute minimum that can be accepted, and unless a candidate can show the full amount he must in no case be allowed up for examination.

7. Age.—Should any doubt exist as to the age of a candidate he will be required to produce a certificate of birth.

8. Testimonials required.—Testimonials to character, including sobriety, and to experience and ability, on board ship for at least the last twelve months of sea service preceding the date of application to be examined, will be required of all candidates, and without producing them no person will be examined.

9. Penalty for misconduct.—Candidates who have neglected to join their vessels after having signed articles, or who have deserted their vessels after having joined, or who have been found guilty of gross misconduct on board, will be required to produce satisfactory proofs of two years' subsequent service and good conduct at sea, unless the Local Government, after having investigated the matter, should see fit to reduce the time.

10. Deafness and other physical and mental disabilities.—If during the progress of the examination the examiner finds that a candidate is afflicted with deafness, with an impediment in his speech, or with some other physical or mental infirmity, and he is satisfied upon further investigation that the degree of deafness or of the impediment or other infirmity is such as to render the candidate incompetent to discharge the ordinary duties of a Mate or Master at sea, he should not allow the candidate to complete his examination and should return his examination fee; but every case in which this action is taken must be reported to the Port Officer.

If the candidate subsequently produces a medical certificate to the effect that his hearing, speech, or physical or mental condition has improved or is normal, the Port Officer will take into consideration the question of allowing the candidate to sit again for examination.

11. Foreigners must know English.—Foreigners must prove to the satisfaction of the examiners that they can speak and write the English language sufficiently well to perform the duties required of them on board a British vessel. If a candidate fails for ignorance of the English language he will not be re-examined until after a lapse of six months. In the case of candidates for Home Trade certificates, the certificates of Asiatics who may not be able to speak English shall be endorsed to the effect that they are valid only for vessels manned and officered entirely by Asiatics.

12. Issue of certificate.—If the candidate passes he will receive a form (Form Exn. 16) authorising the Port Officer to whom it is addressed to issue the certificate. It is, therefore, important that the port at which the certificate is to be issued should be the same on both the form Exn. 16 and the Form Exn. 2. If circumstances should make any alteration necessary, the examiner should see that it is made in both forms, otherwise delay in the issue of the certificate may be caused.

13. Service found to be insufficient.—If after a candidate has passed the examination it is discovered on further investigation that his services are insufficient to entitle him to receive a certificate of the grade for which he has passed, the certificate will not be granted to him; but if the Local Government is satisfied that the error in the calculation of the candidate's services did not occur through any fault or wilful misrepresentation on his part, he may either have the fee returned to him or have it placed to his credit. Should his services entitle him to a certificate of a lower grade it may be granted to him, and the difference, if any, between the fee paid by him for the superior certificate and the fee payable for the inferior certificate will be returned to him or placed to his credit. The superior certificate will not be granted until the candidate has performed the amount of service in which he was deficient, and has been re-examined in all the subjects, unless the Local Government see fit to dispense with the re-examination.

14. Failure in Examination.—In all cases of failure the candidate must be examined anew. If a candidate fails in Seamanship he will not be re-examined until after a lapse of six months. Whether the whole or part of this period must be served at sea must depend upon the subjects in Seamanship in which the candidate failed, but the amount of further sea service to be required will be left to the discretion of the examiner.

15. Examiner's Report.—The examiner, in making his report on the Form Exn. 14, should state what amount, if any, of further sea service the candidate must perform, and he should also insert this information in the Form Exn. 2.

16. Failure in Navigation.—If a candidate fails three times in Navigation within three months, he will not be re-examined until after a lapse of three months from the date of the last failure.

17. Candidates failing may be examined for certificate of lower grade.—If a candidate fails in his examination for an Ordinary certificate, and the subjects in which he has failed are not included in the syllabus prescribed for a certificate of a lower grade, he may, if he so desires, be examined for the lower grade certificate without further formal application or payment of fee, but he will be required to complete the whole of the work prescribed for such lower grade.

No part, however, of the fee he has paid will be returned to him, and on presenting himself, when qualified, for re-examination for the higher certificate, he will be required to pay again the full fee for the examinations.

18. Failure in Seamanship.—If a candidate fails in Seamanship so far as regards the management of square-rigged sailing vessels, in his examination for an Ordinary certificate, he may, if qualified as to service, without further formal application or further payment of fee, proceed with the examination for a certificate of competency for foreign-going steamships, or for fore and aft rigged vessels.

19. Fee always paid first.—Candidates for examination, in making their application on Form Exn. 2, will be required to pay the examination fee before any step is taken in the way of inquiring into their services or testing their qualifications. If the candidate is found not to be eligible the fee will either be returned to him or placed to his credit until he is eligible.

20. Where to pay fees.—The fee for examination must be paid to the Port Office. If a candidate offers a gratuity to any officer of the Department, he will be regarded as having committed an act of misconduct, and will be rejected, and not allowed to be again examined for twelve months either at the port where the offence was committed, or at any other port.

21. Fee not returned on failure.—If a candidate fails to pass the examination no part of the fee will be returned to him.

22. Table of fees.—The fees are as follows:—

NOTE.—No abatement will be made in the fee charged to a candidate for a certificate for foreign-going ships in consequence of his possessing a Master's or Mate's certificate for home-trade passenger ships.

23. Copy of Lost Certificate.—An applicant for a certified copy of a lost Certificate either of Competency or Service, must fill in a form of application, Exn. 23, giving the particulars required, and hand it to the Port Officer of Calcutta. A declaration as to the circumstances in which the certificate was lost must be made by the applicant before the Port Officer who will forward a certified copy of the lost certificate to the applicant.

24. First Aid to the Injured.—(a) Every candidate for a Certificate of Competency of any grade as Master or Mate will be required to produce a certificate issued by the St. John's Ambulance Association, the St. Andrew's Ambulance Association, the St. Patrick's Ambulance Association, the British Red Cross Society, the London County Council, the Glamorgan County Council, the Leith Technical College or other approved body or by a Medical Officer of one of His Majesty's ships, to the effect that he has passed examination in First Aid to the injured.

(b) The certificate must be an adult certificate, i.e., obtained by the candidate when sixteen years of age or more, and (except in the circumstances indicated in rule 129) the examination for it must have been passed not more than three years before the date of the examination for the certificate of competency. Certificates issued by the St. John's Ambulance Association more than three years before the examination for a certificate of competency will, however, be accepted, provided that, at the expiration of three years since its issue, the certificate has attached to it the "Voucher" or "Label" of the Association certifying that the holder has passed re-examination in First Aid.

(c) If a candidate does not possess such a certificate of proficiency in First Aid he should apply some time before he wishes to sit for examination for a certificate as Master or Mate to the local secretary of one of the approved Associations, who will inform him of the available facilities for the instruction and examination of candidates in First Aid. A list of the names and addresses of the local secretaries of the Associations is given in Appendix C.

(d) Besides the courses of instruction which are provided on shore at the ports in the United Kingdom, at which examinations for certificates as Master and Mate are held, courses of instruction given by qualified surgeons on board merchant vessels will be accepted by the St. John's Ambulance Association as qualifying the candidate for examination for their certificate of proficiency in First Aid, provided the surgeon certifies that he has followed the syllabus of instruction laid down by the Association.

(e) The St. Andrew's Ambulance Association will also accept instruction by a ship's surgeon on board ship as qualifying a candidate for examination for their certificate of proficiency in First Aid, provided their syllabus is followed. In this case the candidate must previously have enrolled and obtained an attendance card, by applying to the local secretary of the Association, or to the head office at 176, West Regent Street, Glasgow.

(f) It will not be necessary for the candidate for a certificate as Master or Mate in all cases to produce the formal certificate of proficiency in First Aid issued by the Associations. In order to prevent delay in proceeding with the examination for the certificate as Master or Mate and in the issue of the certificate to successful candidates, the special Mercantile Marine linen Certificate issued by the St. John's Ambulance Association and duly signed by the Lecturer, the Surgeon Examiner, and the Association's local representative, or, in Scotland, a certificate signed by the Local Examiner of the St. Andrew's Ambulance Association, to the effect that the candidate has passed the examination for a Certificate of proficiency, may be accepted as showing that the candidate possesses the required knowledge of First Aid.

25. Sight Tests.—(a) Every candidate for a certificate of competency must pass the prescribed sight tests before a certificate can be issued to him. If circumstances render it necessary for him to proceed with the examination in navigation and seamanship before undergoing the sight tests, he should be informed that the examination in navigation and seamanship will be cancelled in the event of his failure to pass either of the sight tests.

(b) Form vision test.—Every candidate for a certificate must pass the form vision test. If he obtained a certificate of competency before January 1st, 1914, he will only be required to possess half normal vision using both eyes together. Otherwise he must pass a higher standard, viz., normal vision using both eyes or either eye separately.

Any candidate who has obtained his first certificate under these conditions may obtain his higher certificates, provided that he has normal vision using both eyes or either eye separately.

Detailed information with regard to the conduct of the examination and the standards required is contained in Appendix I.

(c) Colour vision test.—Every candidate must undergo the colour vision test on every occasion on which he presents himself for examination for his first certificate of competency; but, if he then passes, he will not be required to undergo the colour vision tests on any subsequent occasion.

No person who holds a certificate of competency should be examined in colour vision.

(d) A candidate who fails to pass the prescribed form vision test may present himself for re-examination at intervals of three months. A candidate who fails to pass the colour vision test cannot be re-examined. In the case of a candidate who is referred for further examination the Port Officer will make arrangements for a special examination. It is also open to any candidate who is adjudged to have failed in the colour vision test to appeal to the Local Government, who may, if they think fit, remit the case to a special body of examiners for decision.

(e) The Local Government will repay, at a rate which will be notified to the candidate, the travelling expenses of any candidate who is referred for further examination, as well as the travelling expenses of any candidate who, having appealed against failure, is reported by the Special Examiners to have passed. No payment whatever will be made towards the expenses of candidates who, upon their own application, are examined by the Special Examiners, and are reported by them to have failed, unless the Local Government consider that the particular circumstances of the case justify such payment.

(f) When a candidate fails to pass the colour vision test, the Examiner will point out to him the conditions under which he can appeal. Appeals are to be made through the Port Officer, and forwarded to Local Government with the Examiner's remarks.

(g) Only Examiners who have themselves passed the colour vision tests are to undertake the local examinations.

(h) The fee paid for examination for a certificate of competency includes the fee of one rupee for examination in form and colour vision, and if the candidate fails to pass those tests, this fee will, with the exception of one rupee, be returned to him.

(i) No additional fee will be charged to any candidate referred for special examination, or for the special examination allowed to a candidate who appeals against failure. If, however, a candidate, who has been reported by the Special Examiners as having failed, is still dissatisfied, it will be open to him, if he so desires, to present himself for a second special examination on payment of a fee of rupees seventy-five, provided that he brings with him a friend to witness the examination.

This second examination will, however, be entirely voluntary, and will form no part of the examination for a certificate of competency. The Local Government will, however, give consideration to the result of such examination in determining whether a certificate shall be granted.

The sight tests are open to all persons serving or intending to serve in the Mercantile Marine or in fishing vessels, and all such persons recommended to take the earliest opportunity of ascertaining whether their vision is such as to qualify them for service in that profession. Any such person, if desirous of undergoing the tests, must make application to the Port Officer, on the Form Exn. 2a, and must pay a fee of one rupee.

This fee will be payable on each occasion on which a candidate is examined.

CHAPTER II.

QUALIFICATIONS REQUIRED FOR THE VARIOUS GRADES.*

[Certificates for Foreign going Ships, or Ordinary Certificates.]

26. Square-rigged service required.—A candidate for an Ordinary certificate of any grade who has not previously held an Ordinary certificate of a lower grade must prove that he has served 12 months in the Foreign trade, or 18 months in the Home or Coasting trade, in a square-rigged sailing vessel.

27. Value of Ordinary Certificates.—Ordinary certificates will entitle the holders to go to sea as Mates or Masters of any vessel, sailing or steam.

28. Second Mate.—A candidate must be not less than eighteen years of age, and must have served four years at sea.

29. Second Mate, Ordinary Navigation.—A candidate for a Second Mate's certificate will be required—

- (a) To write a legible hand and spell correctly. For the purpose of testing his ability the candidate will be required to write a short essay on some suitable subject.
- (b) To show a competent knowledge of the first five rules of arithmetic and the use of logarithms.
- (c) To answer questions on elementary plane trigonometry.
- (d) To work a day's work complete, correcting the courses for leeway, deviation and variation.
- (e) To find the latitude by the meridian altitude of the sun
- (f) To work any practical problem in parallel sailing
- (g) To find the true course and distance from one given position to another by Mercator's method; also the compass course, the variation and deviation being given.
- (h) To find the true amplitude of the sun and the error of the compass therefrom; also the deviation, the variation being given.
- (i) To find the longitude by chronometer from altitude of the sun by the usual methods, computing the daily rate of chronometer from errors observed, when required; also to find the true azimuth of the sun, and the error of the compass; and the deviation, the variation being given
- (j) To find the true azimuth of the sun by the "Time Azimuth" tables; the error of the compass; also the deviation, the variation being given.

NOTE.—The candidate will be required to give a figure and explanation for each problem worked and give a written explanation of any of the terms used in navigation or nautical astronomy that may be asked.

- (k) To find on a chart or plan the course or courses to steer and the distance or distances from one given position to another; to find the ship's position together with the set and drift (if any) on the chart or plan from cross-bearings of two objects; to find the ship's position from two bearings of the same object, the course and distance run between taking the bearings being given, making due allowance for a given tide or current; also, the distance of the ship from the object or any given position at the time of taking the second bearing; to find on a chart or plan the course to steer by compass in order to counteract the effect of a given tide or current, and find the distance the ship will make good towards a given point in a given time; to fix a ship's position on a chart or plan by horizontal sextant angles, using a station pointer; and to work out practically the correction to apply to soundings taken at a given time and place to compare with the depth marked on the chart; and give a method of finding approximately the time of high water at any given place without the aid of the Admiralty or other Tide Tables.

* These qualifications are shown in a tabular form in Appendix J.

He will be examined orally in the following subjects :—

- (f) The Morse and British movable semaphore alphabets, the International Code of Signals, and the British Signal Manual. He will be required to attain a minimum speed of 8 words a minute in semaphore and 5 words a minute in Morse flashing and flag waving. (See Appendix D.)
- (m) The use and adjustments of the sextant, read off and on the arc, and the mode of finding the index error by both horizon and sun.
- (n) The construction, use and principle of the barometer, thermometer and hydrometer. Also the use and care of a chronometer.
- (o) Weights and measures.
- (p) The markings, signs and abbreviations on Admiralty charts or plans
- (q) The General Notices published in the Board of Trade Summary of Notices to Mariners.
- (r) Elementary questions on the main parts of a ship's construction.

30. Second Mate, Ordinary Seamanship.—He must understand and give satisfactory answers on the following subjects :—

- (a) The standing and running rigging of ships.
- (b) Bending, unbending, setting, reefing, taking in, and furling sail.
- (c) Sending masts and yards up and down, etc
- (d) Management of a ship when under canvas.
- (e) Management of ships' boats in heavy weather.
- (f) Dunnaging and stowwiff cargo, etc.
- (g) The Rule of the Road as regards both steamers and sailing vessels, their regulation lights and fog and sound signals.
- (h) The signals of distress, and the signals to be made by ships wanting a pilot, and the liabilities and penalties incurred by the misuse of these signals.
- (i) The marking and use of the lead and log lines. Also care and use of sounding machines and mechanical logs.
- (j) The use and management of the rocket apparatus in the event of a vessel being stranded.
- (k) Any questions appertaining to the duties of a Second Mate that the Examiner may think necessary to ask.
- (l) Also questions on the additional subjects which are specified in the rules of examination for Second Mates' certificates of competency for foreign-going steamships. (See rule 43.)

31. Mate, Ordinary Only.—A candidate must be not less than nineteen years of age, and have served five years at sea.

32. First Mate, Ordinary.*—A candidate must be not less than nineteen years of age, and have served five years at sea, of which—

- (a) One year must have been in a capacity not lower than Fourth Mate of a foreign-going vessel whilst holding a Second Mate's certificate for foreign-going vessels, if his service was as Third or Fourth Mate proof will be required that he had during the whole year charge of a watch (see rule 82);
- (b) or one year and a half must have been in a capacity not lower than Only Mate in a home-trade or coasting vessel whilst holding a Second Mate's certificate for foreign-going vessels, or a Mate's certificate for home trade passenger ships;
- (c) or one year must have been as Pilot with a First Class Pilot's Certificate (see rule 79).

* For convenience of calculation the service required is stated in a tabular form in Appendix J

33. Mate, Ordinary: Navigation.—In addition to the work for the Second Mate's certificate, a candidate for the Only or First Mate's certificate will be required—

- (a) To answer questions on right-angled spherical trigonometry.
- (b) To compute the time at which a given star will be on the observer's meridian. [Occasionally by inspection.]
- (c) To determine what bright stars will be within a certain hour-angle from the observer's meridian, above the pole and above the horizon, at any given time; also the hour angle, east or west, of each of the stars, and whether they are to the north or south of the observer's zenith when passing the meridian.
- (d) To compute the approximate meridian altitude of a star, for setting the sextant.
- (e) To find the latitude from the meridian altitude of a star.
- (f) To find the longitude by chronometer by altitude of a star.
- (g) To find the true azimuth of a star by the "Time Azimuth" tables, and get the deviation therefrom.
- (h) To find the latitude by ex-meridian altitude of the sun or a star.
- (i) To find the line of position and the true bearing of the sun, and the ship's position, by Sumner's method by projection.

NOTE.—The candidate will be required to give a figure and explanation for each problem worked, and give a written explanation of any of the terms used in navigation or nautical astronomy that may be asked.

- (j) To answer certain questions on meteorology.

He will be examined orally in the following subjects :—

- (k) How to keep a ship's log book.
- (l) How to calculate the capacity of a given bunker or hold.
- (m) How to calculate a freight and its commissions.
- (n) The measurement and equipment of ship's life-boats and number of persons allowed to be carried in each class of boat.
- (o) Testing of life-buoys and life-belts.
- (p) The screening of ship's side lights.
- (q) More advanced questions on the main part of a ship's construction and general use.

34. Mate, Ordinary: Seamanship.—In addition to the qualifications required for a Second Mate's certificate, an Only or First Mate will be required to show a knowledge of the following subjects :—

- (a) Shifting large spars, rigging sheers, taking lower masts in and out.
- (b) How to moor and unmoor ship; to keep a clear anchor; and to carry out an anchor.
- (c) How to manage a ship in stormy weather, and to cast a ship on a lee shore.
- (d) How to secure the masts in the event of accident to the bowsprit.
- (e) How to rig purchases for getting heavy weights, anchors, machinery, etc. in or out.
- (f) How to dispose various kinds of cargo and weights in a stiff and in a tender vessel.
- (g) The ventilation of holds, and the stowage of explosives.
- (h) The stowage of grain cargoes.
- (i) How to rig a sea anchor, and what means to employ to keep a vessel, disabled or unmanageable, out of the trough of the sea, and lessen her lee drift.
- (j) How to get a cast of the deep sea lead in heavy weather.
- (k) Accidents, and how to deal with them.
- (l) Any other questions appertaining to the duties of an Only or First Mate which the Examiner may think necessary to ask.
- (m) Also questions on the additional subjects which are specified in the rules of examination for Only and First Mate's certificates of competency for foreign-going steamships. (See rule 47.)

35. Master, Ordinary: Navigation.—A candidate must be not less than twenty-one years of age.

- (a) he must have served six years at sea, of which one year must have been in a capacity not lower than Only Mate of a foreign-going vessel, whilst holding a certificate not lower than an Only Mate's certificate for foreign-going vessels, provided that, if this service as officer was not performed whilst holding a First Mate's certificate for foreign-going vessels, the candidate will also be required to prove the officer's service prescribed for that grade (rule 32);
- (b) or, he must have served six years at sea, of which one year and a half must have been in a capacity not lower than Only Mate of a home trade or coasting vessel whilst holding a certificate not lower than an Only Mate's certificate for foreign-going vessels, provided that, if this service as officer was not performed whilst holding a First Mate's certificate for foreign-going vessels, the candidate will also be required to prove the officer's service prescribed for that grade (rule 32);
- (c) or, he must have served six and a half years at sea, one year of which must have been in a capacity not lower than Second Mate of a foreign-going vessel whilst holding a First Mate's certificate for foreign-going vessels, provided that, if this service as Second Mate was performed under an additional or auxiliary First Mate it will only be accepted if a Third or Fourth Mate were also carried, and one year and a half not lower than Third or Fourth Mate of a foreign-going vessel in charge of a watch whilst holding a Second Mate's certificate for foreign-going vessels (see rule 6);
- (d) or, he must have served nine years at sea in the Home or Coasting trade; of which three years must have been as Master, or one year as Master and three years in a capacity not lower than that of Mate, provided that, in either case, he has served in such capacity for not less than one year with a Second Mate's certificate for foreign-going vessels or a Master's certificate for home trade passenger ships.

36. Master, Ordinary: Navigation.—A candidate for an Ordinary Master's certificate will, in addition to the work prescribed for the grades of Second and First Mate that may be given him by the Examiner, be required:—

- (a) To write an essay on some technical subject
- (b) To find the latitude by the altitude of the Polar star at any time.
- (c) To find the latitude by the meridian altitude of the moon.

NOTE.—The candidate will be required to give a figure and explanation for each problem worked, and give a written explanation of any of the terms used in navigation or nautical astronomy that may be asked.

- (d) To find the magnetic bearing of any fixed object when at sea or at anchor from bearings of the object taken with the ship's head on equidistant compass points, and to compute the deviation therefrom; to construct a deviation curve upon a Napier's diagram which will be furnished by the Examiner, and show that he understands its practical application, to give satisfactory written and oral answers to certain practical questions as to the effect of the ship's iron upon the compasses, and the method of determining the deviation, and show how to compensate the deviation by magnets and soft iron by the aid of Beall's Compass Deviascope.
- (e) Questions on ship construction and naval architecture and a few elementary questions on stability.

He will be examined orally in the following subjects:—

- (1) The law as to the engagement and discharge and management of the crew, and the entries to be made in the official log.
- (2) How to prevent and check an outbreak of scurvy on board ship.
- (3) The law as to load-line marks, and the entries and reports to be made respecting them.
- (4) Invoices, charter party, bills of lading, Lloyd's agent, nature of bottomry, bills of exchange, surveys, averages, etc.
- (5) The prevailing winds and currents of the globe.
- (6) The trade routes.
- (7) Tides.

37. Master, Ordinary: Seamanship.—In addition to the qualifications required for the grades of Second and First Mate, an Ordinary Master will be required to show a knowledge of the following subjects:—

- (a) Construction of jury rudders for both wooden and iron vessels, also rafts.
- (b) Resources for the preservation of the ship's crew in the event of wreck.
- (c) Management of ship in heavy weather.
- (d) Rescuing the crew of a disabled vessel.

The requirements of education the service required is stated in a tabular form in Appendix J

- (e) Steps to be taken when a ship is on her beam ends, or in any danger, or in difficulty, or disabled or unmanageable and on a lee shore.
- (f) Heaving a keel out.
- (g) How to proceed when placing a ship in dry dock, and directing repairs, and when putting into port in distress with damage to cargo and ship.
- (h) Any other question appertaining to the management of a ship which the examiner may think it necessary to ask.
- (i) Also questions on the additional subjects which are specified in the rules of Examination for Masters' certificates of competency for foreign-going steamships. (See rule 50.)

38. Special Regulations relating to the examination of Masters and Mates to apply only where the candidate has served an apprenticeship in an approved sea-going training ship, with a view to promotion in the service of the Company to which the training ship is attached.—(1) The training ship must be a sea-going cargo-carrying square-rigged sailing vessel, and the course of study and practical training which the cadets receive must be approved by the Local Government.

At the end of four years' service in the training ship the cadet will be qualified for examination for a certificate as Second Mate provided (a) he can produce a testimonial to the effect that both his conduct and his ability have given satisfaction during the whole period, and (b) that he has served at sea for not less than four-fifths of the time, that is to say, has not spent more than one-fifth of the time in home ports, cf. rule 99.

If the cadet has served previously for two years in either the "Conway" or the "Worcester" training ship, this time will be allowed to count as one year's qualifying service (cf. rule 95), and he will be required to serve for 3 years only in the Company's training ship before he can be allowed up for examination for a certificate as Second Mate (ordinary).

(2) A candidate who has served for four (or three) years on the training ship may be allowed up for examination for a certificate as First Mate (ordinary) when he has served, whilst holding a certificate as Second Mate, for two years as junior bridge-keeping officer of the watch upon vessels of the Company satisfying certain requirements [see sub-rule (4)]. The words "junior bridge-keeping officer" must be interpreted as meaning the junior of two bridge-keeping officers. Where three officers are on the bridge together, the service of the third does not fall within the scope of the Special Regulations, and his service cannot be accepted as qualifying. All cases where cadets, to whom these special regulations apply, subsequently present themselves for examination for First Mate or Master must be referred to the Port Officer so that their real position on board vessels of the Company satisfying the requirements of this rule may be verified by reference to the official logs before they are accepted as eligible for examination.

(3) A candidate who has obtained a certificate as First Mate in the above way may be allowed up for examination for a certificate as Master (ordinary) when he has served for eighteen months whilst holding the Certificate as First Mate, as a senior watch-keeping officer upon vessels of the Company satisfying the same requirements [see sub-rule (4)].

If the candidate has served for eighteen months as senior of the junior officers, i.e., the officer next below the junior of the officers in full charge of the watch whilst holding the certificate as First Mate, he may be allowed up for examination for a certificate as Master (ordinary) on the understanding that the certificate as Master would not be issued to him until he had completed twelve months' service as a senior watch-keeping officer, the service in both cases to be performed on vessels satisfying the same requirements [see sub-rule (4)].

(4) The special regulations (sub-rules 2 and 3) in regard to the acceptance of service as qualifying for the examinations for certificates as First Mate and Master shall apply only when the service is performed in the specified capacities upon ocean-going steamers of not less than 8,000 tons gross, making an average speed of 15 knots or upwards and carrying a crew of not less than 130 men, including at least five deck officers beside the Master.

39. Fore and aft certificates.—Certificates for the grades of Second Mate, Only Mate, First Mate, and Master of fore and aft rigged vessels will be issued to candidates who have not complied with the regulation which requires them to have served at least one year in square-rigged sailing vessels, or who prove in course of examination that they are ignorant of the management of square-rigged ships. In other respects the qualifications for examination for such certificates are the same as for Ordinary certificates.

The examinations for the grades of Second Mate, Only Mate, First Mate, and Master of fore and aft rigged vessels, will be precisely the same as for the Ordinary certificates, excepting that in seamanship a knowledge of the management of square-rigged vessels is not required.

A certificate for fore and aft rigged vessels will not entitle the possessor to act in any case in which a certificate for square-rigged vessels is required. Amongst square-rigged vessels are classed full-rigged ships, barques, brigs, barquentines, brigantines, and ships carrying square sails.

...possessing a certificate for fore and aft rigged vessels, and desiring to be examined for an Ordinary certificate must prove that he has served at sea at least one year in a square-rigged sailing vessel, unless he has previously held an Ordinary certificate of a lower grade.

40. Steamship Certificates.—Certificates applying only to steamships are issued to candidates who are either unable to comply with the regulation which requires them to have passed one year in square-rigged sailing vessels or who prove in course of examination that they are ignorant of the management of square-rigged sailing vessels. All the qualifying service prescribed for these certificates may have been performed in steamships.

These certificates will entitle the holders to go to sea as Masters or Mates of foreign-going steamships, but will not entitle them to go to sea as Masters or Mates of foreign-going sailing ships.

There will be no distinction in these certificates between fore and aft rigged steamships and square-rigged steamships.

41. Second Mate, Steamships.—The qualifications as to age and service are the same as for an Ordinary Second Mate's certificate (see rule 28), excepting that the whole of the service may have been performed in steamships and that no service in square-rigged sailing vessels is required.

42. Second Mate, Steamships : Navigation.—The examination in navigation for a Second Mate's certificate for foreign-going steamships will be precisely the same as that prescribed for an Ordinary Second Mate's certificate.

43. Second Mate, Steamships : Seamanship.—The candidate must understand and be able to give satisfactory answers on the following subjects :—

- (a) The standing and running rigging of steamships.
- (b) Bending, unbending, setting, taking in, and furling sail.
- (c) Sending masts and yards up and down, etc.
- (d) Seeing everything in readiness and clear for getting under way, and the precautions to be then observed with regard to steering gear and connections, engines, propeller, etc.
- (e) Care and usage of mechanical logs and sounding machines.
- (f) Management of ships' boats in heavy weather.
- (g) Dunnaging and stowing cargo, etc.
- (h) The Rule of the Road as regards both steamers and sailing vessels, their regulation lights and fog and sound signals.
- (i) Signals of distress, and signals to be made by ships wanting a pilot, and the liabilities and penalties incurred by the misuse of these signals.
- (j) The marking and use of the ordinary lead and log lines.
- (k) The construction, use, and action of the sluices, and of the water-ballast tanks.
- (l) Engine-room and other telegraphs used on board ship, and deck appliances generally.
- (m) Use and management of the rocket apparatus in the event of a vessel being stranded.
- (n) Any other questions appertaining to the duties of the Second Mate of a steamship which the Examiner may think necessary to ask.

44. Only Mate, Steamships.—The qualifications as to age and service are the same as for an Only Mate's Ordinary certificate (see rule 31), excepting that the whole of the service may have been performed in steamships and no service in square-rigged vessels is required.

45. First Mate, Steamships.—The qualifications as to age and service are the same as for a First Mate's Ordinary certificate (see rule 32), excepting that the whole of the service may have been in steamships, and that no service in square-rigged vessels is required.

46. Mate, Steamships : Navigation.—The examination in navigation for an Only or First Mate's certificate for foreign-going steamships will be precisely the same as that prescribed for an Ordinary First Mate's certificate (see rule 34).

47. Mate, Steamships : Seamanship.—In addition to the qualifications required for a Second Mate's certificate, an Only or First Mate will be required to show a knowledge of the following subjects :—

- (a) Shifting large spars; rigging sheers; and taking lower masts in and out.
- (b) How to moor and unmoor ship; keep a clear anchor; and carry out an anchor.
- (c) Management of a steamship in stormy weather.
- (d) How to rig purchases for getting heavy weights, anchors, machinery, etc., in and out.

- (e) How to dispose various kinds of cargo and weights in a ship and in a smaller vessel.
- (f) Ventilation of holds, and the stowage of explosives.
- (g) Stowage of grain cargoes.
- (h) The effects of the screw race upon the rudder; and the effect produced on the direction of the head of the ship by going [ahead] [astern] with a [right] [left] handed screw when the rudder is [ported] [starboarded]; also, the effect of twin screws under the same conditions, and when going ahead with one and reversing the other, etc., etc.
- (i) How to rig a sea anchor, and what means to employ to keep a steamer, with her machinery disabled, out of the trough of the sea, and to lessen her lee drift.
- (j) How to turn a steamship short round.
- (k) How to get a cast of the deep sea lead in heavy weather.
- (l) Any other questions appertaining to the duties of a First Mate of a steamship which the Examiner may think necessary to put to him.

48. Master, Steamships.—The qualifications as to age and service are the same as for a Master's Ordinary certificate for a foreign-going ship (see rule 35), excepting that the whole of the service may have been performed in steamships, and that no service in square-rigged vessels is required (see also rule 128.)

49. Master, Steamships: Navigation.—The examination in navigation for a Master's certificate for foreign-going steamships will be precisely the same as that prescribed for an Ordinary Master's certificate (see rule 36).

50. Master, Steamships: Seamanship.—In addition to the qualifications required for the grades of Second and First Mate, a Master will be required to show a knowledge of the following subjects:—

- (a) Construction of rudders and jury rudders suitable for screw steamships.
- (b) The preservation of the ship's crew in the event of wreck.
- (c) Management of steamships in heavy weather.
- (d) Rescuing the crew of a disabled ship.
- (e) Steps to be taken when a vessel is on her beam ends, or disabled and on a lee shore.
- (f) How to use steam appliances in the event of fire.
- (g) Economy in coal consumption.
- (h) The best arrangement for towing vessels under different circumstances.
- (i) Placing ship in dry dock; directing repairs; and the mode of procedure when putting into port in distress with damage to cargo and ship.
- (j) Any other questions appertaining to the management of a steamship which the Examiner may think it necessary to put to him.

51. Steamship certificates, how changed.—A candidate possessing a certificate for foreign-going steamships, and desiring to be examined for an Ordinary certificate, must prove that he has served at sea at least one year in a square-rigged sailing vessel, unless he has previously held an Ordinary certificate of a lower grade.

52. Mate, Home Trade.—A candidate must be not less than nineteen years of age, and have served four years at sea.

53. Mate, Home Trade Steamship: Navigation.—He must write a legible hand and spell correctly, and understand the first five rules of arithmetic, both simple and compound. He must be able to take a bearing by compass, be conversant with the use of a Mercator's Chart, and be able to find, on a chart or plan, the course or courses to steer and the distance or distances from one given position to another; to find the ship's position, together with the set and drift (if any) on a chart or plan from cross bearings of two objects; to find the ship's position from two bearings of the same or different objects, the course and distance run between taking the bearings being given, making due allowance for a given tide or current; also the distance of the ship from the objects at any given position at the time of taking the second bearing; to find on a chart or plan the course to steer by compass in order to counteract the effect of a given tide or current and to find the distance the ship will make good towards a given point in a certain time, and to work out practically the correction to apply to soundings taken at a given time and place, to compare with the depth marked on the chart; also, to fix the ship's position by horizontal sextant angles, using a station pointer for plotting it on the chart or plan, etc., and give a method of finding approximately the time of high water at any given place without the aid of the Admiralty or other Tide Tables. He will also be required to explain orally the markings, signs and abbreviations on Admiralty charts and plans, the use of the sextant, to be able to observe with it, to read off the arc, and to find the index error by the horizon. He will also be required to exhibit a minimum speed of eight words a minute in semaphore and five words a minute in Morse flashing and flag waving, and to have a good working knowledge of the International Code of Signals and British Signal Manual.

54. Mate, Home Trade Steamship : Seamanship.—He must possess a thorough knowledge of the Rule of the Road as regards both steamers and sailing vessels, their regulation lights, and fog and sound signals. He must be able to describe the signals of distress, the signals to be made by ships wanting a pilot, and the liabilities and penalties incurred by the misuse of these signals : also the use and management of the rocket apparatus in the event of his vessel being stranded. He must be able to mark and use the lead log line, to moor and unmoor a vessel, and to manage a ship's boat in heavy weather, etc., etc. He must also understand the construction, use and action of the bulkhead sluices, the engine-room telegraph, etc., and to answer any other questions appertaining to the duties of the Mate of a home trade passenger ship which the Examiner may think proper to put to him.

55. Master, Home Trade Steamship.*†—A candidate must be not less than twenty-one years of age and have served five years at sea, of which—

- (a) One year must have been in a capacity not lower than that of Only Mate of a home trade or coasting vessel, whilst holding a Mate's certificate for home trade passenger ships, or a Second Mate's certificate for foreign-going vessels ;
- (b) or, two and a half years must have been in a capacity not lower than Second Mate of a home trade or coasting vessel in charge of a watch, whilst holding a Mate's certificate for home trade passenger ships, or a Second Mate's certificate for foreign-going vessels (see rule 82) ;
- (c) or, one year must have been as Pilot with a First Class pilot's certificate (see rule 79).

56. Master, Home Trade Steamship : Navigation.—In addition to the qualifications required of a Mate of a home trade passenger ship, a Master will be required to find the latitude by a meridian altitude of the sun, find compass corrections by Amplitude and Time Azimuth of the Sun, and to give written answers to certain practical questions on the subject of the deviation of the compass. (See also supplementary viva voce test, rule 123.)

57. Master, Home Trade Steamship : Seamanship.—In addition to the qualifications required of a Mate of a home trade passenger ship, a Master must understand how to sea anchor, and what means to apply to keep a steamship with machinery disabled out of the trough of the sea ; also how to get a cast of the lead in heavy weather, etc. He will be examined as to his resources for the preservation of the crew and passengers in the event of wreck, and the steps to be taken if his vessel is disabled and drifting towards a lee shore, and will be required to answer any other questions appertaining to the management of a home trade passenger ship which the Examiner may think necessary to put to him.

58. Yacht Certificates.—The examination for these certificates is purely voluntary, and is confined to persons who command their own British sea-going pleasure yachts. A Master of a yacht who is not also the sole owner, or who is under 21 years of age, is not eligible for examination.

Only one description of certificate will be issued, whether the yacht is foreign-going or cruises within the home trade limits.

The certificate will not entitle the holder to command any vessel except the pleasure yacht or yachts, of which he is at the time the sole owner.

Candidates are not required to have served any specified time afloat, as it is believed that their sea knowledge will be sufficiently tested by the examination they will have to pass in seamanship.

Testimonials of service need not be shown, but a candidate for examination will be required to produce a statutory declaration to the effect (1) that he is sole owner of the yacht ; (2) that the yacht is sea-going ; (3) that it is not to be used for trading purposes. He will also be required to fill up the form of application (Form Exn. 2), and pay the fee of Rs. 30 at the Port Office, as prescribed in rule 3.

In all other respects, except that the candidate will not be required to produce a "First Aid" certificate, the regulations relating to examinations of Masters of foreign-going ships will apply in these cases.

59. Yacht Master : Navigation.—The examination in navigation for a Yacht Master's certificate will be precisely the same as that prescribed for an Ordinary Master's certificate, except that in the civil duties of a shipmaster the Master of a yacht will only be expected to possess a knowledge of what he is required to do by the Merchant Shipping Act.

60. Yacht Master : Seamanship.—He must give satisfactory answers as to his knowledge of making and taking in sail, and as to the management of a yacht under canvas in moderate and in stormy weather. He must have a thorough knowledge of the Rule of the Road as regards both steamers and sailing vessels, their regulation lights, and fog and sound signals, and be able to describe the signals of distress, and the signals to be made by ships wanting a pilot, and the liabilities and penalties incurred by the misuse of these signals. He must also understand the use and management of the rocket apparatus in the event of his vessel being stranded. He must be able to mark and use the lead and log lines; to cast a vessel on a lee shore; to moor and unmoor a ship; to keep a clear anchor, and to carry out an anchor. He must know how to keep his vessel out of the trough of the sea in the event of accident; how to rig rafts and jury rudders, etc.; and what steps to take if his vessel is disabled or unmanageable and drifting towards a lee shore. He will also be examined as to his resources for the preservation of the crew in the event of wreck. He must also possess a knowledge of the measures he should adopt for preventing and checking an outbreak of scurvy on board; and be prepared to answer any other questions relating to the management of a yacht, either steam or sailing, which the Examiner may ask.

61. Provisional Certificates.—Provisional certificates for foreign-going ships or for foreign-going steamships, according to the candidate's qualifications, are granted on the conditions stated below to any officer of the Mercantile Marine who may require such a certificate to qualify him for appointment to or promotion in the Royal Naval Reserve. These Certificates are only issued for Royal Naval Reserve purposes, and do not authorise the holders to go to sea as First Mate or Master.

Candidates for these certificates must apply to the Port Officer, Calcutta, fill up the form of application (Exn. 2) and pay the usual fee. They must produce their First or Second Mate's certificates of competency, and an authority from the Local Government before they can be examined. This authority should be obtained through the Port Officer.

62. Provisional Certificates, First Mate.—Provisional certificates as First Mate are granted to candidates who can prove that they have served five years at sea, and that during one year of this period they have served in a capacity not lower than Fourth Mate while holding a Second Mate's certificate. They must pass the usual examination for First Mate and pay the usual fee. The provisional certificate is exchangeable for the full certificate as First Mate, without further payment or examination, on production to the Port Officer of satisfactory proofs that the holder has served at sea not less than 12 months in a foreign going vessel in a capacity not lower than Fourth Mate, and that during the whole of that period he has been in regular charge of a watch and in possession of a certificate of competency as Second Mate.

63. Provisional Certificates, Master.—Provisional certificates as Master are granted to candidates who can prove not less than six and a half years' service at sea, and who pass the usual examination for Master and pay the usual fee. Of this service two and a half years must have been served in a capacity not lower than Fourth Mate of an ocean-going steamship, during the last 12 months of which the candidate must have been in possession of a full certificate as First Mate. These certificates will be exchanged for the full certificate as Master without further payment or examination, on production to the Port Officer of satisfactory proofs that the holder has served at sea not less than two and a half years in a foreign-going vessel in charge of a watch in a capacity not lower than Fourth Mate, and that during 12 months of this period he has served as Second Mate while in possession of a full certificate of competency as First Mate.

64. Voluntary Examination in Compass Deviation.—Any person holding a certificate of any grade in the foreign or home trade or as Master of his own pleasure yacht, who wishes to pass a voluntary examination in compass deviation, can at any time be examined upon filling up the usual form of application, and paying to the Port Officer the fee of Rs. 15. If the candidate passes the examination a note to that effect will be made upon his certificate.

65. Voluntary Examination in Signalling.—The examination in Signalling as prescribed for candidates for the Extra Master's certificate is open as a voluntary examination to all persons holding, or who have passed for, or who are candidates for, a certificate of competency of any grade.

If the candidate passes, the fact with the date and place of passing will be recorded upon his certificate of competency.

Candidates may be examined at any port where Ordinary examinations are held upon filling up the form of application (Exn. 2) and paying the fee of Rs. 15. (See Appendix D.)

No fee, however, will be charged for this examination if it is taken at the same time as that at which a candidate is examined for any certificate of competency.

66. Voluntary Examination in Steam.—These examinations are provided for the purpose of giving Masters and Mates who are possessed of certificates of competency an opportunity of undergoing a voluntary examination as to their practical knowledge of the use and working of the steam engine. They are conducted under the superintendence of the Port Officer at such times as he may appoint for the purpose.

The examination is open to any person who holds a Certificate of any grade in the foreign or home trade or as Master of his own pleasure yacht. Full particulars of the examination are given in Appendix H.

67. Examination in Steam: how to apply.—Candidates should fill up the form of application (Form Exn. 2) at the Port Office, pay the fee of Rs. 15 and deposit their certificates and testimonials with the Port Officer, who will inform them when and where to attend to be examined. The usual testimonials for sobriety and good conduct for at least the last 18 months preceding the date of application to be examined must be produced.

68. Examination in Steam : endorsement of certificate.—If the candidate passes, form Exn. 15, together with a written report of the examination, should be sent to the Port Officer and the candidate's certificate, together with the form Exn. 2, will be sent to the Local Government; the words "Certified to have passed in Steam," with the date and place of examination, will then be entered on the certificate and its duplicate, and the certificate will be sent to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office at the port named in the form Exn. 2, and will be delivered to the candidate in the usual manner.

The endorsement of a Master's or Mate's Certificate for "Steam" does not, however, imply that he is qualified to perform the duties of an Engineer.

69. Examination in Steam : failure.—If the candidate fails to pass his Certificate will be returned to him at once, but he may not present himself for re-examination until the expiration of three months from the date of failure.

70. Certificates of Service.—A person who has attained the rank of Lieutenant, sub-lieutenant, navigating lieutenant, or navigating sub-lieutenant in His Majesty's Navy or of Lieutenant in His Majesty's Royal Indian Marine Service, is entitled to a certificate of service as Master of a foreign-going ship without examination. This certificate will not entitle the holder to go to sea as Master or Mate of a home trade ship.

Certificate of service will be issued by the Board of Trade only. Applications for certificates of service of the Royal Indian Marine must be made on a printed form, Exn. 18, which will be supplied free of charge on application to the Director of the Royal Indian Marine.

Applicants on duty in India should submit their claims to the Director for transmission to the Government of India and the India office. Officers on leave in England should submit their claims to the India office on the printed form which may be obtained from that office.

Applications for certificates of service by officers of the Royal Navy on the active list must be made through their commanding officers, and applications from officers of the Royal Navy on half-pay must be made to the Secretary of the Admiralty, who in either case will forward the application to the Board of Trade.

71. Ambulance Certificates and Government Awards.—An officer in the Mercantile Marine who holds a certificate of proficiency in First Aid to the Injured from the St. John's or St. Andrew's Ambulance Association or some equivalent certificate, can have the fact endorsed on his certificate of competency provided the latter was issued before April 1st, 1908, if the two certificates are forwarded to the President of the Board of Examiners.

Recipients of Government awards can also have the fact stamped on their certificates of competency, if they submit evidence of the award together with their certificate in a similar manner.

CHAPTER III.

RULES FOR ESTIMATING SEA SERVICE.

72. Sea service.—In these Regulations sea service is reckoned from the commencement to the termination of the voyage. The certificates of discharge for service in the foreign trade will generally be accepted as proof of sea service, but certificates of discharge for service in the home or coasting trade must always be sent to the Port Officer for verification. Port Officer and Examiners will be careful to see that these discharges have not been in any way tampered with, and will report any suspicious case to the Local Government.

For all certificates of competency as Master or Mate in the Mercantile Marine, the qualifying service usually required is service performed in ordinary trading vessels. While the Regulations provide for the acceptance in part of certain kinds of non-trading service (e.g., that performed in fishing-boats, yachts, pilot vessels, etc.), non-trading service not specially provided for in the Regulations cannot be accepted as qualifying service unless it has been submitted to the Local Government and their sanction obtained.

73. Sea service for foreign-going certificates.—For foreign-going certificates the term "sea service" means, unless otherwise stated, service performed in foreign-going vessels. (But see rule 130.)

74. Officers' service : Home Trade.—Service in a lower grade than First or Only Mate in the home or coasting trade will not be recognized as officers' service towards qualifying a candidate for examination for a foreign-going certificate.

75. Service in Home Trade.—For Home Trade Passenger ship certificates service in the home or coasting trade is regarded as equivalent to service in the foreign trade; but for Foreign-going certificates it is regarded as only equivalent to two-thirds of the time spent in the foreign trade, except in the case of Indian coasting voyages extending beyond a distance of 500 miles from the port of departure in vessels commanded by Masters holding foreign-going certificates, when such service will count as foreign voyages, and will be reckoned as full time; but the time spent in the port of departure or home port will not be allowed to count. In all cases the length of service is deemed to commence on the date of sailing from the port of departure or home port and to end on the date of arrival at the home port. Such service must be vouched for in the Form laid down in Appendix N.

76. Certificate, meaning of.—By the word "certificate" is meant a certificate of competency granted by the Board of Trade under the Merchant Shipping Acts, or by the Government of a British self-governing Dominion, Colony, or Possession, under an Order in Council issued in pursuance of the Merchant Shipping Acts.

A list of the Colonial certificates referred to will be found in Appendix M. They are of the same force as the corresponding certificates granted by the Board of Trade.

77. Colonial local certificates.—The holder of a Colonial certificate for foreign-going ships not granted under the Merchant Shipping Acts who desires to be examined for an Imperial certificate of the same grade, must prove that he has performed the amount of service required by these Regulations to entitle him to hold such a certificate. He must also produce satisfactory testimonials as to character for at least the last 12 months of sea service preceding his application to be examined.

78. Foreign-going certificates.—Where a foreign-going certificate is required in order to qualify a candidate for examination, the certificate may be either an Ordinary certificate, or a certificate for fore-and-aft rigged vessels, or a certificate for foreign-going steamships.

79. Pilot defined.—The term "pilot" in these Regulations (see rules 32 and 55) means a pilot who is employed in general pilotage, and holds a first class pilot's certificate from some competent authority authorising him to pilot vessels outside harbour and partially smooth water limits. A Hooghly Master Pilot is for the purpose of this rule to be considered as a first class pilot.

80. Officer's service.—Officer's service to be recognised as qualifying for purposes of examination must be performed with the requisite certificate as specified in Appendix J. The officer's service performed by men who have been duly promoted during the course of a voyage (see rule 84) or who, in consequence of serving in vessels plying between ports abroad, have been unable to obtain the necessary certificates, may, however, be recognised, provided that it is in other respects satisfactory.

81. Foreign officers.—Foreign officers who wish to apply for a British certificate of competency must in all cases have performed their qualifying officer's service with the requisite British certificate. The service may have been performed in foreign vessels if the candidate can produce satisfactory testimonials as to conduct and character, and is able to prove that the service has been in the required capacities, and that during the period of service he has held a British certificate of competency of the grade required by the Regulations (see rule 85).

82. In charge of a watch.—When service in charge of a watch in either the foreign or home trade is specified in the Regulations, candidates for certificates of competency as First Mate must be able to prove that during eight months at least of their service they have kept full regular watch during the whole voyage, i.e., from port to port, which, if in the foreign trade, must amount to not less than 8 hours of each 24 hours' service. Where a candidate can prove eight months of such full service, service performed in cases where watches were doubled at any time during the voyage will be accepted as equivalent to half the same period of full watch-keeping service. No amount of occasional service will, by itself, be accepted as qualifying service. Candidates for certificates of competency as Master will be required to have served during the whole of the time specified by the Regulations, in full charge of a watch, and no service performed under the system of double watches, except as the senior officer, will be accepted as qualifying service for a certificate of this grade. Great care must be exercised by the Examiners and others in regard to such service, and unless the candidate produces a clear and satisfactory testimonial specially setting forth the above facts, from the Master or owner of the vessel in which the service was performed, it must not be accepted.

83. Additional Mates.—Service as additional or auxiliary First or Second Mates, in large foreign-going vessels, when, in both cases, Third and Fourth Mates are also carried, will count as First Mate's or Second Mate's service, as the case may be, provided that the candidate was entered on the articles in one of these capacities, and that he produces the necessary certificate (see rule 82) showing that he was in charge of a watch or watches during the whole time claimed. (See also rule 6.)

84. Promotion during voyage.—Whenever a man has, from any cause, been regularly promoted on the occurrence of a vacancy in the course of the voyage from the rank in which he first shipped, and such promotion, with the ground on which it has been made, is properly entered in the articles and in the Official Log Book, he will receive credit for his service in the higher grade for the period subsequent to his promotion.

85. Evidence as to service in foreign vessels.—The testimonials of service of foreigners and of British officers and seamen serving in foreign vessels, which cannot be verified by the Port Officer, must be confirmed either by the Consul of the country to which the ship in which the candidate served belonged or by some other recognised official authority of that country, or by the testimony of some credible person on the spot having personal knowledge of the facts required to be established. The production, however, of such proofs will not of necessity be deemed sufficient. Each case will be decided on its own merits, and if the sufficiency of the proofs given appears to be in doubt, it must be referred to the Government for decision.

86. Auxiliary screw ships.—Service in auxiliary screw whaling ships and in vessels with auxiliary steam power, which use their screws only in calms or during light winds, is considered as service performed in sailing vessels.

87. Excursion steamers.—In the case of excursion steamers only such service as can be proved to have been performed at sea will be accepted.

88. Service as carpenter, sailmaker, cook, steward, etc.—Candidates whose service has been performed in capacities other than apprentice, midshipman, cadet, ordinary seaman or able seaman—e.g., men who have served as carpenter, or sailmaker, or as cook in small vessels where cooking is only a part of a man's duty—will be required to satisfy the Port Officer that they have during the whole time claimed performed deck duties in addition to their own particular work, and that they have a good knowledge of seamanship. These facts may possibly be proved by the production of satisfactory certificates from the Masters with whom the candidate has served; but such service will only be accepted as equivalent to two-thirds of the time served as ordinary deck hand. Failing satisfactory evidence, the applicant will be required to perform additional service in the capacity of seaman. Service as cook (under other conditions than the above), or as steward, purser, or wireless operator will not be accepted.

89. Service as seaman or as wireless operator.—If a candidate has been engaged on articles of agreement as seaman or in any seamen rating and has served both as a seaman and as a wireless operator, the service may be counted as qualifying service in full.

If a candidate has been engaged on articles of agreement as a wireless operator and has served as such, one quarter of the service up to a maximum of twelve months may be counted as qualifying service.

90. Service in fishing or pilot vessels.—Service performed exclusively in trawlers and other deep sea-fishing vessels, or in pilot vessels, will not qualify a candidate for examination. He must in addition prove the following service:—

- (a) For a Foreign-going certificate, service for at least 18 months in an ordinary trading vessel in the foreign trade, or the equivalent period, 27 months, in the home or coasting trade.
- (b) For a Home Trade Passenger ship certificate, service for at least twelve months in an ordinary trading vessel in the foreign, home, or coasting trade.

91. Service in yachts.—Service in pleasure yachts will be accepted as qualifying service under the following conditions:—

- (a) It must in all cases be verified by satisfactory proofs, which must set forth clearly and in detail the nature and duration of the service claimed; and it must be distinctly understood that only actual sea service will be accepted, and that service in harbour or port is inadmissible.
- (b) Service in foreign-going yachts will be accepted in full; and service performed within home trade limits in sailing yachts of not less than 50 tons net register or in steam yachts of not less than 80 tons gross register will be accepted in the proportion stated in rule 75; but candidates must also show (1) for a Foreign-going certificate, service for at least 18 months in an ordinary trading vessel in the foreign trade, or for the equivalent period, 27 months, in an ordinary trading vessel in the home or coasting trade; (2) for a Home Trade Passenger-ship certificate, service for at least 12 months in an ordinary trading vessel in the foreign, home, or coasting trade.
- (c) Service within home trade limits in sailing yachts of 20 tons net register, or in steam yachts of 40 tons gross register, will be accepted towards qualifying a candidate for a foreign-going certificate as equivalent to half the same time served in the foreign trade, but no amount of such service shall count as more than two years' service in the foreign trade, and no such service shall count as officers' service to qualify candidates for foreign-going certificates.
- (d) Service within home trade limits in sailing yachts of not less than 20 tons net register, or in steam yachts of not less than 40 tons gross register, will be accepted at the ordinary rate as qualifying service for Home Trade Passenger Ship certificates, but candidates must prove that they have in addition served for at least 12 months in an ordinary trading vessel in the foreign, home, or coasting trade.
- (e) Service within home trade limits in sailing yachts of less than 20 tons net register, or in steam yachts of less than 40 tons gross register, will not be accepted as qualifying service for any class of certificate.

92. Service in tugs, War Department vessels, etc.—Service performed in tugs employed in Channel service or outside partially smooth water limits (see Appendix L) may be accepted as sea service for the purpose of qualifying a candidate for a Mate's or Master's certificate for home trade passenger ships only.

Service performed in War Department vessels employed outside partially smooth water limits (see rule 95) may be accepted as sea-service to qualify a candidate for a Mate's or Master's certificate for home trade passenger ships only. This service cannot be accepted towards qualifying a candidate for a Foreign-going certificate, unless there should be some very exceptional circumstances, when the case, together with all the candidate's papers, should be submitted to the Port Officer for his consideration.

93. Service in dredgers.—Service in steam hopper barges may, subject to the provisions of rule 95, be allowed to count towards qualifying a candidate for a Mate's certificate of competency for home trade passenger ships, provided the candidate can prove at least two years' service in an ordinary trading vessel in either the home, coasting, or foreign trade. Service in these steam hoppers will not be accepted as officer's service towards qualifying a candidate for a Master's certificate.

94. Service in lightships or engine-room.—Service in lightships or in an engine-room will not be accepted as sea service.

95. Service on rivers.—Service performed on rivers, no matter of what size, and service performed within smooth or partially smooth water limits (see Appendix L), will not be accepted.

Where any doubt whatever exists on this point, the candidate will be required to produce a certificate from the Master or owner of the vessel in which the service was performed, before the service can be accepted.

96. Training ships.—Time served on board a training ship will be allowed to count as equivalent to one-half the same time spent in service at sea, up to a limit of two years (i.e., no length of service will be allowed to count as more than one year at sea), provided that the candidate can produce a certificate from the Committee or Captain Superintendent that he has conducted himself creditably and passed a good examination in seamanship so far as it is practised in the training ship, as well as in other matters down to the time of his leaving the ship. Training ship service will not be regarded as equivalent to service in square-rigged vessels.

97. School for nautical training.—Time spent at a school for Nautical Training conducted on premises ashore may be allowed to count in some proportion, not exceeding one-half, as service at sea provided that—

(a) the school is in receipt of a grant from the Board of Education under the Regulations for Schools of Nautical Training;

(b) after an inspection by one of their officers the Board of Trade are satisfied that the school gives a training that justifies time spent there being reckoned as part of the necessary qualifying time for a certificate of competency;

(c) the candidate produces a satisfactory certificate as regards conduct and proficiency from the authorities of the school on leaving it.

The proportion in which time spent at a school conducted on premises ashore will be accepted as qualifying under the above provisions will be decided after inspection by one of the Board's officers, but time spent at the school will never be counted as equivalent to more than one-half of the same time spent at sea, nor will it in any circumstances be taken as equivalent to more than one year at sea.

98. Apprentices.—The whole of the time claimed under indentures of apprenticeship will be accepted as actual sea service to qualify under rule 28 for a Second Mate's certificate, provided (a) that the indentures have not been cancelled through some fault of the candidate, but are endorsed by the owner or Master to whom he was bound to the effect that he has performed his service faithfully during the time he remained as apprentice; and (b) that the candidate has served at sea four-fifths of the time claimed, that is to say, has not spent more than one-fifth of the time in home ports.

In cases where an apprentice is qualified for examination before the expiration of his indentures, e.g., where he has had training ship or other sea service prior to being bound, which, together with his actual time as apprentice, makes up the required four years, or where his indentures are for a period of more than four years, a letter from the owner or Master will be accepted in place of the endorsement referred to above.

In the event of the candidate being short of the required four-fifths of the time claimed as apprentice out of the United Kingdom, he will be required to show sufficient additional sea service, either as seaman or junior officer, to make up the four-fifths of the time claimed.

99. Midshipmen and cadets.—The whole of the time served as midshipman or cadet under indentures will also be accepted subject to the same conditions as those laid down for apprentices; and the same will be the case even when not bound by indentures, provided that the service as midshipman or cadet has been continuous, and that on the date of the termination of the period of service claimed in this capacity the candidate was on articles of agreement, and that he is able to comply with the requirements laid down in the matter of serving or making up the four-fifths period at sea during the time claimed.

100. Lighthouse tenders.—Service performed in the sea-going steam vessels of the Trinity House, of the Commissioners of Northern Lighthouses, or of the Commissioners of Irish Lights, or in Irish and Scotch Fishery Cruisers, will be accepted as sea service for the purpose of qualifying a candidate for examination for a home trade passenger ship certificate; but for a foreign-going certificate a candidate must show in addition to this service calculated in accordance with rule 75 at least twelve months in an ordinary trading vessel. In order to qualify a candidate for an Ordinary certificate, this twelve months must have been performed in a square-rigged sailing vessel (see rule 26).

101. Service in Royal Navy.—Officers of the Royal Navy are at liberty to apply for certificates of service and to be examined for certificates of competency in the Mercantile Marine, but the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty have directed that the applications of officers on the active list should be made through their commanding officers, and that the applications of officers on half-pay should be made to the Secretary of the Admiralty, who, in either case, will forward the application to the Board of Trade. In the case of Royal Indian Marine officers, applications for certificates of service should be made on a printed form Exn. 18, which will be supplied free of charge on application to the Director of the Royal Indian Marine. Applicants on duty in India should submit their claims to the Director for transmission to the Government of India and the India Office. Officers on leave in England should submit their claims to the India Office on the printed form which may be obtained from that office.

The conditions on which certificates of service are issued are stated in rule 70.

102. Qualifications required of Naval and Indian Marine Officers.—Officers of the Royal Navy or of the Royal Indian Marine who wish to be examined for certificates of competency in the Mercantile Marine will be required to prove the following service; and if an officer wishes to obtain the Ordinary certificate for foreign-going ships he must prove that at least twelve months of this required period was served under sail alone:—

- (a) For second Mate. The officer must prove four years' service at sea, or that he has attained the rank of acting sub-lieutenant.
- (b) For only Mate. Five years' service at sea.
- (c) For First Mate or Master. The officer must prove that he has attained the rank of sub-lieutenant in the Royal Navy, or of lieutenant in the Royal Indian Marine.

103. Service in Royal Naval Reserve.—Lieutenants, sub-lieutenants, and acting sub-lieutenants of the Royal Naval Reserve who perform sea service on board His Majesty's ships will, if accompanied by a good report, be allowed to count such service as if it had been performed in foreign-going merchant ships, and the service will rank according to the certificate of competency held by the candidate at the time. (See also rule 131.)

The time spent in Periodical Training in the Royal Naval Reserve on board sea-going vessels of the Royal Navy, if accompanied by a good report, will be accepted in full, but in the case of Midshipmen, will not count as Officer's service. In the case of service in Harbour ships of the Royal or Colonial Navies, only one half of the time will be accepted as sea service, and no such service must amount to more than one-fourth of the time required for the particular grade of Certificate applied for.

CHAPTER IV.

CONDUCT OF THE EXAMINATIONS.

104. The examinations will begin at 10 a.m. on each day. A regular luncheon interval will be given each day between 1 p.m. and 2 p.m., the vis à voce and practical parts of the examination being taken at such times as may be convenient. The time allotted for each written part of the examination for each grade of certificate will be as follows:—

SECOND MATE.—Paper on Navigation and Nautical Astronomy, 3 hours; Nautical Astronomy and Trigonometry, 2 hours; Chart work, 3 hours; Essay, 1 hour.

FIRST OR ONLY MATE.—Paper on Navigation and Nautical Astronomy, 3 hours; Nautical Astronomy and Trigonometry, 2 hours; Chart work, 3 hours; Sumner problem, 2 hours; Meteorology paper, 1½ hours.

MASTER.—Paper on Navigation and Nautical Astronomy, 3 hours; Nautical Astronomy and Trigonometry, 2 hours; Chart work, 3 hours; Meteorology paper, 1½ hours; Compass Deviation, 1½ hours; Naval Architecture, 1½ hours; Essay, 2 hours.

HOME TRADE MATE.—Arithmetic paper, 2 hours; Chart work, 3 hours.

HOME TRADE MASTER.—Arithmetic paper, 2 hours; Chart work, 3 hours; Nautical Astronomy and Deviation questions, 3 hours.

105. Candidates to be punctual.—Candidates are required to appear at the examination room punctually at the time appointed.

106. Loose paper and books removed.—Before commencing the examination the tables or desks must be cleared of all scraps of paper or books that are not used in the examination.

107. No strangers admitted.—No person will be allowed in the room during the examination, other than those whose duties require them to be present. No instructors will be allowed on the premises.

108. Books and papers strictly forbidden.—Candidates are prohibited from bringing into the examination room books or papers of any kind whatever. The slightest infringement of this rule will subject the offender to all the penalties of a failure, and he will not be allowed to present himself for re-examination for a period of three months.

109. All work to be shown.—No candidate will be allowed to work out his problems on waste paper, or to write on the blotting paper supplied for his use in the examination. Violation of this rule will subject the candidate to all the penalties of a failure.

A sheet of blotting paper should be issued to each candidate with the first examination paper, and it must be returned to the Examiner when the last paper is completed each day. The Examiner will be careful to see that the blotting paper has not been used by the candidate in solving his problems, or for conveying information to other candidates.

110. Instruments are provided.—All instruments necessary for use in the examinations are supplied by the Local Government.

111. Leaving room or building.—No candidate may leave the examination room without permission and without giving up the paper on which he is engaged. Under no circumstances will a candidate be allowed to leave the building while the examination is proceeding. Violation of this rule will subject the candidate to all the penalties of a failure.

112. Copying, &c., to be prevented.—Candidates should be so placed as to prevent one copying from the other, and no communication whatever between the candidates should be allowed.

113. Penalty for Copying, &c.—In the event of any candidate being discovered referring to any book or paper, or copying from another, or affording any assistance or giving any information to another, or communicating in any way with another, during the time of examination, or copying any part of the problems for the purpose of taking them out of the examination rooms he will subject himself to all the penalties of a failure, and will not be allowed to be examined for a period of six months.

A candidate guilty of a second offence will not be allowed to be examined until 12 months have elapsed.

114. Injury to books.—If a candidate defaces, blots, writes in, or otherwise injures any book or form belonging to the Local Government, the papers will be retained until he has replaced the damaged book or document. He will not be allowed to remove the damaged book or document, and will be subjected to all the penalties of a failure.

115. Silence.—Perfect silence is to be preserved in the examination room.

116. Penalty for breach of rules.—Any candidate violating any of the regulations, or being guilty of insolence to the Examiner, or of disorderly or improper conduct in or about the room, will render himself liable to the postponement of his examination, or, if he has passed, to the detention of his certificate for such period as the Local Government may direct.

117. Examination papers : how to be dealt with.—The examination papers of candidates must in all cases be sent to the Port Officer for his approval, together with the report of the examination on the Forms Exn. 14 and Exn. 34.

118. Examination in Navigation.—The whole of the written portion of the examination will be taken on the marks system. The candidate will be furnished with sheets of the blank ruled paper (Exn. 30) which is supplied for the purpose, with instructions that he is to work or write only on one side of the paper, and to answer in a clear and legible hand each of the questions on the paper, and to commence each answer by writing down the number of the question to which it relates in the margin. Marks will be allotted for each question, and candidates will be required to obtain 75 per cent. of the total marks in order to pass for an Ordinary Certificate. Papers will not be handed back to candidates for correction.

119. Compass deviation.—In answering questions on the tentative method of compass adjustment, the candidate will be tested by Beall's Compass Deviascope.

120. Barometer, tides, &c.—The examination on the barometer, thermometer, and hydrometer, prevailing winds and currents of the globe, trade routes, and tides, will be conducted orally, and the questions asked by the examiner, which will be constantly varied, will be confined to and based on the information given in the text-books mentioned in Appendix K; candidates will be required to have a fair and intelligent knowledge of the contents of those books.

121. Sextant.—Particular attention should be paid to the sextant, the examination in which will be conducted orally and practically. Every candidate will be required to measure both vertical and horizontal angles, and will be examined practically as to his knowledge of the adjustments and the use of the various screws; he must be able to read correctly on and off the arc, and must also be able to find the index error both by the horizon and by the sun.

122. Corrections by tables.—The corrections by inspection of tables given in some of the works on navigation, e.g., Tables IX, XI and XXI, in Norie's Epitome, will not be allowed; every correction must appear on the papers of the candidates.

123. Degree of precision required.—Degree of precision required in the solution of the problems:—

(a) Candidates are expected to work their problems to the nearest half-minute of arc and to the nearest second in time.

(b) In interpolating for the correct deviation to be applied in solving the chart questions, it will usually be sufficient if the candidate works throughout with the nearest degree of deviation taken from the deviation card; and even in cases where the deviations may vary but little, the nearest half degree used throughout will be sufficiently precise. It is not necessary that the candidate should waste his time in solving the course to odd minutes, as is sometimes done.

(c) In calculating the correction to apply to soundings the candidate is not required to work to the exact inch, as is sometimes done. It will be sufficient if he brings his answer within half a foot or so of a precise result.

124. Candidates may use own method.—Candidates will be allowed to work out the various problems according to any method they have been accustomed to use.

125. Supplementary viva voce.—Candidates will be examined orally as to their knowledge of all their written and worked papers.

126. No candidate to be examined twice in a week.—A candidate will not be allowed to undergo examination twice in the same week, unless, under very special and urgent circumstances, the Examiner should see fit to relax this rule. In that case a special set of problems should be supplied to the candidate.

CHAPTER V.

TEMPORARY MODIFICATIONS IN THE REGULATIONS DUE TO WAR CONDITIONS.

127. Examination of Enemy Aliens.—So long as the war lasts no subject of an Enemy State will be allowed to present himself for examination for a certificate of competency in the Mercantile Marine or the Sea-fishing Service.

128. Candidates for Masters' certificates to produce evidence of nationality.—During the war no man may be examined for a certificate of competency as Master, of foreign-going ships or Master (Home Trade) unless (a) he is a British subject and (b) at the time of his birth each of his parents was a British subject by birth or by naturalisation.

In order to prove that he complies with these conditions every candidate for any of the certificates named must produce to the Examiner his own birth certificate and the birth certificate or certificate of naturalisation of each of his parents. These documents should be lodged with the Examiner at least a week before the day on which the candidate wishes to present himself for examination.

This requirement does not apply to any officer who has been granted a commission in the Royal Naval Reserve since March, 1911, or in the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve since February 1916.

If in any case there is any doubt whether the candidate complies with the above requirements, the local Examiner will refer the matter to the Principal Examiner.

129. First Aid Certificates.—A First Aid certificate which, though otherwise valid, is more than three years old will be accepted during the war if the holder has been prevented from renewing it by reason of the exigencies of the war service.

130. Service under the Admiralty.—All service afloat during the war in His Majesty's ships or in auxiliary supply ships or any other ships in attendance on the Fleet will be accepted in full (subject to the ordinary conditions as laid down in the Regulations) as qualifying sea service for the purposes of the Government's examinations of Masters and Mates.

The Local Government cannot undertake to accept the whole or any definite proportion of service in the Royal Naval Reserve, which is not qualifying service in accordance with the Regulations, but they will be prepared to consider sympathetically an application for examination from a candidate who has been prevented by his service in the Royal Naval Reserve from complying fully with the requirements. This may be taken as applying, e.g., to service with a First or Second Mate's certificate but in a rank below that of Acting Sub-Lieutenant.

131. Service in the Royal Naval Reserve: Antedating Certificates.—The Board of Trade have been in communication with the Admiralty with regard to the case of men serving in the Royal Naval Reserve during the war who are prevented by the exigencies of the Service from presenting themselves for examination on completion of the period of qualifying service required by the Regulations. Arrangements have been made whereby if such a person passes the examination for a certificate of competency at a time not remote from the conclusion of hostilities, he may have his certificate antedated to the date on which the period of qualifying service was completed; and service performed after that date, if eligible, will be accepted as qualifying for a higher certificate. No certificate, however, will be antedated to a date prior to that on which the candidate was called out for Active Service.

132. Service in transports: Antedating Certificates.—The arrangements indicated in rule 131 may be extended on certain conditions to men serving in vessels under Admiralty orders who are not in the Royal Naval Reserve. Such persons on applying for their certificates to be antedated will be required to produce a certificate signed or countersigned by the proper authority, showing that they were prevented by the exigencies of the service from presenting themselves for examination on completion of the period of qualifying service required by the Regulations.

For the purposes of the Regulations the proper authority will be :—

- (a) In the case of men serving in His Majesty's commissioned ships, the Commanding Officer.
- (b) In the case of men serving on requisitioned ship or ships employed on Admiralty service, the Director of Transports and Shipping.
- (c) In the case of men serving on ships employed in the service of the Government of India, the Director of the Royal Indian Marine in Bombay and the Captain Superintendent of the Government Dockyard, at Kidderpore, in Bengal.

133. Service in the Army.—The Local Government is anxious that, so far as it is reasonably possible, seamen or apprentices who are at the present time serving in the Army should not be hindered in their ordinary profession; but the Local Government cannot, in the absence of any indication of the probable duration of the war, give a definite undertaking with regard to the extent to which such service could be accepted as part of the service required to qualify for certificates of competency in the Mercantile Marine. The Local Government must have regard to the essential condition that their certificates must testify to actual competency, but they will be prepared in due course to consider sympathetically any application to be examined by a candidate who has been prevented from complying fully with the Regulations owing to his service in the Army.

134. Service under an Auxiliary First Mate.—With reference to rule 35 (c) of the Regulations, the Local Government will accept service as Second Mate while holding a First Mate's foreign-going certificate and performed during the war under an additional or auxiliary First Mate as qualifying service for a Master's certificate, provided that a Third Mate is also carried, and the requirement that there shall be a Fourth Mate will, for the time being, not be insisted upon.

135. Officers and Seamen interned Abroad.—Time spent by officers and seamen interned abroad in attending organised lectures or classes of instruction will be accepted, subject to the following conditions, in lieu of a portion of the qualifying sea service required to qualify them for examination of a certificate of competency :—

- (a) If nine hours a week are spent in attending lectures or classes, five weeks spent in this way will be accepted in lieu of one week's sea service. If eleven hours a week are spent in this way, four weeks will be accepted as one week's sea service. In no circumstances can a remission of more than three months' sea service be made.
- (b) The lectures must form part of a definite course of study bearing on the candidate's profession.
- (c) The candidate must produce a certificate, signed by the Lecturer or by some other recognised officer of the camp, that he has attended regularly and has profited by the instruction given. If possible the candidate should also produce his note books. It is suggested that the extent to which a student has profited should be ascertained by periodical examinations.

The subjects of study which are likely to be of value may be inferred from the syllabus for each grade of certificate given in the Regulations. The course of study need not, however, be confined to the actual subjects or questions specified in the syllabus and should embrace work more advanced and thorough than that necessary to meet the bare requirements of the examinations.

APPENDIX D.

(See Rule 29 and 65.)

EXAMINATION IN SIGNALLING.

The examination in Signalling should in all cases and for all grades commence with an examination in the International Code and be followed by an examination in the British Signal Manual, including Morse Flashing, Flag-waving and Semaphore.

International Code.—Examiners are recommended to frame the examination in the International Code of Signals, upon the instructions and illustrations given at the commencement of Parts I and II of the Signal Book. The information there given will be found sufficient to indicate all the characteristics of the Code.

By the form of the hoist, an observer can at sight understand the nature of any signal he sees flying; the examination should, therefore, tend to elicit a clear knowledge of all the distinctive features of the Code.

With this object in view, the Examiners should question the candidates as to the distinguishing forms of the respective hoists, which will be indicated according as a burgee, a pennant, or a square flag is uppermost, and also with regard to the number of flags, and the position of the Code flag when used in the hoist; making the 1, 2, 3 and 4 flag signals with the flags supplied for the purpose, and varying the signals made, showing 2 and 3 flag signals, with and without the Code flag included, or a Geographical or a Vocabulary signal, the name of a merchant ship or of a ship of war.

As the two latter signals would not be found in the Signal Book, the candidate should know where to find them and how to look them out.

The candidate should:—(a) Be able to read a signal at sight, so far as to name the flags composing the hoist. (b) Know the use of the Code pennant and of the penants C and D, "Yes" and "No," also of the two burgees A and B, and the square flags S and P, and the flags used to indicate cholera, plague, etc., on board, and the quarantine flag. (c) Be required to signal some word or words not included in the vocabulary of the Code either by letters or by the Spelling Table (page 516) or both. (d) Have a knowledge of the Distant Signals, and of their object, and the different modes of signalling therewith. (e) Know the special Morse signals indicated by certain letters as given on page 550. (f) Have a good knowledge of the Distress Signals and understand the penalty which may be incurred by their improper use.

The International Code is used on board His Majesty's ships, and it has been adopted by all the principal Maritime Powers for their public as well as merchant ships.

British Signal Manual.—Candidates will be expected to know the meaning of any or all of the single flag signals given therein, and the significations of the Pilot Jack when incorporated in a hoist. They should also be required to make or read from the Pilot Jack table a hoist given by the Examiner. Candidates need not be expected to commit the Pilot Jack table to memory, but there should be no hesitation whatever in making or reading a signal. They should also know how to recognise any of the Special Signals given at the end of the British Signal Manual.

Morse Flashing Flagwaving and Semaphore.—Candidates for the voluntary examination in signalling will be required to attain a minimum speed of 12 words a minute in semaphore, 10 words a minute in Morse flashing and 6 words a minute in Morse flagwaving (the average length of a word being taken as 5 letters).

Candidates for other certificates will only be required to attain a speed of 5 words a minute in Morse flashing and flagwaving and 8 words a minute in Semaphore.

In the ordinary examination, it will be sufficient if in Morse flashing a candidate is given a test card and a spelling message of 10 words, in Morse flagwaving a spelling message of 10 words, and in Semaphore a spelling message of 25 words.

In the voluntary examination in signalling, the Semaphore test will be a spelling message of 50 words.

The Morse flashing and flagwaving test will be a test message (see British Signal Manual), followed by a spelling message of 25 words.

The candidate must attain a degree of accuracy of at least 90 per cent. both in making and reading in each method, i.e., Flashing, Flagwaving and Semaphore.

In the examination in Morse flashing and flagwaving the candidate should be first required to make a test message, followed by a spelling message of 25 words. The Examiner should then make a test message, followed by a spelling message of 25 words to be read by the candidate.

The same procedure must be observed in the Semaphore examination, except that, as a test message is not given, the candidate will be required to make a spelling message of 50 words and then to read a message of 50 words made by the Examiner. The Semaphore messages may be made either by hand flags or mechanical Semaphore, or both at the discretion of the Examiner.

In the Morse flashing and flagwaving examination, marks will be allotted for the test message in the proportion of 50-78 of a mark for each correct letter (see table at back of test cards), and for the spelling message 2 marks for each correct word or group of figures. The candidate must for a pass gain an aggregate of at least 90 per cent. of the maximum marks in both spelling and test messages.

In the Semaphore examination 2 marks will be allotted for each correct word and 90 per cent. of the maximum must be obtained for a pass.

The spelling message is left to the discretion of the Examiner, and may be a passage from any book or newspaper in English. When the passage contains figures and the candidate does not choose to spell them out, the Examiner should see that the proper signs are made before and after the figures.

The message as read by the candidate should be taken down by another candidate where possible, otherwise by a clerk, or other person according as the Examiner may deem expedient.

Candidates should be thoroughly tested in the various signs and the procedure of calling up, sending and answering a signal, as laid down in the British Signal Manual, and this course should always be strictly adhered to.

Particular attention should be paid by Examiners to the accurate spacing of the Morse signs, and to the intervals between letters and words, both in flashing and flagwaving, and also to the correct making of the Semaphore signs. Any attempted increase of speed at the expense of accuracy should be discouraged.

The block letter test and spelling message as read by the candidate should be forwarded on the Form Exn. 19a, together with the percentage of marks allotted and report on the Form Exn. 19b to the Principal Examiner, with any remarks the Examiner may have to add with respect to the examination.

Note.—The International Code of Signals with the Signal Letters of British Ships, is prepared by the Registrar-General of Shipping and Seamen, and may be obtained of the publishers, Messrs. Spottiswoode, Ballantyne & Co., 1, New Street Square, London, E.C.4, and the principal booksellers at the various ports, price 6s.

The Official Mercantile Navy List and Maritime Directory may be obtained in like manner, price 12s.

The British Signal Manual may be obtained through any book-seller, or directly from His Majesty's Stationery Office at any of the addresses given on the title page of these Regulations, price 6d.

APPENDIX E.

REGULATIONS FOR PREVENTING COLLISIONS AT SEA.

1. ORDER IN COUNCIL OF OCTOBER 13, 1910.

SCHEDULE 1.

Preliminary.

These Rules shall be followed by all vessels upon the high seas and in all waters connected therewith, navigable by sea-going vessels.

In the following Rules every steam vessel which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing vessel, and every vessel under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a steam vessel.

The word "steam vessel" shall include any vessel propelled by machinery.

A vessel is "under way" within the meaning of these Rules, when she is not at anchor, or made fast to the shore or aground.

Rules concerning lights, etc.

The word "visible" in these Rules, when applied to lights, shall mean visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere.

Article 1. The rules concerning lights shall be complied with in all weathers from sunset to sunrise, and during such time no other lights which may be mistaken for the prescribed lights shall be exhibited.

Article 2. A steam vessel when under way shall carry :—

- (a) On or in front of the foremast, or if a vessel without a foremast, then in the fore part of the vessel, at a height above the hull, of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the vessel exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, so, however, that the light need not be carried at a greater height above the hull than 40 feet, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 20 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the vessel, viz., from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 5 miles.
- (b) On the starboard side a green light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.
- (c) On the port side a red light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.
- (d) The said green and red side lights shall be fitted with in-board screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.
- (e) A steam vessel when under way may carry an additional white light similar in construction to the light mentioned in subdivision (a). These two lights shall be so placed in line with the keel that one shall be at least 15 feet higher than the other, and in such a position with reference to each other that the lower light shall be forward of the upper one. The vertical distance between these lights shall be less than the horizontal distance.

Article 3. A steam vessel when towing another vessel shall, in addition to her side-lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and when towing more than one vessel shall carry an additional bright white light 6 feet above or below such lights, if the length of the tow, measuring from the stern of the towing vessel to the stern of the last vessel towed, exceeds 600 feet. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), except the additional light, which may be carried at a height of not less than 14 feet above the hull.

Such steam vessel may carry a small white light abaft the funnel or aftermast for the vessel towed to steer by, but such light shall not be visible forward of the beam.

Article 4. (a) A vessel which from any accident is not under command shall carry at the same height as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), where they can best be seen, and, if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light, two red lights, in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 2 miles; and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, two black balls or shapes each 2 feet in diameter.

(b) A vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable shall carry in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), and if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light, three lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart. The highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least 2 miles. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, three shapes not less than 2 feet in diameter, of which the highest and lowest shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The vessel referred to in this Article when not making way through the water, shall not carry the side lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this Article are to be taken by other vessels as signals that the vessel showing them is not under command and cannot therefore get out of the way.

These signals are not signals of vessels in distress and requiring assistance. Such signals are contained in Article 81.

Article 5. A sailing vessel under way, and any vessel being towed, shall carry the same lights as are prescribed by Article 2 for a steam vessel under way, with the exception of the white lights mentioned therein, which they shall never carry.

Article 6. Whenever, as in the case of small vessels under way during bad weather, the green and red side-lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept at hand lighted and ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side, nor, if practicable, more than 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 7. Steam vessels of less than 40, and vessels under oars or sails of less than 20 tons gross tonnage, respectively, and rowing boats, when under way, shall not be obliged to carry the lights mentioned in Article 2 (a), (b) and (c), but if they do not carry them they shall be provided with the following lights:—

1. Steam vessels of less than 40 tons shall carry:—

(a) In the forepart of the vessel, or on or in front of the funnel, where it can best be seen, and at a height above the gunwale of not less than 9 feet, a bright white light constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (a), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(b) Green and red side-lights constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (b) and (c) and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile, or a combined lantern showing a green light and a red light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides. Such lantern shall be carried not less than 3 feet below the white light.

2. Small steamboats, such as are carried by sea-going vessels, may carry the white light at a less height than 9 feet above the gunwale, but it shall be carried above the combined lantern, mentioned in subdivision 1 (b).

3. Vessels under oars or sails, of less than 20 tons, shall have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on one side and a red glass on the other, which, on the approach of or to other vessels, shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

4. Rowing boats, whether under oars or sail, shall have ready at hand a lantern showing a white light, which shall be temporarily exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision.

The vessels referred to in this Article shall not be obliged to carry the lights prescribed by Article 4 (a), and Article 11, last paragraph.

Article 8. Pilot-vessels, when engaged on their station on pilotage duty, shall not show the lights required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed fifteen minutes.

On the near approach of or to other vessels they shall have their side-lights lighted, ready for use, and shall flash or show them at short intervals, to indicate the direction in which they are heading, but the green light shall not be shown on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side.

A pilot-vessel of such a class as to be obliged to go alongside of a vessel to put a pilot on board, may show the white light instead of carrying it at the masthead, and may, instead of the coloured lights above mentioned, have at hand ready for use a lantern with a green glass on the one side and a red glass on the other, to be used as prescribed above.

A steam pilot-vessel exclusively employed for the service of pilots licensed or certified by any pilotage authority or the Committee of any pilotage district, when engaged on her station on pilotage duty and not at anchor, shall, in addition to the lights required for all pilot boats, carry at a distance of eight feet below her white masthead light a red light visible all round the horizon and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere at a distance of at least two miles, and also the coloured side-lights required to be carried by vessels when under way.

When engaged on her station on pilotage duty and at anchor she shall carry, in addition to the lights required for all pilot boats, the red light above mentioned, but not the coloured side-lights.

Pilot-vessels, when not engaged on their station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other vessels of their tonnage.

Article 9.*† Fishing-vessels and fishing-boats, when under way and when not required by this Article to carry or show the lights hereinafter specified, shall carry or show the lights prescribed for vessels of their tonnage under way.

(a) Open boats, by which it is to be understood boats not protected from the entry of sea water by means of a continuous deck, when engaged in any fishing at night with outlying tackle extending not more than 150 feet horizontally from the boat into the seaway, shall carry one all-round white light.

Open boats, when fishing at night, with outlying tackle extending more than 150 feet horizontally from the boat into the seaway, shall carry one all round white light, and in addition, on approaching or being approached by other vessels, shall show a second white light at least 3 feet below the first light and at a horizontal distance of at least 5 feet away from it in the direction in which the outlying tackle is attached.

(b)† Vessels and boats, except open boats as defined in subdivision (a), when fishing with drift-nets, shall, so long as the nets are wholly or partly in the water, carry two white lights where they can best be seen. Such lights shall be placed so that the vertical distance between them shall be not less than 6 feet, and not more than 15 feet, and so that the horizontal distance between them, measured in a line with the keel, shall be not less than 5 feet and not more than 10 feet. The lower of these two lights shall be in the direction of the nets, and both of them shall be of such a character as to show all round the horizon, and to be visible at a distance of not less than 3 miles.

* This article does not apply to Chinese or Siamese vessels.

† The expression "Mediterranean Sea" contained in sub-sections (b) and (c) of this Article includes the Black Sea and the other adjacent inland seas in communication with it.

† Dutch vessels and boats when engaged in the "kol" or handline, fishing will carry the lights prescribed for vessels fishing with drift-nets.

Within the Mediterranean Sea and in the seas bordering the coasts of Japan and Korea* sailing fishing vessels of less than 20 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to carry the lower of these two lights; should they, however, not carry it, they shall show in the same position (in the direction of the net or gear) a white light, visible at a distance of not less than one sea mile, on the approach of or to other vessels.

(c) Vessels and boats, except open boats as defined in subdivision (a), when line-fishing with their lines out and attached to or hauling their lines, and when not at anchor or stationary within the meaning of subdivision (k), shall carry the same lights as vessels fishing with drift-nets. When shooting lines, or fishing with towing lines, they shall carry the lights prescribed for a steam or sailing vessel under way, respectively.

Within the Mediterranean Sea and in the seas bordering the coasts of Japan and Korea* sailing fishing vessels of less than 20 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to carry the lower of these two lights; should they, however, not carry it, they shall show in the same position (in the direction of the lines) a white light, visible at a distance of not less than one sea mile, on the approach of or to other vessels.

(d) Vessels, when engaged in trawling, by which is meant the dragging of an apparatus along the bottom of the sea—

1. If steam vessels, shall carry, in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a) a tricoloured lantern so constructed and fixed as to show a white light from right ahead to two points on each bow, and a green light and a red light over an arc of the horizon from two points on each bow to two points abaft the beam on the starboard and port sides, respectively; and not less than 6 nor more than 12 feet below the tricoloured lantern a white light in a lantern, so constructed as to show a clear, uniform and unbroken light all round the horizon.
2. If sailing vessels, shall carry a white light in a lantern, so constructed as to show a clear, uniform and unbroken light all round the horizon, and shall also, on the approach of or to other vessels, show where it can best be seen a white flare-up light or torch in sufficient time to prevent collision.

All lights mentioned in subdivision (d) 1 and 2 shall be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(e) Oyster dredgers and other vessels fishing with dredge-nets shall carry and show the same lights as trawlers.

(f) Fishing-vessels and fishing-boats may at any time use a flare-up light in addition to the lights which they are by this Article required to carry and show, and they may also use working lights.

(g) Every fishing-vessel and every fishing-boat under 150 feet in length, when at anchor, shall exhibit a white light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least one mile.

Every fishing-vessel of 150 feet in length or upwards, when at anchor, shall exhibit a white light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least one mile, and shall exhibit a second light as provided for vessels of such length by Article 11.

Should any such vessel, whether under 150 feet in length, or of 150 feet in length or upwards, be attached to a net or other fishing gear, she shall on the approach of other vessels show an additional white light at least 3 feet below the anchor light, and at a horizontal distance of at least 5 feet away from it in the direction of the net or gear.

(h) If a vessel or boat when fishing becomes stationary in consequence of her gear getting fast to a rock or other obstruction, she shall in daytime haul down the day-signal required by subdivision (k); at night show the light or lights prescribed for a vessel at anchor; and during fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms make the signal prescribed for a vessel at anchor. [See subdivision (d), and the last paragraph of Article 15.]

(i) In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms, drift-net vessels attached to their nets, and vessels when trawling, dredging, or fishing with any kind of dredge-net, and vessels line-fishing with their lines out, shall, if of 20 tons gross tonnage or upwards, respectively, at intervals of not more than one minute make a blast; in steam vessels, with the whistle or siren, and if sailing vessels, with the fog-horn; each blast to be followed by ringing the bell. Fishing vessels and boats of less than 20 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to give the abovementioned signals; but if they do not, they shall make some other efficient sound signal at intervals of not more than one minute.

(k) All vessels or boats fishing with nets or lines or trawls, when under way, shall in daytime indicate their occupation, to an approaching vessel by displaying a basket or other efficient signal where it can best be seen. If vessels or boats at anchor have their gear out, they shall, on the approach of other vessels, show the same signal on the side on which those vessels can pass.

The vessels required by this Article to carry or show the lights hereinbefore specified shall not be obliged to carry the lights prescribed by Article 4(a), and the last paragraph of Article 11.

Article 10. A vessel which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned vessel a white light or a flare-up light.

The white light required to be shown by this Article may be fixed and carried in a lantern, but in such case the lantern shall be so constructed, fitted, and screened that it shall throw an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 12 points of the compass, viz., for 6 points from right aft on each side of the vessel, so as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile. Such light shall be carried as nearly as practicable on the same level as the side-lights.

Article 11. A vessel under 150 feet in length, when at anchor, shall carry forward, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light in a lantern so constructed as to show a clear, uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 1 mile.

A vessel of 150 feet or upwards in length, when at anchor, shall carry in the forward part of the vessel, at a height of not less than 20, and not exceeding 40, feet above the hull, one such light, and at or near the stern of the vessel, and at such a height that it shall be not less than 15 feet lower than the forward light, another such light.

The length of the vessel shall be deemed to be the length appearing in her certificate of registry.

A vessel aground in or near a fairway shall carry the above light or lights and the two red lights prescribed by Article 4 (a).

Article 12. Every vessel may, if necessary in order to attract attention, in addition to the lights which she is by these Rules required to carry, show a flare-up light or use any detonating signal that can not be mistaken for a distress signal.

* Also, as regards Russian vessels, in the seas (excluding the Baltic) bordering the coasts of Russia.

Article 13. Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for vessels sailing under convoy, or with the exhibition of recognition signals adopted by shipowners, which have been authorized by their respective Governments and duly registered and published.

Article 14. A steam vessel proceeding under sail only, but having her funnel up, shall carry in daytime, forward, where it can best be seen, one black ball or shape 2 feet in diameter.

Sound-signals for Fog, etc.

Article 15. All signals prescribed by this Article for vessels under way shall be given :

1. By "steam vessels" on the whistle or siren.
2. By "sailing vessels and vessels towed" on the fog-horn.

The words "prolonged blast" used in this Article shall mean a blast of from 4 to 6 seconds' duration. A steam vessel shall be provided with an efficient whistle or siren, sounded by steam or some substitute for steam, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstruction, and with an efficient fog-horn, to be sounded by mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing vessel of 20 tons gross tonnage or upwards shall be provided with a similar fog-horn and bell.

In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms, whether by day or night, the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows, viz. :—

- (a) A steam vessel having way upon her, shall sound, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, a prolonged blast.
- (b) A steam vessel under way, but stopped and having no way upon her, shall sound, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, two prolonged blasts, with an interval of about 1 second between them.
- (c) A sailing vessel under way shall sound, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, when on the starboard tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.
- (d) A vessel, when at anchor, shall, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, ring the bell rapidly for about 5 seconds.
- (e) A vessel, when towing a vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, and a vessel under way, which is unable to get out of the way of an approaching vessel through being not under command, or unable to manœuvre as required by these Rules, shall, instead of the signals prescribed in subdivisions (a) and (c) of this Article, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, sound ~~three~~ blasts in succession, viz. : one prolonged blast followed by two short blasts. A vessel towed may give this signal and she shall not give any other.

Sailing vessels and boats of less than 20 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to give the above-mentioned signals, but if they do not, they shall make some other efficient sound-signals at intervals of not more than 1 minute.†

Speed of ships to be Moderate in Fog, etc.

Article 16. Every vessel shall, in a fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms, go at a moderate speed, having careful regard to the existing circumstances and conditions.

A steam vessel hearing, apparently forward of her beam, the fog-signal of a vessel the position of which is not ascertained, shall, so far as the circumstances of the case admit, stop her engines, and then navigate with caution until danger of collision is over.

STEERING AND SAILING RULES.

Preliminary—Risk of Collision.

Risk of collision can, when circumstances permit, be ascertained by carefully watching the compass bearing of an approaching vessel. If the bearing does not appreciably change, such risk should be deemed to exist.

Article 17. When two sailing vessels are approaching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz. :—

- (a) A vessel which is running free shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled.
- (b) A vessel which is close-hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled on the starboard tack.
- (c) When both are running free, with the wind on different sides, the vessel which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.
- (d) When both are running free, with the wind on the same side, the vessel which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the vessel which is to leeward.
- (e) A vessel which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other vessel.

Article 18. When two steam vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each may pass on the port side of the other.

This Article only applies to cases where vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two vessels which must, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

* In all cases where the rules require a bell to be used a drum may be substituted on board Turkish vessels, or a gong where such articles are used on board small sea-going vessels.

† Dutch steam pilot-vessels, when engaged on their station on pilotage duty in fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms are required to make at intervals of 2 minutes at most one long blast with the siren, followed after 1 second by a long blast with the steam whistle and again after 1 second by a long blast on the siren. When not engaged on their station on pilotage duty, they make the same signals as other steamships.

The only cases to which it does apply are when each of the two vessels is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words, to cases in which, by day, each vessel sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line, with her own; and, by night, to cases to which each vessel is in such a position as to see both the side-lights of the other.

It does not apply, by day, to cases in which a vessel sees another ahead crossing her own course; or by night, to cases where the red light of one vessel is opposed to the red light of the other, or where the green light of one vessel is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen anywhere but ahead.

Article 19. When two steam vessels are crossing, so as to involve risk of collision, the vessel which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 20. When a steam vessel and a sailing vessel are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam vessel shall keep out of the way of the sailing vessel.

Article 21. Where by any of these Rules one of two vessels is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course and speed.

Note.—When, in consequence of thick weather or other causes, such vessel finds herself so close that collision cannot be avoided by the action of the giving-way vessel alone, she also shall take such action as will best aid to avert collision. (See Articles 27 and 29.)

Article 22. Every vessel which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid crossing ahead of the other.

Article 23. Every steam vessel which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, on approaching her, if necessary, slacken her speed or stop or reverse.

Article 24. Notwithstanding anything contained in these Rules, every vessel, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken vessel.

Every vessel coming up with another vessel from any direction more than two points abaft her beam, i.e., in such a position, with reference to the vessel which she is overtaking that at night she would be unable to see either of that vessel's side-lights, shall be deemed to be an overtaking vessel; and no subsequent alteration of the bearing between the two vessels shall make the overtaking vessel a crossing vessel within the meaning of these Rules, or relieve her of the duty of keeping clear of the overtaken vessel until she is finally past and clear.

As by day the overtaking vessel cannot always know with certainty whether she is forward or abaft this direction from the other vessel, she should, if in doubt, assume that she is an overtaking vessel and keep out of the way.

Article 25. In narrow channels every steam vessel shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of the fairway or mid-channel which lies on the starboard side of such vessel.

Article 26. Sailing vessels under way shall keep out of the way of sailing vessels or boats fishing with nets, or lines, or trawls. This Rule shall not give to any vessel or boat engaged in fishing the right of obstructing a fairway used by vessels other than fishing vessels or boats.

Article 27. In obeying and construing these Rules, due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above Rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

Sound Signals for Vessels in Sight of one Another.

Article 28. The words "short blast" used in this Article shall mean a blast of about one second's duration.

When vessels are in sight of one another, a steam vessel under way, in taking any course authorised or required by these Rules, shall indicate that course by the following signals on her whistle or siren, viz.:—

One short blast to mean, "I am directing my course to starboard."

Two short blasts to mean, "I am directing my course to port."

Three short blasts to mean, "My engines are going full speed astern."

No Vessels under any circumstances to neglect proper Precautions.

Article 29. Nothing in these Rules shall exonerate any vessel, or the owner, or master, or crew thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look-out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

Reservation of Rules for Harbours and Inland Navigation.

Article 30. Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of a special rule, duly made by local authority, relative to the navigation of any harbour, river, or inland waters.

*Distress Signals.

Article 31. When a vessel is in distress and requires assistance from other vessels or from the shore, the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, viz.:—

In the daytime—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute.
2. The International Code signal of distress indicated by NC.
3. †The distant signal, consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball or any thing resembling a ball.
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

*If a master of a vessel uses or displays, or causes or permits any person under his authority to use or display, any of those signals of distress, except in the case of a vessel being in distress, he shall be liable to pay compensation for any labour undertaken, risk incurred, or loss sustained in consequence of that signal having been supposed to be a signal of distress, and that compensation may, without prejudice to any other remedy, be recovered in the same manner in which salvage is recoverable [Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, section 484 (2).]

†A further distress signal is provided in the International Code of Signals. It is a distant signal consisting of a code point upwards, having either above it or below it a ball, or anything resembling a ball. This signal has not been sanctioned by Order in Council under the provisions of section 436 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894.

At night—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute.
2. Flames on the vessel (as from a burning tar-barrel, oil-barrel, etc.).
3. Rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description, fired one at a time, at short intervals.
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

AIDS TO MEMORY in four verses, by the late MR. THOMAS GRAY, C.B.

1. Two Steam Ships meeting.

When both side lights you see ahead—
Port your helm and show your RED.

2. Two Steam Ships passing.

GREEN to GREEN—or, RED to RED—Perfect safety—Go ahead!

3. Two Steam Ships crossing.

Note.—This is the position of greatest danger: there is nothing for it but good look-out, caution and judgment.

If to your starboard RED appear,
It is your duty to keep clear;
To act as judgment says is proper:—
To Port—or Starboard—Back,—or, Stop her.

But when upon your Port is seen
A Steamer's Starboard Light of GREEN
There's not so much for you to do,
For GREEN to Port keeps clear of you.

4. All Ships must keep a good look-out, and Steam Ships must stop and go astern, if necessary.

Both in safety and in doubt
Always keep a good look-out;
In danger, with no room to turn,
Ease her, stop her, go astern.

APPENDIX F.

SIGNALS TO BE MADE BY SHIP WANTING A PILOT.

In the daytime.—The following signals, numbered 1, 2, 3 and 4, when used or displayed together or separately, shall be deemed to be signals for a pilot in the daytime, viz.:—

1. To be hoisted at the fore, the Union Jack, having round it a white border, one-fifth of the breadth of the flag; or
2. The International Code pilotage signal indicated by PT.
3. The International Code Flag S, with or without the Code Pennant over it.
4. The distant signal, consisting of a cone point upwards, having above it two balls or shapes resembling balls.

At night.—The following signals, numbered 1 and 2, when used or displayed together or separately, shall be deemed to be signals for a pilot at night viz.:—

1. The pyrotechnic light, commonly known as a blue light, every fifteen minutes; or
2. A bright white light, flashed or shown at short or frequent intervals just above the bulwarks, for about a minute at a time.

If a master of a vessel uses or displays, or causes or permits any person under his authority to use or display, any of the pilot signals for any other purpose than that of summoning a pilot, or uses or causes or permits any person under his authority to use any other signal for a pilot, he shall for each offence be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds. [Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, section 615 (3).]

APPENDIX G.DEVIATION OF THE COMPASS.

FOR MASTERS' CERTIFICATES FOR HOME TRADE PASSENGER SHIPS.

The candidate must answer in writing, on paper given him by the Examiner, all the following questions, numbering his answers to correspond with the numbers of the questions:—

1. When taking a Meridian Altitude, how do you know when the sun is on the Meridian; or in other words, when it is noon?
2. How does the sun bear (true and magnetic) when on the meridian of an observer in these latitudes (Home Trade Limits)?
3. What do you mean by deviation of the Compass, and how is it caused?

4. Having determined the deviation, how do you know when it is easterly and when westerly ?
5. Supposing the sun when on the meridian bore by your Compass _____ what would be the deviation of that Compass for the direction of the ship's head at the time, the variation given on the Chart being _____ ?
6. How could you find the deviation of your Compass when in port, or when sailing along a coast ?
7. Name some suitable terrestrial objects by which you could readily obtain the deviation of your Compass.
8. The bearing of two objects when in a line with each other was found on the Chart to be _____ magnetic ; but when brought in a line on board they bore _____ by your Compass ; required the deviation of your Compass for the direction of the ship's head at the time ?
9. What means are there for checking the deviation of your Compass by night ?
10. Supposing the North Star (Polaris) bore _____ by your Compass, what would be the deviation (approximately) of that Compass for the direction of the ship's head at the time, supposing the variation given on the Chart to be _____ ?
11. Do you expect the deviation to change ? If so, state under what circumstances.
12. What is meant by the variation of the Compass, and what is the cause of it ?

APPENDIX H.

(See Rule 66.)

EXAMINATION OF A MASTER OR MATE IN STEAM.

The examination is for the most part visu voce, and extends to a general knowledge of the practical use and working of steam engines and boilers, and of the various valves, fittings, and pieces of machinery connected with them and of the way in which electric lighting is carried out on board ship.

Candidates must :—

- (a) Know the names and understand the uses of the various parts of engines and boilers, and their connecting pipes, valves, cocks, etc.
- (b) Have a thorough grasp of the construction of the steam engine and boiler, to enable them to understand the nature and importance of any defect which may be reported to them by the Chief Engineer.
- (c) Have a looking-on knowledge of what the principal repairs about engines, boilers and pipes are, and how these repairs are accomplished.
- (d) Be able to form an independent opinion as to a breakdown, and the consequent propriety or impropriety of proceeding under steam with temporarily repaired or defective machinery.
- (e) Understand how to estimate approximately the reduction of fuel required for reduced speed, and be able to satisfy themselves as to the sufficiency of the coal on board for the voyage.
- (f) Have an intelligent grasp of the general run of pipes and connections in the engine-room, the working of cocks, the opening and closing of cocks and valves, and know how mistakes of importance may be made and how best to guard against such mistakes.
- (g) Be capable of being left in charge of the feeding of a set of boilers, understand the working of the water gauge, and be able to guard against being misled by false indications of the gauge glass.
- (h) Understand the operations of blowing down and surfacing, the reasons for such practices and the danger which may result from the neglect of them in certain circumstances.

A Master or Mate presenting himself for examination in Steam must be understood to have made up for his want of practical experience by reading about the steam engine. He ought, therefore, to show that he intelligently understands the rationale of its action. Under this head he should be able to state approximately the quantity of heat required in the formation of steam, the relation of "latent" heat to "sensible" heat, how much steam can be raised by the combustion of one pound of coal, what horse-power measure is, what indicated horse-power is, what is the action of the slide valve, the course of the steam through the engine, the advantage of working expansively, and how the expansive action is shown by the indicator diagram.

He should know the uses of the various parts of the engines and dynamos used for electric lighting, and how they and the cables are fitted in the hull ; how wires are jointed, insulated and cased ; why it is desirable that they should be led along places which are dry and accessible ; what "short circuiting" is and what are the causes which produce it ; what is its danger in coal bunkers and petroleum-carrying steamers ; what are the uses of switches and cut-outs, and why it is so important to prevent short circuiting taking place.

Candidates will be required to give written answers to sixteen out of twenty questions taken from the Elementary Questions (printed in Appendix C of the Regulations relating to the Examination of Engineers : Exn. 1a) given on the sheets marked "Steam," or questions similar to these. These questions will be altered from time to time without notice. The twenty questions will not be difficult, theoretical, or book questions, but such as any man of ordinary capacity who has a fair amount of practical knowledge of the use of working of the steam-engine ought to answer.

Examiners will require all candidates to fill up a form, Exn. 15b and they will forward it to the Chief Examiner of Engineers with the report of the examination.

Masters and Mates may cancel questions A, B and C, but they should fill up the form for questions D, E, F and G, as evidence of their practical knowledge.

If a candidate refers to any book, paper or memorandum, or obtains information from another candidate or any other person during the examination, he will be treated as having failed, will forfeit his fee, and will not be allowed to be re-examined for a period of six months.

The Examiners will report, in the case of failure, the nature of the question or questions that decided the failure, or the point in the management of the engines or boilers in which the candidate was deficient.

Applicants for the voluntary examination need not necessarily have served on board steamships; all that is required is that they shall have a practical knowledge of the use and working of the steam engine.

Practical knowledge is best gained in the engine-room; and the examination of an officer who does not produce official evidence of service in steamships, and of experience of engines, must necessarily be more searching than in the case of one who produces evidence of such service and experience.

The answers to the Elementary Questions are frequently given by candidates as learned by rote from a book. Candidates should, therefore, be asked such viva voce questions as will necessitate answers in different words, so as to discover whether they have the root of the matter in them.

A large part of the viva voce examination should be conducted on board a steamer, preferably one with which the candidate is unacquainted. He should be told to look about and try to find out the arrangement of the machinery without assistance, and the Examiner should be in the engine-room to see that this independent examination is properly carried out. When the candidate reports that he thinks he knows the arrangement, the Examiner will question him on the uses of the parts, get him to point out the different cylinders, pumps, valves, condenser, etc.; also the dynamo, its field magnets, armature, commutators, brushes cables, etc. The candidate must show that he understands the run of the pipes in the bilges, not necessarily that he has gone over every one of them, but he ought to be directed to trace, at least, one important range of pipes, and to thoroughly satisfy the Examiner that he could be safely trusted to manipulate the valves or cocks in connection therewith. It will not often be practicable for the candidate actually to work engines under steam, but he must satisfy the Examiner that he knows how to do so, and that he is aware of the precautions to be taken in regard to water in the cylinders, etc. It is most important that a candidate should show that, in the event of an accident depriving him of the assistance of Engineers, he knows what to do to safely take his vessel to an anchorage, or to stop the engines and proceed under sail alone.

The examination of a Mate in steam is the same as that of a Master. The knowledge required has no reference to the Mate's position.

The Mate may be examined, but such examination implies that the Mate may one day be a Master, when the possession of the knowledge will be an advantage to him in the discharge of his duties.

APPENDIX I.

(See Rule 25.)

• • SIGHT TESTS.

Details as to the conduct of the tests.

These tests must be conducted under the strict personal supervision of the Examiner. A careful record must be kept of all mistakes made by the candidate both in the form vision test and in the colour vision test.

Examiner must keep a record of all candidates passed by him for reference when required.

I.—FORM VISION TEST.

1. Form vision test to be passed first.—The first test which the candidate is required to undergo is the test for form vision, and until he has passed this test he must not be allowed to proceed further with the examination.

2. Apparatus used.—The form vision test to be used for all candidates is that conducted on Snellen's principle by means of sheets of letters.

3. Object of the test.—The object of the form vision test is to determine whether the candidate can reach a sufficient standard of visual acuteness, or, in other words, to find out whether his eye sight is good or bad.

4. Standard of vision required.—Every candidate for a first certificate of competency will be required to possess normal vision. With the exceptions indicated below (see paragraph 8), every candidate for a second or higher certificate will be required to possess normal vision.

"Normal vision" is defined, for the purpose of these Regulations, as ability to read correctly nine of the twelve letters in the sixth line and eight of the fifteen letters in the seventh line of a test sheet placed in a good light at a distance of 16 feet from the eye.

The candidate will have the option of using either eye separately or both eyes together.

5. Spectacles not allowed.—During the examination for form vision candidates must not be allowed to use spectacles or glasses of any kind, or any other artificial aid to vision.

6. Method of testing.—The test sheets should be hung on the wall, in a good light, but not in direct sunlight, at a height of five or six feet from the ground. The candidate should be placed at a distance of exactly 16 feet from the sheets, and exactly opposite them. This distance should be carefully measured, and should never in any circumstances be varied.

One of the sheets should then be exposed, and the candidate should be asked to read the letters on each sheet, beginning at the top and going downwards. Any mistakes which he makes should be carefully noted. If then it is found that he has read correctly at least nine letters in the sixth line and eight letters in the seventh line of a sheet, the candidate may be considered to have normal vision, and should be marked "passed" in the appropriate column of the form of application (Exn. 2 or Exn. 2A, as the case may be).

7. Passing or failure.—If at the conclusion of the test the candidate is found to reach the required standard, he may be considered to have passed, and the Examiner should proceed to test him for colour vision. If the candidate fails to reach the standard required for the certificate entered for, he should be tested with at least four sheets, and the Examiner should fill in a Form, Exn. 17b, and should forward it, with any remarks he may wish to make, to the Principal Examiner for his instructions as to whether the candidate is to be regarded as passing or as failing in form vision.

8. Lower standard required in certain cases.—Candidates who are in possession of certificates obtained before January 1st, 1914, may be regarded as passing in form vision if they can read correctly with both eyes at least five of the eight letters in the fifth line of a test sheet.

9. Tests to be varied.—The Examiner should take care, by varying the order of the test sheets and by every other means in his power, to guard against the possibility of any deception on the part of the candidate.

10. Result of examination to be reported.—The result of every examination in form vision should be reported, in the case of a candidate for a certificate of competency, to Government on Form Exn. 2, and to the Port Officer on Form Exn. 14; and, in the case of a candidate for the sight tests only, to Government on Form Exn. 2 A.

II.—COLOUR VISION TEST.

11. Apparatus.—A special lantern and a mirror have been provided for this test. The lantern should be placed directly in front of the mirror, so that the front part of the lantern is exactly ten feet from the mirror. Care should be taken that the lantern is properly placed, that is to say, the lights reflected in the mirror must show clearly when viewed through the rectangular aperture on the left of the lantern. The Examiner should always satisfy himself that these conditions are fulfilled before commencing the examination.

12. Darkness adaptation.—It is essential that a candidate should be kept in a room which is either completely or partially darkened for at least a quarter of an hour before he is requested to undergo this test.

Before the examination commences the Examiner must satisfy himself that the room in which it is conducted is so darkened as to exclude all daylight.

13. Method of testing.—The lantern supplied for the examination is so constructed as to allow one large or two small lights to be visible, and is fitted with 12 glasses of three colours—red, white and green. At the commencement of the examination the Examiner should show to the candidate a series of lights through the large aperture, and should require him to name the colours as they appear to him. Care should be taken in showing the white light to emphasise the fact that the light is not a pure white. If a candidate makes a mistake of calling this light "red" a proper red light should be shown immediately after and the candidate's attention directed to the difference between the two.

After a series of lights through the large aperture has been shown, the Examiner should make a complete circuit with the two small apertures, requiring the candidate to name the colours of each set of two lights from left to right. To prevent any possibility of the order in which the lights are arranged from being learnt, the Examiner should at least twice in each circuit go back a varying number of colours.

A record of any mistakes made with either the large aperture or the two smaller apertures should be kept on Form Exn. 17c in accordance with the instructions thereon.

14. Passing or failure.—If a candidate with either the large aperture or the two smaller apertures of the lantern mistakes red for green or green for red, he should be considered to have "failed" in Colour Vision.

If the only mistake made by the candidate with the lantern, is to call the white light "red," and if after his attention has been specially directed to the difference between the two he makes no further mistake of this nature, he should be considered to have passed in Colour Vision.

If a candidate makes any other mistake with the lantern, i.e., if he calls white "red" repeatedly or red "white" at all, or confuses green and white, his case should be reported to the Port Officer and he should be told that the decision as to whether he is passed or failed, or a further examination is necessary will be communicated to him in due course. Pending the receipt of the Port Officer's instructions such a candidate should only be allowed to proceed with the remainder of the examination for a certificate of competency on the express understanding that the latter examination will be cancelled in the event of failure in the Sight Tests.

15. Further examination and appeals.—If in the cases covered by the preceding paragraph the Port Officer decides that a further examination is necessary, arrangements will be made for a special examination to be held and the third class travelling expenses necessarily incurred by a candidate in attending such an examination will be paid by the Government together with a subsistence allowance at a rate which will be notified to the candidate, but which will not in any circumstances exceed Rs. 5 for each day necessarily occupied in attending the examination. In these cases the above expenses will be paid whatever may be the result of the final examination.

If, however, on the report of the Examiner the Port Officer decides that the nature of the mistakes made shows conclusively that a candidate is so colour blind as to be unfit to hold a certificate, the candidate shall be considered to have failed.

In cases where, upon the report of the Examiner, a candidate is failed by the Port Officer, as well as in the cases covered by paragraph 14, Government will be prepared to allow a candidate who is dissatisfied with this decision to appeal for a special examination, but Government will not pay the travelling expenses of any such candidate unless he is reported by the Special Examiners conducting the appeal examination to have passed.

III.—REPORTS.

16. The result of every test in form or colour vision should be reported to the Government on the Form Exn. 2, and to the Port Officer on the Form Exn. 14, when the candidate is up for examination for a certificate of competency; and to the Government on the Form, Exn. 2A, when the candidate is up for examination in vision only.

All cases of failure should also be reported to the Port Officer on Form Exn. 17b, to which should be attached Form Exn. 17c, containing the record of any mistakes made with the lantern.

Every report relating to such an examination must be signed by the Examiner who conducted the examination.

APPENDIX J.

TABLE SHOWING THE REQUIREMENTS AS TO SEA SERVICE NECESSARY TO QUALIFY FOR EXAMINATION FOR CERTIFICATES OF COMPETENCY.

Note.

A candidate for an Ordinary certificate of any grade who has not previously held an Ordinary certificate of a lower grade must prove that he has served twelve months in the foreign trade or eighteen months in the home or coasting trade in a square-rigged sailing vessel.

Where foreign-going certificates are required to be held to qualify candidates for examination, they may be either the Ordinary certificates, or those for fore and aft rigged vessels, or for foreign-going steamships.

It must be clearly understood that the amount of service laid down in the Regulations for each grade of certificate of competency is the absolute minimum that can be accepted, and unless a candidate can show the full amount he must in no case be allowed up for examination.

Rank.	Minimum Age.	Total Sea Service (Years).	Officer's Service in Merchant Vessels.
			Years.	Lowest capacity.	Lowest certificate required.
ORDINARY CERTIFICATES FOR FOREIGN-GOING SHIPS.
2nd Mate	18	4	No officer's service required	None.
Only Mate	18	5	No officer's service required	None.
1st Mate	19	5	1	3rd or 4th Mate in foreign trade in charge of watch.	2nd Mate foreign-going.
				Or
			1½	Only Mate in home or coasting trade	2nd Mate foreign-going, or home trade Mate.

			1	Pilot with 1st Class pilot's certificate	None.
Master	20	6	1	Only Mate in foreign trade	Only Mate foreign-going.
				Or
			1½	Only Mate in home or coasting trade	Ditto.
				And in addition, unless the above service was performed with a First Mate's Foreign-going certificate, he will also be required to prove one of the following services prescribed for that grade.
			1	3rd or 4th Mate in foreign trade in charge of watch.	2nd Mate foreign-going.
				Or
			1½	Only Mate in home or coasting trade	2nd Mate foreign-going or home trade Mate.
				Or
			1	Pilot with 1st class pilot's certificate	None.
				OR HE MUST HAVE SERVED.
		6½	1	2nd Mate in foreign trade	1st Mate foreign-going.
				(Provided that, if this service as 2nd Mate was performed under an Additional or Auxiliary 1st Mate, it will only be accepted if a 3rd and 4th Mate were also carried.)
				And in addition.
			1½	3rd or 4th Mate in foreign trade in charge of watch.	2nd ditto.
				OR HE MUST HAVE SERVED
		9*	3	Master in home or coasting trade	2nd Mate foreign-going or Master home trade for one year of such service.

APPENDIX K.

(See Rule 120.)

TEXT-BOOKS TO BE USED IN THE EXAMINATIONS.

For Naval Architecture.—“The Modern Practice of Shipbuilding in Iron and Steel,” by Samuel J. P. Thearle. Published by William Collins, Sons & Co. Price Eleven Shillings and Threepence nett.

“Ship Construction and Calculations,” by George Nicol. Published by James Brown & Sons, 52-56, Darnley Street, Pollokshields, E. Price Ten Shillings and Sixpence.

For Stability.—“Ship Stability and Trim,” by Percy Hillhouse. Published by Gieve’s Publishing Co. (John Hogg), 13, Paternoster Row, London, E.C. Price Ten Shillings and Sixpence.

For Deviation of the Compass.—The “Admiralty Manual for the Deviations of the Compass,” to be obtained through any bookseller, or directly from His Majesty’s Stationery Office at any of the addresses given on the title page of these Regulations; or Edward Ponsonby, 116, Grafton Street, Dublin. Price Three Shillings.

“The Elementary Manual for the Deviations of the Compass in Iron Ships,” by E. W. Creak, published by J. D. Potter, 145, Minories, London, E. 1. Price Six Shillings and Sixpence.

For Meteorology, including Barometer, Thermometer and Hydrometer.—“A Barometer Manual for the use of Seamen; with an Appendix on the Thermometer, Hygrometer and Hydrometer” (issued by the authority of the Meteorological Council). Price One Shilling. And “The Seaman’s Handbook on Meteorology.” Price Two Shillings. To be purchased through any bookseller, or directly from His Majesty’s Stationery Office at any of the addresses given on the title page of these Regulations; or Edward Ponsonby, 116, Grafton Street, Dublin.

For Prevailing Winds and Currents of the Globe.—“The Principal Winds and Currents of the Globe, etc.,” compiled from the various Admiralty Sailing Directions, Weather Charts, etc., by Captain Robert Jackson, R.N., and to be purchased, either directly or through any bookseller, from Simpkin, Marshall and Company, Paternoster Row, London; or Henry Lewis, 114, High Street, Portsmouth. Price One Shilling.

For Trade Routes.—“Ocean Passages,” compiled from the various Admiralty Sailing Directions by Captain Robert Jackson, R.N., and to be purchased, either directly or through any bookseller, from Simpkin, Marshall and Company, Paternoster Row, London; or Henry Lewis, 114, High Street, Portsmouth. Price One Shilling.

For Tides.—“Tide Tables for the British and Irish Ports,” published annually by the Admiralty, and to be purchased, either directly or through any bookseller, from J. D. Potter, 145, Minories, E., and 11, King Street, Tower Hill, E. Price Two Shillings.

For Signalling.—The “British Signal Manual” may be obtained through any bookseller, or directly from H.M. Stationery Office at any of the addresses given on the title page of these Regulations; or Edward Ponsonby, 116, Grafton Street, Dublin. Price Sixpence.

For Elementary Science.—“General Elementary Science,” by W. Briggs. Published by the University Tutorial Press. Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

Intending candidates are advised to procure these books to take to sea with them, so that they may study them during their leisure hours.

Instruments.—The Barometer (Kew pattern Marine Barometer), Thermometer and Hydrometer used in the examinations will be precisely similar to those supplied to shipmasters by the Meteorological Office for making observations on board ship.

The Report of the Calcutta University Commission, 1917—1919, Volumes I—V, and the Volumes of Evidence.

I.—The Calcutta University Commission and the object of the present Resolution

1. The Calcutta University Commission was appointed with a view to a full examination of the system of university teaching in Bengal, and in order that the best advice might be obtained upon the method of co-ordinating the machinery of that institution and the instruction which it imparts more fully to the needs of modern life. With these ends in view the Commission was constituted with a strict regard to the necessity of invoking the highest available academic talent. The report which it has produced will, it is believed, rank among the most important and authoritative of educational documents. The Government of India desire to take this opportunity of recording their high appreciation of the manner in which Sir Michael Sadler and his colleagues have performed their difficult and intricate functions.

2. The Commission interpreted (and rightly interpreted) its terms of reference in the widest possible sense. Its report travels over many subjects and many branches of education which are not confined to university instruction but have an important bearing thereon. The immediate object of the Commissioners' labours was the University of Calcutta, and though they visited collectively or singly many places in India which are not within the jurisdiction of that University, the opinions which they have expressed and the recommendations which they have made have reference primarily to Bengal and to the University of Calcutta. The object of the present Resolution is two-fold. First, it is intended to acquaint the public in Bengal with the intentions of the Government of India as regards early legislation for the reconstitution of the University of Calcutta. Second, it is thought that an expression of views by the Government of India on certain points connected with the report may not be without use in provinces other than Bengal. For, though it is fully recognised that conditions elsewhere differ widely from those in that Presidency and though the Government of India have naturally no desire to thrust upon other local Governments and other universities schemes which result from an investigation of affairs in Bengal and in Calcutta, nevertheless some of the recommendations made by the Commission are likely to be found valuable for wider application and it is understood that already in some other provinces movements are on foot for some re-organisation of the local systems.

II.—Criticisms made by the Commission.

3. The Commissioners have laid emphasis upon those elements in the educational system of Bengal which have produced satisfactory results in the past and give promise of healthy development in the future. But they have also, as indeed their task demanded of them, sought out the weaker elements, analysed defects and suggested remedies. In the following paragraphs certain points are noted which formed the subject of the Commission's criticism and which appear to the Government of India to call for special and urgent treatment.

4. Sound instruction in the secondary stage is the foundation upon which both university and more strictly vocational education must necessarily rest. But the Commission has recorded the fact that just when Bengal is more than ever eager for higher education, and when the economic needs and intellectual aspirations of the Presidency call for the best that can be given, the training which the high schools offer not only fails as a rule to provide for modern requirements in point of scientific and other knowledge but is actually deteriorating in quality. The schools are too narrowly concerned with preparing boys for matriculation—the goal to which almost all their teaching is designed to lead. Yet they are attended by large numbers of boys who have no special fitness for an academic training and who leave school without qualifying themselves for it; and preparation for the university is not the only purpose which the secondary schools have to serve in a modern State. Still more serious is their lack of influence upon the character of pupils. Some of the correspondents who answered the Commission's questionnaire regard the schools as failing in the formation of character and in conveying to the boy's mind a clear apprehension of an ideal of duty. "Pressed further home", write the Commissioners, "the charge amounts to even more than this: it implies that the schools have no spiritual life which touches a boy's inner nature, no corporate unity which appeals to and can sustain his affectionate loyalty, no moral or intellectual flame which may kindle his emotions"; and, while admitting admirable exceptions, they state that it must be acknowledged that in these respects the work of the schools as a whole is bleak and barren.

5. The Commissioners were accordingly led to examine the two dominating factors which influence high school organisation in Bengal—the matriculation examination and the method of recognition. They found that the matriculation examination conducted by the University of Calcutta (which is the largest examination of its kind in the world) is far from enjoying general approval; that eleven out of every twelve of the witnesses who dealt with this point expressed dissatisfaction with it as a test even for entering the University; and that it allows a very considerable number of ill-educated candidates to pass. Furthermore, the schools are cramped by it. For they endeavour to perform what the rules of the examination prescribe; to enable their pupils to pass has become their dominant aim; and the pressure which forces them to concentrate upon this narrow purpose is great. The Commissioners comment upon the perverted and uninspiring view of higher education which is thus produced. They write, "at the very time when the instinct of the people is turning its hopes towards education, the work actually done in the schools is suffering from a blight which spreads so quickly as to threaten public and private hopes with disappointment. The desire for education, though it springs from needs which good schools alone can satisfy, is perverted into a demand for what a school must deteriorate in consenting to give. But the pressure is irresistible, and the schools in yielding to it are spoiled. Nor is this the whole of the loss. The profession of teaching becomes less and less attractive to able and generous minds because, as the generally accepted view of education grows meaner and narrower, a teacher has the less opportunity of realising in his work the purpose which alone lifts his calling from a despised trade to one of the noblest of professions."

6. The Commission refers to the Indian Universities Act of 1904, the Resolution of the Government of India No. 600 of August 11, 1906, and the body of regulations thereby sanctioned. Under those regulations the recognition or non-recognition of a school is the act of the University, and the functions of the Department of Public Instruction or the person nominated by the Syndicate to report on the claims of schools are limited to placing before the University the information requisite to enable that body to exercise its controlling authority. The Commission states that the University proceeded in right earnest to discharge this new and heavy responsibility. But the powers of the University are far from being as efficacious in practice as they appear to be on paper; and owing to adverse circumstances, "the plan devised in 1904 and zealously put into effect by the University during the more favourable conditions which at first prevailed, has evidently broken down."

7. Coming next to the colleges, the Commission observes that the majority of successful candidates at the matriculation examination proceed to university courses. Since the school course does not give a 'sound general education,' the colleges find imposed upon them the obligation of making good the deficiencies of the schools. "With about half of their students," says the Commission, "the colleges never get beyond the stage of school work. Many students drop out before they reach the end of the intermediate course." "There is probably no other country in the world" proceeds the Report, "in which it is the case that so large a proportion of those who enter upon a degree course in a university fail to proceed to its natural conclusion, but stop at a half-way house. This would seem to indicate, in the first place, that the relation between the matriculation and intermediate standards is ill-adjusted; but still more remarkable, it would seem to show that, in the view of the boys and their parents and the public, the first two years of the university course are regarded as forming a distinct stage by themselves, a supplement to the high school course, while the intermediate examination is regarded as a natural stopping-place." The Commission further remarks on the reduction at this stage of the choice of subjects, the absence of guidance to students regarding their choice, and the failure to provide for any introduction to vocational training such as is needed by that half of the students who will pass direct into various occupations after the intermediate stage. On turning to the methods of instruction, the Commission finds that the inadequacy of the system becomes still more patent. The classes are almost invariably far too large. The tradition of lecturing is deeply implanted. The methods suitable for university students are applied to those who have not yet undergone a satisfactory school course.

In dealing with the undergraduate work of the colleges, the Commissioners state that the outstanding fact indicated in the replies to their questionnaire is that "dissatisfaction with the existing system is all but universal, and is in most cases both deep and poignant." They consider that one of the primary causes of the inefficiency of the colleges is their isolation. They are 'pocket universities,' compelled to provide the whole of the education which their students require and generally too poor to supply the equipment necessary for university work. The privately-managed colleges maintain one teacher for about every 40 students, and the poverty of the pay given in these institutions is all the more striking by reason of the contrast with the better paid professors of Government colleges. Instruction competent. While its control has been ineffective in the vitally important functions of securing efficient teaching, in other matters it is too rigid, its general influence over the work of the colleges is described as unhealthy and it has achieved a dead uniformity of curriculum unknown, the Commissioners believe, elsewhere in the world, certainly outside India.

13. The Commission devoted much attention to the relations of the University with Government. It considered that the continuance of the arrangement whereby the Government of India controls the University at a distance of 1,000 miles leads to inconveniences. But, while the control should be transferred to the Government of Bengal, the Government of India can continue to perform an invaluable function by defining the aims of educational policy, by giving advice and assistance to local Governments and to universities, by acting as an impartial arbiter in cases of dispute, by protecting disregarded interests, by supplying organised information regarding local developments, by obtaining the service of scholars from other countries, by co-ordinating the work of various universities, and by guarding against needless duplication. The provincial Department of Public Instruction which would in future deal with the University is hampered by a narrow definition of its functions and by the character of its relations with the Secretariat and with the University itself. It is necessary to co-ordinate the activities of that Department with other Departments which deal with special spheres of education, to appoint the Director a Secretary to Government; and to recognise that on the Department rests primarily the responsibility for a sound system of school training—a responsibility which, owing to insufficiency of funds and division of functions with the University, it has no power to fulfil. The University in its turn should be responsible for the character of the training given to its students and for the efficient and economical expenditure of its resources. At the same time, here also, Government cannot abdicate its responsibilities, as trustees for the highest interests of the nation; for ensuring that the highest training grounds of the nation, its universities, are adequately fulfilling their functions, and that the University is so organised as to be able to perform its proper functions; for regulating the conditions of admission to professions essential for the public welfare; and for providing that the youths of the country receive the kind of training needed to prepare them for the general needs of the country.

III.—Action proposed on the main recommendations of the Commission.

14. The brief summary of certain portions of the report which has been made above is not to be taken as fully representing the present condition of affairs in Bengal, still less in India as a whole. The extraction of passages or opinions from a report of this nature is apt to be slightly misleading. The Government of India desire it to be understood that, while they agree with the criticisms passed by the Commission, they are also fully in accord with that body in acknowledging the great services which the establishment of western education and the activities of the University of Calcutta have performed in the past. The affiliating and the examining university is now regarded by many high authorities as radically faulty. But it is difficult to see what other organisation could in the middle of the last century have been set up in Bengal or elsewhere in India for the expansion and co-ordination of higher learning. The legislation of 1904 recognised teaching as a proper function of the Indian universities. But it was difficult to devise a workable scheme for the performance of this function in face of the wide area affected, the competing claims of colleges and the necessity of safeguarding the interest of various institutions. The isolated and self-contained character of the colleges rendered impossible the exercise by the University of that control over teaching and the appointment of teachers which is requisite and forced the central body to use its influence through the promulgation of rigid rules and syllabuses which were calculated to stifle individual and original effort. These difficulties were enhanced as the number of colleges grew and in recent years have rapidly increased owing to the large number of students who have sought university instruction. Furthermore, the growing demand has called into existence a number of institutions markedly unequal in the matter of staffing, in the nature of instruction afforded, in equipment and in the supervision which they can exercise over students. It is little wonder that an institution which for many years usefully served the requirements of higher education in Bengal has under the rapid changes of recent times found difficulty in coping adequately with functions which have become unwieldy and in fulfilling demands made upon it by a new and swiftly changing order of things.

Reasons for the shortcomings discovered by the Commission

15. Again the preceding section of this Resolution has dealt only with certain of the explorations made by the Commission, because a full comprehension of these points is necessary for the appreciation of the legislative changes which, in the opinion of the Commission, it is necessary to make in order that the University of Calcutta may more effectively fulfil its functions. The report ranges over many subjects regarding which nothing has here been said. The education of women and girls; the special educational needs of Musalmans, of Europeans and Anglo-Indians, and of the backward classes; the medium of instruction; Oriental studies; legal, medical, engineering and mining, agricultural and technological instruction; the training of teachers and other cognate matters are dealt with in the report. The object of the succeeding paragraph is to concentrate attention upon those particular points of criticism which have direct bearing upon the University of Calcutta and with which any legislation affecting that institution will have to deal.

16. The main lessons taught by this report, the lessons on which the Government of India consider that the earliest attention may usefully be concentrated, are the following:—

(i) High schools lack proper supervision, and, intent on preparing their pupils for the matriculation examination, fail to give that breadth of training which the developments of the country and new avenues of employment demand.

(ii) The matriculation examination in Bengal provides an insufficient test of fitness to pursue university courses and by its rigidity and narrow scope reacts unwholesomely upon the instruction and the activities of the schools.

(iii) The intermediate section of university education attempts to deal by university methods with large bodies of ill-prepared students and should be frankly recognised as a part of school education, relegated to separate institutions, apart from the university organisation, and placed under a body duly co-related with the Department of Public Instruction.

(iv) The system of affiliated colleges, though defective according to modern requirements and modern ideals, will long remain a necessary part of university organisation in Bengal. But its inconveniences may be mitigated by the establishment of a strong central teaching body, the incorporation (as occasion arises) of unitary universities, such as that proposed for Dacca, a modification of the administrative machinery which will admit of fuller representation of local interests, and supervision of different classes of institutions by several appropriately constituted authorities.

(v) The administrative arrangements of the University of Calcutta call for alteration, notably in the direction of creating an academic body, appointing a whole-time Vice-Chancellor and transferring the interests of the University to the care of the Government of Bengal.

These points represent but a small part of the result of the Commission's investigations. But they are the matters which the Government of India regard themselves, the local Government and the universities most urgently called upon to consider.

17. The Government of India therefore commend these matters to the consideration of local Governments and universities. They commend also the many suggestions which the Commission has made on the more strictly academic side of high school and university education. They leave it to the local Governments to take such action as they think fit regarding the most important recommendations of the Commission, namely, the separation of intermediate from collegiate education and the placing of it, together with secondary education, under some suitably constituted body on the lines of the Board of Secondary and Intermediate Education in the report—so constituted as to represent various interests and so related to the Departments of Public Instruction as to obviate any undue abrogation of the responsibility of Government for the adequacy of school training. They leave also to the consideration of local Governments such administrative questions as the changes suggested in the general organisation of teaching and inspecting staffs, the future control of government schools and colleges, etc. But it is necessary that the Government of India take early action regarding those recommendations which directly affect the University of Calcutta, since that University forms the immediate subject of the Commission's investigations and (until the measure, which the Government of India now propose, passes into law) remains the special care of the Governor-General in Council and of the Governor-General as Chancellor. Here also the administrative matters, including the future organization of secondary and intermediate education in separation from the University, will appropriately be decided by the Government of Bengal. The concern of the Government of India is the passage of the legislative measures requisite for giving effect to the main recommendations of the Commission regarding the reconstitution of the University of Calcutta and the incorporation of the University of Dacca. The second of these proposals is intended to set up a new type of university in Bengal which may possibly be the precursor of other universities of a similar nature in that Presidency and elsewhere, and to relieve the University of Calcutta of some small portion of the heavy burden which it now sustains. The legislation to that end has already been introduced in the Imperial Legislative Council. As regards the University of Calcutta it is the intention of the Government of India to publish and place before the Imperial Legislative Council a measure based on the lines indicated in the remaining portion of this Resolution. The Government of India propose to publish the text of the Bill as soon as possible. But they have decided to precede it by the present Resolution in order that no time may be lost in acquainting the public with the main features of the measure contemplated. The proposals set forth in the following section, which will form the basis of the Bill, have been discussed with the Government of Bengal, who are in accord with the Government of India regarding the suitability of the action contemplated.

17.—The Reconstitution of the University of Calcutta.

18. The Commission first applied itself to the complex and difficult task of setting up a Teaching University in Calcutta, which should embrace those colleges of the city which are capable of providing true university instruction. Of the existing system of post-graduate instruction it remarked that it is unhealthy that any sharp line of division should be drawn between the higher and the lower teaching of a university and that it is equally disadvantageous that a system of more advanced instruction should be built up at the expense of undergraduate teaching, which is the foundation of nearly all advanced work. The problem would be almost insoluble were it not that, under the arrangement proposed for the intermediate classes, the number of students in Art colleges will be reduced to about 4,000 and is unlikely to expand within a reasonable period beyond 6,000, to whom must be added the 1,500 post-graduate students. Even so, the problem is difficult enough and is complicated by the fact that the idea of instruction in colleges largely independent of the central body is deeply rooted and cannot be disregarded.

19. The Commission considered and rejected various schemes which were placed before it with a view to the foundation of a teaching organization.

Incidentally (though this scheme had as its object the improvement of the conditions of student life almost more than that of teaching organization) it may be mentioned that the Commission devotes a chapter to the question whether it is desirable to remove the University and its colleges to some place outside Calcutta where more spacious accommodation and improvement of the physical, moral and intellectual conditions under which the students live are possible. It is obvious that many difficulties which the Commission has discovered would be solved by some such action. This proposal found many warm supporters among the correspondents and witnesses. On the other hand, there were witnesses who urged the undesirability of academic seclusion, the healthiness of Calcutta, the difficulty which would be experienced by the poorer students in a fully residential university, the value of home influences, etc. The Commission observes that the aggregation of university buildings and colleges round College

Square has already proceeded so far as to make that part of Calcutta a university quarter. The situation of this group is central and convenient for the city as a whole and though there are some important exceptions, few of the existing institutions are so far removed from this group as to make inter-collegiate relations impossible. The Government of India fully appreciate the advantages which would be derived from the location of the University in a more open site. But, apart from the considerations put forward by the Commission in favour of the retention of present arrangements, it is felt that the expense of such removal, which would be infinitely greater than the mere re-erection of buildings, and the delays and difficulties involved probably render any such scheme full of great difficulties.

20. It is admitted by the Commission in dealing with these various proposals that the unitary form a university is in the abstract the most advantageous form of university organisation. But the conditions appeared to dictate a multi-collegiate system. The Commissioners therefore advocate a teaching university of a new type, not exactly corresponding to any now existing, to be achieved through what they term a synthesis of the University and its colleges. Under this scheme the University will be really responsible for the character of the teaching given in its name. The prestige and importance of the colleges will be increased and only those colleges will be permitted to participate which can show an efficiency equal to the fulfilment of the conditions to be laid down. Those colleges in Calcutta which cannot fulfil such conditions will be treated as temporarily affiliated, but will not participate in the privileges of the Teaching University.

(ii) The Synthesis.

21. The colleges which participate in this scheme would be the incorporated colleges maintained by the University itself and the constituent colleges, i.e., such of the colleges in Calcutta as are able to take a part in university teaching. These institutions would have to fulfil certain conditions. They must free themselves from the incubus of intermediate classes at the earliest possible moment. Admissions must not be made beyond a maximum of 1,000 students. The proportion of college teachers to students should be one to twenty-five though it is admitted that a proportion of one to fifteen or twenty would be more reasonable. No whole-time teachers should be paid less than Rs. 125 a month, nor any head of a department of teaching less than Rs. 300. Suitable buildings for teaching and residential accommodation for students must be provided. Each college should be under a properly constituted governing body and should have a teachers' council.

22. The University itself would not compete with its colleges but would supplement their resources, providing instruction in those subjects where the colleges cannot supply it and teachers of high distinction in the more ordinary subjects of undergraduate work, maintaining a central library, etc. It would appoint its own teachers and recognise college teachers for the imparting of instruction in its name. It would organise instruction so as to prevent overlapping. It would continue to exercise its present functions, but materially modified. For the definition of curricula would be mainly in the hands of teachers of the University and its colleges and the examination system would be less rigid and would follow rather than dictate the teaching. "In short", say the Commissioners, "under a new and happier system, the University ought not to stand merely in the relation of a task-master to its constituent colleges. It ought to assist and strengthen them. It can do this in part by giving guidance and advice, and by encouraging its best men to take a deeper interest in college work; in part by providing instruction, such as the colleges could not themselves provide, which can be used by their students in part by giving recognition and emoluments to the best college teachers and so helping the colleges to retain good men on their staffs".

(v) The functions of the University.

(vi) Conditions of teaching.

23. Under these new arrangements, it is desirable that a student spend three years at colleges reading for the B. A. or B. Sc.—though it may be impossible to enforce this at once in the case of pass students; and graduates should proceed to the Master's degree after another one or two years, according as they have taken an honours or a pass school. A radical departure is required from the system of instruction now in vogue. The excessive emphasis now laid upon attendance at lectures must cease, and the importance

(b) The Executive Council would be a small body, entrusted with financial and administrative duties and with considerable legislative powers, but not concerned with the details of purely academic business.

(c) The Academic Council would be the supreme body in academic matters and the final authority for most of the ordinary academic business, and would consist mainly of university and college teachers.

There would be other bodies, such as the Mufassal Board, the Board of Women's Education, the Muslim Advisory Committee and certain standing committees.

With a view to the initiation of the new order of things, a small Executive Commission, appointed by the Governor-General in Council, should be appointed immediately after the passing of the Act. It would make arrangements with colleges, draft the Statutes, classifying the constituent and university colleges, appoint a provisional committee to deal with secondary and intermediate education, constitute a provisional Academic Council, consider financial arrangements and perform other important duties.

33. The Commission found that the existing legislation which governs

(iv) University legislation

the activities of the universities is unduly rigid.

It accordingly proposed that, while an Act should be passed in the Imperial Legislative Council repealing the Act of 1857 and, so far as it concerns this University, the Act of 1904, and defining in very general terms the powers and the constitution of the University, the terms of this Act should be elaborated in a number of Statutes, Ordinances and Regulations. The first Statutes would be scheduled to the Act, but would be capable of amendment by the Court, subject to approval by the Governor of Bengal in Council. Among other things, the first conferment of any university privileges on any institution in Bengal should be through Statute. The Ordinances would govern the daily work of the University, would be made by the Executive Council, though initiated as regards purely academic matters by the Academic Council, and would be subject to the veto of the Chancellor. The Regulations would deal with minor matters and their framing would be entrusted to the various bodies of the University concerned with the matters with which they deal.

34. Such, generally expressed and exclusive of many matters which, though less essential for the carrying out of the scheme, are nevertheless of considerable importance, are the proposals of the Commission regarding the University of Calcutta. The Government of India accept them as probably embodying the most feasible scheme which is compatible with existing conditions and which at the same time gives promise of healthy development in the future. The legislative measure embodying the Commission's proposals, which it is intended to place before the Imperial Legislative Council, will, it is hoped, not depart in essential respects from the provisions set forth in the report and only summarised in the broadest lines in this Resolution. The Government of India, however, observe that two members of the Commission were not in entire agreement regarding certain aspects of the proposals and that criticisms have been put forward in other quarters—some to the effect that the changes suggested are too radical, others to the effect that still more drastic alterations are required. It is, therefore, to be understood that, while the forthcoming legislation will embody the essential outlines of the Commission's scheme, there may be room for differences in detail, dictated by administrative considerations or by public criticism.

Criticisms on the Report.

35. In particular, the Government of India consider that the treatment

Views of the Government of India on the classification of colleges proposed for temporarily affiliated colleges may, in practice, lead to difficulty. If the new organization in Calcutta is really to assume the functions of an efficient teaching organization, it will be hazardous to permit the continued existence in Calcutta of a class of institutions insufficiently equipped for participation in the Teaching University and calculated by their proximity to depress the standards which such a University should maintain. If on full consideration these apprehensions are found to be well based, it will be necessary to devise means for dealing with such colleges in a more expeditious manner than that contemplated by the Commission.

and it will probably prove most satisfactory if the Executive Commission is instructed at an early date to class those colleges which hold out no prospect of fulfilling the conditions of constituent colleges as intermediate institutions which would be definitely separated from the University and placed under the Board of Secondary and Intermediate Education.

The case is different with the mufassal colleges, which serve a useful purpose by providing higher education near to the homes of many students and by preventing those students from further augmenting the already overcrowded state of Calcutta colleges. It is, therefore, suggested that provision should be made for renewing the affiliation on present lines of those mufassal colleges which cannot immediately be classed either as University or as intermediate colleges.

The Commission apparently contemplated that the separation of intermediate from college classes, which forms the main pivot of their proposals, should not take immediate effect in temporarily affiliated and mufassal colleges. The case of the former kind of college has already been treated. But as regards mufassal colleges, while the degree courses continue to be allowed for some time even in those institutions which cannot definitely be classed as University colleges, it appears to the Government of India to be important that they should rid themselves from the commencement of the presence of intermediate students—a condition which should apply to all institutions connected with the University, save women's colleges.

36. The following points indicate the manner in which the questions mentioned in the preceding paragraph may, in the opinion of the Government of India, suitably be treated. They also indicate certain other deviations from the detailed proposals of the Commission which it may be found desirable to include in the Bill.

Suggested deviations from the Commission's recommendations.

(i) Powers of the Chancellor.—The Chancellor may in some cases be substituted for the Government of Bengal as a sanctioning authority, e.g., as the sanctioning authority as regards Statutes. This change, as in the Dacca Bill, would be made in order to emphasise the personal relation of the Chancellor with the University.

The Chancellor may also be given, as in the Dacca Bill, the power of suspension of operation of an Ordinance which he deems likely to be cancelled by the Court or disallowed by himself.

(ii) The Court.—The number of members of the Court may be slightly changed by specifying the number of members to be nominated by the Chancellor, by allowing the Chief Commissioner of Assam to appoint members to represent Assam, by including the Chairmen of the Board of Secondary and Intermediate Education and the Muslim Advisory Committee, by reducing the number of Vice-Chancellors of other Universities and the number of representatives assigned to associations contributing not less than Rs. 5,000, by omitting the representatives of faculties, of governing bodies of colleges and temporarily (until those institutions take fuller shape) of intermediate colleges and secondary schools, and by confining the membership of donors of Rs. 10,000 to five years. These changes would slightly reduce the size of the Court, prevent overlapping in its membership and add a few desirable elements.

(iii) The Executive Council.—The constitution of the Executive Council may be slightly modified, mainly by the substitution of two Deans of Faculties elected by the Academic Council and two appointed teachers elected by the same body for the three university teachers who, the Commission proposed, should be elected by the Academic Council.

Power may be given to the Executive Council in all financial matters within the limits of the budget, also supervisory control subject to certain safeguards over the framing, etc., of new Regulations.

(iv) The Academic Council.—The constitution of the Academic Council may be slightly modified, mainly by some reduction in the representation of recognised teachers and the Board of Secondary and Intermediate Education and by leaving indefinite the number of representatives of vocational faculties.

It is suggested that it may be empowered to constitute sub-committees or, if it thinks fit, an Executive Committee, and to appoint external, as well as internal, examiners, subject perhaps to the retention by the Executive Council of the duty of appointing committees in consultation with the Academic Council, to moderate examination questions and to report results to the Executive Council.

(v) Faculties.—It is suggested that the membership of these bodies be limited. The Deans should probably be the Chairmen.

(vi) Temporarily affiliated colleges.—These should be mentioned only in the transitory provisions and it should be the duty of the Executive Commission, before its dissolution, to class them either as incorporated or constituent colleges, or as intermediate colleges.

(vii) Conditions of recognition for temporarily affiliated and mufassal colleges.—The prescription of conditions may be left to the Executive Commission. But, save in the case of women's colleges, the continuance of intermediate and of degree classes in one and the same institution should not be permitted after the date on which the Act comes into force.

(viii) Appointments.—The appointment of the teaching staff will be the work partly of selection committees of the University sitting in India and partly that of some organisation which will be able to arrange for recruiting in the United Kingdom. Two departures from the Commission's report are proposed :—

(a) The nominations of the selection committee may be sent direct to the Executive Council and not confidentially through the Academic Council, since to do so would be to court undesirable discussion and possibly personal intrigue.

(b) Cases may arise where a selection committee in England will not prove either the best or a necessary instrument for nomination, and where the Secretary of State could select without the aid of a committee. But this course should not be adopted unless the Chancellor reports to the Secretary of State that exceptional circumstances exists justifying it.

(ix) Admission.—Provision should be made as in the Dacca Bill requiring the approval of the Government of India to the acceptance of other examinations as equivalent to the intermediate and degree examinations or to any other tests which are to be recognised as the minimum qualification admitting to the courses of the University. This seems to be desirable because such examinations will not be confined to Bengal and because the whole question of admission to universities must be dealt with by some central authority if confusion and undue competition are to be avoided. Moreover, lack of uniformity in these matters is liable to prove embarrassing to Indian students proceeding to England.

(x) Territorial jurisdiction.—It is desirable that the Bill should contain a clause generally similar to section 27 of the Indian Universities Act, VIII 1904. The limits of the teaching organisation should also be laid down ; and it is proposed to express them as co-terminous with municipal Calcutta as defined in the Calcutta Municipal Act, III of 1899.

(xi) Extinction of privileges.—It seems necessary to provide for the extinction of all privileges conferred under the existing Act with a view to their re-conferment at the discretion of the Executive Commission.

(xii) The Executive Commission.—The Executive Commission will be limited to seven members so as to become a more workable body ; and the representation of the Government of Bengal will be fixed at two members.

Certain other deviations are suggested. These are generally of minor importance. They refer mainly to the procedure following an enquiry by the Visitor or appeals from aggrieved communities, the position of the Treasurer, the provision for certain teachers to appear as private candidates, the inclusion of a new body called the Board of Co-ordination to make the most effective use of the teaching facilities and accommodation, provision for permitting a women's college to attain the rank of a constituent college. Some other unimportant changes will probably figure in the Bill ; and it may be found desirable to express in the Bill itself the proportion and method of Muhammadan representation in the larger bodies, viz., the Court, the Executive Council and the Academic Council.

37. The Government of India propose to place before the Imperial Action contemplated.

Legislative Council a Bill embodying the main proposals of the Commission with the deviations indicated above. They do not at the present stage commit themselves as regards these deviations or the detailed provisions of the measure. They trust that the Senate of the University of Calcutta and such other bodies as are closely concerned with the questions at issue will forward their opinions at a very early stage through His Excellency the Rector or the Government of Bengal, as the case may be, in such time as to permit of the publication of the Bill by the end of April 1920.

V.—Conclusion.

38. The Government of India are well aware that the proposals of the Commission may excite apprehensions in the minds of some. Vested interests may suspect that they are threatened, the sentiments which have grown round the University as it exists may feel themselves touched. But the scheme which the Commission has framed shows due consideration in all these matters. It is necessary to recognise the task of public instruction in all its branches as an important trust laid upon Government and upon the nation in which, while violence to personal interest should where possible be avoided, the greatest good of the majority must prevail. The traditions and the affections which cling round a time-honoured institution will only be strengthened by its development; for progress with the times must now, more than ever, be the watchword in education and the Commission has amply shown that the system in Bengal calls for re-adjustment to suit changing circumstances. It is not pretended that the realisation of the Commission's proposals will be an easy matter. Funds will be required, high administrative ability will have to be called into play, apprehensions will have to be allayed and the claims of conflicting interests adjudicated. The Government of India are assured that there is at the present moment in Bengal a strong and genuine aspiration for improved methods in the higher branches of instruction. They feel therefore that they can confidently look for the assistance and co-operation of the educated classes in carrying out the high and difficult enterprise on which the Commission has invited them to embark. They believe that these changes, if successfully achieved, will lead to a better order of things, remove any taint of inefficiency and furnish Bengal with a body of educated youth competent to further her interests in intellectual, administrative and industrial activities.

NOTIFICATION.

JUDICIAL. —

Delhi, the 12th February 1920.

No. 314.—The following revised rules approved by the Secretary of State for India in Council on the 2nd December 1919, consolidating and amending the rules fixing the salaries, allowances, furloughs, retiring pensions and (where necessary) expenses for equipment and voyage of the Chief Justices and other Judges of the several Indian High Courts are published for general information :—

INDIAN HIGH COURTS.

Rules fixing the Salaries, Allowances, Furloughs, Retiring Pensions, and (where necessary) Expenses for equipment and Voyage of the Chief Justices and other Judges.

1. In these rules, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context—

“Acting Chief Justice” means a Judge appointed under section 105 of Statute 5 & 6 Geo. V, cap. 61, to perform the duties of Chief Justice of a High Court.

“Acting Judge” means a person appointed under the said section 105 to act as a Judge of a High Court.

“Additional Judge” means a person appointed by the Governor-General of India in Council under section 101, sub-section 2 (1) of Statute 5 & 6 Geo. V, cap. 61, to act as additional Judge of a High Court.

“Judge” includes a Chief Justice and Acting Chief Justice, and an Acting Judge and an Additional Judge, except where the contrary is expressed.

“Actual Service” includes :—

- (a) Time spent by a Judge on duty as Judge or in the performance of such other functions as he may be directed to discharge by the Governor-General of India in Council;
- (b) Time spent by a Judge on privilege or subsidiary leave;
- (c) Duty authorised vacations (provided that the Judge is not absent on furlough or on extraordinary leave under Rule 26).

Section I.—Salaries.

2. The Chief Justice, or Acting Chief Justice of the High Court at Calcutta shall be paid a salary at the rate of Rs. 72,000 per annum.

3. The Chief Justice, or Acting Chief Justice, of the High Courts at Madras, Bombay, Allahabad, Patna and Lahore, respectively, shall be paid a salary at the rate of Rs. 60,000 per annum.

4. A Judge or Acting Judge, of the High Courts at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Allahabad, Patna and Lahore, respectively, shall be paid a salary at the rate of Rs. 48,000 per annum.

5. Every Judge shall be allowed to draw, in addition to his salary, any exchange compensation allowance which may be sanctioned for public servants generally, subject always to the conditions and limitations prescribed in the rules relating to such allowance.

Section II.—Leave.

6. One year's furlough shall be placed to the credit of each Judge after the completion of the fourth, eighth and twelfth years of actual service: provided that the aggregate amount of all furlough which can, during the whole period of his service, be granted to a Judge shall not exceed three years: provided further that the maximum amount of furlough which may be taken at any one time is 15 months.

7. Except under Rules 9 and 11, no furlough shall be granted until at credit under Rule 6. But any Judge already in the service of the Government at the time of being appointed to the High Court, who, when so appointed, had at his credit, under the rules applicable to the branch of the service to which he belonged, furlough without medical certificate may be granted furlough for a term not exceeding the amount so at his credit: provided that such furlough shall not be taken until the completion of two years' actual service in the High Court, and shall not exceed one year.

8. Except under Rules 9 and 11 furlough shall not be granted until after the completion of three years' actual service from the date of the last return from furlough or from extraordinary leave.

9. Under medical certificate, furlough may be granted before it is at credit under rule 6, and although three years' actual service may not have been completed since the last return from furlough or from extraordinary leave.

10. A Judge on long leave in Europe must, if the leave was granted or has been extended on account of ill-health, whether it be technically leave on medical certificate or not, satisfy the Medical Board at the India Office as to his fitness to return to duty. Ordinarily, he must attend at the India Office for examination by the Board, but, in special cases, particularly if he be residing at a distance of more than 60 miles from London, a certificate, in a form to be obtained from the India Office, from two medical practitioners, may be accepted. On the required evidence of fitness being furnished, the Judge will receive from the India Office permission to return to India.

11. On urgent private affairs, furlough may be granted to a Judge before it is at credit under rule 6, and although three years of actual service have not been completed since the last return from furlough or extraordinary leave: provided that furlough under this rule shall not exceed six months, and shall be granted only once during the whole period of a Judge's service.

12. Furlough taken in India shall be reckoned from the date on which the Judge quits his office to the date of his resuming duty. Furlough taken out of India shall be reckoned from the date of embarkation at the port of departure from India to the date of debarkation on return to India, except in a case falling under rule 21.

13. If furlough be taken partly in India and partly out of India, the commencement and termination of the furlough shall be respectively determined under the provisions of rule 12, according as the furlough begins or ends in or out of India.

14. For the interval between the date of quitting his office and the commencement of furlough out of India and between the termination of furlough out of India and resuming his office, a Judge may be allowed a subsidiary leave not ordinarily exceeding 30 days, which in special cases may be extended.

15. A Judge, when on furlough, shall receive allowances, payable monthly at the rate of Rs. 1,111 $\frac{1}{2}$ a month, if the furlough be taken in India, and at the rate of 1,000 $\frac{1}{2}$ a year, if the furlough be taken out of India, and payment be made in England. A Judge, when on subsidiary leave, shall receive allowances at the rate of Rs. 1,111 $\frac{1}{2}$ a month.

16. Except under medical certificate, the number of furloughs to be granted at any one time and the grant of furlough to individual Judges, shall be subject to and limited by the exigencies of the service, which exigencies shall be determined exclusively by the authority with whom rests the question of granting the furlough.

17. Applications for furlough not supported by medical certificate shall be granted usually in the following order:—

The Judge who has the greatest amount of furlough to his credit under rule 6 shall have the preference. If two or more applicants are on an equality in this respect, preference shall be given to the applicant whose actual service in a High Court is longest, reckoning in the case of a Judge who has not taken furlough or extraordinary leave, from the date of the commencement of his service in the High Court, and in the case of a Judge who has taken furlough or subsidiary, or extraordinary leave from the date of his last return from such furlough or extraordinary leave. If two or more applicants are equal in both the above-mentioned respects, the preference shall be given to the senior in the Court.

18. Subject to the exigencies of the public service, a Judge who has completed 11 months' continuous duty, including the vacation, may take privilege leave for one month in each year, but except as provided in clause (a), his salary will cease during such leave. A Judge may not take privilege leave in instalments or more than a month at a time; and, except as provided in clause (b), privilege leave may not be combined with vacation.

(a) A Judge who has been detained on duty as Vacation Judge may provided that he has not in the meantime had any furlough or leave of any kind, during his next subsequent privilege leave, draw his salary for any period not exceeding one month in the whole, by which his vacation may by reason of his being on duty have fallen short of one month.

(b) Once in three years, and not oftner, privilege leave may be prefixed or affixed to the vacation.

19. Every Judge applying for privilege leave must sign a declaration that he intends to return to duty on the expiration of the leave applied for, and that he has no intention of resigning his office or retiring from the service or taking leave of any kind within three months after his return to duty. Such declaration shall not be held absolutely to debar the person making it from applying for permission to resign his office or to retire from the service, or to take leave within three months after his return to duty; but every such application must be accompanied by an explanation of the special circumstances under which it is made, and it shall be in the absolute discretion of the Government to grant or withhold the permission sought.

20. Privilege leave may be prefixed but not affixed to furlough.

21. Applications for leave shall in all cases be submitted in such manner as the Government shall from time to time prescribe.

22. No substantive appointment shall be vacated merely by reason of leave being granted under the rules.

23. If a Judge overstays any leave, he shall forfeit all salary during the time of his remaining so absent; and if he overstays his leave for more than one week, his office shall be liable to be declared vacant. But a Judge on leave (other than leave under rule 18) is not obliged to return to duty on an authorised holiday, unless another officer is officiating as Judge in consequence of his absence.

24. A Judge may be allowed to combine vacation on full pay with leave as shown in (a) and (b) below, provided that no acting allowance is sanctioned or additional expense is incurred by the State in consequence of his absence during the vacation:—

(A) Where the vacation of the High Court consists of one period, a Judge may be allowed to combine vacation on full pay with leave, either at the beginning or end thereof but not both.

(B) Where the annual long vacation is not continuous, but is divided into two separate portions, a Judge may be allowed either:—

(a) To combine one part of a vacation on full pay with leave, either at the beginning or end thereof, but not both; or

(b) To combine both parts of one annual vacation on full pay with leave for the intervening period.

25. No leave except privilege leave and leave subsidiary to furlough shall count as service for pension.

26. If the Government in its discretion deems it necessary, in any special instance, to grant to any Judge leave of absence which is not expressly provided for in the foregoing rules, such leave shall be without pay; provided always that in no case shall such leave exceed six months, or be granted more than once in the whole course of the Judge's service.

Section III.—Pension.

27. Subject to the proviso hereinafter set out, a Judge of a High Court shall receive, according to the length of his actual service, a pension corresponding to the rates specified in the table that follows:—

Length of actual Service	If service includes service as Chief Justice					Judge who is not a member of the Indian Civil Service.	Judge who is a member of the Indian Civil Service.
	Not less than 2½ years		Not less than 2½ years but less than 2½ years
	As Chief Justice Calcutta High Court.	As Chief Justice in any other High Court.	As Chief Justice Calcutta High Court (when previous service has been as Chief Justice in other High Courts).	As Chief Justice, Calcutta High Court (when previous service has been as Puisne Judge).	As Chief Justice in any other High Court.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
(a) 2½ years but less than 5½ years	900	750	800	700	450	600	100
(b) 5½ years but less than 10 years	1,075	900	950	850	550	700	150
(c) 10 years but less than 15 years	1,450	1,300	1,350	1,150	1,050	850	150
(d) 15 years and over	1,800	1,600	1,650	1,400	1,300	1,100	200

Provided that no Judge shall receive such pension who has not attained the age of 60 years, unless he either retires on medical certificate or has had an actual service of at least 11½ years.

28. Except in the case of a member of the Indian Civil Service, a Judge receiving a pension under the preceding rules will not be entitled to any other pension or retiring allowance.

29. When a Judge, who at the time of his appointment to a High Court was a member of one of the Government Services in India, is permitted to retire without a pension under the preceding rules, he shall receive such a pension as he might receive under the rules applicable to the branch of the service to which he belonged when so appointed, reckoning the period of his service as a Judge of a High Court towards service for that pension.

30. If a Judge who, at the time of his appointment to a High Court was a member of one of the Government Services in India, is permitted to retire after six years and nine months of actual service as Judge, he shall have the option of taking his pension or retiring allowance either under these rules or under the rules applicable to the branch of the service to which he belonged when appointed.

31. The words "a member of one of the Government Services in India" in rules 29 and 30 include an acting member, and for the purpose of these rules acting service in the appointment held at the time of appointment as a Judge of the High Court shall be regarded as substantive.

32. In the event of the appointment to be a Judge of a High Court of a retired Judge who is in receipt of a pension under the preceding rules, the Secretary of State in Council shall decide in each case whether his salary shall be reduced by the amount of such pension, or by any part of such amount.

33. No Judge, selected from the Indian Civil Service, shall receive any pension under these rules unless he shall have fully complied with all the rules and regulations in force for the time being as to payments to be made by him as a member of the Indian Civil Service on account of the provision for his own pension or retiring allowance, and for pensions to his wife and children.

34. If a Judge is transferred from one High Court to another, the period he has served in each Court shall count towards his qualification for pension.

35. A Judge appointed under Statute 5 and 6 Geo. V, Chapter 61, section 105, to perform the duties of Chief Justice is not a Chief Justice within the meaning of these rules as to pension; provided that, if such Judge be afterwards appointed to be a Chief Justice, the period during which he performed the duties of Chief Justice as aforesaid shall count as service for pension according to the table in rule 27; provided also that the period during which a Judge performs (under Statute 5 and 6 Geo. V, Chapter 61, section 105) the duties of Chief Justice of the High Court at Calcutta shall not count towards pension at a rate exceeding 1,500/ a year, unless such Judge is subsequently appointed to the office of Chief Justice of the said High Court at Calcutta.

36. The above rules shall apply to every Judge now holding office, as well as to those who may be hereafter appointed.

Section IV.—Expenses for Equipment and Voyage.

37. For the purpose of defraying the expenses of equipment and voyage from Europe on first appointment, there shall be allowed—

To a Chief Justice or Judge of any High Court, 300*l*.

But no such allowance shall be made to any person who, being in India, is appointed to the office of Chief Justice or Judge, or who, having been in India, is in Europe at the time of his appointment with the intention of returning to India.

Sheriff's Sale Proclamation.

TO be peremptorily sold pursuant to an order of High Court at Calcutta in its Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction made in Suit No. 235 of 1915 and Appeal Case No. 37 of 1915 wherein Binodan Das is the plaintiff and Shumati Sobhala Dassi and another are the defendants and dated 23rd day of July 1917 by the Sheriff of Calcutta in his sale-room in the Court House on Friday the 12th day of March 1920 at 12 o'clock. All that undivided half part or share belonging to the estate of Ashutosh Pal deceased of and in all that partly two-storied house situate at and being premises No. 54 Bonomali Sircar Street in Sutanooty in Calcutta with land measuring about two and a half cottahs and bounded on the east by the dwelling house of Ramandas Pal on the west and north by Bonomali Sircar Street and on the south by a blind lane leading to Bonomali Sircar Street and all that undivided half share belonging to the estate of Ashutosh Pal deceased of and in all that two-storied house and premises together with land whereon the same is erected being No. 71 Ram Kanto Bose Street in Sutanooty in Calcutta measuring about seven cottahs more or less and bounded on the east by the house of Tialakhya Nath Palit on the west by the vacant land belonging to Monoranjan Mookerjee on the south by Ram Kanto Bose Street and on the north by a filled up municipal drain. The amount for the recovery of which the above property is to be sold is Rs. 12,099-8-0 being the decretal amount together with interest thereon at 6 per cent per annum from 26th day of January 1915 until realization besides subsequent costs of execution of the said decree which has not yet been taxed.

From the searches made in the office of the Registrar of Assurances for 64 years up to 1919 it appears that there has been no encumbrance affecting the half share of Ashutosh Kumar Pal in the said estate of Ashutosh Pal deceased.

The conditions of sale may be seen at the office of the Sheriff of Calcutta or at the office of Babu Khageshwar Nath De, Attorney for the plaintiff, and will be produced at the sale.

N. B.—It appears that one Russick Lall Sadhukhan, subsequent to the attachment in this suit, obtained an ex parte decree in suit No. 1233 of 1914 against Nanda Lal Pal and Gocoolmoni Dassi and sold the premises No. 71 Ram Kanto Bose Street, in Calcutta to one Lakhymoni Dassi by a conveyance registered in Book 1, Vol. 64, pages 42 to 53 being serial No. 683 of 1917.

Sheriff's Sale Proclamation.

TO be peremptorily sold, pursuant to an order of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal in its Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction made in execution of a decree of the said Court, dated the 10th day of July 1919, in suit No. 1203 of 1919, and dated the 26th day of August 1919, wherein Moorbidhur Aiden was the plaintiff and Ekeowriellal Bischoyee was the defendant by the Sheriff of Calcutta in his sale-room on the ground floor of the High Court by public auction, on Friday, the 12th day of March 1920, at 12 o'clock noon, the undermentioned property belonging to the said defendant Ekeowriellal Bischoyee.

Lot No. 1.—All that the tilled-huts, hereditaments and premises together with the piece or parcel of land or ground thereunto belonging and on part whereof the same is erected and built containing by estimation 3 cottahs be the same a little more or less situate lying at and being premises No. 7, Gour Laha Street, in Sutanooty in the North Division of the town of Calcutta, and bounded on the north by the dwelling-house of Sarat Chandra Chatterjee, on the east by the dwelling-house of Gokul Behary Halder, on the west by Gour Laha Street and on the south by the dwelling-house of Sreemitty Raj-Bajeswar Dasse with the exception of a Shiva's temple which is standing on the north-west corner of the said land together with pucca payments on all sides thereof except on the south. The judgment-debtor Ekeowriellal Bischoyee in 1905 purchased the said property from Hrishikesh Halder by an indenture of conveyance dated the 19th day of April 1905. It was agreed between the parties thereof that the said Ekeowriellal Bischoyee the judgment-debtor should whenever requested, close up the door of the said Shiva's temple and open another door at his own costs on the west and the purchaser, his heirs and assigns should have the right to erect pucca walls or other structures against the southern and eastern walls of the said temple.

The amount for the recovery of which the above property is sold is Rs. 2,800 with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum from the 10th day of July 1919 and until realisation and the costs as directed by the decree together with the costs of execution.

From searches made in the office of the Registrar of Assurances it appears that there are no encumbrances affecting the said property of the judgment-debtor.

The conditions of sale may be seen at the office of the Sheriff of Calcutta on any day before the sale and will be produced at the sale.

A. D. PICKFORD, Sheriff.

M. N. Mitra, Attorney for the plaintiff.

NOTICE.

Board of Revenue, Bengal.

WHEREAS the Court of Wards, Bengal, has, under section 6 (e) of Act IX (B.C.) of 1879, as amended by Act V (B.C.) of 1915, declared on his own application that Babu Satya Priya Ghosal of Bhukailash, in the district of the 24-Parganas, known as the proprietor of the Bhukailash Estate No. III, in the district of Bakarganj, is a disqualified proprietor and that it is expedient in the public interest that his estate should be managed by the Court of Wards; and

Whereas under sections 7 and 35 of the said Act, the said Court has assumed charge of the property of the said Babu Satya Priya Ghosal.

Notice is hereby given, (1) under sub-section (1), section 10A of the said Act, as amended by Eastern Bengal and Assam Court of Wards Act III of 1907, that all creditors having claims against the said proprietor or his immovable property lying within the district of Bakarganj are required to submit the same in writing to the Court of Wards at the office of the Board of Revenue, Bengal, in Calcutta, within six months from the date of publication of this notice, and creditors are also hereby warned that claims not submitted as required by this clause of this notice are liable to be deemed to have been duly discharged.

(2) Under sub-section (i), section 10A of the said Act, as amended by Bengal Court of Wards Act I of 1906, that all creditors having claims against the said proprietor or his immovable property lying within the districts of the 24-Parganas and Khulna are required to submit the same in writing to the Court of Wards at the office of the Board of Revenue, Bengal, in Calcutta, within six months from the date of publication of this notice. And creditors are also hereby warned that claims not submitted as required by this clause of this notice are liable to be deemed to have ceased to carry any interest from the date of the expiry of the period aforesaid.

By order of the Board of Revenue, Bengal,

J. D. V. HONGE,

Officiating Secretary.

Calcutta, the 6th February 1920.

Notice.

THE Bengal and Madras Service Family Pension Fund which is provisionally managed and assisted by Government has for its object the provision of monthly pensions for the maintenance of the widows and children of subscribers and is open, with certain exceptions, to all active and pensioned members of the Uncovenanted Service of Government (except those serving under the Government of Bombay), and to Local Fund servants earning pensions from Government. Some of the special features of the Fund are—(1) that widowed daughters incapable of remarriage or children labouring under such mental or bodily infirmities as incapacitate them from earning their livelihood or preclude the possibility of marriage (in case of a daughter) are admitted to its benefits; and (2) that subscribers to the Widows' and Daughters' branches are entitled to a refund of 30 per cent. of the premia paid, should the nominees predecease them after five years' of admission. The Fund is now of ten years' standing and has a balance of over three and-a-half lakhs with Government on four per cent. interest. For forms of applications and rules of the Fund apply to the Comptroller, India Treasuries, Imperial Secretariat Buildings, Calcutta.

STARRED QUESTIONS.

The following questions which had been starred were put and answered :—

By the Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri:—

*1.

(a) Are the Government aware that the teachers of the Lower Primary and Upper Primary Schools in the district of Rajshahi are put to hardship on account of the unnecessarily long delay which occurs in paying their stipends regularly every month?

Payment of stipends of teachers in Lower Primary and Upper Primary Sch

(b) Is this the case in other districts of Bengal?

(c) Under what system are the stipends now paid?

(d) How many primary schools are under the control and supervision of each Sub-Inspector of Schools, and what control and supervision do the district boards exercise over these schools?

(e) Is there any reason why stipends could not be paid by the Sub-Inspectors directly on the bills submitted to them by the teachers within the first week of every month?

(f) Are all the Sub-Inspectors of Primary Schools bound to act under the direction and control of Deputy Inspectors of Schools?

(g) If so, in what particular matters are the Sub-Inspectors subordinate to the district boards?

(h) Is there any reason why the district boards should not have their own Sub-Inspectors to act under their direct control and supervision?

(i) Is any inconvenience felt under the present system of what appears to be duality of control over the Sub-Inspectors?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley:—

(a) The answer is in the negative. Stipends in the Rajshahi district are paid quarterly to teachers of all Upper Primary and Lower Primary Schools, except the Board Primary Schools, in which they are paid monthly. The payment of stipends is delayed occasionally in the first quarter of the financial year, when the rates of stipends are revised.

(b) The procedure is the same in other districts of Bengal. No specific complaint regarding delay in payment has been received.

(c) Bills for stipends are drawn by Sub-Inspectors of Schools each quarter, and submitted to the District Board. The bills, when passed by the District Board, are presented through the treasury to the post office with money orders for the amounts due.

Questions and Answers.

(d) A Sub-Inspector has on the average about 200 Primary Schools under his supervision. The Hon'ble Member is referred to rule 12 of the educational rules issued by Government under clauses (j) and (q) of section 138 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act regarding Primary Schools directly managed and maintained by a Board, viz.:—

Subject to the general control of the Department, the Board shall have with regard to these schools the following powers in addition to those conferred on it by section 62 of the Act:—

- (1) of deciding where new schools shall be opened, and the manner in which accommodation for them shall be provided. But no such school shall be opened without the sanction of the Director of Public Instruction, to be obtained through the Inspector;
- (2) of transferring or closing existing schools;
- (3) of fixing the class and the standard of instruction of every such school: the selection to be made from classes and standards recognized by the Department;
- (4) of fixing, subject to such limitations as may be from time to time prescribed by the Department, the rate of monthly admission and re-admission fees to be paid by pupils in every such school.

In schools directly managed by the District Boards the teachers are appointed, transferred or removed by the Boards. The Education Department prescribes a curriculum and issues a list of approved books, while the inspecting officers are officers of the Department and not of the Boards; but the Department exercises no direct control over the distribution of grants by the Boards, and the latter dispose of the recommendations of the inspecting officers and may increase or reduce the grants to aided schools.

(e) Since Sub-Inspectors of Schools do not control District Board money, they cannot pay stipends direct on the bills presented by the teachers. A further objection to the system of monthly payment would be the increase of work which would be thrown on the Sub-Inspectors, District Boards and post-offices, while each teacher guru would lose an anna monthly as the money order commission is deducted from stipends.

(f) The answer is in the affirmative.

(g) The relations of Sub-Inspectors of Schools to the Chairman of a District Board are defined by the following rules:—

(a) Sub-Inspectors of Schools are under the direct control of the Education Department, but at the same time they are required to work in co-operation with District Boards. They must, therefore, loyally carry out the orders of the Chairman of a District Board. In the case of any difficulty or doubt arising on this subject the matter may be referred to the Director of Public Instruction through the Inspector of Schools.

(b) The Chairman of a District Board may suspend a Sub-Inspector in anticipation of departmental approval. In that case he should, as soon as practicable, submit a report on the case to the Inspector of Schools.

(c) The Chairman of a District Board may transfer a Sub-Inspector within his district, with the concurrence of the Inspector of Schools. In special cases in which urgent action is required, the Chairman may transfer a Sub-Inspector, without reference to the Inspector, but in that case he should send information without delay to the Inspector.

Questions and Answers.

- (d) The Inspector will transfer Sub-Inspectors from one district to another within his division after consulting the Chairman of the District Boards.
- (e) Diaries and travelling allowance bills of Sub-Inspectors will be submitted to the Inspector of Schools through the Deputy Inspector and Chairman of the District Board. Diaries should be submitted in duplicate if the Chairman of the District Board desires to retain a copy.
- (f) Character rolls of Sub-Inspectors should be submitted by the Deputy Inspector to the Inspector of Schools through the Chairman of the District Board.

(h) The reasons for which the present system was instituted are explained in Government Circular No. 23, dated the 6th April, 1905, of which a copy is laid on the table.

(i) The answer is in the negative."

Circular No. 23, dated Calcutta, the 6th April 1905, referred to in the answer to question No. 1 (starred) asked at the meeting of Council on 3rd February 1920.

FROM—H. W. C. CAENDUFF, ESQ., C.I.E., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department,

TO—All Commissioners of Divisions.

I am directed to address you regarding the position occupied by Sub-Inspectors of Schools in relation to middle and primary education, and to communicate the following observations and orders of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor on the subject.

2. The Government of India have placed at the disposal of this Government a further annual special grant of Rs. 10,00,000 for the development of primary education in Bengal. It is proposed to expend this amount on the improvement of the primary education of Muhammadans, on the establishment of rural primary schools, on the construction of buildings for primary schools, and on the strengthening of the subordinate inspecting staff of the Province; and District Boards will chiefly be benefited by, and interested in, the expenditure. As you are aware, for years past the subordinate inspecting staff has proved to be inadequate, and the necessity for strengthening and improving it has been emphasised of recent years by the action taken in the direction of reducing the number of public examinations, insisting more upon examinations in situ, and generally raising educational standards. The need will be felt still more now that it is proposed to carry out further educational reforms for which the Government of India have given the special grant above referred to.

3. It is, therefore, proposed to sanction without delay the appointment of a number of additional Sub-Inspectors of Schools, and this at once raises the question how the existing subordinate inspecting staff should be dealt with. In their Resolution No. 199—211, dated the 11th March 1904, the Government of India have pointed out that the inspecting staff is the means whereby general supervision over tuitional matters may be exercised, and that the Government should look to inspecting officers for guidance and advice as to its methods; while in the same Resolution it is explained that, in withdrawing from direct management, it is essential that the Government should retain a general control by means of efficient inspection. Local bodies may, no doubt, well be entrusted with the direct management of schools; but the State ought, on the one hand, to set up a standard of its own, and on the other, to ascertain through inspection how far that standard is being attained.

4. Such a responsibility will be effectively discharged only if the State employs and depends upon officers of its own, and obviously this cannot be done unless the Sub-Inspectors hitherto employed under District Boards are transferred to, and placed under, the direct control of the Education Department. The arrangement which prevails in Bengal not only differs from that adopted elsewhere in India, but is also at variance with that in vogue in England; and, as has just been intimated in the budget speech of the Financial Secretary in the Bengal Legislative Council, it has been decided upon these grounds, as also in the interests of the Sub-Inspectors immediately concerned, (a) to re-transfer to the Service as soon as possible the existing body of Sub-Inspectors who were at one time Government servants, and (b), with the consent of the District Boards, which will, without doubt, readily be accorded, in view of the large additional grants which they may expect to receive, to convert into Government servants such Sub-Inspectors as have been appointed by the Boards. It will be necessary to make a small financial adjustment with the Boards to meet these altered circumstances by reducing the grant for primary education to the extent necessary to meet the salaries and allowances of the Sub-Inspectors so absorbed in the Education Department, and to grade the entire staff in one cadre. I am to request that this decision may be communicated without delay to all District Boards, in consultation with whom the Director of Public Instruction will be requested to work out the necessary details.

Erosion of the town of Pabna
by the river
Padma.

(a) Is it a fact that representations have been made from time to time to the Government by the inhabitants of the town of Pabna about the erosion of the Padma and the threatened destruction of the town?

(b) Have the Government ascertained the extent of damage to the town of Pabna already caused by the Padma?

(c) Have the Government taken any steps, or if they have not, are the Government considering the desirability of taking immediate steps for the protection of the town from any further ravages by the Padma?

(d) If the answers to clause (c) are in the negative, will the Government be pleased to state the reasons for their inactivity in this matter?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

“(a) Yes.

(b) The town itself has not suffered damage at present; but encroachment has been made on certain hamlets and agricultural land in the neighbourhood of the town. The extent of the encroachment has been ascertained.

(c) Government have decided to construct a short length of protective revetment at a point on the river bank a little distance above the town which, it is hoped, may have the effect of diverting the main current of the river outwards on the southern bank and thereby cause scour on that side and avert the erosive tendency of the river opposite the town.

The proposed work is estimated to cost Rs. 2,60,000; and it is intended to complete the revetment before the coming flood season.

(d) The question does not arise.”

Recommendations of the Public Services Commission in regard to Deputy Superintendents of Police.

Will the Government be pleased to state whether the recommendations of the Public Services Commission with regard to Deputy Superintendents of Police are likely to be given effect to at an early date?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

“The Bengal Government have submitted to the Government of India their views on the recommendations of the Public Services Commission relating to Deputy Superintendents of Police. The orders of the Secretary of State, who will determine what action should be taken, are awaited.”

(a) Is it a fact that the District Board and Municipal accounts are now audited by a system known as test audit, i.e. accounts of any 4 months are audited, and that this is even done within a time limited by the department? Audit system of District Board and Municipal accounts.

(b) Is it a fact that the system of thorough auditing prevailed only a few years ago?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state what are the reasons for this change in the audit system?

(d) Are the Government aware of an opinion that has been expressed that this system of test audit cannot give thoroughness which is essential in District Board and Municipal accounts?

(e) Are the Government considering the desirability of reintroducing the system of thorough audit?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley:—

(a) to (e) Government are fully alive to the necessity for a thorough audit of the accounts of District Boards and Municipalities in order to detect and check laxity of supervision, dishonesty on the part of their executive staff and neglect of statutory rules as well as embezzlements and misappropriation of money. The accounts of these local bodies are audited for the whole year, but since 1916 there has been a test audit of payment vouchers for only four months of the year. The change was made as with the existing staff it was found to be impossible to audit the vouchers for the whole twelve months without work falling into arrears. A stringent test audit of vouchers is an efficient method of audit and has certain advantages over a full routine audit. No complaints have been made by the local bodies against the system and the efficiency of audit has not been impaired.

(a) Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the following paragraph which appeared in a letter from Sir Leonard Rogers in the issue of the Scientific Journal "Nature" of the 25th September last? Experiments on patients in hospital.

"With one exception, the cases in which I tried the gum solution were rather below the average severity, as is commonly the case in the rainy season, when the trial took place; yet several were lost which I should have expected to have recovered under hypertonic salines. Still more striking was the fact that instead of the great relief often resulting in sleep before the hypertonic saline injection is finished, the gum solutions were followed by increasing distress, difficulty of breathing, and cyanosis which soon compelled me to abandon their use. In view of the shortness of my trial, I decided not to publish my results at once, in the hope that others might be more successful; but I have now learned that my friend, Lieutenant-Colonel A. Leventon, I.M.S., has extensively tried gum solutions in accordance with Professor Bayliss's method at the Campbell Medical School Hospital, Calcutta, where well over one thousand cases have been treated in the first half of this year and Lieutenant-Colonel A. Leventon has authorised me to state, with various strengths of the purest gum arabic up to 7 per cent. his results have been in entire agreement with mine, and he has also had to abandon the method. He, too, noted the same distress and cyanosis which I saw, and the unexpected loss of not very serious cases under the treatment, clearly indicating that gum solutions do not meet the physiological needs of cholera cases."

Questions and Answers.

(b) Will the Government be pleased to state how many lives were actually lost through the experiments referred to above?

(c) Are the Government aware that there is an apprehension in the public mind that deaths are caused through risky experiments being performed on the patients in hospitals?

(d) Will the Government be pleased to state what steps, if any, they have in contemplation to prevent a repetition of such dangerous and risky experiments?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Marr:—

“(a) to (d) The attention of Government has been drawn to the letter in question, which was quoted in an anonymous communication to a non-medical journal, with the apparent intention of conveying an entirely erroneous impression as to the facts.

The particular treatment referred to was proved by an eminent English physiologist, Professor W. M. Bayliss, D.Sc., F.R.S., to be of life-saving value in cases of shock due to loss of blood, and its trial in cholera cases was recommended by him in the medical press. It was tried by Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Leonard Rogers, in addition to the hypertonic saline treatment associated with his name (which has yielded such admirable results) in seven cases, and by Lieutenant-Colonel Leventon in five. Of these twelve cases, two were practically moribund on admission; of the remainder, two are described as ‘of more than average severity,’ six as ‘much collapsed,’ and two as ‘very severe.’ Of these ten cases, four were saved and six ended fatally. It is incorrect to insinuate that the mortality was enhanced by the adoption of Professor Bayliss’ treatment. The latter was a failure in the sense that it did not lead to an additional saving of life over and above that attributable to the hypertonic treatment alone.

The insinuation in the letter in question to the effect that lives are wantonly sacrificed in hospitals which people avoid as places to which they only go to die, is entirely disproved by the ever increasing attendance of patients and the wonderful results which have been attained in the reduction of mortality from certain diseases, conspicuously cholera. The insinuation is grossly unfair to the devoted labours of many of the medical officers of Government.

It is not proposed to take any further action in the matter.”

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state the number of hackney-carriages registered since the removal of the Hackney-carriage Department from the Calcutta Corporation to the Commissioner of Police?

(b) What was the number of registrations when the department was under the control of the Corporation?

(c) Are the Government aware of the shortage of hackney-carriages in the town?

(d) Will the Government be pleased to state the number of hackney-carriages which have ceased to exist, and the number which have been discontinued since the transfer of the Hackney-carriage Department to the Police?

Questions and Answers.

(e) Are the Government aware of the fact that the Corporation used to depute two Inspectors of hackney-carriages daily—one to Howrah and another to Sealdah Station—to assist the public in securing carriages?

(f) Will the Government be pleased to state whether this practice is still continued? If not, why not?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

(a) The number of hackney carriages registered from the 15th July, 1919, when the Department was taken over by the Commissioner of Police, to the 21st January, 1920, is 1,561, viz.—

1st class	306
2nd class	862
3rd class	393

(b) The number was 2,708 on the 15th July, 1919, viz.—

1st class	373
2nd class	1,426

(c) Yes. Many hackney carriages which were found unfit for public use are now under repairs.

(d) Licenses issued by the Corporation of Calcutta under the old Act ceased to be in force after the 30th September, 1919. Precise information as to the number which have been discontinued since the transfer of the control to the police cannot be given until the present registration is completed. From the 15th July, 1919, to the 30th July, 1919, thirty-nine licenses were cancelled.

(e) Yes.

(f) The new Act is not at present in force in the town of Howrah. The Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, is unable at present to depute an officer to Sealdah from his limited staff."

(a) Are the Government aware of the serious and fatal epidemic of cholera which occurred in the tea districts of Northern Bengal, especially in the Darjeeling Terai, during April, May and June last?

(b) Will the Government be pleased to state whether any steps have been taken, in anticipation of the probable recrudescence of the disease during the next hot weather, when conditions are favourable for its propagation, to cope with and isolate it as far as possible?

(c) If not, will the Government be pleased to say whether they are considering the desirability of directing that the same shall be undertaken under the supervision of the Sanitary Commissioner of the province?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley: —

" (a) The answer is in the affirmative

(b) and (c) Copies of various notes on the prevention of cholera were circulated through the agency of the Darjeeling and Duars Planters' Associations to the managers of the tea gardens in the affected areas. Arrangements are being made by the Sanitary Commissioner for keeping in stock a supply of cholera vaccine for issue to the tea gardens on receipt of requisitions from them, and copies of the instructions for its use have been circulated."

Questions and Answers.

Deputy Commissioner of the district, and verified in the annual reports of the municipality for years past?

(b) Will the Government be pleased to state—

- (i) what steps are being taken to place the town in a more sanitary condition;
- (ii) what reply, if any, has been given to the proposals of the late Chairman, Mr. R B Addis, for the improvement of the town,
- (iii) what reply, if any, has been given to the request of the Commissioners for a grant from provincial funds to meet the expenses attendant on the appointment of a special sanitary officer for at least three years?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley: —

“(a) The answer is in the affirmative.

(b) (i) Government have sanctioned a sewerage project for the town of Kurseong, and have given a grant of Rs 50,000 and a loan of Rs 30,000 towards the execution of the scheme. The work has been undertaken by the Sanitary Engineer and is in progress.

“(ii) The proposals of the late Chairman, Mr R B Addis, for the improvement of the town have been recently submitted to Government and are now under consideration.

“(iii) No proposal to that effect has been received by Government. It is understood that the Commissioner has pointed out to the Municipality that before such an officer can be entertained it is necessary that Part XI-B of the Bengal Municipal Act should be extended to the municipality. The Commissioner has accordingly requested the Municipal Commissioners to submit a proposal to extend Part XI B of the Bengal Municipal Act to the municipality.”

Evening classes at the coal-fields.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state the following particulars relating to "the evening classes at the coal-fields" referred to in reply to unstarred question No. 17 of the meeting of the 19th November, 1919:—

- (i) the number of such classes,
- (ii) the names of places where they are held,
- (iii) the course of instruction imparted,
- (iv) the number of teachers employed,
- (v) the qualifications of such teachers,
- (vi) the number of persons receiving instruction, and
- (vii) the total amount of money spent in the current year for such classes?

(b) What improvement, if any, do the Government contemplate making in these classes?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley:—

"(a) (i) and (iii) There are two grades of evening classes, viz:—

(A) for English-knowing employes in the coal mines. The instruction is designed to prepare them for appearing at the colliery managers' examination (2nd class) which is conducted by a Board under the presidency of the Chief Inspector of Mines in India.

(B) for vernacular-speaking men employed in mines. The instruction is of a simple character and no definite syllabus is prescribed; the course is designed for sirdars and overmen hoping to become permit holders.

(ii) Classes of grade A are held at three centres in Bengal, viz., Deshergarh, Raniganj and Jamuria. Classes of grade B are held at two centres in Bengal, viz., Kalipahari and Charanpur.

(iv) Two teachers are employed in Bengal.

(v) Grade A classes are at present taught by a part time local lecturer, who is the manager of a large colliery.

Grade B classes are taught by the Instructor in Mine Surveying of the Civil Engineering College, Sibpur.

(vi) The numbers enrolled during the last session were:—

Grade A	203
Grade B	37

It is not possible to give definite figures for the current session, as new students are constantly being enrolled.

(vii) The provision for these classes in the current year's budget is as follows:—

				Rs.
Grade A	8,000
Grade B	565

*Questions and Answers.By the Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Datta:—*8.

Will the Government be pleased to state the following particulars about the Joint Technical Board, namely:—

The Joint Technical Board

- (a) the history of its formation, i.e., the facts and circumstances leading to its formation;
- (b) the ordinary functions of the Board;
- (c) the names of the members of the Board; and
- (d) the remuneration or emolument of the members?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley:—

“(a) Prior to the formation of the Joint Technical Examination Board, the overseer and sub-overseer examinations of the Apprentice Department of the Civil Engineering College, Sibpur, were conducted by members of the staff of that College, and until 1902 all institutions in the old provinces of Bengal and Eastern Bengal and Assam teaching up to the overseer or sub-overseer standards took these examinations. In the year 1902 the Bihar School of Engineering was given permission to conduct its own examinations independently of the Civil Engineering College, Sibpur. The certificates, awarded to successful students of the Civil Engineering College, Sibpur, and of all the technical schools affiliated to it, were signed by the Principal of the Sibpur College, while those awarded to successful students of the Bihar School of Engineering were signed by the Principal of the Patna College and countersigned by the Director of Public Instruction. Thus overseer and sub-overseer certificates were awarded on the results of two different sets of examinations, controlled by two practically independent bodies, viz., the Civil Engineering College, Sibpur, and the Bihar School of Engineering. It was considered desirable that the certificates should represent similar qualifications throughout the two provinces and this result could not be attained unless the examinations were controlled by a single authority. It was also felt that technical education had outgrown the then system of examinations and that the latter should be improved. In these circumstances the Board was first constituted in 1908.

(b) The functions of the Board are,—

- (i) to control the overseer and sub-overseer examinations in Bengal and Bihar and Orissa, and such other examinations as may from time to time be placed under the control of the Board.
- (ii) to notify the results of these examinations to the respective Governments and also to the institutions affiliated to the Board.
- (iii) to appoint examiners for these examinations.

Post of Assistant Surgeon,
Narayanganj
Victoria Hospital.

(a) Is it a fact that it has been proposed to abolish the post of Assistant Surgeon in charge of the Narayanganj Victoria Hospital?

(b) Are the Government aware that the people of Narayanganj are very strongly against the proposed abolition?

(c) Are the Government considering the desirability of dropping the proposal?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Mar:—

" (a) There is no proposal before Government for the abolition of the post of assistant surgeon at Narayanganj. An application was submitted by the Secretary, European Doctor's Fund, Narayanganj, to the Surgeon-General (through the Civil Surgeon of Dacca) to the effect that the European doctor maintained by private subscriptions might be appointed to the charge of the Narayanganj hospital and jail in place of the assistant surgeon. The municipality has been asked to express their opinion regarding the proposal.

(b) A copy of a resolution adopted at a meeting of the Bar Association, Narayanganj, protesting against the abolition of the post of assistant surgeon has been received.

(c) Government are awaiting the opinion of the Narayanganj municipality."

The Subordinate Civil Service.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state what action has been taken for the improvement of the pay and prospects and terms and conditions of service of the Subordinate Civil Service in Bengal in accordance with the resolution moved by the Hon'ble Babu S. N. Ray and agreed to by Government in this Council on the 4th July, 1919?

(b) Has any scheme been formulated regarding the pay and the conditions of promotion relating to the above service?

Questions and Answers.

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state whether they are prepared to invite public opinion and the opinion of the members of the service concerned on any scheme which has been or may be formulated for the Subordinate Civil Service as has been done in the case of the Provincial Services in Bengal?

(d) Have the Government considered the recommendations in the report on the Indian Constitutional Reforms regarding the Subordinate Services to which the attention of this Council was drawn by the Hon'ble Babu S. N. Ray in his resolution on the 4th July, 1919?

(e) If not, have the Government any such proposals now under consideration in connection with the improvement of the Subordinate Civil Service in Bengal?

(f) If the amalgamation of the Subordinate Civil Service with the Provincial Executive Service be not considered practicable by Government now, will the Government be pleased to state whether they intend to consider the recommendations of the Public Services Commission on the subject of the pay of the services manned by graduates, having in view the observations made by the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr in his reply to the resolution moved by the Hon'ble Babu S. N. Ray?

(g) Will the Government be pleased to state whether they have considered the question of the introduction of a time scale pay for the Subordinate Civil Service, as referred to by the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr in reply to the resolution mentioned above?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

"(a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f) and (g) The orders of the Government of India regarding the future recruitment, emoluments and conditions of service of the Provincial Civil Service have not yet been received, and the general position is still as stated by the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr in his speech on the resolution referred to namely, that no substantial investigation of the problem of the future of the Subordinate Civil Service can be taken up until the orders regarding the service to which it is ancillary have been received. Government have, however, in the meantime undertaken a preliminary review of the problem, and are now engaged in formulating such conclusions as are possible regarding the future recruitment work and emoluments of the Subordinate Civil Service. Commissioners and heads of departments, at their conference in October last, furnished Government with their views on several leading points that were referred to them; a more detailed examination is now in process, and further action will be decided upon on its completion. Full consideration will be given to all relevant recommendations contained in the report of the Public Services Commission and the report on Indian Constitutional Reforms."

With reference to the assurance given by the Hon'ble Mr. Kerr to this Council on the 4th July, 1919, that the question of promotion from the Subordinate Service to the Provincial Service was already under the consideration of Government and that the matter would be taken up almost immediately, will the Government be pleased to state what action has been taken in this connection?

The Subordinate Civil Service.

*Questions and Answers.Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

“ Shortly after the date of the speech referred to, the local Government submitted to the Government of India their proposals regarding the future recruitment of the Provincial Civil Service. These included a proposal as to the proportion of recruitment which should be made by promotion from the Subordinate Civil Service.”

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state the present qualifications for the promotion of an officer of the Subordinate Civil Service to the Provincial Service?

(b) Will the same qualifications apply in future?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state the principle on which an officer of a comparatively lower grade in the Subordinate Service is promoted to the higher service in supersession of the officers of the higher grades?

(d) Upon what principle were the promotions made during the last 3 years?

(e) Is there any age bar to promotion from the Subordinate to the Provincial Service?

(f) If so, will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing the names of officers in the Subordinate Civil Service with their present grades, who have been considered ineligible for promotion owing to such bar, from the year 1916 to 1919, year by year?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

“(a) There are no prescribed qualifications. Officers are selected for promotion on a review of the general merits of their work and of the likelihood of their usefulness in the higher service.

(b) No decision as to future rules has yet been arrived at.

(c) The answer is contained in the answer to (a) above.

(d) On the principle stated in the answer to (a) above.

(e) Yes. Rule 6 of the rules for the recruitment of the executive branch of the Provincial Civil Service lays down that an officer nominated for appointment by promotion from another branch of Government service should not ordinarily exceed the age of 40.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state how many Indians have been appointed to the Preventive Service since 1910, when the department was thrown open to Indians by the Secretary of State? Appointment of Indians to the Preventive Service.

(b) Is it a fact that only one Indian has been appointed as Preventive Officer, and that also very recently?

(c) Is it also a fact that a number of Indians, including some members of the Bengali Regiment, have applied for appointment in the Preventive Department?

(d) Is it also a fact that the Collector of Customs has informed them that he will wait to see how the one Indian who has been appointed acquits himself before he appoints any more Indians?

(e) Will the Government be pleased to state the reasons why the orders of the Secretary of State have not been given effect to in this connection?

(f) Are the Government considering the desirability of formulating a definite scheme to ensure that the orders of the Secretary of State passed in this behalf in 1910 will be given effect to?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Marr:—

(a) Two, both recently.

(b) See reply to (a).

(c) Yes.

Questions and Answers.

(d) The Collector of Customs recollects making no such statement. There are, however, good grounds for watching the results of these recent appointments.

The Director of Industries

(b) How much was he drawing as salary in the different capacities?

(c) How much has been spent for the Department of Industries up to the end of 1919?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Marr:—

"(a) The Director of Industries, Bengal, is ex-officio the Controller of Munitions of the province. In April 1919, when Mr. J. C. K. Peterson, the Director of Industries, went on leave, Mr. D. B. Meek, who had been the Assistant Controller of Munitions and who had been allowed to retain his previous appointment as the Meteorologist of Calcutta, was appointed as Officiating Director of Industries and Controller of Munitions, Bengal, up to the end of the last calendar year. Mr. Meek was allowed to work as the Meteorologist in addition to his double functions of Director of Industries and Controller of Munitions.

(b) The pay of the Director of Industries, Bengal, was Rs. 2,800 per month. Mr. Meek used to get the following salaries:—

	Rs.	A.	P.
Pay as Assistant Controller of Munitions ...	900	0	0
Acting allowance as Officiating Director of Industries, Bengal ...	1,066	10	8
As Meteorologist, Calcutta ...	410	0	0
As Controller of Munitions ...	Nil

(c) A sum of Rs. 42,661 has been spent on the Department of Industries up to the end of 1919."

Text-books in this Government Zilla Schools in the Presidency and Bardwan Divisions.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the text-books in the Government Zilla Schools of the Presidency and Bardwan divisions are different?

(b) If so, why?

(c) Are the Government considering the desirability of prescribing a uniform standard at least for those two divisions pending the proposed unification of curricula and revision of text-book rules throughout the province?

*Questions and Answers.Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley:—

“(a) and (b) Head masters of secondary schools have been authorized by Government to select and prescribe text-books from the approved list. No uniformity of standard as regards text-books is, therefore, possible.

(c) The answer is in the negative.”

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state after inquiry the reason why the up and down Narainganj to Goalundo Express steamers do not touch at Kamalghat (Munshiganj) which is the headquarters station of an important subdivision like Munshiganj?

Steamer connection with Kamalghat (Munshiganj).

(b) Is it a fact that these steamers pass by the ghat?

(c) Are the Government aware that these steamers stop at Bhagyakul and Rajbari which are not so important as Munshiganj?

(d) Are the Government aware that inconvenience is felt by the inhabitants and officers of Munshiganj in this matter and that great delay takes place also in receiving and despatching the mail bags?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

“(a) Government are informed that the Express up and down Narainganj-Goalundo steamers do not touch at Kamalghat (Munshiganj) because if this were done it would probably involve the missing of the connection with the Mail trains at either end.

(b) Yes.”

(c) The Up Express steamer does not at present call at Bhagyakul for want of time. The Down Express does stop, but this practice may have to be discontinued at any time, for the above reason. Passenger traffic is heavier at Bhagyakul than at Munshiganj.

(d) Government are aware that inconvenience is caused to the inhabitants of Munshiganj by the present arrangement, and that the mails have to leave earlier and to arrive later than would otherwise be the case.

The Steamer Companies will be asked to consider the question.”

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that a time scale of pay has been introduced in the Bengal Secretariat for the lower division clerks from 1st October, 1919?

Scale of pay of the lower division clerks in the Bengal Secretariat.

(b) What are the minimum and maximum rates of pay under the new scheme and the rate of increment?

(c) How many years' service will a clerk have now to put in to entitle him to Rs. 100 per mensem?

(d) Is it not a fact that many clerks have been adversely affected by the new scale as they will not be allowed to count their past services towards increment?

(e) Are the Government taking any steps to mitigate the hardships caused by this division?

Questions and Answers.

(f) Is it not a fact that the lower division clerks memorialised for a minimum of Rs. 50 and a maximum of Rs. 200 and also asked for a house rent allowance of 25 per cent. of pay or house accommodation on a deduction of 10 per cent. of pay.

(g) Has the scale of pay of the lower division clerks been revised in the offices of the Accountant-General, Bengal, Controller of Currency, Controller, India Treasuries, Accountant-General, Post and Telegraphs, Deputy Accountant-General, Post and Telegraphs?

(h) What are the minimum and maximum rates of pay and increment under the new scale introduced in these offices?

(i) Will the Government be pleased to say whether the work in those offices is considered to be superior to that of the Secretariat?

(j) Are the Government aware that the Government of India has addressed a Despatch to the Secretary of State recommending sanction to a time scale of pay of Rs. 100—8—300 for the lower division clerks in the India Secretariat?

(k) Have the Government considered whether the clerks will be able to meet the cost of living under the new scale of pay now sanctioned?

(l) Is it a fact that a rule has recently been made stopping direct recruitment of outsiders in the upper division of the Secretariat till all the deserving lower grade assistants who entered the Secretariat before 1st April 1910 are promoted to that grade?

(m) If so, has any deviation been made from this rule subsequently?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Marr:—

"(a), (b), (d), (e) (g), (h) and (i) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the replies given to similar questions asked to-day by the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur.

(c) 17 years' service will bring a clerk to Rs. 101 a month, unless stopped previously at the efficiency bar, which has been fixed at Rs. 100 for clerks already employed in the Secretariat prior to the revision of pay and at Rs. 80 for others.

(f) Yes.

(j) No

(k) This was taken into consideration in revising the pay.

(l) Yes, though the rule affecting Muhammadan recruitment has not been waived; neither has the rule which permits the recruitment of outsiders when otherwise a post cannot be suitably filled.

(m) No. Unless in the special cases referred to above."

Pay of constables of the Bengal Police.

(b) Are the Government aware that ordinary day labourers nowadays get at least annas eight a day as wages, i.e., Rs. 15 a month?

(c) Are the Government considering the advisability of increasing the salary of constables?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

“(a) The constables of the unarmed branch draw pay at the rates of Rs. 10 to Rs. 13 per mensem, but those of the armed branch get one rupee more.

(b) Yes, in certain circumstances.

(c) Sanction has just been received to an increase in the form of an enhanced grain compensation allowance.”

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that head constables in the Bengal Police commence their service with a starting salary of Rs. 17-8 per month?

Initial pay of head constables of the Bengal Police.

(b) Is it a fact that head constables in the Bengal Police are now generally recruited from the bhadralog class?

(c) Are the Government aware that Rs. 17-8 is considered insufficient nowadays to maintain even a small family among the bhadralog classes?

(d) Are the Government considering the desirability of revising the scale of pay of the head constables so as to make the starting salary to be at least Rs. 30 per month?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

“(a) Yes.

(b) Ordinarily head constables are promoted from the ranks, but, as men with sufficient literary and other qualifications are not available in adequate numbers in the rank of constables, outsiders possessing such qualifications are also recruited as head constables in the unarmed branch.

(c) and (d) A proposal to raise the initial pay of the head constables in the unarmed branch to Rs. 25 a month, is under the consideration of Government.”

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state the authority under which the members of Legislative Councils are entitled to prefix the title “Hon'ble” to their names?

(b) Is it not a fact that this authority confers on the said members a right under the Statute to prefix the said title to their names?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state the full legal rights of members as regards the use of the said title to their names?

(d) Is it not a fact that the title “Hon'ble” as prefixed to the names of members of Legislative Councils is a title recognized by Government so long as the membership continues?

(e) If so, will the Government be pleased to state whether members of the Legislative Council are not exempted, during the term of their membership, from taking out licences under the Arms Act on the ground that they hold a title recognized by Government?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

“(a) to (e) The title of ‘Hon'ble,’ which is in use by members of the Legislative Council, is a mere courtesy title and is not prescribed or regulated by any law. It therefore follows that it confers no legal status on the holder, and in the circumstances a member of Council is not exempt from taking out a license under the Arms Act simply for the reason that he is, by courtesy, styled ‘Hon'ble’ while he is a member of the Legislative Council. (a) Will the Government be pleased to state the number of persons who were under detention in Bengal, under Bengal Regulation III of 1818, the Defence of India Act or other war measures, on the date of the recent Royal Proclamation?

Release of political prisoners.

(b) How many of these persons under each head have since been released, and what action is going to be taken with regard to the others and when?

(c) What is the total number of persons released from detention prior to the Royal Proclamation and how many of them have been so released on their undertaking to be of good behaviour or on other similar terms?

(d) With regard to these latter, are the conditions or restrictions imposed on them going to be removed in pursuance of the Royal Proclamation? If so, when?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

(a) On the date of the recent Royal Proclamation the number of persons in detention owing to their participation in revolutionary conspiracy in Bengal was as follows:—

Under Bengal Regulation III of 1818	...	64
Under the Defence of India Act	...	208
Under the Ingress into India Ordinance	...	1

(b) Ten of the persons detained under Regulation III have been released. The cases of the remainder are under consideration. In the Royal Proclamation His Excellency the Viceroy was directed to exercise the Royal clemency in the fullest measure which in his judgment was compatible with the public safety. It is necessary, therefore, that the merits of each case shall be scrutinised individually, and this is now being done.

All persons detained under the Defence of India Act and the Ingress Ordinance have been released.

(c) The total number of persons released from detention prior to the Royal Proclamation was 915, of whom 892 were released on security.

(d) It is not proposed to cancel the securities already given by persons released prior to the Royal Proclamation. These sureties constitute no restriction on any law-abiding citizen. Such persons released are subject to no other conditions or restrictions."

(a) Do the Government anticipate any improvement in the general rice position of Bengal this year over that of last year?

The rice position in Bengal.

(b) Have the Government any idea as to the sufficiency or otherwise of the present stock of rice in Bengal for purposes of domestic consumption till the next harvest?

(c) What are the present stocks of Burma rice, controlled and uncontrolled, in the various districts of Bengal and at what average rates do they sell now?

Questions and Answers.

(d) What is the present average price of rice of the ordinary quality at the headquarters of each district and how does it compare with the respective prices that ruled during the corresponding periods of each of the last five years?

(e) Is any tendency of a rise in the price of rice noticeable at present?

(f) If so, how far is it due to natural causes?

(g) Are the Government in a position to state as to how far, if at all, stocks of rice are being acquired by speculators for holding them up?

(h) Are the Government considering the desirability of deputing special officers for making early inquiries into this matter at every important mart and of issuing instructions to the Subdivisional and Circle Officers and Panchayets generally to watch the movements of rice and other developments in connection therewith, and keep Government regularly informed about the same?

(i) Is there any truth in the statement that in several places forward sales of rice were made and standing crops disposed of at the instance of speculators this year?

(j) If so, was any such system in vogue in the rice trade ever before?

(k) Have the Government any approximate idea as to the extent to which the rice trade of Bengal has fallen into the hands of Marwaris during these two years?

(l) What steps (if any) are the Government taking to prevent "profiteering" in rice this year?

(m) Will the Government be pleased to state whether any restriction still exists in transporting rice from one province to another, for the purpose of sale or otherwise, by railway?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

"(a) The rice outturn for the year 1919-20 of the Provinces of Bihar and Orissa, Bengal and Assam, is estimated at over five million tons above that of the previous year. This includes an excess of nearly one million tons in the Presidency of Bengal. The total rice outturn for 1919-20 of India and Burma may be estimated at over 34 million tons against a corresponding figure of nearly 24 million tons for the year 1918-19. Government, therefore, anticipate a very considerable improvement as regards stocks.

(b) The present stock of rice in Bengal, including the balance of standing crops remaining uncut, is ample for the purposes of domestic consumption till the next harvest. The estimate of the outturn of rice for the year 1919-20 amounts to over eight million tons.

(c) A statement is laid on the table, showing the stocks and prices of controlled Burma rice. There are no stocks of uncontrolled Burma rice.

(d) A statement is laid on the table.

(e) The average price of common rice as shown in the Calcutta Gazette rose 0.65, 1.6 and 2.2 per cent. in the week ending the 8th January, 15th January and 22nd January, respectively.

Questions and Answers.

(f) Fluctuations are not uncommon in January. Until therefore Government know whether the rise is permanent or temporary, they are not in a position to say that it is due to any unusual causes.

(g) Only a few District Officers state that such speculation exists. But the general tendency in the present year appears to be for the cultivator and persons who obtain rice by way of rent or in return for loans to hold on more strongly to their stocks than they have done in the past. On the other hand, where stocks have been acquired in any quantities by large traders, they have been acquired for sale in deficit districts and in the hope that free movements of food stocks would be allowed to other provinces and abroad.

(h) Apart from the Director of Civil Supplies, who is in constant touch with the situation, a gazetted officer was appointed some time ago in each district to carry out the duties of District Economic Intelligence Officer and has standing instructions to cover the activities which the Hon'ble Member recommends.

(i) Almost all the District Officers report that there is no truth in the statement. It is presumed that the Hon'ble Member is not referring to ordinary mahajani loans granted on the security of the crop.

(j) The question does not arise.

(k) In the periods under reference Marwaris have extended their operations in varying proportions as buyers in the larger mufassal centres; they have also widened their activities in the Calcutta rice trade. No estimate can be given of the extent to which the rice trade in Bengal has come into their hands during these years.

(l) Government have taken measures with the intention of securing that the movements of rice both to other provinces and abroad are restricted by means of control.

(m) Transport of rice from one province to another by railway is still controlled."

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether orders of the Secretary of State on the recommendations of the Public Services Commission relating to the Educational Services have been received by the Government of Bengal?

Recommendations of the Public Services Commission in regard to the Educational Services.

(b) If the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, will the Government be pleased to state—

(i) whether the proposal of the Commission to combine the Indian Educational Service and the Provincial Educational Service into a single service divided into two classes has been sanctioned;

(ii) whether in future recruitment for the Indian Educational Service (or class I) is to be made partly in India by promotion of deserving officers of the Provincial Educational Service (or class II) and if so, to what extent;

(iii) whether an incremental scale of pay will be introduced in place of the existing grade system in the Provincial Educational Service; and

(iv) from what date Government intend to give effect to the orders of the Secretary of State on the reorganization of the Provincial Educational Service?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley:—

“(a) The Secretary of State's orders on some of the recommendations of the Public Services Commission have been received. A copy of a communiqué issued by the Government of India on the subject is laid on the table.

(b) (i) The superior branches of the Educational Services will be organized in two divisions, the higher branch being styled the Indian Educational Service, while the service which the Commission proposed to call Class II will be styled the Bengal Educational Service or generally, for convenience of reference, the Provincial Educational Service.

(b) (i) The superior branches of the Educational Services will be organized in two divisions, the higher branch being styled the Indian Educational Service, while the service which the Commission proposed to call Class II will be styled the Bengal Educational Service or generally, for convenience of reference, the Provincial Educational Service.

Questions and Answers.

(ii) Officers of the Provincial Educational Service will be eligible for promotion to the Indian Educational Service. As qualified Indian candidates become available, it is proposed to work up to a proportion of 50 per cent. of Indian officers in the Indian Educational Service; this will be the average for the whole of India and variations will be permitted in different provinces. It is proposed to transfer to the Indian Educational Service such posts as will always have to be filled by officers of superior attainments, and this will involve the promotion to the Indian Educational Service of their incumbents; but no proportion has been fixed for the posts which should be filled by promotion from the Provincial Educational Service.

(iii) It has been decided that the Provincial Educational Service should carry a minimum pay of Rs. 250 and a maximum pay of Rs. 800 a month. The Government of Bengal will settle the grading.

(iv) Both the services will be divided into administrative, collegiate and special branches, and it will be necessary to allocate posts to each branch, as well as to decide what posts should be included in the Indian Educational Service and Provincial Educational Service. The proposals of this Government for the reclassification of posts to the Indian Educational Service and the transfer of their incumbents to that service will have to be submitted to the Government of India, and it is at present impossible to state the date on which the reorganization will come into effect.

3. In applying the above scale to future entrants, both initial salary and date of increments will be determined by age. 25 years of age has been taken as the normal starting point for the scale, and the initial pay in the case of candidates over 25 at the time of appointment will ordinarily be Rs. 50 a month higher for each year above that age. A candidate appointed under the age of 25 will receive the minimum pay of the scale (Rs. 400), plus overseas allowance if qualified for it, until his 26th birthday, and a candidate appointed at or over 25 years of age will qualify for increment on attaining his next birthday after joining his appointment irrespective of the length of his service. Seniority will, as at present, reckon from the date of taking up appointment. The overseas allowance will be issuable only to officers of non-Indian domicile.

4. As regards existing members of the Service, the above scale will be applied as an ordinary time scale by years of service (as indicated in column I in the scale); but any officers who are at present drawing higher pay than their years of service would warrant (i.e., officers who have entered the Service on higher initial pay than usual by reason of special qualifications) will retain their advantage.

5. In addition to the pay and overseas allowance above stated, each Principal of a College will receive an allowance of Rs. 150 a month and one Principal in each Province selected by the Local Government will receive an allowance of Rs. 250 a month.

6. The pay of Directors of Public Instruction will be as follows :—

Province.			Pay.
			Rs.
Madras	2,500—100—3,000
Bombay
Bengal
United Provinces	2,250—100—2,750
Punjab
Burma
Bihar and Orissa	2,000—100—2,500
Central Provinces
Assam	1,500—100—2,000
North-West Frontier Province	1,500

These rates will apply in the case of all incumbents, whether recruited in England or in India. Directors in Assam and in the North-West Frontier Province, if in a selection post, will receive the pay of that post, including overseas allowance, plus a local allowance of Rs. 250 in the case of Assam, and Rs. 150 in the case of the North-West Frontier Province, if the total thus arrived at would exceed the amounts stated above.

7. The revised scale as a whole represents a substantial increase on the rates at present in force as well as on those recommended by the Royal Commission on the Public Services in India.

8. Apart from the increase of pay, important improvements in regard to leave and pensions have been sanctioned.

Leave.—Various restrictions on the grant of leave have been abolished, or modified, and an officer will now be permitted, within certain limits, to exchange a portion of leave on half average salary for half the amount on full average salary. Privilege leave may now be accumulated up to four months.

Pensions.—Subject to the right of Government to retain an officer in the Service until completion of 30 years' service, or attainment of the age of 55, he will henceforth be permitted to retire, if he so desires, after 25 years' qualifying service, on a pension ordinarily amounting to Rs. 5,000. For longer service the pensions will ordinarily be—

	Rs.		Rs.
26 years	... 5,200	29 years	... 5,800
27 "	... 5,400	30 "	... 6,000
28 "	... 5,600

For specially efficient service in certain high appointments additional pensions may be granted up to maxima of Rs. 1,500 or Rs. 2,500. These additional pensions will be conditional, inter alia, on the officer having rendered total qualifying service of 28 years. It will thus be possible for an officer in certain circumstances to attain to a maximum pension of Rs. 7,500 or Rs. 8,500.

9. The new scale of pay will apply to male officers of the Indian Educational Service only. The question of the Women's Educational Service is being considered separately.

(b) Are the Government considering the desirability of taking steps for the removal of this grievance?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

" (a) No. The East Indian Railway Administration report that the Naihati Branch service of trains begins running from Bandel at 5-32 A.M. and ceases at 23-10 hours each day. Six roof lamps are provided in the carriages and these are lighted in the early morning and at night.

46.

(a) Are the Government aware that more than the allotted number of passengers are generally put into the inter-class compartments (both male and female) in all the trains running from and to Howrah?

(b) Is it not a fact that it not infrequently happens that so many passengers are pressed into one compartment that they cannot obtain even standing accommodation?

(c) Are the Government considering the desirability of taking steps for the removal of this grievance?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

" (a) The East Indian and Bengal-Nagpur Railway Administrations report that the number of inter-class passengers travelling to and from Howrah is not usually in excess of the number for whom carriages are provided.

The President's address.

(b) There are occasions when without warning a number of inter-class passengers, in excess of the accommodation usually provided and found sufficient, desire to travel by and insist in entering the inter-class compartments of a particular train. Overcrowding on these occasions cannot at short notice be avoided without inconvenience to inter and other classes of passengers.

Overcrowding is not encouraged and is checked by the Railway Administrations as far as possible.

(c) The Railway Administrations are aware of the inconvenience due to overcrowding of compartments and are considering means for relieving the same in cases where it can be foreseen."

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 3.

The Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson laid on the table a statement* containing the information promised in his reply to question No. 12 (unstarred) asked at the Council meeting on the 19th November, 1919.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

His Excellency the President said:—

"Gentlemen, since this Council last met the Reforms Bill has become the Reforms Act and we are therefore now started upon a road involving constitutional changes of great magnitude. Under these circumstances, it will be clear to everybody that between the actual passage of the Bill into law which has recently taken place and the putting into operation of its provisions, a considerable period must elapse during which much spade work has to be done. For reasons which will be apparent before I sit down, I propose to mention quite briefly some of the chief matters which will have to be considered and in respect of which decisions will have to be come to before the provisions of the Reforms Act can actually be put into operation. These questions may roughly be said to fall under four main heads. In the first place, there is the constitution of three different chambers—the Provincial Legislative Council, the Legislative Assembly and the Council of State—and it will devolve upon us to frame a franchise which will be applicable to each of these three bodies. Under the second head comes the machinery which we shall have to create for carrying out the election to these bodies. Then under head three comes the rearrangement of the machinery of Government which will be necessary as the result of the introduction of the system which has come to be known as diarchy under which the functions of Government will be allocated to and discharged by two separate bodies. Lastly, we shall have to consider the preparation of Rules under the Act for giving effect to the decisions which are arrived at with regard to the main questions to which I have already referred, and also Rules to regulate the procedure of the new Councils

The Joint Committee of the two Houses of Parliament have made certain recommendations in their Report which will have the effect of modifying the constitution of the Provincial Legislative Council which was proposed by the

* Not published in these proceedings.

The President's address.

Franchise Committee. For example, they have instructed us to arrange for an increase in rural representation as compared with urban representation. They have also instructed us to endeavour to arrange for the representation of urban, wage-earning classes and they have suggested that, in some Provinces at any rate, the question of giving greater representation to those classes which are generally known as the depressed classes should be undertaken and one or two other minor readjustments made which may affect, possibly, the representation in the Council of landlords and the European community. All these questions will immediately come under the consideration of Government and until decisions have been arrived at on these particular points the constitution of the Provincial Legislative Council cannot be described as final. With regard to the Legislative Council and the Council of State, the Government of India have already made provisional allotments of elective seats in each of these bodies to the various provinces and they have invited an expression of opinion on the suitability of their proposals.

Then with regard to the question of the franchise. The question of the franchise to these two bodies, namely, the Legislative Assembly and the Council of State, is one which will require very careful consideration and indeed is one of no small difficulty. The Joint Committee have issued an instruction that representation to these two bodies is to be obtained by direct election. The problem, therefore, which we have to face is that of devising a franchise for the electors to each of these two Chambers which will furnish an electorate appropriate both in status and in numbers. Then with regard to our Legislative Council in Bengal, the preparation of an electoral roll will be an undertaking of great magnitude. The census qualification which will give the franchise to the cultivating class goes outside the scope of any of our up-to-date official records, and we shall have to invite the co-operation of village officials in drawing up our election rolls. The printing of the rolls themselves will present a problem which is by no means an easy one and we shall have to try and find a convenient procedure for dealing with objections and for the correction of electoral rolls before they are finally published. A Bill to prevent corrupt practices at the elections and to provide for the disposal of electoral petitions will also have to be considered.

The machinery itself for carrying out these elections will also call for careful consideration. That, I think, will be obvious to everybody when I remind you that the number of voters at elections which have been held up to the present time under the existing system have not aggregated more than twelve thousand whereas we anticipate that the number of electors all told with whom we shall have to deal when the Reforms Scheme comes into operation will be approximately a million and a half. This large number of electors, together with the fact that elections to the three separate Chambers will have to take place almost simultaneously, will obviously impose a very severe strain upon the officials who are responsible for carrying the elections through. It will necessitate the organisation of all our resources in this respect as well as the simplification and perfection as far as possible of what may be described as the mechanical means of carrying the elections through. We shall have to give much consideration to the question of the advisability of trying to introduce a system of election by ballot in preference to the ordinary open recording of votes. We shall also have to consider the difficulties which must necessarily arise when we have a large electorate consisting to a great extent of illiterate peasants and the difficulties arising out of the identification of voters and the prevention of impersonation; and we shall have to consider also the question of the number of polling stations and of the number of recording officers required to carry the elections through in as short a time as possible.

The Bengal Cruelty to Animals Bill.Sir Henry Wheeler.

Then, of course, there are a number of Rules which will have to be drafted to deal with many questions besides those to which I have referred. The Reforms Act, as you are no doubt aware, leaves the completion of some of its main provisions to Rules and Regulations and all these Rules and Regulations will have to be carefully considered and decisions arrived at with regard to them before it is possible to hold a general election. The Government have not allowed the grass to grow under their feet. They have already taken these questions in hand. We have deputed a special officer to devote his whole time and attention to assisting us in solving these main problems. But we fully realise that all these questions are matters which are necessarily of considerable interest to the general public and in particular to that part of the public which at the present time plays a part in public life; and we are anxious, therefore, to consult, so far as that is possible, representatives of the public before coming to final decisions upon these questions.

It is quite obvious, I think, that if the provisions of the Reforms Act are to be brought into operation within any reasonable period it would be quite impossible for us to adopt the ordinary procedure of circulating this vast number of detailed questions to individuals and public bodies for their opinion. We all know how long it takes to obtain the considered opinion of public bodies on any matter and were we to endeavour to obtain the advice of the public in that way I am afraid that the first general election under the Reforms Act would be in some danger of being postponed to the Greek Kalends.

But I think there is another way in which we may be able to obtain the assistance of the public and that is through their representatives in this Chamber, and what I suggest is this, that the non-official members of this Council should nominate from among themselves a small body who would be prepared to give us advice upon all these questions as we submit them to them. Such a Committee would have to be more or less in perpetual session, that is to say they would have to be easily accessible to us and would have to be in a position to consider the questions we submit to them with as little delay as possible. If this suggestion meets with the approval of the Council, I would suggest that at the conclusion of to-day's proceedings the non-official members should proceed to create such a body. They will no doubt desire that all the main interests represented in this Council should find representation on such a Committee. At the same time I would suggest that subject to that important consideration the Committee should not be larger than necessary. The questions which the Committee will have to consider will be numerous and in some cases will be surrounded by matters of detail, and the smaller and more business-like the Committee, therefore, the greater chance will they have of assisting Government without undue delay. On the assumption that you will be prepared to consider this proposal I intend to ask Sir Henry Wheeler to take the chair at the conclusion of our proceedings to-day when you can informally discuss my suggestion and in the event of its meeting with your approval proceed to elect such a Committee as I have proposed."

AMENDMENTS

TO

THE BENGAL CRUELTY TO ANIMALS BILL, 1919.

(APPENDIX TO THE LIST OF BUSINESS.)

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler moved^{ed} that for the figures "1919," at the end of sub-clause (1) of clause 1, the figures "1920" be substituted.

The motion was put and agreed to.

Amendment No. 2.Clause 7 (now clause 6).

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur moved that after the word "it," in line 7 of clause 7 (now clause 6), the following be inserted, namely :—

"who has knowledge that phuka operations are being performed on the animal."

He said—

"My Lord, I have asked for this amendment in view of the fact that an owner of the cow or other milch animal and any person in possession of or control over it ought not to be convicted when he has no knowledge that the operation was being done on the animal. To say the least, in order to constitute an offence, there must be at least the knowledge connecting the act with the effect. If the owner does not know that the operation of phuka on the animal is to be done or is being done, he ought not be punished. I leave this matter for the decision of the Council."

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler said :—

"My Lord, I cannot advise the Council to accept this amendment, which, if adopted, would practically frustrate the intention with which we made this addition to the previously existing section. It will be remembered that in three clauses of the Bill we sought originally to impose an additional obligation on owners and persons in control of animals for the prevention of certain forms of offence. In clause 6 (now clause 5) the owner or the person in control was made responsible to a certain degree in the matter of overloading, in clause 7 (now clause 6) in the matter of phuka and in clause 11 in the matter of using an unfit animal. That liability was absolute in the Bill as originally drafted. When opinions were received on the Bill, we found that there were a certain number of people who thought that we were treating owners, etc., rather hardly, and therefore in the Select Committee we limited the liability, that is to say, we only made the owner, etc., responsible if he failed to exercise reasonable care and supervision in so far as clauses 6 (now clause 5) and 11 (now clause 10) were concerned. But we did not make a similar change in clause 7 (now clause 6), because we thought that an owner could reasonably be required to take precautions to ensure that phuka was not practised. If it was, it must necessarily go on under his eyes, and it is up to him to see that his servants or whoever is in charge are not guilty of that offence. That was the view of the Select Committee, and I personally adhere to it. If the amendment is adopted, the whole utility of the clause is impaired, while the amendment goes far further than even the alterations which we made in clauses 6 (now clause 5) and 11 (now clause 10). We there said that an owner, etc., should only be liable if he failed to exercise reasonable care and supervision. The amendment would exempt the owner if he did not know what was going on, and unless we actually caught him present at the operation (in which event we probably would not require the extended liability at all) he could always say that he did not know what was happening and would thus get off, since it would be very difficult to prove the contrary."

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur said:—

• "My Lord, the principle of the amendment is very clear. The owner of an animal is not present at the time when the phuka operation goes on, and if he has no knowledge, I submit respectfully that he ought not to be criminally prosecuted, convicted or punished. It is a well-known principle of criminal law that the party to be punished must have knowledge of the thing for which he is charged. Looking into the scope of the whole Bill it appears that this has not been lost sight of. If the argument is to be that the owner is to exercise reasonable diligence in such matters, my submission is that when the punishment is a subject matter of consideration is it not necessary that the party to be punished had knowledge of the act for which he is being punished? That is the view, my Lord, which I have taken and for which I press this matter for the decision of this Council."

The motion was then put and lost.

Amendment No. 3.Clause 8 (now clause 7).

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur moved that after the word "class," at the end of the proviso to clause 8 (now clause 7), the following be added, namely:—

"or for any bonâ fide scientific purpose or for the preparation of any medicinal drug."

The Bengal Cruelty to Animals Bill.Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur ; Sir Henry Wheeler.

He said—

My Lord, Hon'ble Members may be aware that live goats are buried in the earth and medicines are prepared from the meat such as Brehat Chagladye Greto, Brehat Aswagandhe Greto, Amrito Pras Greto, Brehat Satabord Greto, Brinhal Greto, and medicinal oil such as Mahamastoila, Gopal oil, etc. These medicines cure many diseases. The preparations of these medicines in the above manner are prescribed in the famous Ayurvedic books Vhaisaya Ratnabali, Chorok Dutta, Chorok Sonhita, Susorata Sonhita and other books which are said to be three thousand years old. And as a matter of fact these medicines are found to be highly efficacious in many diseases and the Government ought not to put a stop to it by introducing an Act which would penalise people who prepare these medicinal drugs."

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler said :—

"Sir, clause 8 (now clause 7) of the Bill is the clause which deals with the killing of an animal in an unnecessarily cruel manner, with a proviso saving the killing of an animal in a manner required by religion, religious rites or usage. That proviso follows section 11 of Act XI of 1890, and it has been found sufficient to protect any person acting bonâ fide from unnecessary prosecution ; it could be argued, therefore, that it will prove sufficient even without the addition which the Hon'ble Member now proposes, namely, to provide safeguards for those who kill an animal for any bonâ fide scientific purpose or for the preparation of any medicinal drug. That safeguard was not inserted before, and no harm has resulted from its absence. It is arguable, however, that we should definitely exempt cases in which the life of an animal is taken, say, in the course of experiments with inoculation or, as I also understand, in the preparation of certain drugs used in indigenous medicine by the killing of animals in a way which would strike the ordinary person as cruel. We have no objection to inserting the amendment in the Bill."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

Amendment No. 4.Clause 9.

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur moved that after the word "manner," in line 3 of clause 9 (now clause 8), the following be inserted, namely :—

"so as to constitute an offence under section 8 (now section 7)."

He said—

"My Lord, this amendment is necessary. This is a section which provides a penalty for being in possession of the skin of a goat killed with unnecessary cruelty. Reference ought to be made in this clause to the proviso to clause 8 (now clause 7). And I think the addition of those words supplies an omission. If the killing in certain circumstances is not to be regarded as an offence, possession of the skin of a goat so killed should not be an offence."

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler said :—

"Here again, Sir, the amendment is perhaps more theoretically arguable than practically obligatory. The clause in the Bill is a repetition of a section in an existing Act, XIV of 1917, which has worked all right. But in the reference to 'an unnecessarily cruel manner' we do mean 'unnecessarily cruel' in the sense that those words are used in clause 8 (now clause 7), and as the amendment only proposes to make that clear, we have no objection to accepting it."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

Amendment No. 5.

Clause 23 (now clause 22).

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur moved that for the word "Magistrate" at the end of sub-clause (2) of clause 23 (now clause 22), the following be substituted, namely :—

"nearest Magistrate competent to pass the maximum punishment prescribed under this Act."

He said—

"My Lord, these words are necessary because the word 'Magistrate' as put in the clause is vague. It may be necessary in some cases to inflict the maximum punishment, and if in that case the animal is produced before a Magistrate who under the Criminal Procedure Code is not vested with power to inflict such maximum punishment, the object of the Act would be frustrated. The mere insertion of the word 'Magistrate' will not prevent a man from taking the animal to a third class Magistrate whereas the proposed substitution would have the effect of compelling the production of a man before a Magistrate who is competent to punish the accused adequately."

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler said :—

"Sir, we are not prepared to accept this amendment partly because we regard it as unnecessary, and partly because it introduces a limitation which is in some ways undesirable. The clause in question is that which enables a veterinary inspector to seize an animal which is unfit and either to send it to an infirmary, or, if he considers a prosecution is necessary, or the owner so elects, to direct a prosecution and produce the animal before a Magistrate. What the amendment really means is that that Magistrate must be a second class Magistrate. Ordinarily the animal would doubtless be produced before a Magistrate of the second class, but there is no reason why it should not be produced before a Magistrate of a lower class, and according to the Code of Criminal Procedure, third class Magistrates can also take cognizance of an offence although it may be triable only by a Magistrate of a higher class. The sending of the animal to the infirmary in accordance with clause 24 (now clause 23) need not, again, necessarily be done by a Magistrate of the second class, although, as I have said, ordinarily it will be so done. Therefore, I think the amendment is unnecessary, and I would deprecate its adoption."

*The Bengal Cruelty to Animals Bill.Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur ; Sir Henry Wheeler.The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, as the Bill shows the word 'magistrate' is mentioned and nothing more than that. Then the question is that the accused is to be brought before a magistrate. It is not here a case of recording a confession that the accused is to be brought before any magistrate. The point is that the magistrate must be a competent magistrate. He is brought before a magistrate of the third class and then it is found that such a magistrate has no power to take up the case which is brought before him. The accused is put to great difficulty, and he is brought before another magistrate who is competent to take up the case. So in order to avoid all these difficulties I consider that my amendment should be accepted."

The motion was then put and lost.

AMENDMENT No. 6.Clause 25 (now clause 24).

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur moved that the words "but the owner shall not be liable to make any payment in excess of the proceeds of the sale," in lines 4 and 5 of sub-clause (4) of clause 25 (now clause 24), be omitted.

He said :—

"My Lord, I think it would not be proper to retain these words. Take for instance a case in which an animal worth Rs. 25 is kept in the infirmary for a sufficient length of time so as to entail an expenditure of, say, Rs. 30 or Rs. 40. In that case, if we retain the above words in the clause, the owner cannot be compelled to pay more than Rs. 25. I suggest that the excess amount should also be realized from the owner."

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler said :—

"Sir, after the solicitude which the Hon'ble Member showed for the rights of owners in connection with another clause, I am rather surprised that he should try to whittle away a degree of protection to an owner which the Bill extends. In certain eventualities an animal is taken to an infirmary; it is there treated and fees become payable. If the owner refuses or neglects to pay, or if he refuses to remove the animal, the animal may be sold, and what the Bill says is that the owner in that event shall not be liable to pay on account of infirmary fees, more than the price which the animal may fetch at auction. To this extent it is therefore a protection to the owner. Personally I do not mind much if that protection is taken away, but I think the amendment will not commend itself to the majority and, in that view, I would not accept it."

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur said :—

"In coming forward to criticise the provisions of a Bill we always take both sides of the question into consideration. We think it necessary to put forward before the Council what would be the consequence of a concrete case and with that view, my Lord, I have come to the Council with such an amendment. I am very thankful to Sir Henry Wheeler for reminding me that I had great solicitude for the owner in putting forward another amendment, but at the same time I submit that when a Bill is drafted and is brought before the Council all shades of the question have to be discussed, and I have put forward a concrete instance"

The motion was then put and lost.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 6.

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler moved that the Secretary be directed to renumber the clauses and sub-clauses of the Bill in consecutive order and to make corresponding alterations in all cross references thereto.

The motion was put and agreed to.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 7.

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler moved that the Bill, as settled in Council, be passed.

The motion was put and agreed to.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 8.THE EASTERN FRONTIER RIFLES (BENGAL BATTALION) BILL, 1920.

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Eastern Frontier Rifles (Bengal Battalion) Bill, 1920.

He said :—

"My Lord, assuming the soundness of the reasons for making the changes in nomenclature which I explained when the Bill was introduced, the Bill itself becomes one of making consequential verbal amendments. In that view it was regarded by the Select Committee, and it will be observed that we, therefore, propose that the Bill be passed as introduced."

RESOLUTIONS.LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 9.

His Excellency the President said :—

"Hon'ble Members will observe that items Nos. 9-17, inclusive, deal with matters which, I think, should be decided by non-official Members of the Council and I, therefore, propose to ask the official Members of the Council to leave the decisions upon these resolutions to their non-official colleagues.

"I would, however, point out to the Hon'ble Member in whose name No. 16 stands, namely, the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray, that the first part of his proposed resolution¹ is covered by item No. 9, namely, the resolution standing in the name of the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur. In these circumstances it will not be in order for the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray to move his resolution, but if he desires to do so, he will of course speak upon item No. 9."

"This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the grateful thanks of the non-official Members of this Council be conveyed (1) to His Majesty the King-Emperor for His gracious message of the 23rd December last."

Resolutions.Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur.

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved the following resolution :—

"This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that a message expressing the loyal and dutiful homage of the people of this Presidency be respectfully conveyed to His Imperial Majesty the King-Emperor, and that the profound gratitude of the people be conveyed to His Majesty for His gracious Proclamation of the 23rd December last and for giving His Royal assent to the Government of India Bill passed by Parliament, and also for His Royal condescension in announcing his intention to depute His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to visit India as His Majesty's representative for the purpose of inaugurating the new constitution; and this Council tenders its respectful assurance to His Majesty the King-Emperor that His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will receive a most cordial and enthusiastic welcome from the people of this Presidency."

He said :—

"The Royal Proclamation of our Gracious Sovereign has stirred the hearts of our people to their inmost depths. The remarkable unanimity and spontaneous outburst of joy and gratitude with which the Proclamation has been received throughout the length and breadth of the country is an index of the love and attachment of the people to the Throne. There is in it a true ring of sincerity, of deep and abiding sympathy, love and solicitude for the advancement of India which has appealed to the imagination of the teeming millions under His Majesty's sway and has cemented the bond of union and strengthened the ties between India and England. King George before he ascended the throne had manifested on every possible occasion his sincere desire to promote the happiness and contentment of the people of India, which has found expressions at different times, and we believe that the change in the angle of vision of His Majesty's Government is not a little due to the influence and example of His Gracious Majesty.

The Proclamation of His Majesty is not a conventional pronouncement. In giving his seal of assent to the Government of India Act, he has declared in no uncertain voice that India is now set firmly and definitely on the road to responsible government, which is indeed the legitimate aspiration of the people. He sympathizes with their aspirations and rejoices that they are now about to be fulfilled. He exhorts both his people and his officers to make the great measure a success. Democratic institutions are not alien to the genius of our race because no other nation on the face of the earth differing so widely from the British people in race, language and literature, in history and traditions has been able to assimilate the best elements of western culture and knowledge and western ideals of civic and political life as we, the inheritors of an ancient culture and civilization which are to this day objects of admiration to the world. The activity and onward march of intellectual life of the people under British rule, which have met with Royal approbation, are apparent in every direction. Whether in the domain of law and literature, science or medicine, religion or morals, politics or the public services, we have produced men who are deemed a credit to any country in the world. I may be pardoned for indulging in a legitimate pride in saying that the genius of Bengal, in spite of our controversies and criticisms and apparent dissensions will rise to the height of the occasion and prove its fitness not only in the sphere of administration but also in the region of Parliamentary government. We realize that a grave responsibility is devolving on us. The time for discussion of the adequacy or inadequacy of the reforms has passed away. It is now our duty to concentrate our energies and put forth our abilities in a true spirit of patriotism to ensure its success and to justify our claims to a quicker march to the goal of complete responsible government.

Resolutions.Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur.

The party spirit, which is now so rife amongst us, is in every country concomitant of popular government and active public life. The spirit of rivalry in the service of our common motherland proceeds from the patriotic desire of us all to offer our best services to our people. I appeal to our countrymen not to forget in the heat of party warfare that the success of the reforms upon which His Imperial Majesty has set his heart is a matter of national honour with us and we should all do our best to vindicate that honour. In the field of sanitation, education, industrial and agricultural development, there is unlimited work for us all, and if every educated Indian does his little bit in the furtherance of his country's interests, regardless of individual political views, I feel sure that our national government will be fruitful of benefits to the country at large. The eyes of the whole world are upon us and we shall be judged as to our capacity to govern ourselves by our success or failure. It is possible, nay it is more than likely, that we may make mistakes in the beginning, but I am quite confident that the sympathy and co-operation of the members of the Civil Service who have reared this ground fabric of administration will not be withheld from us. I hope and trust that His Majesty's exhortations will be loyally acted upon. It is British connection, British influence and British example that have made India vibrate with the pulsation of a new life. What Macaulay longed for in the exuberance of his imagination and with a legitimate sense of pride in the beneficence of British rule has been realized to-day. The destinies of India have been so moulded by the kindly hand of Britain that Indians are now declared fit to be endowed with responsible government, and the authors of this measure have taken the precaution so to frame it as to enable the Indians to attain by light of experience and practical work the full measure of self-government within a measurable distance of time. Amongst our countrymen, there are some who consider that a larger measure of self-government ought to have been conceded from the very beginning, while a section of the European community consider that too much has been conceded. Everyone is entitled to his own opinion, and we should not grudge honest differences. But as the Act is now the law of the land, in all loyalty to the King and the constitution, and following His Majesty's wise counsel, let us now banish all bitterness from our mind. The controversy is at an end. The time for practical work has now come. Let us set ourselves to work, heart within and God overhead and achieve the consummation of full and responsible government so devoutly to be wished for. Now is the time for all parties to unite and seriously to consider what steps should be taken to press upon the Committee appointed to adjust the financial relations between the Imperial and Provincial Governments, the needs of the country and the necessity for a liberal financial adjustment in order to enable our newly-constituted Provincial Government so to administer the affairs of the Presidency as in the words of His Majesty will contribute to the greater happiness and well-being of the masses.

A momentous change is taking place. King George is the presiding genius at this period of transition. To him the millions of India whatever their divergent views in politics may be, with one acclaim offer their hearts' homage for his love, confidence and trust in them and for his sympathetic and wise guidance at this glorious epoch in the history of our country. He is enthroned in the hearts of us all and may he long rule over us.

The amnesty graciously granted by His Majesty has restored the bright sunshine of happiness in many a home, and loyal India feels profoundly grateful to him. It should be the endeavour of every person to cherish this mark of Royal favour by co-operating in the maintenance of peaceful, orderly and progressive Government as desired by His Majesty.

His Majesty has been graciously pleased to announce that he would depute his dear son, the Prince of Wales, to inaugurate the new constitution.

Resolutions.Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur.

There is a chorus of welcome awaiting him from all parts of India. His Royal Highness comes here as the representative of our Sovereign charged with a great mission and the people of Bengal, who are ever foremost in according the most loyal and enthusiastic welcome to the Princes of the blood Royal, will tender their hearts' homage to him on that unique occasion."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray said :—

"My Lord, the whole country is grateful to His Imperial Majesty the King Emperor for the very gracious Proclamation of the 23rd December last. It has touched the inmost feelings of our heart. At a time when the whole of India, no matter whether extremists, moderates or nationalists, Hindus, Muhammadans, Sikhs or Pathans, were agitated and convulsed by the disclosures of the incidents in the Punjab, the Royal Proclamation came as a balm to heal the wound. It is therefore with a loyal heart that we offer our devoted thanks for the kind message of sympathy and encouragement with which that Proclamation is replete and which shows the warmth of feeling and sincerity of heart of His Imperial Majesty.

There are three announcements in the Proclamation—(i) the passing of the Government of India Act ; (ii) the Amnesty to political prisoners, and (iii) the proposal for the constitution of a Council of Princes.

As regards the Government of India Act, the Proclamation makes note of one most important fact and makes one very important announcement. It states, 'there is one gift which yet remains and without which the progress of a country cannot be consummated—the right of her people to direct her affairs and safeguard her interests The control of her domestic concerns is a burden which India may legitimately aspire to taking upon her own shoulders.' It is for the first time that this announcement is made and steps taken to put us on the threshold of what may lead to responsible government.

My Lord, there are moments when sovereigns do the right thing and in fact capture the imagination of their subjects by showing their sympathy with their aspirations. India is a loyal country. Indians are by nature grateful, loyal and devoted to their ruler ; Indians are touched by the slightest acts of sympathy. It is therefore no wonder that His Majesty's Proclamation has had the effect of pacifying and soothing those who were discontented. If in the year 1911 His Imperial Majesty while in India held out words of hope, by the Proclamation of December last and by giving his Royal assent to the Government of India Act, he has partially fulfilled our hopes. The solemn declaration made by His Minister, I mean the Right Hon'ble Mr. Montagu, on the 20th August 1917 has been to some extent carried out. I believe that the policy of His Majesty's Government, as notified in the said declaration of the 20th August, that of increasing association of Indians in every branch of administration and the gradual development of self-governing institutions with a view to the progressive realization of responsible government in India as an integral part of the British Empire, will be fulfilled by the new Reforms Act. I do not say that we have reached the goal of our ambition and that we are to rest satisfied with what we have got. But I believe with many of my distinguished countrymen that the reforms will enable us to advance further towards our goal, that the reforms will be a stepping-stone to responsible government, and to use the words of the Royal Proclamation 'there now lies before us a definite step on the road to responsible government.'

Educated Indians who form the backbone of Indian society will ever remain true and loyal to the British Government. They know full well that it is the British Government which has raised them to the level of a progressive people, and that the safety and welfare of the country depends on the supremacy of the British Government. It may be that there will be agitation in the country for larger powers than the present Act gives us before the statutory period of ten years has expired, but that will not be unusual—I would even go further and say that it will be not unreasonable. My Lord, you cannot command the surging waves of the sea and say unto them ‘thus far shalt thou go and no further and here shalt thy proud waves be staid.’ A new spirit has dawned upon the country—why, it has dawned upon the world. The new idea of Nationality has caught hold of the educated mind in this country and has convulsed society here and in the Continent of Europe. Phenomenal rise of Japan in the Far East and the destruction of the military autocracies—even of the Holy Roman Empire in the west like a house of cards—have given an electric shock to the old-world ideas and beliefs. It is not necessary for me to point out or to reiterate that the new Act is a step towards responsible government. The trusted leaders of the people, sincere friends and well-wishers of India are unanimous in that opinion. Captain Ormsby-Gore, one of the members of the Joint Committee of Parliament, says, ‘There is a new conception of Empire, and India’s march towards the status of a self-governing dominion, away from the status of a Dependency, has begun.’ We, therefore, welcome the measure and convey to His Imperial Majesty our heartfelt gratitude for having given his Royal assent to it.

The Proclamation gives amnesty to political prisoners and His Majesty’s words cannot fail to give rise to sincere feelings of gratitude, not only to the public but to the political prisoners themselves. It is needless to say that the Reforms Act without the amnesty would have fallen flat on the country. His Majesty says, ‘It is my earnest desire at this time that so far as possible any trace of bitterness between my people and those who are responsible for my government should be obliterated. Let those who in their eagerness for political progress have broken the law in the past respect it in the future. Let it become possible for those who are charged with the maintenance of peaceful and orderly government to forget extravagances they have had to curb. A new era is opening. Let it begin with a common determination among my people and my officers to work together for a common purpose.’ We hope and trust that those to whom these words have been addressed will carry them out in the spirit in which they are intended.

By the Proclamation, His Imperial Majesty has given assent to the establishment of a Chamber of Princes. Though we on this side of India are not very much interested in these Indian States, still the establishment of a Chamber of Princes has a political significance for the whole of India. To me personally it is highly gratifying as I advocated the establishment of such a chamber so far back as the year 1888 in my ‘History of the Native States of India.’ On the 1st January 1877 on the historic plain of Delhi a ‘Council of the Empire’ was created. It was stated on that memorable occasion that the object of establishing this Imperial Council was to associate the Indian Princes with the Government of the Empire in a manner honourable to themselves and advantageous to the public interests. The Council has remained a paper Council ever since. A Council of this nature is urgently needed to place the relations between the Paramount Power and its great feudatories on an altogether new, superior and better footing. By their loyal and devoted services during the war they have established their claims to have a chamber of their own, and His Imperial Majesty has in justice to their services given them a chamber to which they were entitled.”

The Hon’ble Dr. Subrawardy said :—

“My Lord, I rise to give my wholehearted support to the resolution moved by my friend the Hon’ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur.

Resolutions.Dr. Sukrawardy.

My Lord, any Royal Proclamation issued at any time by any sovereign for the welfare of his people is bound to fire their imagination and enthusiasm and awaken in their breasts sentiments of the deepest loyalty and of profound gratitude, and, my Lord, former rulers of this historic country in ages gone by have signified on historic and memorable occasions by the promulgation of Charters and Proclamations their sentiments of love and affection for their people. But the Proclamation of His Imperial Majesty George V stands pre-eminent by the circumstances and occasion of its promulgation and the character of its contents above all the Charters and Proclamations of the world. It stands unique amongst the literature of its kind. I venture to say that one will seek in vain in the archives of the world for a royal document which can bear comparison with the Proclamation of the King-Emperor in the nobility of its sentiments, the loftiness of its ideals and the generous policy of government foreshadowed for the future. When I say this, I do not forget the edicts of Asoka, the firmans of Firoze Shah and the institutes of Jehangir, edicts, charters and institutes issued by sovereigns imbued with high and humane ideals for the welfare of their subjects. Nor do I forget the great Charters of English History. The Proclamation, my Lord, has been described as the Magna Charta of India. But we should remember that it is not a charter wrung from a sovereign in a moment of panic or under pressure of adverse circumstances. It is a Proclamation promulgated after careful consideration and due deliberation by the mightiest Emperor of the world—the only Emperor in the West—to his subjects in the East, in the plenitude of his power, in the height of his glory, by the Head of an Empire which has emerged victorious and triumphant from a world-wide war which has overturned the thrones of Tsars and Kaisers and of lesser kings. As to its character and contents, the Proclamation embodies the loftiest ideals of statesmanship and kingship expressed in noble language. My Lord, the Proclamation is characterised as a message of hope and inspiration. It is undoubtedly a message of hope, but it is much more. Let us pause for a moment and analyze its contents. It recounts the measures passed by Parliament for the better government of India culminating with the Act which has now become law. It reminds us of the sentiments of affection and devotion towards India of His Majesty and His predecessors and of the Royal Proclamations issued by them. It tells us how the desire after political responsibility has resulted from the British contact with India and how the beginnings of responsible government were laid many years ago and how the scope has been extended stage by stage till now there lies before us a definite step on the road to responsible government. It points out the need of mutual forbearance between all sections and races of the people of India and for co-operation for the common good in sinking unessential differences. It further announces the exercise of the Royal clemency to political offenders.

Now the announcement of the 20th August has been vindicated, the Reforms Act is an accomplished fact. The Royal clemency has been exercised by the Viceroy on behalf of His Majesty in the fullest measure. Thus the Proclamation is not merely a pledge, a promise, a pious hope, it is the fulfilment of a promise, the redemption of a pledge, the realization of our hope. The Sovereign has demonstrated his sovereignty in a just and generous manner. It is now for the subjects to give proofs of their allegiance. A solemn and sacred obligation is laid on our shoulders. Let not our gratitude and loyalty end with the mere effervescence of words. Let us prove by deeds the depth and intensity of our loyalty. My Lord, I frankly confess that I was amongst those who were not in love with many features of the Reforms Scheme. In this very Council Chamber I voiced the dissatisfaction of the Moslem community at the place accorded to them under the Montagu-Chelmsford Report. But now that the Act is passed and the Sovereign bids us to observe mutual for the success of this great experiment, let the voice of dissent be hushed. Time was when difference of race and religion might have been urged as an obstacle in the way of cordial co-operation. The greatest and mightiest of Moslem monarchs dreamt the dream of building up an Indian nation, and strove hard both by example and precept for the realization of his dream. He lived to see his dream shattered and died of a broken heart. The hapless Prince Dara, who dared dream the dream of his illustrious grandfather, had to pay with his blood the penalty of his boldness and broad-minded sympathy with the Hindus.

Resolutions.

Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri; Maulvi Abul Kasem.

But now, despite the holocausts of Arrah and Katarpur the air resounds with the cry of Hindu-Moslem unity. The urnest and ferment born of the impact of Britain and India is seeking to find rest in the formation of an Indian nation. But let not the nationalists forget that the India of to-day is not the India of Hindus and Moslems alone, but it is the India of Hindus, Moslems and Christians. Let the inheritors of the civilization and culture of Asoka and Vikramaditya, of Akbar and Shah Jehan. Hindus and Moslems rise to the height of the occasion and united in a bond of indissoluble brotherhood work in unison, harmony and cordial co-operation with the great British people, the greatest friends of freedom, the members of the freest empire in the world. Let the Britisher also realize his share in the creation of the desire in Indian minds for political freedom and let him not look upon Indian political leaders as his enemies.

My Lord, with understanding and sympathy and cordial co-operation the Zion of our hope and the Mecca of our aspirations will be reached in no distant future and Britishers will be proud of their Indian fellow-citizens and partners in the great British Commonwealth and Indians will proudly declare themselves as the citizens of an Empire wider and vaster than that of the Romans, and say, 'We are the citizens of the British Empire'."

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri said :—

"My Lord, I rise not to add anything to what has been so ably moved by my friend the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur, and the previous speakers, but I think it my duty as a representative of the people as well as in my private capacity to associate myself wholeheartedly in an expression of homage—loyal and dutiful homage—to His Imperial Majesty the King-Emperor for the gracious Proclamation of the 23rd December last and in our respectful assurance to His Majesty the King-Emperor that His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will receive a most cordial and enthusiastic welcome from us. With these expressions of loyalty, I wholeheartedly support what has been said by the hon'ble mover and the previous speakers."

The Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem said :—

"My Lord, I rise to join my humble voice to the expression of gratitude and loyalty to His Majesty the King-Emperor. There may be differences of opinion about the system of administration carried on in this country or the manner in which government is carried on here, but so far as Indians are concerned—and by Indians I mean all sections of the community, whether nationalists or not, whether Hindus or Muhamminadans—we are at least one in our devotion to the person of His Majesty and the Throne of England. I think that so far as the Indian people are concerned their loyalty to the Resolutions.Mr. P. C. Mitter ; Mr. Watson-Smyth.

Throne, which is also the Throne of India, is not less sincere and less heartfelt than that of the people of Great Britain themselves, and that whenever we have to find fault with the administration we have done it with the knowledge that our criticism would reach the foot of the Throne and that redress would come from His Majesty. Besides the feeling of loyalty which exists in the heart of the people I might add that any member of the House of the late Queen Victoria would always command the affectionate regard and respect from the people of India and as His Majesty King George has not only maintained the reputation of his illustrious house but has also enhanced it by his sympathy with the people of this country, I can assure your Excellency's Government that we will not be wanting in lending our co-operation and help to his desire to make the Reforms Act a success. I join in the hope that the members of the Government will also lend us a helping hand. Mutual co-operation of the people and Government is necessary so that His Majesty's wishes may be fulfilled. With these words I beg to associate myself in the motion which is now before the house."

The Hon'ble Mr. P. C. Mitter said :—

"My Lord, I am desired by my colleagues, including the landowning interest in this house, to join my voice to what has been said with regard to the resolution moved by my hon'ble friend Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur. In doing so I desire to state one aspect of the question which has been overlooked. We Indians are sincerely and wholeheartedly of opinion that the salvation of India lies in her continuing to be a part of the British Empire. Even those who are perhaps at times the bitterest critics of British administration in India, even they are fully convinced and are sincere in their conviction that the salvation of India lies in association with and as a partner of the British Empire. But, my Lord, at times in the heat of controversy people forget and it is natural, inevitable for them to forget, that in order to cement the bond of union between England and India that the agitation and bitterness which found a place in the past must cease to have any place in view of the coming reforms, because we must remember that England is the head of the Empire of which India aspires to be a great partner, and I have no doubt that as our reformed Council meets and begin to discuss the practical problems of the country and as Indians themselves take up responsibilities in the new Councils, they will realize the importance of the move. At the same time I have no doubt that my European fellow-citizens in the reformed Councils will begin to take a real and abiding interest in the practical political problems of India. They will try as much as we Indians will try in creating a more contented India and in creating an India which will be one of the ablest partners in this Empire. My Lord, originally I did not intend to speak on this resolution, but as I have been asked by my colleagues, who represent the landholding interest in this Council, I cannot do better than join my voice in support of this resolution."

The Hon'ble Mr. Watson-Smyth said :—

"On behalf of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce I rise to support this resolution. I cordially associate myself and those whom I represent with the expression of loyal and respectful homage to His Majesty the King-Emperor. We also join in the expression of gratitude to His Majesty for announcing his intention to depute His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to visit India as His Majesty's representative for the purpose of inaugurating the new constitution, and we join in tendering our respectful assurance that His Royal Highness will receive a most cordial and enthusiastic welcome from the people of this Presidency. I further wish to associate myself with that part of the resolution which conveys the gratitude of the people to His Majesty for having given his Royal assent to the Government of India Bill passed by Parliament, but in doing so I must remind this Council, without in any way wishing to strike a discordant note, that it rests with us all to turn this Government of India Bill into something for which we can truly be thankful.—It may, however, be easily otherwise. It is a great experiment. At the moment it may be said that it is trembling in the balance and the scale may easily be turned—even a hair may turn it—so that this Bill may become not a blessing, but the reverse. In supporting this resolution I do not intend to use the ordinary platitudes. In my opinion the time has come—and this is a suitable opportunity—for the British mercantile community to put their cards on the table and to state definitely what their attitude is to be with regard to this Bill. It is well-known—and I hasten to admit it—that we were of opinion that these reforms, although we agree to a certain extent with the principle, went too fast and too far. We thought and we still think that the time was not ripe for the introduction into India of a form of government on western democratic lines, and that the franchise difficulty was so great that any form of elected government to be really representative of the will of the people was a practical impossibility. These were not conclusions hastily arrived at, but were the results of much thought and consideration, and I would that we could say that we had had a fair hearing when the measure was being discussed, but this is not so. When the Joint Committee of the two Houses sat in London representatives of every form of opinion were not only invited but also assisted to give evidence, but the great Chambers of Commerce of India were not invited. When we persistently urged our claim to be heard, permission was given at the eleventh hour under conditions which made it impossible for us to appear. All this, however, is past history. By the vote of Parliament and by the will of the Sovereign this Bill has become law, and now, without recrimination and with no illwill, we enter the next stage—a much more difficult stage—that of carrying these reforms into effect. Any clever man can invent a scheme of reforms, but reforms mean that part of the community gets less, and other parts of the community get more than they got before. Consequently it takes the goodwill and co-operation, and specially the goodwill of the whole nation to make any scheme of reform a success. It has been said that these reforms are for India and for Indians and that we British have no place in them, and we can hardly blame any one for thinking so after the way in which the commercial community were more or less ignored in the report on which this Reform Bill was based. Those who are known as extremists go further and say that the British merchants have no right to expect any place under the reforms because they only exploit India for their own gain and with no real interest or stake in the country. I can only describe this as being a wilful and wicked misstatement. It is true—and I admit it—that most of us carry on our work here buoyed up with the hope of spending the autumn of our days in the land where we were born, but our work still goes on. We succeeded to what our fathers did before us and leave our sons behind to carry on the work, and if it is asked what this work has been and what it has meant to India, I only ask the enquirer to look round—to look to modern industrial India which we, the British merchants, have made and developed, assisted by the Government and sheltered by the great Pax Britannica under which there is security for life and property such as India never knew before we came here. I would remind you, however, and I lay great stress on this—that the merchant came first and the other things followed afterwards, and if you withdraw the merchant all the rest will go too. I think we are all glad to notice that there have been signs recently of Indians recognizing this. At a recent meeting one of India's great orators made an eloquent claim for partnership in the great British Empire, and I cannot do better than adapt his words to our claim for partnership in India. I say, therefore, to my Indian friends that India is yours, by birth, but it is ours by adoption. There are, however, two classes of Indians to deal with, and I will call them—to use the jargon of to-day—extremists and moderates. As to the extremists, if there are any here I do not know, but I hope that my words will go beyond the walls of this room—to the extremists I say that we will have no dealings with you as long as you maintain your present attitude and your present views. We feel that you are antagonistic to us and that we must look to ourselves and protect ourselves, and this we are well able to do. But to the moderates I say stretch out your hand and we will take it. Ask for our co-operation and you shall have it and you and we will then tackle this problem of reforms and turn the Bill into something for which thanks are really due—something to the great benefit of the people and to the lasting good of this mighty Empire of India which is both yours and ours."

The Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Datta said :—

My Lord, I rise to support this resolution and I do it most wholeheartedly. I do not desire to make any lengthy speech or to mar the effect of this solemn resolution by discussing any controversial matters as I am afraid my friend, the hon'ble gentleman who has just spoken, has done. But there is one thing about which I must speak. It is His Majesty the King-Emperor's wish and commandment that there should be most cordial co-operation between officials and people, between Europeans and Indians, to make the new constitution a success. I have no right to speak on behalf of the officials, nor have I any right to speak on behalf of the Europeans. But I have a right to speak on behalf of the people and in doing so I may assure your Lordship, I may assure the officials, I may assure the Europeans, including the last speaker, that so far as it lies in the people they will most enthusiastically respond to that exhortation of the King-Emperor to co-operate wholeheartedly to make the reforms a success. Whatever may be said by other people, I know my people and I am perfectly satisfied that the whole country is determined to co-operate most loyally. I am not aware of any people in this Presidency in whom there is any desire of obstruction. The real attitude of the whole people is one of co-operation, of absolute and wholehearted co-operation and not one of obstruction. I make mention of this specially for the reason because I know and I feel there is a certain misconception in certain quarters about the attitude of the people with respect to the reforms. There is certainly a controversy as to whether the reforms are considered adequate or not, but apart from that question what I was going to say, my Lord, is that there is a certain misconception in some quarters that the feeling of those people according to whom the reforms are not adequate is that there should be no co-operation and the attitude is one of opposition. So far as I know I am in a position to assure your Lordship that there is no desire in any quarter whatsoever of obstruction. With these words I beg to associate myself with this resolution."

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur said :—

My Lord, I beg to support the resolution of the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur Charan Pal Bahadur wholeheartedly.

The resolution includes a vote of thanks for the Royal message for the Royal assent to the Reforms Act and for the announcement of the coming visit of the Prince of Wales to India. I associate myself with the sentiment of the resolution. My Lord, the Proclamation of His Majesty the King-Emperor of India, has placed Indians from every hamlet, village town and city in debt immense, of endless gratitude to him. The Proclamation has enhanced feelings of loyalty to the British Throne. Is there an Indian who is not moved by the loving words and noble sentiments conveyed to the loyal subjects of His Majesty? The golden cable which binds the King-Emperor with India is the secret sympathy for their just and legitimate aspirations—

It is secret sympathy
That silvery tie that silken lined
From heart to heart and mind to mind
In united soul can bind.

Every word in the Proclamation breathes sympathy for the Indians.

The Royal assent to the India Reforms Act has given an opportunity for an outburst of loyalty to the Throne of the King-Emperor. Exceptions are taken in some quarter to the wording of the resolution, but the idea of loyalty and firm attachment to the person of His Majesty is deep rooted in the country.

Standing in the Council Chamber we ought in a matter of this kind to forget the difference we attach to mere words or what we owe to a party. The officials and non-officials must be in perfect unanimity and be enthusiastic in their homage to him and give vent to their feelings of reverence and affection for a monarch so mighty in war, so glorious in victory and so resolute in bringing about peace to the world. The Reforms Act has secured for us to some extent a recognition of our legal right to self-government. I do not like to discuss whether our hopes and sentiments have been fully realized or not. That is a controversial point. In proposing a vote of thanks in the Council Chamber we ought to show our profound loyalty to His Majesty. The announcement of the intended visit of the Prince of Wales has also filled our hearts with joy. The Hindus and Muhammadans have great regard for their kings. To merely gaze on his face is regarded as a virtue by the Hindus."

The Hon'ble Mr. Irwin said :—

"My Lord, on behalf of the tea-planting industry, which I have the honour to represent in this Council, I beg to give my loyal and wholehearted support to this resolution."

The Hon'ble Mr. Phelps said :—

"My Lord, the excellent sentiments expressed in this resolution are so obvious that I have not come prepared to make a speech in support of it. But I find that representatives of different communities have expressed their opinions and even my hon'ble friend of the Chamber of Commerce has made a speech expressing the opinion of the body he represents. In view of that I feel that if I do not say a word on behalf of the association which I have the honour to represent I may possibly be misunderstood. Regarding the Reforms Scheme, with my 30 years' experience and work in the municipality, principally with Indians, I have been conscious for a long time that I am in close sympathy with some of my colleagues. I have been shouting for co-operation for the last 25 years, and I rejoice to find that some of my European friends who almost bitterly opposed the Reforms Scheme have come round to my opinion, and I have very much pleasure in supporting the resolution in this Council."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur having risen from his seat—

The President said :—

"Is it your intention to speak again by way of reply? No body has spoken against your resolution."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"Yes, I should like to make a few observations, my Lord, on a particular point."

*Resolutions.The President; Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur.The President said :—

"The object of an hon'ble mover making a second speech is that he may reply to criticisms which have been made, but in this instance no criticisms have been made. Therefore the Hon'ble Member has nothing to reply to. But if the Hon'ble Member wishes to rise to a point of order, I am willing to hear him."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"I wish to speak on one point, my Lord, in the Hon'ble Mr. Watson-Smyth's speech."

The President said :—

"If the hon'ble mover thinks that there is a point in the Hon'ble Mr. Smyth's speech that he should reply to, I am prepared to hear him."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"One interesting feature in the debate on this resolution is that it has been received in a wholehearted and loyal manner by all sections of the community."

"Then, my Lord, we have got the support and sympathy of the European community. But there are one or two observations in the speech of the Hon'ble Mr. Watson-Smyth with which I would deal with your Excellency's permission. My Lord, he said that a certain section of my community, if I followed him aright, did not want the co-operation of the European community. My Lord, for my part and speaking with considerable experience of the past history of the country, there is not much difference between extremists and moderates. I can assure your Excellency that the foremost leaders of the moderate party were some 15 or 20 years back the foremost extremists of the day, and whatever version may be put upon the opinions expressed by the different parties, one and all of my countrymen are devotedly loyal and attached to the British Crown, and they truly believe that their salvation lies in the British connection. With reference to Mr. Smyth's remark, I may be permitted to use the old saying, 'Do unto others as you wish to be done by.' Unfortunately, there have been many occasions when the European community in this country have not been very sympathetic with the aspirations of the people. My Lord, the days of Lord Ripon are still in our memory, and therefore there might be in some places reciprocity of ungenerous feelings. My friend will admit that it is due to a certain extent to the way in which my countrymen have been treated by some section of the European community in the past. We cannot forget the role played by Mr. Keswick, the uncrowned king of opposition, and his party and latterly by the party represented by my esteemed friend Mr. Morgan at the present day on behalf of the European Defence Association, which is now called the European Association. Nevertheless we have been working harmoniously with the European community in all matters affecting the minor details of administration, i.e., in municipal affairs and other things. As the remarks of the Hon'ble Mr. Watson-Smyth may create an impression in the public mind that a section of my countrymen are opposed to the association of the Europeans, I think it necessary to make this statement."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

*Resolutions.Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur.LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEMS Nos. 10—18.*His Excellency the President said :—

"I would point out to the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray that the second part of item No. 16—the resolution standing in his name—is substantially the same as item No. 10. There is, however, this difference that the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray would add to the list of those to be thanked—the British Parliament. In these circumstances, while it is not open to the Hon'ble Member to move his motion as a separate resolution, it is open to him if he desires to move an amendment to item No. 10 with a view to including the British Parliament in the list of those to be thanked."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur moved the following resolution :—

"This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that its warmest congratulations be conveyed to His Majesty's Government and to the Right Hon'ble Mr. E. S. Montagu, the Secretary of State for India, and the Right Hon'ble Lord Sinha of Raipur, the Under-Secretary of State for India, on the successful passage of the Government of India Bill through the two Houses of Parliament, which measure the Council regards as a definite and substantial step towards the progressive realization of responsible government."

He said :—

"My Lord, I do not think I need make a long speech, but I may say in a few words that I do not think we will increase the volume of popular gratitude which we all feel for His Majesty's Government, the Right Hon'ble Mr. Montagu, the Secretary of State for India, and the Right Hon'ble Lord Sinha, if I make a lengthy speech. Our gratitude is well-known and it has been expressed in several places and on more than one occasion. All I need say is this : that His Majesty's Government have earned the undying gratitude of the teeming millions of this vast country by the sympathy which they have shown in accepting the views of their responsible advisers in conceding this measure of self-government. To Mr. Montagu I may say this that he is the gentleman who has been piloting this measure through all its stormy stages, amidst obloquy and misrepresentations and the shafts of calumny which were unable to pierce him. In the midst of all these distractions he has manfully and courageously rebutted the attacks which have been made upon his high statesmanship and with his fertile resourcefulness and wonderful powers of persuasion he has been able to carry this Bill and to induce the democracy of England to enact it as the law of the land and also to obtain the Royal assent. When I remember what Mr. Montagu has done I may say that his features and we all liked his fine stature, are engraved in the heart of every person in this Empire and, therefore, I need not add any more adjectives to express our feelings of gratitude."

As regards Lord Sinha, I may say I am an Indian and he is an Indian. I need hardly say that he has merited our gratitude and enhanced our pride and self-esteem because he has shown that an Indian is quite capable of standing shoulder to shoulder with the eminent British statesmen in your country. He has obtained the exalted rank of a Peer of the British realm; he has obtained the high encomiums of the

The second part of the resolution was as follows :—

"This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the grateful thanks of the non-official Members of this Council be conveyed—

(2) To the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, Mr. Montagu, and to the British Parliament for their kind exertions to pass the Government of India Act.

Resolutions.Babu Surendra Nath Ray.

press and the people of England and in both Houses of Parliament. It is a fact of which we are proud; we are proud that Lord Sinha is our countryman. I have, therefore, moved my resolution of thanks first to His Majesty's Government, secondly to the Right Hon'ble Mr. Montagu (the much abused person of the present day) and thirdly to Lord Sinha, my own beloved countryman. My resolution only relates to those who have been piloting this measure through the Parliament and had direct connection with it."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray said :—

"My Lord, I move the amendment that the words 'the British Parliament' be inserted after the words 'Under-Secretary of State for India' in the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur's resolution.

I do not want to enter into the controversial question as to whether the reforms are definite and substantial. I only wished to support the resolution with a plain and simple amendment.

I need hardly say that through the unremitting exertions of the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State, Mr. Montagu, India has got the present Reforms Act. That he has laid India under a deep debt of gratitude by all that he has done on behalf of India will probably be admitted by people of all shades of opinion. Ever since the declaration of the 20th August 1917 he has not been silent for a single day. He came out to India at the risk of his life at a time when the Mediterranean Sea was bristling with submarines and sinking of steamers was a thing of every-day occurrence. He examined the situation in India first-hand and made definite proposals in consultation with His Excellency the Viceroy. Those who like myself had the honour of private interview with him and of discussing questions of public interest with him will be able to testify how anxious he was to gather facts and to go to the root of questions. He was in full sympathy with the political aspirations of the Indians. Whether in India or in England he worked hard and with a single minded purpose to elevate the political status of the Indians.

India expected every son of hers to do his duty at this critical time and Mr. Montagu found in the Right Hon'ble Lord Sinha and Mr. Bhupendra Nath Bose two of her worthy sons—two coadjutors to help him in his noble and laudable efforts and to whom also our best thanks are due.

Amidst volume of calumny and ridicule, Mr. Montagu had the courage to keep his mind clear of all such abuses and march on steadily without swerving from the object in view, viz., political advancement of India, in spite of the attempts of many who intended to wreck the entire scheme. Mr. Montagu's political wisdom and sagacity have enabled him to bring the scheme through both Houses of Parliament with distinguished success. Justice to whom justice is due should and must be the guiding principle of every honest mind. If, therefore, any one is entitled to the sincere and heartfelt gratitude of a whole nation and to whom our best thanks should be conveyed, it is the Right Hon'ble Mr. Montagu. I am sure when at no distant date India is in possession of full responsible government, the fame of the Right Hon'ble Mr. Montagu will shine like aurora in the bright sky of India and his name will be cherished with grateful remembrance throughout the length and breadth of the land.

To both Houses of Parliament our sincere thanks are due and we pray that they may be conveyed. The amount of interest which the generality of the Members of Parliament evince in matters Indian is generally not very cheering. They have many questions of interest to engage their attention. It is therefore a matter of congratulation to the people of India that Mr. Montagu had not only not the least difficulty but had the support of the Mother of Parliaments in his endeavours to pilot the Bill.

Resolutions.

The President Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur; Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq.

My Lord, to you personally and to your Lordship's Government the thanks of the entire community are due for the wholehearted support which your Lordship has given to the scheme from the very beginning. It was your Lordship's desire from the very outset to support the scheme so that the people may have a fair trial in self-government. Your Lordship wanted to see that the people of this country should be properly initiated in the art of government, that they should not be mere critics of government measures but should be actual administrators, and with that view your Lordship helped as much as it was possible to support the measure. Without such support it would have not been possible for the Secretary of State to have carried through this Bill in the teeth of opposition of some of the other Provincial Governors.

My Lord, I hope and trust every member of this house will join with me in supporting the resolution."

ITEM No. 10.

His Excellency the President said :—

"The amendment now before the Council is—To insert after the words 'Under Secretary of State for India' in line 4 of item No. 10 the following words, namely, 'and to the British Parliament'. The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur, as the member in charge of the original motion, is entitled to speak on the amendment if he desires to do so."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I accept the amendment."

The amendment was then put and agreed to.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 11.

The Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq moved, by way of amendment, that in the resolution of the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur (item No. 10) the words after the word "Parliament" beginning with the word "which" up to the end of the sentence be omitted.

He said :—

"My Lord, I hope my friend, the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur, will be pleased to hear that I agree generally with what he has said in support of the resolution, not because I recede from my original intention of pressing the amendment which stands in my name but because I feel that much of the speech delivered by him is wholly irrelevant to the point at issue. My hon'ble friend will recognize that so far as his recommendations to convey the respectful congratulations of this Council to His Majesty's Government is concerned, or to convey our thanks to the Secretary of State or to Lord Sinha is concerned, we are in perfect agreement, but the only matter in which I join issue with him is as regards the advisability of putting in his resolution a phrase which I respectfully submit is of a highly controversial character. When my friend reads his speech in print in the pages of the Calcutta Gazette he will find that he has not said a single word in support of the position he has taken in bringing forward for discussion in this Council a question about which he knows there is such a feeling in this country. Now, my Lord, I feel very deeply, and, I say, with some regret, that my hon'ble friend should have practically forced me to take up a position which I very much deplore—to have compelled me to raise a discordant note when I feel that nothing but harmony should have characterised the proceedings of this Council. My Lord, I will not pause to discuss the desirability or the necessity of giving certificates where none are needed, but I hope my friend will realize that there is such a thing as loyalty to a party, and when a question arises for discussion about which a particular party holds definite views it is impossible to expect that that question can be allowed by a member of that party to pass unchallenged. I do not for a moment ask anyone present in this house to discuss and decide the question whether the reforms do or do not constitute a substantial step towards responsible government. I will not make a confession, but I may even admit that the opinion of the majority of the party which I represent does not commend itself to me, but, my Lord, once that decision is taken and so long as I have not severed myself from that party, I think it would be disloyalty to them if I did not object to the incorporation of these words about which I know the majority of my party feels very strongly.

My Lord, I fully realize that the gracious words of His Majesty the King-Emperor have not only inaugurated a new era but have enjoined upon all His Majesty's subjects the solemn duty of co-operating with one another with a view to produce that serene and calm atmosphere in which alone the new reforms can be made a success. I fully realize that at a moment like this when we are on the threshold of a great experiment—an experiment pregnant with vital consequences to my own country—it would be absolutely suicidal, not to say unpatriotic, to say or to do anything which may hamper the efforts of all concerned to make these reforms a success. I have explained my position that if these words were not added to the resolution I would not only have voted for the resolution but I would have most gladly said whatever I could have said in support of the resolution, but I cannot, as I have expressed, in loyalty to my party, allow the resolution to pass in the form in which it stands. It may be asked that if I really feel that the voice of dissension ought to be hushed, why is it that I am raising this discordant note? If I am asked that question I will try to answer it in a few words. My friend is aware, and I think the majority of the members of this Council must be aware, that ever since the Montagu-Chelmsford Report on the Indian Constitutional Reforms was published there was a bitter controversy as to whether these reforms do or do not constitute a substantial step towards responsible government. I am not going into the details of the matter and I need not enter into a question of a political complexion, but I will say this much that the acceptance or non-acceptance of the word substantial as applied to the reforms is really the line of cleavage between those who adhere to the Congress and those who secede from it. Now, my Lord, that controversy could only have been relevant or had any meaning till the Act was passed and after that Act has been passed it is absolutely irrelevant to the main issue now before us to pause and consider whether those who said that this was a substantial step were correct or whether the others were correct. Therefore, my Lord, I consider that it is wholly useless and fully irrelevant to the issue before us and before the country to raise once again a dissension which we hope has been set at rest by trying to raise an issue which cannot but be of a controversial character.

Lastly, my Lord, whether the reforms are or are not a substantial step towards responsible government ought to be left to time and experience. There are those who think that these are substantial steps but others, who also have a right to speak with authority (I mean a certain section of the European community), say that in the present circumstances of the country a great deal too much has been given. There are others also who think much more should have been given. I think it should be left for time to show and for Indians to justify whether the reforms are a substantial step or something more should be given. Why stop and quarrel over words and bring into the discussion in this Council matter of a controversial character? Let us offer our heartfelt thanks to those who are responsible for these reforms and let us unite and co-operate to make the reforms a success. Let us show that we are fit for them and by our fitness for more reforms show that these reforms are inadequate.

I do not wish to take up the time of this Council as I hope I have explained my position to the hon'ble mover. Although I move this amendment I do not say that possibly these reforms are not a substantial step towards responsible government, but what I say is this that I cannot allow this resolution as it has been worded by my friend to be passed in this Council without a challenge. I regret that my friend should have so worded his resolution as to bring it within the sphere of controversy. With these few words I beg to move the amendment."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I must say that I am very much struck by the speech of my hon'ble friend. I have said already in my previous observations that we all recognize the fact that there is a difference of opinion as to the adequacy or inadequacy of the privileges that have been granted to us. But, my Lord, at the same time I must confess that there is a large volume of public opinion which supports the view that I have taken. The fact why I have not touched on the second part of my motion is this, because I know very well that it is useless on my part to make a long speech to convince some of my friends on my left that it is a definite and substantial step towards the progressive realization of responsible government. But I have said, my Lord, that we respect differences of opinion, and on the present occasion in order to secure harmony and having regard to the pledge given by my hon'ble friend which I believe represents in a large measure the voice of the party he belongs to, and in order to secure co-operation to make this measure a success, I for my part am quite prepared with the approval of this house to accept an amendment that the word 'substantial' be omitted from the resolution, in order to bring about unanimity. But as regards the word 'definite,' I do not think that my hon'ble friend would quarrel about it. We all know that this Council consists of representatives of different shades of opinion and it is therefore necessary that a resolution of this sort should be unanimous, and if that will satisfy my hon'ble friend, I am quite prepared to accept it."

His Excellency the President said :—

"Both the original motion and the amendment are now before the Council, and it is open to any Hon'ble Member to speak on either of these motions. I presume there will be some Hon'ble Members who desire to speak on the original motion. I propose that we now adjourn the meeting until half past two."

(The Council here adjourned for lunch.)

(The Council reassembled after lunch at 2-30 p.m.)

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, as there is no unanimity on the subject, I regret I cannot accept my hon'ble friend's amendment as I said I would."

Resolutions.

Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri; Maulvi Abul Kasem; Rai Srinath Ray Bahadur.

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri said :—

"My Lord, the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray has made one reservation. In his resolution he was not much concerned about what appears in the last sentence of this resolution. My Lord, if we are to congratulate certain persons we must congratulate them for something and what is that something? My hon'ble friend, Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq, says that because he belongs to a party which thinks that the reforms are not sufficient therefore he should oppose the resolution. I cannot follow that reasoning, my Lord. That the Act has done something substantial is an admitted fact. We should all try to successfully work it out. That is why we should say something more than what is stated in the resolution. The Act no doubt is not yet complete. The rules are not yet framed and placed before the public. We do not yet know how far the measure is likely to work out in detail. But we have confidence in Mr. Montagu and we are proud of Lord Sinha, the present Under-Secretary of State, and we know full well that they will do their utmost in making the rules satisfactory.

If the words were not there in the resolution I would not have troubled to insert them. But when the words appear there I think we cannot omit them. In the country of course there is some difference of opinion as to whether the reforms are substantial or not, but we are all unanimous in offering our congratulations to the framers of the Act. In that view I support the retention of the words in the resolution."

The Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem said :—

"My Lord, I rise to support the amendment of my hon'ble friend, the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq. In doing so I have only to say that although we do not agree to the opinion that the Reforms Act is a definite and substantial step towards responsible government, I for one and the party to which I belong do not forget that credit is due to Mr. Montagu for having this Act passed through the Houses of Parliament and for the great trouble and interest that he has taken in the matter. We are grateful to him, we offer him our thanks and also his colleagues and those who were associated with him in this matter. From the nature of the severe cross-examination to which I was put by Mr. Montagu I can say this much that he takes a deep interest in the people of India and that he is very much concerned in their welfare. We also know full well that he had to fight against great difficulties in bringing about a great change like the one that he has brought about. But all the same the country is divided in their opinion as to whether these reforms are substantial or not, and I think we the members of this Council who represent various interests and various political opinions—all shades of political opinion—think that it would have been advisable if the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray's resolution could have been moved so that we could come to an unanimous decision. The Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray advisedly did not bring forward those three words 'substantial and definite' because he knew that that would raise a discussion and would be controversial. At the same time the hon'ble mover of this resolution advisedly put in those words because he wanted to get a definite opinion from this Council. Situated as I am I would oppose this resolution not only because my party has declared that these reforms are not substantial and definite but also because personally I am rather doubtful about whether the reforms are substantial and definite. Therefore I support the amendment moved by my friend the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq."

The Hon'ble Ray Srinath Rai Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I consider the Government of India Act is a definite and substantial step towards responsible government. The tests of responsible Government are, firstly, that the powers of control should be vested in the people and, secondly, that the ministers who actually administer should be removable by the legislature which is composed of the representatives of the people.

"The Act, so far as the Provincial Government is concerned, satisfies both the tests in the matter of transferred subjects. Out of a Council, say of 125, 70 per cent. will be elected Members and not more than 20 per cent. will be official Members. So the elective majority in the Provincial Council is substantial. Again the ministers will be such elected Members as possess the confidence of the house. This provision, though not finding place in the Act, will be regulated by convention as is done in England and the Dominions. The Members here shall, in accordance with this convention, hold office so long as they can command a majority in the Council and they shall quit office when they will forfeit such confidence.

"It is, therefore, clear that the essentials of responsible government are going to be satisfied as far as the transferred subjects are concerned: and the transferred subjects comprise Education, Sanitation, Local Self-Government and Industries—subjects which concern the vital well-being of the people. Even in the case of reserved subjects the control of the Legislative Council is tangible, though indirect. My remarks, however, do not apply to the Central Government. There the legislature has got some sort of control, though it is not of a definite character. It would have been more satisfactory and more in accord with popular aspiration if some sort of responsibility had been introduced in the Central Government. But still taking a general view of the provisions of the Act I cannot but characterize the Reforms Act as a definite and substantial step towards responsible government. I have, therefore, no hesitation in supporting the resolution of my hon'ble friend Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur."

The Hon'ble Dr. Suhrawardy said :—

"My Lord, I rise to support the resolution moved by my hon'ble friend Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur, and I oppose the amendment moved by the Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq. My reasons for opposing the amendment are shortly these.

"If I understood my hon'ble friend Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq aright he moved the amendment not because he himself does not believe that the reforms constituted a definite and substantial step in the progressive realization of responsible government but because he belongs to a party and that party has declared that the reforms do not constitute a definite and substantial step towards the progressive realization of responsible government and that the country has been divided over that question. The chief grounds for his complaint seems to be that he has been compelled by the hon'ble mover of the resolution to make a confession of faith. That of course he is not willing to make. It is limited to his party. If the resolution had stood without these words then he would not have had any objection to support the resolution. Practically he admits that Mr. Montagu and Lord Sinha and the Houses of Parliament deserve the grateful thanks of this house. That is practically admitting that the reforms are substantial and constitute a definite step towards the progressive realization of responsible government. I ask why should we offer our thanks to Mr. Montagu and Lord Sinha if the reforms do not constitute a definite and substantial step towards responsible government. I would like to invite the attention of the house in general and my hon'ble friend Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq in particular—but I find his seat vacant—that in this very house on the 14th November, 1918, a resolution was moved to this effect to which my hon'ble friend was a party. The resolution was carried unanimously, and it was to the effect that the constitutional reforms proposed by the Viceroy and the Secretary of State were a genuine effort and a definite advance towards the progressive realization of responsible government in India. Now I ask the hon'ble member whether the Reforms Act falls short of the proposals foreshadowed in the Montagu-Chelmsford Report, with reference to which my hon'ble friend along with others agreed that they were a genuine effort and a definite advance towards responsible government.' Furthermore, I should like to invite the attention of the house to the Royal Proclamation itself and particularly the attention of the hon'ble mover of the amendment and other gentlemen who have given notice of similar amendments. The Royal Proclamation says—

'The Act which has now become law entrusts elected representatives of the people with a definite share in Government and points the way to full responsible Government hereafter.'

If not in so many words, by implication the Royal Proclamation about which we have just passed a resolution in this house, also declares the Act to be a definite step and entrusts the elected representatives of the people with a definite share in Government and points the way to full representative Government hereafter. In other words, by implication it says that it is a substantial and definite step towards the progressive realization of responsible government. My hon'ble friend has referred to his loyalty to a party, and he says that whatever his own opinion may be it is out of loyalty to his party that he has moved this amendment. I should like to remind the hon'ble mover and his supporters that there is another and a higher loyalty which is referred to in the Royal Proclamation itself and that is that true patriotism transcends party and communal interests, and I appeal for the sinking of unessential differences for the common good. These, my Lord, are my reasons for opposing the amendment."

The Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I do not belong to the party to which the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq belongs and speaking for myself I do believe that the measure which has been passed by the Parliament and has got the Royal assent is a definite and substantial step towards the progressive realization of responsible government. At the same time I cannot conceal the feeling that the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur has made a tactical blunder in adding these words to the main words of his resolution. The effect is that there cannot possibly be an unanimity in the passing of this resolution. I very much regret that he forgot the rule as regards proceeding upon the line of least resistance. What is to be gained by the vote of a divided house on this point? We are not required to decide this point, and it is hardly to be expected that the eloquence of my hon'ble friend to my left would be powerful enough to convert those Members who are of a different opinion to his own. Therefore it would have been better if these words had been originally left out. I very much sympathize with the admirable speech of Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq and the sentiment conveyed in it. He has told us that it is useless to have this point discussed in this house at a time like this. It had its use when the Bill was not passed and the country was not required to give an expression of its opinion on the measure. Therefore as I have said it was want of wisdom to introduce these words in a resolution of this nature. At the same time as my hon'ble friend has made up his mind not to accept Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq's amendment, I am in duty bound to support him with my vote, specially as I sincerely feel that this Act is a definite and substantial step towards the progressive realization of responsible government. That is my position."

The Hon'ble Mr. P. C. Mitter said :—

"I very much wish that the time of this Council were not taken up by the addition of this adjectival clause. The clause being there we are bound to consider it. The reason which prompted my hon'ble friend Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq to oppose it is that he belongs to a party which thinks that the reforms are neither substantial nor definite, and belonging to that party he could not support the resolution as it stood. That reason, my Lord, equally applies to me. I belong to a party which is distinctly committed to the view that the reforms, such as they are, are substantial and definite. But, my Lord, apart from party consideration, I venture to think and all right-thinking men will agree with me that reasons of a more substantial nature than party considerations will support the resolution as it stands. My hon'ble friend said that he belonged to a party and when speaking on item No. 9 he spoke in terms with which I entirely agree—but that party has said that it is necessary for all Indians or for the matter of that every one interested in India to make the reforms a success.

If we want to make the reforms a success, are we likely to make it successful if we approach the question in a halting spirit? Do you venture to think that you will make it a success if you honestly and truly believe that they are not substantial and definite? If we think that they are not so, it would be our duty to say so. But on an examination it will be found as the Hon'ble Rai Sri Nath Ray Bahadur has cogently proved that the reforms are substantial and definite. Now if the steps are substantial and definite and if we want to make the reforms a success, should we try to whittle down the beneficial effect of the reforms by sticking out for a party and only for a party? If behind the limitation of his party sounder reasons existed, I would certainly have appreciated the attitude of the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq. The Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem has said that the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray's amendment avoids the question. But a little consideration will show that after a resolution like item No. 10 a resolution like Babu Surendra Nath Ray's would not serve the purpose. If that was the only resolution which held the field then perhaps this question would not have arisen. But the question has arisen and now if we accept Babu Surendra Nath Ray's resolution it would mean that we do not accept this very important clause in item No. 10. My Lord, in passing the resolution in item No. 9 unanimously we have all accepted the words of wisdom appearing in the King's Proclamation. The Hon'ble Dr. Suhrawardy has already drawn the attention of the house to those sentences where His Majesty in words of wisdom calls upon all sections of the community to make the interests of the country more supreme than the considerations of party politics. I now appeal—perhaps my appeal would fall on deaf ears—but I would still appeal to the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq and the Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem to give effect to those words of wisdom which they themselves have loyally accepted in the previous resolution."

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEMS Nos. 12 and 13.

The Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq said :—

"Having lost my first amendment the next amendment standing in my name is that the words 'definite and substantial' in the resolution moved by the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur be omitted. My Lord, I can well understand what the fate of this amendment will be and so I will not press it, especially in view of the fact that I shall move the next amendment. With your Excellency's permission I beg to withdraw this amendment."

His Excellency the President said :—

"This amendment stands also in the name of another Hon'ble Member. Does he wish to move it?"

The Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Datta said :—

"My Lord, I wish to move this amendment. Nothing has happened since I gave notice of this amendment to change my opinion and attitude. It may be right or wrong, but there is no reason why I should not press it before the house. I beg therefore to move that the words 'definite and substantial' be omitted from the resolution (item No. 10). Now, my Lord, it goes without saying that by the very fact that I have obtained your Lordship's permission to move this amendment it necessarily follows that I have hearty sympathy with the main resolution. Subject to this amendment, the rest of the resolution has my hearty sympathy and support. Now I am the last person to support anything halfheartedly because I believe that congratulations are really due to Mr. Montagu and for that reason I support this resolution. My Lord, just for my own satisfaction I made it a point during the last Congress days to consult and inquire of all the gentlemen who formed the members of the different bodies who had been to England in connection with the reforms question as to their opinion about the part played by Mr. Montagu in connection with the passage of this Bill through the two Houses of Parliament. I am glad to be able to say that the universal testimony of all these gentlemen was that Mr. Montagu sincerely did his level best to have the reforms passed by the Parliament. I should say that there are those among these gentlemen who are decidedly of opinion—rightly or wrongly that is another matter—that the reforms are inadequate. But so far as Mr. Montagu is concerned he did his utmost. That being the position, I support the main resolution, and I do so most wholeheartedly.

Then, my Lord, about this amendment. It has been said by two Hon'ble Members that we have already carried resolution No. 9, and therefore we have committed ourselves to a certain position. It has been said that having already accepted unanimously resolution No. 9, it is not for us to say that the reforms are not a definite and substantial step towards the progressive realization of responsible government. My answer to this contention is this. We wanted 16 annas, but we have got, say, 12 or 8 or 6 annas, whatever it may be: we have got a portion, not the whole of it, and because we do not get the whole of it, does it follow that we should not be grateful for it, remembering at the same time that what we have got is a decided advance over the existing constitution? The reforms may not be all that we wanted, but none the less it is a reform. It will introduce a very great improvement in the existing constitution of our Council and Government. Now as to this, as far as I am aware, there is absolutely no difference of opinion. The whole country is of this opinion, namely, that what we have got, if not satisfactory, is certainly a distinct advance over the existing state of things. It has been said by some Hon'ble Members on this side that there is a large volume of opinion in the country that this is a definite and substantial step towards the progressive realization of responsible government. But whether the volume of this opinion is large or not—is very controversial and need not be raised. But on the other hand, can it be seriously disputed that there is a very large volume of opinion that the reforms are not adequate and that they are not a substantial step towards the progressive realization of responsible government? I am not talking for the moment whether they are right or wrong. This opinion, my Lord, is shared by the vast majority of the people in this country. Apart from the question as to which opinion is right or wrong, I might go further and submit this proposition without any fear of contradiction in this house, namely, that there are some men in favour of the view that it is not a substantial step and others who are in favour of the view that it is a substantial step. That being the position, I would not discuss the matter on its merits because this question has already been discussed both in and outside the Council, on platforms and in the press, ever since the day on which the Joint Report of Montagu-Chelmsford was published. Therefore the question arises whether the opinion that it is a definite and substantial step can be expressed from this house. This leads, my Lord, to the question of our position in this Council. Insignificant as I am, if I speak here at all, I speak as a representative of the people for I know the opinion of a humble man like myself does not count for anything. The question, therefore, arises whether I can honestly say in this house as a representative of the people that it is a definite and substantial step towards the progressive realization of responsible government, knowing full well that the vast majority of the people are not of that opinion. So in giving a vote on this question I must look to the opinion of my constituency, not to my own opinion. In that view of the matter I submit I would be untrue to my constituency if I support the resolution as it stands. I appeal to your Lordship and to those gentlemen who differ from my views to take our position into their consideration before forming any opinion about us.

It has been said by one gentleman that we have given our thanks for the Proclamation and the Proclamation also says that the Bill, which has now become law, will lead to a substantial step towards responsible government. I beg to submit that the word 'substantial' does not occur in the Proclamation, but quite apart from that, so far as the Proclamation goes, I for one would be most unwilling to quarrel with its terms. It is too sacred to be taken into task on that account.

Then there is one other argument which has been advanced by the Hon'ble Mr. P. C. Mitter, that to make the reforms a success you must proceed in a spirit of appreciation, and he has also referred to the terms of the Proclamation. I accept that sentiment most wholeheartedly. The people are quite willing to co-operate out of respect for the wishes of the King-Emperor and also out of desire to do good to the country, in spite of the opinion that the reforms granted to them are not quite adequate, and that is their real attitude.

I think that all controversial matters, if possible, should be avoided and should not be introduced in the Council on a question like this."

The motion was then put and lost.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 14.

The Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazl-ul-Haq then moved the following amendment:—

"If motions Nos. 11 and 12 be not carried, that the words 'and substantial' in the said resolution (item No. 10) be omitted."

He said:—

My Lord, in moving the first amendment which stood in my name I suggested to my friend Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur to take the resolution out of the sphere of controversy by omitting the words beginning with the word 'which' up to the end of the sentence. That amendment has been discussed and has not been accepted. My second amendment has also been lost, and I now suggest to my friend who moved that resolution and to all the members in this house that the words 'and substantial' only be omitted so that there may be an unanimous resolution of this Council that the reforms do constitute a definite step towards responsible government.

My Lord, I am sorry I was late in attending the Council after the adjournment, but I understand a good deal has been said with reference to what fell from me in support of the amendment which I moved this morning. I had not the privilege of listening to what has been said, but I gather that one of my friends has levelled against me a charge (not definite but indefinite) of inconsistency. It has been said, I am told, that having accepted the Royal Proclamation I could not in all fairness object to the phrase at the end of the resolution as proposed by Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur, and that my opposition to the words, 'and substantial' being added to the resolution is really inconsistent with the support which I have given to the resolution which immediately preceded the one now under discussion. A reply has been given by my friend the Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Datta and I need not go over the same ground again. I shall only add that so far as the Royal Proclamation is concerned it is, as my friend has already pointed out, too sacred a document to be lightly discussed, and even if His Majesty the King-Emperor were to have expressed something in the document which we had previously taken objection to, it would not be open to us to say that we do not accept the words of the Royal Proclamation. We must bow to the Royal message and we must bow to the Royal Proclamation, but what I do say is this : that it is open to each and everyone of us to explain the position which we take not merely in this Council but outside it with regard to questions of a public character. ●

Now, my Lord, it has been suggested that we are disregarding the Royal mandate for co-operation and for setting at rest all controversy and dissension by opposing the insertion of the words, apparently of an innocent character. I confess I do not appreciate the force of this argument. Since I got notice of this resolution I gave notice of this amendment, and my hon'ble friend Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur and others who agree with him in the view that he has expressed could at once find out that those expressions at the end of the resolution did not meet with universal approval in this house. If that is so, why insist on having it when there are persons who do not agree with it? Are we, who are opposing this phrase, really starting a controversy or are they, who set the ball rolling, starting it? It is not I who gave notice of this amendment but it is he who gave notice of this resolution. It may be that he forgot for a moment that there was a difference of opinion, but once he could find that a difference of opinion still existed why did he take up that old question again and why did he revive a controversy which we hoped had been hushed? Then, my Lord, as regards this difference of opinion about the reforms themselves I was at one time of opinion that these reforms might be substantial without being adequate, but I do not know if I took a correct view; I often felt that the reforms might be both substantial and adequate. I thought that substantial is merely a question of degree and when a grant is more than a moiety, I would, ordinarily speaking, consider it substantial, but whether it is adequate or not has reference to surrounding circumstances. My friend the Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Datta has spoken of demanding 16 annas and a few annas being given. It may be that in the peculiar circumstances of the country 5 annas is considered quite substantial, but no one would say that it was adequate; similarly 10 annas may be regarded in certain circumstances as adequate. Therefore it is after all quarrelling over words. We have quarrelled over words so long, and I do not think any useful purpose would be served by our quarrelling over them again at present, but if you raise a controversy I fear I must oppose it.

My Lord, 'definite' is a word which would not be accepted by the party to which I belong, namely, the Indian National Congress. Whether that attitude is right or wrong I cannot say but for the sake of harmony and of making this resolution unanimous I for one am prepared to accept that the reforms do constitute a definite step towards the progressive realization of responsible government, although I stick to my amendment that the words 'and substantial' be omitted and that the word 'definite' be allowed to stand. There will then be the certificate that is wanted and there will then be the further certificate that these reforms are a definite step towards responsible government. If the certificate is really given I would ask that it be given in that particular form, but I will not be a party to a certificate which adds the words 'definite and substantial' in recognition of the reforms.

My Lord, I hope I have made my position clear. There is one remark which I am told has been made in this house. That in speaking of the loyalty to a party I have really forgotten that there is loyalty to others also. I do not know what that remark means. It may be that loyalty to truth or loyalty to one's own conviction must be superior to loyalty to a party. My

Resolutions.Babu Bhabendra Chandra Ray.

Lord, in the profession to which I belong I sometimes feel in arguing a case before a court that the view taken by the presiding Judge is wrong (that is my own personal conviction), but so long as the judgment is not delivered I stick to that view and press it for his acceptance, but once the judgment is delivered I forget my own view and accept the view of the court. I am not prepared to press my personal view, but since the majority of my party think, for reasons which need not be discussed here, that the words 'and substantial' should not be added to any declaration as to the character of these reforms, I think it my duty to stick to that decision and to support it. That is what I mean by loyalty to my party and that is why I oppose the insertion of the words 'and substantial' proposed to be added by the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur.

As regards the word 'definite' I have no such objection. I think there will be no harm if that word is allowed to remain. With these few words I beg to move my amendment."

The Hon'ble Babu Bhabendra Chandra Ray said :—

"My Lord, it is with no intention of belittling the Reform Act that I have given notice of an identical amendment which now becomes unnecessary for me to move. My objection is limited to the description of the measure as 'substantial.' I venture to think, firstly, that it is controversial, secondly, that it is unnecessary, and thirdly, that it is premature. I fully appreciate the sympathetic efforts of the Secretary of State to place us on the sure road to responsible Government and should have been happy if the present resolution could be passed without a dissident voice. Indeed the value of such a thanksgiving message as we propose to send to-day depends upon the unanimity of opinion behind it. It is not expedient, therefore, to tempt controversy in such an occasion. I think that the characterisation of the reform as substantial is unnecessary and can serve nothing but an academic purpose. The bill embodying the reform has been passed into law and it will not serve any useful purpose now to raise disputations over this matter. At the instance of that sturdy moderate leader, the Hon'ble Mr. Chintamani, the United Provinces Legislative Council has unanimously adopted a resolution in which no such testimonial has been sought to be affixed to the Government of India Act, but, what is of greater practical importance, an assurance has been given of co-operation of all the communities in the working of the reforms. But, my Lord, in any view of the matter it is yet too early to make a pronouncement that the instalment of reforms that we are getting are of a substantial character. To my mind the Act provides a skeleton constitution with a good deal to be filled in by way of important details by rules, about which we know nothing as yet. So much again is left to convention which will take some time to grow, and to the instrument of instructions and no hasty opinion should be offered before a fair trial has been given to the new measure. A good deal of its success will be determined, among other things, by the amount of good-will and sympathy that it can succeed in securing from the European community, official and non-official, which has so long looked at it with anything but friendly eyes. Moreover, with all our efforts to make the reforms a success, it may be discovered that the new-fangled system of 'dyarchy' is unworkable in practice, and the Council of State is clogging the wheel of progress. Taking a nearer, though perhaps a parochial view, I think that the financial position of Bengal under the reforms is anything but encouraging. And unless Lord Meston's Committee can dispel our fears by a favourable adjustment of Bengal's financial relations with the Central Government, we may look upon the present instalment of reform as far too dear. On all these considerations, I desire to support this amendment."

Resolutions.Mr. Arden-Wood; Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhury.

The original motion of the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur was then put in the following form and agreed to :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that its warmest congratulations be conveyed to His Majesty's Government and to the Right Hon'ble Mr. E. S. Montagu, the Secretary of State for India, and the Right Hon'ble Lord Sinha of Raipur, the Under-Secretary of State for India, and the British Parliament on the successful passage of the Government of India Bill through the two Houses of Parliament, which measure the Council regards as a definite and substantial step towards the progressive realization of responsible Government.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 17.

The Hon'ble Mr. Arden-Wood moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that the hearty thanks of this Council be conveyed to His Excellency the Viceroy for his generous and practical sympathy with Indian political aspirations, as shown more specially by the open-mindedness and impartiality with which His Excellency furthered the inquiries precedent to the framing of the Government of India Act, 1919.

He said :—

"My Lord, the resolution that stands in my name, and which I have now the honour to move, is intended to be simply complementary, in the strict sense of the word, to resolution 10. And I am sure that it would detract materially from the pleasure felt by the distinguished personages who are mentioned in the resolution proposed by the Hon'ble Rai Bahadur, if His Excellency the Viceroy were not, on the same occasion, if not in the same resolution, associated with those thanks and congratulations.

Apart from all other considerations, there can be no doubt that without the good-will of His Excellency the Viceroy it would have been impossible to institute and carry out the inquiries necessary to enable the Government of India Bill to be framed, presented to Parliament, and passed into law, in the year 1919. It was with much satisfaction, after I had submitted my resolution, that I read the just tribute paid to His Excellency the Viceroy by Lord Sinha upon his arrival in Bombay. That speech made clear, what some have apparently overlooked or forgotten, that the very beginning of the action on the part of British Government, which culminated in the Government of India Bill, was due, and due only, to Lord Chelmsford. I feel sure that it is unnecessary for me to spend time in commending my resolution to this Council. The qualities specified in my resolution, the generous and practical sympathy with Indian political aspirations, the open-mindedness and impartiality, which His Excellency the Viceroy has displayed in such an eminent degree in his dealings with this difficult question, are well known to the members of this Council. I confidently commend my resolution for their acceptance."

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhury said :—

"My Lord, to my mind the resolution seems to be rather premature. As it is when the question has been raised I would not of course oppose it, but I wish to make it clear that it is rather in anticipation of the successful working of the measure in its entirety, I mean after the framing of the rules, that this message of thanks should have been conveyed to the Viceroy. Whatever may be our differences in other respects—and I should say that there are differences in other matters—in this particular matter we know that His Excellency has rendered great services. For that we should be thankful to him. The rules have not been framed yet, and although we know that the Viceroy will be sympathetic we must also remember that he is surrounded by a strong bureaucratic influence, and I do not know how far the framing of the rules would be successfully carried out. It is because of this that, as in the case of the previous resolution, we cannot endorse it without reservation. As I have said before, I do not oppose the resolution, but I wish to make it clear that it should be done rather in anticipation of the successful working out of the matter."

The Hon'ble Mr. Irwin said :—

"My Lord, I wish to associate myself with this resolution and accord it my whole-hearted and loyal support."

The Hon'ble Kumar Shib Shekhareswar Ray said :—

"It is with both pride and pleasure that I rise to support the resolution moved by the Hon'ble Mr. Arden-Wood. There might be various incidental and providential causes which have led to these reforms, but, my Lord, it cannot be gainsaid that His Excellency the Viceroy was one of the first persons on the official side to take up the question of the present reforms seriously. We have seen the report which he drew up jointly with Mr. Montagu on the Indian reforms. It clearly proves to anyone who has taken the trouble of going through it, how impartially and sympathetically he has dealt with such a difficult and complicated subject as the Indian Constitutional Reforms. It is true that the Government of India despatch of the 5th March was disappointing to some extent to a large number of his admirers. But we have also heard what Lord Sinha said on landing at Bombay about the work of the Viceroy in connection with the reforms. After that statement I can hardly imagine that there is any room to doubt the great service which has been rendered by His Excellency to this country. My Lord, I whole-heartedly support the resolution."

The Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I wish to associate myself with the Hon'ble Mr. Arden-Wood in his resolution conveying thanks to His Excellency Lord Chelmsford. It is perhaps not proper for a member in my position to say anything on this point but for the fact that the Viceroy has been most unjustly maligned. True he has not been able to support the cause of the people consistently throughout his career, but it must not be forgotten that one of the first acts he did immediately on coming out to India was to take up the question of political reform, and later on were it not for his sending a telegram to the Secretary of State in the early part of December last or the latter end of November, it would have been difficult for the ministry to have the Reform Bill passed through the House of Lords because there were a few influential Peers who had been of a hesitating mind about this Bill, and but for this telegram of the Viceroy saying that he wanted the Reform Bill to be passed as soon as possible, it would have been very difficult to have the Bill passed so soon. It is very unkind and uncharitable of our people to forget the immense services done by Lord Chelmsford in this connection because of some matters connected with the keeping of peace in another Province. That is all I have to put before the Council."

*Resolutions.Babu Akhil Chandra Datta.The Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Datta said :—

"My Lord, it is a matter of profound regret to me personally that I find myself in a position to oppose this resolution. In doing so I shall again ask your Lordship in all humility to consider our position. The whole question to me is whether this is a resolution which is acceptable to the people of the country. That is the sole test and there is no other test. It is a resolution which seeks to express the hearty thanks to His Excellency the Viceroy for his generous and practical sympathy with Indian political aspirations, and therefore I should think that in the fitness of things that opinion should be expressed by an Indian. It would have come with better grace from Indians. I do not however for a moment say that if Indians fail to do their duty it is not competent to a European to do it. But if a European wants to do it he must do it on behalf of Indians, and therefore he must look at the matter from the stand-point of Indians. It was for Mr. Arden-Wood to consider whether from the Indian stand-point this is a resolution which ought to have been moved. In the light of this principle let us examine the position as to how this matter stands. My Lord, if we did not know the opinion of the Indians on this question and if this opinion was never expressed then certainly the matter would have stood on a different footing. But we do know the view of the Indians. That opinion was expressed in different platforms from different representative bodies. So far as I am aware, I am aware of three public bodies which represent the Indian opinion, namely, the Indian National Congress, the All-India Moslem League and the Moderate Conference. So far as Indian opinion is concerned, I feel I am justified in looking to these three bodies for an expression of opinion. Let us see therefore, my Lord, what is the opinion of these three bodies. So far as the Indian National Congress is concerned we know what it is: I shall not dilate. We know also the opinion expressed simultaneously the other day by the All-India Moslem League, but, my Lord, it is said in some quarters that these two bodies are extremist organisations. I do not know if that is the right view. In any case I do know this, extremists or moderates, they are certainly the mouthpiece of the Indian nation. That is the verdict of impartial observers and critics. That is the verdict even expressed only the other day by the Indian Daily News. But apart from that let me concede and concede only for argument's sake that the Indian National Congress and the All-India Moslem League are two perverse bodies. Let us therefore see what is the opinion of the Moderate Conference. I think the views of the Moderate Conference find more favour with some people in this house than the views of these two bodies. We know what their opinion is. We know that a resolution was passed the other day expressing the gratitude of the Moderate Conference—of the people as represented by the Moderate Conference, to Mr. Montagu and Lord Sinha for these reforms. But I know that a resolution similar to that before us was not passed even by the Moderate Conference. I am certainly aware of the fact that one or two individual gentlemen—members of the Moderate Conference—might have said things of this description in their speeches; I know the views of the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Banarjee, the views he has given expression to the other day in the Imperial Council, but I am also aware that Babu Surendra Nath Banerjee notwithstanding there was no such resolution passed by the Moderate Conference. Apart from this Indian opinion I think it is a matter of common knowledge that even a section of the British press is in favour of a recommendation by no means complimentary to Lord Chelmsford. The question therefore arises on whose behalf are we expressing these hearty thanks. If we are to do it for ourselves in our individual capacity that would be another matter. But if we are to do it in our representative capacity, then I am afraid this resolution is not backed by those on whose behalf these thanks are sought to be expressed. My Lord, I cannot go into details, but I should like to emphasise that my position is a bona fide one. I am aware of the views of gentlemen who are almost enamoured of these reforms. Take the case of men of the position of Mr. Bomanjee of Bombay. He is well known as a staunch supporter of Mrs. Besant even in her present day politics. Mr. Bomanjee's attitude towards the reforms is that it is a definite and substantial step towards the realisation of responsible Government. In fact it would be no exaggeration to say that Mr. Montagu is the idol of Mr. Bomanjee. That being his attitude with respect to the reforms it would be interesting to know what his attitude is with respect to His Excellency the Viceroy. And that attitude is well known. So, my Lord, the whole position is that if Indian opinion is to be consulted at all, I am afraid this resolution cannot be accepted. It is a very very delicate matter and a very unpleasant duty to do and therefore I shall not dilate. I shall only say that the Indian people think that in view of the reply, amongst other things, of His Excellency the Viceroy to the press deputation, in view of the fact that measures have been passed in the teeth of universal opposition of the Indians, the people do feel that there is nothing much to be grateful for to His Excellency the Viceroy.

Resolutions.

Dr. Suhrawardy; The President; Babu Akhil Chandra Datta.

The Hon'ble Dr. Suhrawardy (interrupting) said :—

"May I rise to a point of order, Sir? Are we discussing the services of the Viceroy in connection with the Reforms Act or other measures?"

The President said :—

"The motion before the House is a proposal to extend the thanks of the Council to the Viceroy for his generous and practical sympathy with Indian political aspirations. It is fairly wide ground."

The Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Datta said :—

"My Hon'ble friend's interruption leads me to the terms of this resolution, and I find that the terms are very comprehensive. It is 'generous and practical sympathy' with Indian political aspirations, but no practical illustration of it has been mentioned. There is another matter on which I think I should be failing in my duty if I did not express the feelings of the people of this country, I mean the incident which has happened in the Punjab. On these grounds people think that this resolution cannot be accepted by them. I therefore find myself compelled to oppose this resolution, and I do it with the utmost reluctance."

The Hon'ble Dr. Suhrawardy said :—

"My Lord, I rise to support the resolution moved by my hon'ble friend Mr. Arden-Wood. As I read the resolution I understand that it refers to the services of the Viceroy specially with regard to His Excellency's labours in connection with the Reforms Act. The resolution reads that the hearty thanks of this Council be conveyed to His Excellency the Viceroy for his generous and practical sympathy with Indian political aspirations. My Lord, my hon'ble friend to my right has opposed the resolution. I am quite at a loss to understand exactly the reasons for his opposing this resolution. I do not know whether it is based on His Excellency's Punjab policy or whether he is unwilling to support the resolution even without reference to the unfortunate incident in the Punjab. I also regret to find that my friend the Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri has declared this resolution to be rather premature. At this juncture a familiar phrase of my friend the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq comes to my memory, that if human memory is short official memory is shorter. So far as the labours of His Excellency with reference to the Reforms Act are concerned I would like to repeat that phrase of the Hon'ble Maulvi Fazl-ul-Haq with a slight variation—'If human memory is short non-official memory is shorter.' I would like to invite the attention of this House once again to the resolution moved by the Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur on the 14th November, 1918, which ran thus :—

'This Council is of opinion that the constitutional reforms proposals, laid before this country and the Parliament in England, by His Excellency the Viceroy and the Secretary of State for India, are a genuine effort and a definite advance towards the progressive realisation of responsible Government in India.'

I find that my friends the Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem and Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri were a party to the resolution when it was unanimously passed in this Council. My Lord, I do not wish to take up the time of this Council. All I wish to say is this, that I am very glad to associate myself with the words of my friend the Hon'ble Mr. Arden-Wood who moved this resolution."

The Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem said :—

"My Lord, I regret it very much that this resolution has been brought forward for discussion in this Council. The Hon'ble mover is aware that there is a good deal of difference of opinion about Lord Chelmsford's generous sympathy with Indian political aspirations and his rule of India, but whatever may be our differences His Excellency is the representative of our Sovereign in this country and as such is entitled to respect and honour and it is very unfortunate that his conduct should be discussed in a Provincial Legislative Council. A large section of the people are of opinion that His Excellency does not sympathize with our political aspirations and that is evidenced by the fact that no Indian member of this Council thought it proper to bring forward a resolution like this and it was reserved for a member of the European community to do so. I have great respect for the Hon'ble Mr. Arden-Wood as a scholar and an educationist but I have never seen that he has interested himself in Indian politics or expressed his sympathy with our aspirations nor had he any means of knowing Indian public opinion. Still he has gone out of his way to ask this Council to offer its thanks to Lord Chelmsford for his sympathies with Indian political aspirations and has forced us to raise an unseemly controversy in this Council. My Lord, many public bodies in this country have expressed their opinion on the Reform Act and about those who have had a hand in it, but so far as I have been able to ascertain from newspaper reports none has as yet ventured to mention Lord Chelmsford's name in this connection.

The Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur interrupting said :—

"Mr. Arden-Wood is not a member of the Corporation."

The Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem continued :—

"At any rate the Corporation did pass a resolution in which the name of Lord Chelmsford was not mentioned. True it is that if Lord Chelmsford had violently opposed the reforms even the British Cabinet could not have passed the Act, because the British people always put a great value on the opinion of the man on the spot, but I have never heard that thanks are offered for not obstructing a thing and to agree to a proposal is quite different from supporting it or sympathizing with its object. The Government of India despatches to which Lord Chelmsford was a party lends weight to the opinion that His Excellency was not favourably inclined towards the changes brought about and the opinion expressed about his share in this matter by Indians is quite contrary to what we are asked to—subscribe. His Excellency's rule of India has also been bitterly criticised by my country men and however unpleasant it may be, I feel it my duty to protest against such a resolution being passed. Because if I do not I will be betraying a trust and would not be able to face my constituents.

We cannot forget that His Excellency Lord Chelmsford is responsible directly or indirectly for many unpleasant incidents in this country and that we believe that His Excellency gave only his passive support to the Reform proposals, and he did so because he felt that the exigencies of the situation demanded it. His Excellency has never shown any active sympathy, much less a generous one, with Indian political aspirations and the Government of which His Excellency is the head has earned a reputation for repressive measures and unsympathetic administration. A vote of thanks in the terms of the resolution would be uncalled for and against the opinion and wishes of the people whom we represent, and I therefore strongly oppose the acceptance of this resolution by the Council."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 18.

The Hon'ble Mr. H. R. A. Irwin to move the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that legislation be introduced, at an early date, rendering it compulsory on all proprietors of factories, whose average daily labour force, whether employed in, about, or in connection with, such factory, exceeds, for a period of three months, fifty persons, to provide such sanitary conveniences and appliances, in addition to medical supervision and treatment, as may be adequate for the number of labourers employed and as may be approved, from time to time, by the Government Sanitary Department.

He said :—

"My Lord, this is, I believe, the fourth resolution I have had the honour of proposing in this Council, all of which have had the same object in view, viz., the improvement in sanitation and health of the poorer classes in this Province, and though you may not approve of or sanction the course I have suggested, of one thing I am confident and that is, that I have Your Excellency's personal sympathy and approval of the object, even if you disapprove of the means to bring it about.

For if there is one thing more than another by which your name will be honoured and respected long after you have left India, it will be the solicitude which you have always displayed in the endeavour to stamp out disease, alleviate suffering and decrease mortality, amongst the millions of people under your rule.

I, myself, take a very keen interest in the sanitation and health of the poorer classes, who are helpless to do anything for themselves. I have had this resolution in my mind for several months, and have postponed giving notice of it, in the hope of getting it embodied in the proposed Bengal Public Health Bill, the provisions of which, through Your Excellency's kind permission, I have had an opportunity of studying.

However, my time of retirement has come and this is the last Council at which I shall have the honour of being present and, I therefore resolved to bring the matter before Government in the hope that it may be thought worthy of embodiment in the Bill, when it is introduced, at some later date.

Resolutions.Mr. Irwin.

Were I speaking to your Lordship and one or two more here present I should be content to stop here as you know more of the general aspects of the subject than I do, but I am speaking as well to Hon'ble Members of this Council and in a way to the public generally, of whom the great majority have probably not studied the question, and I venture to think it may possibly be useful to state my experience, such as it is. I would, however, commend all those who take any interest in the well-being of their fellow-creatures to study the pamphlet issued from the Bengal Secretariat Press entitled 'A speech and letter on Hookworm Disease in Bengal by His Excellency the Governor of Bengal,' and I venture to say that it will considerably startle those who were not previously acquainted with the facts it discloses—It only takes about half an hour or less to read and must prove interesting to all.

As regards myself I must preface my remarks by saying that my own personal experience has been gained almost entirely amongst the agricultural labourers, principally Nepalese in the Darjeeling district, with whom I have been intimately associated for the last forty-five years.

I have not the least doubt that, as a race, they have been steadily deteriorating, physically speaking, and this deterioration must continue more and more rapidly as the years go by, unless something can be done to arrest it.

A mother who is debilitated by disease and consequently not earning sufficient to nourish her own body much less that of a coming infant, cannot possibly produce strong healthy offspring, and therefore the deterioration in physique, of the whole race, previously referred to, must steadily continue, and get worse in each successive generation unless this most difficult problem is faced and successfully tackled.

I am aware that this is a very serious allegation to make, and in saying it I am not stating my own individual opinion only, I have asked many of the senior planters in the district their opinions and they have each one confirmed what I say without exception.

So much so is this the case that, whereas formerly managers of tea factories, situated at a distance from the Railway, in most cases at a lower elevation, were accustomed to pack their tea in full chests weighing from 110 to 160 lbs. gross and had no difficulty in getting them carried eight or ten miles uphill, for years past now have been obliged to resort to smaller sized packages rarely weighing more than 100 lbs. gross and even these it is sometimes very difficult to get carried.

My Lord, I am convinced that hookworm is the cause of this undoubted physical deterioration, and it is to combat and eradicate this evil that my resolution is intended.

I am convinced that hookworm is indirectly responsible for a very large proportion of the mortality in the Province, which is at present ascribed to other diseases—a person becomes infected with hookworm, gets rapidly debilitated, is then incapable of performing a fair day's work for a fair living wages and consequently does not earn sufficient to nourish his body, he contracts malaria, dysentery or some other disease and falls a victim to it and is registered as dying of it, whereas the original cause was hookworm and but for it he would have been strong enough to contend with and throw off the subsequently contracted illness.

To those who know nothing of the matter, the percentage of the lower classes especially those who are accustomed to go about with bare feet will seem almost incredible.

I have referred more especially to the agricultural labourers of the Darjeeling district, as it is they who come under my own immediate observation, but the investigations carried out during the past few years, especially lately by Dr. R. G. Griffin in the planting districts of Northern Bengal and Dr. Richard McVail in the Jute Mill area round Calcutta, go to prove that there is very little difference, in the incidence of infection amongst the poorer classes, between the hills, the submontane or purely plains areas.

The figures arrived at by both Dr. Griffin and Dr. McVail show that the terribly high percentage of from 70 per cent. to even, in some parts, 90 per cent. of the lower classes are infected with this disease.

Accepting the figures stated in your Lordship's speech above referred to, viz., 80 per cent., to think that four out of every five of the unfortunate people with whom one comes in daily contact, are infected with this dread disease and having their life's blood and vitality literally sapped out of them appears to me appalling and calls for the most stringent measures in order to stamp it out.

Much is being done to cure hookworm and much suffering is thereby being averted, but curing the disease only, if I may say so, is more or less in the nature of pouring water into a sieve, if, directly the patient is cured and sets foot outside his door, he becomes re-infected.

Until the germs of the disease can be eradicated from the soil, it will continue to thrive and spread, and the only means of eradicating it from the soil is to stop the source of pollution by the compulsory construction of latrines and insistence on their use.

I have been told that if latrines are erected, it will be impossible to get coolies to use them, but has not the same argument been used in connection with almost every innovation ever introduced? That it will be difficult at first, I acknowledge, but that it will be impossible I emphatically deny, and I am confident that with gentle pressure and persuasion combined, the desired result will eventually, if gradually, be obtained.

As an instance of this I may say that when only a few years ago the treatment for the cure of hookworm which is by no means pleasant was first introduced amongst tea garden coolies, it was very difficult indeed to persuade them to submit themselves to it; however on those estates that persisted the coolies have begun to recognise the efficacy of it and now come voluntarily and willingly to ask for it.

I think that everyone will agree that labour is the one vital factor, more than any other, which will affect the prosperity of this country in the future, by it we shall stand or fall, what we should aim at is for each individual labourer to increase his production thereby incidentally increasing his own earnings and prosperity, but how can this be effected, if what I aver is a fact, viz., that the physique of the labourer is deteriorating.

It is I think an undoubted fact that the demand for labour, not only in India but all over the world, is steadily increasing.

Here in India one cannot open one's daily paper without seeing the announcement of new industrial companies being floated day after day, each one of which means increased competition for labour, and the only means by which it can be satisfied will be by increased efficiency and increased production whereby two labourers may do the work and earn the wages of three.

The benefits arising from efficient sanitation are being more and more recognized, and are receiving more and more attention from individuals year after year, but in this case, almost more than most, the efforts of a large majority can be rendered nugatory by the passive inactivity of a small minority.

Resolutions.Mr. Irwin; Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri.

In your address to the representatives of the various District Boards of Bengal at a meeting held at Government House, Calcutta, on Thursday, December 4th, your Lordship is reported to have said :—

'Disease can be successfully fought only by scientifically organised effort and scientifically organised effort has hitherto, I regret to say, been conspicuous chiefly by its absence in Bengal ;' again 'It is clear that we shall have radically to recast our machinery before we can hope to obtain really big results ;' further on again 'And these agents must not only be given the responsibility for carrying out such measures but must be armed with such powers as will enable them to give effect to them.'

I could with benefit quote further, but I fear I have already trespassed too long on the patience of the Council and must therefore abstain.

Without combination and 'scientifically organised effort' but above all unless 'armed with such powers as will enable them to give effect to them,' i.e., measures to combat disease it is hopeless to expect to stamp out disease—combination and scientifically organised effort can only be efficient if supported by legislative compulsion. In every community there will always be black sheep—passive resisters.

I have above emphasized the beneficial results which the introduction and use of latrines may confidently be expected to have on hookworm only, as I consider it to be almost if not quite the most formidable disease with which we have to contend on account of its insidious and eventually, if gradually, fatal nature.

But more rapid and apparent beneficial results will undoubtedly accrue in the case of dirt-borne and fly-borne diseases, such as cholera, dysentery, etc., which are credited with a far larger percentage of mortality than hookworm, the fatal nature of which is only just beginning to be recognised by the majority on account, as I have previously said, of its insidiousness.

Should this resolution be accepted and given effect to, I, myself, as an employer of labour, will be considerably affected, but on the grounds of humanity alone, I would welcome the tax it would impose upon me whilst eventually the benefit accruing will undoubtedly be reaped from a more healthy and consequently efficient and contented labour force if not by me then by my successors.

As I have previously said, my Lord, this is the last Council meeting I shall have the honour of attending, and I trust my resolution may be accepted and given effect to by Government, and that as I believe will be the case, benefit will arise for the people amongst whom I have lived so long."

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri said :—

"My Lord, I fully support the views expressed in this resolution by my hon'ble friend Mr. Irwin. He has made it abundantly clear that something is urgently necessary for these labouring classes. Your Excellency's study of the hookworm disease has also, I hope, made it abundantly clear that the special attention of the Sanitary Department should be drawn to the health and comfort of the labouring classes. With the rise of the prices of the necessities of life it has become very difficult for them, without special help either from employers or from Government, to take care of themselves. I fully support the views expressed by the Hon'ble Mr. Irwin, and I hope that Government will do something for their redress."

*Resolutions.Mr. O'Malley.The Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley said :—

“ My Lord, I must congratulate the Hon'ble Mover on his zeal for sanitary progress, but I fear that in his anxiety to preach the gospel of public health reform he has not been careful to enquire whether Government has not to any extent forestalled him by taking the measures he advocates. The resolution is framed on general lines. The Hon'ble Member urges that Government should undertake legislation making it compulsory on all proprietors of factories to provide adequate sanitary conveniences and appliances for their employes in addition to medical supervision and treatment. I am afraid that the Hon'ble Member has not been able to consult the Factories Act, or the rules under it. If he will refer to the Act he will find it lays down that every factory shall be provided with sufficient and suitable latrine accommodation. It further provides that every factory shall be kept clean, and free from effluvia arising from any drain, privy or other nuisance, and that in every factory there shall be maintained a sufficient and suitable supply of water fit for drinking for the use of the persons employed in the factory. Electrical generating or transforming stations, indigo, tea and coffee factories are not included in the category of factories under the Act, but the Act applies to all other factories. It was passed in 1911, and the Hon'ble Member, if I may be permitted to say so, is a day too late for the fair. The mills have up-to-date latrine systems which are being extended and improved from day to day, and mill managers constantly refer to the Sanitary Commissioner for advice about them. The working of septic tank latrines is under the control of the Sanitary Commissioner, and he has ~~also~~ been appointed an additional Inspector of Factories, so that he may be in a position to deal with the sanitary arrangements of factories of all classes. He inspects as often as he can and brings to the notice of the Inspector of Factories any defects which require to be remedied so that the Inspector may take executive action.

The tea gardens and tea garden factories to which the Hon'ble Mover has specially referred are excluded from the scope of the Factories Act, and Government are aware of the need for combined action among tea gardens in order to improve their sanitary arrangements. Many have not got up-to-date latrine systems, and hookworm plays havoc among the coolies. Dr. Griffin, who has been recently making enquiries in connection with hookworm, reports :—

“ The adoption of latrines by the hill people is feasible and presents few difficulties, and they as a whole appear to appreciate the use of them. But the question of getting Madeshia labour, mainly Santals and Oraons, who form the bulk of the labour in the Duars, to adopt these measures, has to be cautiously and carefully considered. Treatment for hookworm and other intestine parasitical disease is now universally carried on in the Duars on the European estates, and with education given to the people in the necessity of the use of latrine, I consider, and it is also the opinion of the senior Medical Officers and planners, that eventually they will come into line. It has been pointed out to me that if a single garden in a district only adopts these measures, that labour will tend to leave the garden, but that if a group of estates does so they will accept the universal adoption.”

Under conditions such as these it is desirable to strengthen the hands of the more progressive planters and to ensure uniformity of action throughout the whole area. Otherwise whatever sanitary precautions may be taken by one manager they may be nullified by the apathy, neglect or inaction of another ; in these circumstances some central authority is required to bring all into line. Government therefore are disposed to regard sympathetically proposals designed to affect a general all round improvement, and they are ready to consider the desirability of introducing legislation on the subject.

Resolutions.Mr. O'Malley.

I may mention here that the question of legislation for the tea gardens in the Duars came up some years ago. A special committee called the Duars Committee presided over by the Hon'ble Mr. Monahan was appointed to enquire into the sanitary and economic conditions under which tea garden coolies live in the Duars and to advise Government what remedial measures, if any, should be undertaken. Their conclusions were briefly that the economic conditions of the coolies were satisfactory, but that action should be taken to improve the medical and sanitary arrangements as well as the system of vital statistics. The committee thought that the employers would be ready of their own initiative to improve the medical and sanitary arrangements; and the Government of Eastern Bengal and Assam, agreeing with this view, considered that legislation was necessary only to prescribe registers and returns which would ensure a reliable record of vital occurrences in the tea gardens. They prepared a Bill accordingly, which passed into law as the Jalpaiguri Labour Act of 1912. At the same time in order that Government should be kept informed of the progress made by the estates in carrying out the recommendations of the Duars Committee with regard to sanitation, water-supply, medical arrangements, etc., it was arranged that the Civil Surgeon should observe and report on the extent to which those recommendations were carried out. The Civil Surgeon submits an annual report on the condition of the labour force and of the working of the Act, but it has been found impossible for him to inspect all the gardens regularly and our information is at present not as complete as we could desire. The special officer employed on the anti-hookworm campaign has been asked to submit a report as to the arrangements made for water-supply, conservancy and the prevention of infectious diseases, in the places he has visited, but his report has not yet been received. In the meantime the Duars Planters' Association has been consulted as to what arrangements can be made. The Association wishes to have a more thorough system and is in favour of a whole-time officer being appointed to advise upon, to direct and, if necessary, to control measures for the improvement of sanitation in the Duars tea gardens, as well as to engage in experiment and research; and it advocates the establishment of an advisory committee of planters and medical men to assist him. The matter is at present under discussion with the Sanitary Commissioner.

The question of legislation will require careful consideration. The Indian Tea Association, the Darjeeling Planters' Association and the Duars Planters' Association should be consulted about such matters as the creation of a central sanitary authority and the financing of it, as, for instance, by means of a special levy on tea gardens and possibly on village areas outside their limits. It should be considered whether it is preferable to deal with the matter as a part of a public health Bill for the whole province or by means of special legislation such as the Bengal Mining Settlements Act of 1912, by which the Mines Board of Health was created. I may be permitted to mention that a public health Bill has been drafted by my friend Mr. Goode, and it contains provisions which would go far in the direction contemplated by the resolution. As regards the Mining Settlements Act, that measure was a piece of special legislation which was introduced only after other possible measures under other Acts had been tried and had failed. The solution was found in the creation of the Mines Board of Health which contains representatives of the interests concerned and has jurisdiction over landowners as well as over coal mine owners. The Board exercises general sanitary control over the mining settlement, and it meets the cost of its services by means of a local levy from those directly interested. In dealing with the problem of the coal mines Government had the willing and helpful co-operation of the Indian Mining Association, and similarly if a measure is to be brought forward for the tea garden areas Government would naturally desire to have the sympathy and support of the Indian Tea Association and of the Planters' Associations.

Resolutions.Mr. O'Malley ; Mr. Irwin.

I now turn to the question of medical supervision and treatment. Our latest report for the Duars states :—

'There are 8 European doctors with British qualifications in medical charge of the 93 gardens under European management. Besides this, two registered and well-qualified Indian doctors with Calcutta University degrees, have been appointed this year to supervise the medical arrangements of two large groups of gardens under Indian management. These groups consist of 8 gardens in the Eastern Duars and 8 gardens in the Alipore-Duars. Therefore, no less than 109 out of the 129 gardens are now under proper medical supervision.' The Civil Surgeons goes on to say—'The great majority of the Doctor Babus in charge of the dispensaries are still unregistered men of inferior qualifications, but matters are much improved by the increase of proper supervision and this should lead to a better control of epidemic disease.'

In Darjeeling there are tea garden doctors but the number of qualified men both among them and among the compounders is not at present adequate. The provision of compulsory medical supervision and treatment by each tea garden would, however, go further even than the Mining Settlements Act.

As for the mills, the largest employers of labour, the Factories Act does not provide for medical supervision and treatment, but they make excellent arrangements in their own interests. The merchant princes of Calcutta are alive to the fact that it pays to keep their employes well and to look after their bodily welfare. Most have a residential medical staff consisting of qualified Indian doctors, with university degrees, of the Assistant Surgeon class in addition to European consulting medical officers. Many also have well-found dispensaries; some, in fact, are splendid institutions, such as those of the Gouripore Mill at Naihati and the Alliance Mills at Bhatpara. I could wish that the Hon'ble Mover could, on his retirement, make a tour among the mills on the banks of Hooghly. I venture to say he would have his eyes opened and that he would be astonished at the provision made for the health of the employes.

Apart from the large mills Government are well aware of the necessity for looking after industrial hygiene, particularly when so many small factories are springing up. They realize that industrial hygiene is a matter for careful investigation by the public health staff and that the present industrial development must be carefully watched in order to prevent the creation of sanitary abuses such as followed industrial expansion in Europe. The present system of factory inspection does not give all the information necessary and on this account it is proposed to appoint a specially selected Deputy Sanitary Commissioner with a special staff to carry out an investigation in the coming year.

This explanation of the existing law of what is being already done and of the proposals for the future will I trust, assure the Hon'ble Mover that the matter is receiving and will continue to receive the careful attention of Government, and I suggest that it is therefore unnecessary for him to press his resolution."

The Hon'ble Mr. Irwin said :—

"My Lord, perhaps my resolution is somewhat badly worded. I am perfectly aware that almost every factory I know of provides medical supervision and treatment, but I wanted that in addition to it they should provide certain sanitary conveniences and appliances. When the Hon'ble Member goes on to say that I am too late for the fair, I do not quite follow him.

Resolutions.Mr. Irwin; The President.

In one breath he says that the Factories Act provides for what I am advocating and in the next he says that Tea Factories for which I am principally speaking are excluded from the provisions of the Act. Therefore, I wish to draw the attention to that with a view to having tea gardens included in the provisions of the Bengal Public Health Bill, which I understand is now under the consideration of Government. However, having drawn attention to the matter I am quite content to leave it to the consideration of Government when drafting the Bengal Public Health Bill."

The President said :—

"Does the Hon'ble Member wish to withdraw his resolution?"

The Hon'ble Mr. Irwin said :—

"Yes, Sir."

The motion was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 19.

The Hon'ble Mr. Irwin moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council the importance in the interests of the trade, not only of this Province, but of the whole Empire, of expediting the proposed extension of the broad gauge system of the Eastern Bengal Railway from Santahar to Niliguri, and that the Government do move the Imperial Government to give effect to the proposal at an early date.

He said :—

My Lord, "I do not propose to take up the valuable time of this Council with a long speech elaborating the various arguments in favour of the object of this resolution. To those who have travelled over the line and know anything about the matter, the handicap, which the break of gauge imposes on traffic of all descriptions, must be so self-evident that further evidence is surely not required to convince them of the importance of eliminating it with the least possible delay.

When I first came out to this country the Eastern Bengal State Railway was comparatively speaking a very short line, and there was no Railway in existence on the north bank of the Ganges; subsequently the Northern Bengal State Railway, as the northern section of the Eastern Bengal State Railway was then styled, was constructed with the metre gauge, and I am probably the only European still in this country who was present when the first train ran into Niliguri in, if I remember right, the autumn of 1878.

Nearly a quarter of a century later in 1902, I took a leading part in organising and then presiding at a mass meeting held in Darjeeling, to which the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, the Indian Tea Association and the Calcutta Trades' Association sent representatives, to urge upon Government the enormous importance to the trade of the Province of connecting the northern and southern portions by a bridge over the Ganges.

The meeting was a large and most representative one, and copies of the proceedings were sent to His Excellency the then Viceroy and to the Secretary of State for India, and I think it is not too much to claim that it turned the scale in favour of the immediate construction of what is now known as the Hardinge Bridge.

Resolutions.Mr. Irwin.

Twelve years later on, I think, 4th March 1914, I had the pleasure of being present when His Excellency Lord Hardinge opened the bridge, and I crossed it in the first passenger train and also in the first ordinary mail which ran over it.

It is not therefore perhaps altogether inappropriate that I should have the honour of urging upon Your Excellency the great importance of eliminating the break of gauge on the main line and extending the broad gauge system right through to Siliguri.

At the time of the meeting above referred to held to urge upon Government the construction of the bridge. I believe I am correct in saying that it was taken for granted by almost everyone that the construction of the earthwork, widening of the bridges and laying of the broad gauge line would proceed simultaneously with the making of the bridge, and had it been then understood that the immediate construction of the bridge only was contemplated and that the extension of the broad gauge was to be indefinitely postponed, it would then have been the subject of very strong representation to Government.

Without the uniformity of gauge throughout the main line system the construction of the bridge alone leaves the work only half carried through, and it requires the completion of the broad gauge to put the coping stone on the whole.

For years after the opening of the Hardinge Bridge, in fact, I believe, during the first three years of the great War, work was actually being carried on with the broad gauge extension, but I think I am right in saying that during the last two years it has remained entirely in abeyance.

To refer briefly to the arguments in favour of the speedy elimination of the break of gauge I would mention the following as amongst the most important :—

First—the extra expense curtailed by transshipment of goods and passengers ;

Secondly—the legitimate damage to goods which is unavoidable when they have to be transferred from one wagon to another ;

Thirdly—the illegitimate damage incurred from not only petty pilfering but from wholesale robbery which is very difficult to detect and impossible wholly to prevent ;

Fourthly—the delay which the transshipment necessarily entails both on passengers and goods ; and Fifthly—the impetus that would undoubtedly be given to trade.

It appears to me that it is hardly necessary to say anything in support of the above arguments, the very mention of them alone to my mind carries conviction but as regards—

First—I may say that in these days of strenuous trade competition manufacturers and agriculturists are compelled to cut down and curtail expenditure to the very lowest ebb if they are to compete successfully in the markets of the world with similar articles from other quarters of the globe ;

Resolutions.Mr. Irwin.

Secondly—as regards legitimate damage I need hardly point out that a certain amount of damage must occur in removing heavy articles from one vehicle to another, which would be avoided if they went right through in the original truck. The damage done is unavoidable, and if the loss falls upon the railway the management must necessarily provide for it by charging a higher tariff than would otherwise be necessary, so that the loss must eventually, in any case, fall upon the owner of the goods, thus raising his cost of production ;

Thirdly—to take loss from theft ; only those who are heavy importers or exporters over the line and the railway staff and police are aware of the facilities which the transshipment of goods afford to wholesale robbery. It must necessarily occur that goods in course of transshipment must lay sometimes days or even weeks on end at Santahar awaiting trucks, and train thieves avail themselves of the opportunity thus afforded only too readily ; bags of grain are cut open, several seers abstracted from each bag and the incision carefully stitched up again—tins of oil are pierced and the whole of the contents drained off into another receptacle, so that many tins out of a consignment are delivered empty and the consignment being at 'owners' risk' the whole loss falls on the owner ; and as for coal the loss amounts in some cases to a very large percentage of the whole, but is never altogether absent ;

Fourthly—As regards delay in transit not to speak of the loss of interest on the proceeds of the sale of a large consignment of goods occasioned by delay in bringing them to the market there is the much more serious delay often incurred by produce losing a good market when the special article in question is at a premium and having to be sold possibly when the market is glutted. That both railways and producers realise this is proved by the fact that special express goods trains are constantly run for which higher rates of transit are charged which producers evidently avail themselves of or the trains would not be scheduled, thus proving that merchants are fully alive to the serious loss which the delay of a few days, such as often occurs from a block of goods at Santahar, may occasion ;

Fifthly—to refer to the impetus likely to be given to trade in Northern Bengal, I have it on the authority of an influential railway official of long experience and high standing that to quote his own words 'there are prospects of rapidly increasing traffic and this increase will be much more rapid when the great obstruction of the break of gauge at Santahar is removed.'

On the increased comfort to passengers, from the highest to the lowest, when one can get into the train at Sealdah at 10 o'clock at night and awake at 6 o'clock next morning at Siliguri, I need not dilate. I can only earnestly regret that I shall not be here to participate. Your Excellency in common with the rest of us, Darjeeling passengers, realises no doubt the difference that it would mean.

In conclusion, my Lord, I would point out that this resolution, if accepted, commits Government to nothing, it merely asseverates the importance of the matter and asks that the Imperial Government will give its serious consideration if or directly funds are available. I therefore trust that Your Excellency's Government will not reject my petition."

Resolutions.

Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri; Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur ; Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur.

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri said :—

"My Lord, in this connection I may be permitted to point out that there is another line which is of more urgent interest than the opening of a broad gauge line up to Siliguri—I mean the connection of the Godagari line with the Ishurdi line. Last year in the Imperial Council in reply to a question by the Hon'ble Maharaja Sir Manindra Chandra Nandi it was stated that the line from Ishurdi to Nachole via Rampur-Boalia, was decided upon, but it could not be taken in hand for want of funds. That line would tap the jute and paddy-growing parts of Barind to a great extent, and it would also make the line from Katihar to Godagiri a paying one. As far as my information goes that line has not been working well and the ferry arrangement at Godagari for transshipment of goods has been abolished. When it has been conceded by the Imperial Government and the survey is complete and the estimated cost has also been published in the India Gazette, I beg most humbly to submit to Your Excellency that this line should not also be lost sight of, and I submit that before anything is done for broadening the gauge of the line between Santahar and Siliguri this line should be taken up. In connection with the broad gauge line one thing should be borne in mind. The line from Bogra to the Assam line and that from Parbatipur to the Assam line are all metre gauge lines. They should also be broadened in order that full benefit of the extension might be derived in the matter of the extension of trade and commerce. I beg to submit that the Government should bear this in mind when broadening the gauge between Santahar and Siliguri."

The Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, it is not necessary for me to say much upon the necessity of altering the gauge of this section of the railway. All that can be said on this point has been put before the Council by the Hon'ble Mr. Irwin, but he did not refer to the discomforts of the passengers at first but said something about it later on. I should like to put in a word or two from the point of view of passengers. It may be that the making of the bridge at Paksey has done some good to the owner of goods. I do not know if the making of the bridge without the broad gauge line from Santahar to Siliguri has been of any advantage to passengers. I used to enjoy the steamer trip across the river lasting about an hour, but now I have to get up at 11 o'clock at night to change trains at Santahar. If I had any voice in the determination of this question years ago I should certainly have said that unless you broaden the gauge up to Siliguri it is no use making a bridge. It seems that people are not getting the full benefit of the enormous expenditure which was incurred in bridging the river Padma. I know that the Bengal Government have no control over the matter, but it is the concern of the Imperial Government to act on the advice of the Railway Board. It may be that the war has retarded the carrying out of the original idea, but I think it would not be out of place if we are to ask the Bengal Government to move in the matter and get the Imperial Government to attend to our wants and to complete what must have been the original idea."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I rise to support the resolution which has been moved, but I do not wish to traverse the ground which has already been traversed by my hon'ble friend the mover. But there is one matter I would like to mention with Your Excellency's permission and that is this. My Lord, this the last meeting of a Council where we have the pleasure of associating with

Resolutions.The President ; Mr. Cumming.

Mr. Irwin. Mr. Irwin has spent over 45 years in this country and we all know, specially those who have been associated with him in this Council, the deep interest he takes in the welfare of the country and the well-being of the people."

The President said :—

"Order! Order! The Hon'ble Member really cannot go on like this when speaking on this motion. That would be travelling too far outside the line on which this motion is framed and which deals with the Santahar-Siliguri Railway. He must confine his remarks to the motion, much though I regret having to stop him."

The Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur resumed his seat.

The Hon'ble Mr. Cumming said :—

"The Hon'ble Mover has given an interesting account of the development of railway communications in Northern Bengal. The future of such railway communications has been the subject of very careful consideration by the Local Government, the Railway Board under the Government of India and the Secretary of State. The main line of development that has been accepted in principle is that the west and east communication should be on the metre gauge and the north and south communication on the broad gauge. It is of course well-known that the present break of gauge on the north and south line is at Santahar, and the Hon'ble Mr. Irwin in his resolution desires that the broad gauge system should be extended from Santahar to Siliguri. Now it is the case that the project of such an extension was supported by the Local Government in 1915 and again by the Railway Board under the Government of India in 1916; and in view of such support I am in a position to say on the present occasion that the Bengal Government accept the resolution to this extent that they are prepared to send a copy of the proceedings of the present debate to the Railway Board.

The last pronouncement on the subject was that of the Secretary of State in 1917. It was in the following terms. The Secretary of State accepted in principle the conversion of the section from Santahar to Parbatipur to the broad gauge. As regards the line from Parbatipur to Siliguri, the Secretary of State did not deny that the conversion of this length of line from metre gauge to the broad gauge was a desirable object. He thought that the eventual extension of the broad gauge to Siliguri was a work which should be kept in view, to be proceeded with when financial conditions permitted; but he did not think that it could be regarded as comparable in point of urgency with many other railway improvements for which funds would be needed after the end of the war, and, having regard to the difficulty which was likely to be found for some years in providing sufficient money for pressing railway requirements, he doubted whether for a long period it would be justifiable to appropriate funds to the work in question.

That was the decision of the Secretary of State in 1917. Since then the war has happily ended; and the views of the Railway Board on the conclusion of hostilities are contained in an answer to a question in the Imperial Council given on the 1st March 1919. On that occasion the President of the Railway Board said that the construction of lines to be financed by Government must depend on the provision of funds, and that in view of the urgent requirements of open lines the money available for new construction is likely to be limited for some little time to come. Today the Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri has submitted an alternative proposal for priority of treatment as regards funds. The project to which he refers, namely, the communication from the north of the Hardinge Bridge to the vicinity of Godagari has been accepted in principle by the Government of India; but, as he has stated, an intimation has already been given that the project must await the provision of funds.

These are the facts, Sir, and I admit that from the point of view of the Bengal Government the position as regards the north and south line is not satisfactory. The Bengal Government consider that an extension of the broad gauge simply as far as Parbatipur is an insufficient sequel to the construction of the Hardinge Bridge. In this connection, however, it must be remembered that there is a matter for congratulation or consolation. The possibilities which were placed before the Secretary of State were the extension of the broad gauge for the whole line from Santahar to Siliguri and the doubling of the metre gauge from Santahar to Parbatipur. It may be considered a matter for congratulation that the Secretary of State in his decision was at any rate not in favour of the second alternative, namely, the doubling of the metre gauge from Santahar northwards. If this decision had been made, it might have been a serious obstacle—possibly an obstacle for all time—against any subsequent development of the broad gauge on the northern section of Eastern Bengal Railway. As I have already stated, Government are prepared to accept the resolution as it stands to this extent that a copy of the proceedings will be forwarded to the Railway Board under the Government of India."

The Hon'ble Mr. Irwin said :—

"My Lord, in view of the assurance given by the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming I am quite content to let the matter rest, but at the same time I should like to point out that many lakhs of rupees were spent at Santahar on buildings, etc., which, when the broad gauge is extended, as I imagine, eventually to Siliguri, will be wasted. I am afraid that when the broad gauge is extended up to Parbatipur there will again be an unnecessary waste of public money on buildings, etc., which would be useless in course of time."

The motion was then put and agreed to.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 20

The Hon'ble Kumar Shib Shekhareswar Ray moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that immediate protective works be undertaken to save the town of Pabna from further erosion by the river Padma.

He said :—

"My Lord, I am sorry that I have to bring such a purely local matter before the House in the form of a resolution. I should say at the outset that apathy and inactivity on the part of Your Excellency's Government are alone responsible for my action. I cannot but admire the patience and perseverance of the people of Pabna with which they have made repeated representations to Your Excellency's Government in this connection, but I am constrained to state that the Government hardly took any serious notice of their prayer. I am told that the Government even did not think it necessary to acknowledge receipt of the various memorials that have been submitted to the Government. The people of Pabna whom I have the honour and privilege to represent in this Council, as a last resort, have asked me to have the matter discussed in the Council, hoping against hope that thereby the wheels of the Resolutions.Kumar Shib Shekhareswar Ray.

Government might be set in motion. From the procedure the people of Pabna have so long followed in this connection, I might hope that the facts of the case are well-known not only to Your Excellency's Government but also to Your Excellency personally. However for the benefit of the House, I think I should give a brief history of the case.

Pabna is a pretty big town beautifully laid out and is the headquarters station of the district which is called after it. It is considered as one of the healthiest places in the district and has, therefore, been a favourite resort of the people from the interior who have settled there and constructed substantial buildings. It has a first grade college and a well-equipped technical institute, several schools, a model agricultural farm and one of the wealthiest central co-operative banks. A big trade in jute is carried on there and the town has a growing prosperous population. A small stream passes through the town and the great river Padma, until lately, flowed at a distance of about 3 miles from the town. Some sixty years back this river flowed by the town itself, but when it changed its course, a high sandy char was formed and intervened between the town and the Padma. This char was subsequently inhabited by agricultural population. Everything went on peacefully till 1916, when the river suddenly changed its course again and began to engulf the char. The people of the locality, who are well conversant with the vagaries of the Padma, naturally got alarmed and moved the authorities to take timely action for the safety of the town. But the river was yet far away from the town and the authorities paid no heed to their apprehension. During the rains in 1918, when Your Excellency graced the town with a visit, the river had made further encroachments and had in fact swallowed up the whole of the char and also a populous portion of the town itself and actually threatened the Government Circuit House built at a great cost. The people of Pabna were quite frightened by this time, and in their address of welcome to Your Excellency, they brought the fact to Your Excellency's notice. They said—

'We apprehend that unless some precautionary measures be adopted at the close of the present rains, the civil station itself will be in danger of being diluviated during the next rains.'

Your Excellency in reply was pleased to say—

'The Chief Engineer in the Irrigation Department has already inspected the scene of the erosion during the present year. He informs me that the river has gone back to the old channel which it occupied sixty years ago, and he does not expect that further serious erosion will take place. At the same time he proposes to keep the position under careful observation with a view to taking such measures as may be found possible, should the necessity arise.'

It was a great assurance coming as it did from Your Excellency's lips, and the people of Pabna went away satisfied that their home and hearth were safe and that Your Excellency as promise-bound, to quote Your Excellency's own words, would take such measures as may be found possible, should the necessity arise. But, my Lord, the experts who in turn had assured Your Excellency that no further serious erosion would take place, had counted without their host. Soon after Your Excellency left Pabna, the river made further inroads and went far beyond its old bed, washing away in its course the circuit house itself and several other pucca buildings. However, the assurance that Your Excellency had given to the people kept up their spirits all through the rains. But when the cold weather set in, still they found no tangible sign of official concern in the matter, they thought that perhaps it was a case of 'out of sight out of mind' with Your Excellency, and in January, 1919, they sent up a memorial to Your Excellency, in which they set out their case in detail and prayed for protection. My Lord, this memorial must have got entangled in the huge mass of red-tapes in the Secretariat as no reply was vouchsafed nor does it appear that any steps were taken to the knowledge of the people. Then when one of my colleagues had actually sent in notice of a question on the subject to the Secretary of this Council it appears that for the first time after Your Excellency's assurance the authorities began to take any interest in the matter and the place was visited by our official colleague sitting opposite, the Hon'ble the Chief Engineer. He was too late. The river was too full at that time and it was evidently impossible for him to come to any decision as to the protective measures to be undertaken. All the same, a deputation of leading townsmen waited on him. A prominent member of the deputation who saw me afterwards said that he could not make out the attitude of the Chief Engineer. It, however, was apparent to the deputation that the matter had not received any serious attention till then. The statement that the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley made before the House in reply to the question already referred to by me, also makes it clear that in spite of Your Excellency's assurance a year back, the matter had not been properly investigated by the authorities concerned nor any schemes had been prepared by them. Mr. Cowley then stated :—

It is not possible to state with certainty to what further extent erosion will continue, but it is possible that the houses occupied by the Collector and the Superintendent of Police may have to be vacated. The position was inspected by the Chief Engineer in the Irrigation Department on the 19th August; it is under the careful observation of the local officers of the Public Works Department; and a further inspection will be made by the Chief Engineer when the river level falls sufficiently. Any project for the permanent protection of the town and Government buildings is likely to cost a very large sum of money; a full report will, however, be submitted to Government with the recommendations of the Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department as soon as the river level falls sufficiently to enable a more thorough inspection to be made.

The people of Pabna in despair submitted another memorial to Your Excellency on the 25th August last. I shall quote a few extracts from this memorial. They would speak for themselves.

'This is the third year since the Padma river which remained hitherto at a safe distance has begun its ravages on the town of Pabna. In the first year of its attack a large char known as Char-Sadipur as well as a portion of the Ichamati river, a branch of the Padma, flowing in a winding course south and west of the town, was swallowed up in the course of a few weeks during the rains, and also some portion of the Municipal town known as Ramchandrapur, Dewangunge and Sadhupara, etc. But we regret to submit that last year the erosion was so rapid that a great portion of the town was washed away together with the Government Circuit House buildings to the south of the Collector's bungalow. Hundreds of towns people were made homeless and many valuable gardens and orchards were destroyed.

'This year the Padma has begun its ravages with tremendous fury, with the result that the fell river is now within 100 yards from the Collector's bungalow and about 400 yards from the Civil Court buildings.

'Judging from the daily rate of its erosion it is likely to wash away the small strip of land, that is the remaining portion of Ramchandrapur, Dewangunge, and Sadhupara, etc., and will also swallow up the remaining southern part of the Ichamati, in which case not only hundreds of houses will be washed away, but the Collector's bungalow, the District and Sessions Judge's bungalow, the Civil Court and Collectorate buildings, the Pabna Institution, the Mission House, the Elliot Bonomali Technical School, the District Board and the Municipal Office buildings, in fact the whole Civil Station of Pabna together with the Church and many valuable and private buildings and houses will collapse under the rush and fury of the river.'

My Lord, no reply has as yet been sent to this memorial.

In January last I was again informed that there were still no signs of any protective measures being undertaken. As a result I have been pressed to bring forward this resolution before the House. My Lord, this is a very serious matter. It involves the very existence of a prosperous town. The river not only threatens the loss of property both public and private worth more than 80 lakhs of rupees, but also renders a large number of people within a small area liable to be deprived of their ancestral homes. The feelings of the people there are naturally very strong over the subject. It touches both their purse and sentiment. I can hardly imagine that the Government do not realise the gravity of the situation. My Lord, now is the time for undertaking protective works. The river level is now sufficiently low and we have still five months left to push on with the works. I pray, my Lord, that no further time be allowed to be wasted. I appeal on behalf of the people of Pabna that immediate and adequate steps be taken to save the town from further erosion by the Padma."

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri said :—

"My Lord, I join in this appeal. Last year when I was informed of it I telegraphed to Government and I was assured that the needful would be done, but nothing was done. I also asked one or two questions on the subject, and from the replies given this morning I learn that a sum of Rs. 2,60,000 has been provided for the immediate protection of the town. As the circumstances are, the sum provided is not adequate, as the cost of revetting a mile is probably not less than 6 lakhs of rupees. There is an apprehension in the minds of the Pabna people that their fate is doomed and the headquarters station will be removed to somewhere else and that nothing will be seriously done for the protection of the town. I am glad that attention has been drawn to the subject and something has already been provided, and I believe that if more funds are required they will be provided. The protection of the town is a necessity, and the people as well as Government will suffer a heavy loss if the town is washed away. If the headquarters station is removed to somewhere else that will also be another misfortune to the people of Pabna. I therefore join in this appeal and hope that for the protection of Pabna all that can be done will be done without delay."

The Hon'ble Mr. Cumming said :—

"My Lord, I can understand the feeling of alarm of the people of Pabna regarding the gradual encroachment of the Padma river on their town; but I repudiate absolutely the suggestion which the Hon'ble Mover has seen fit to make that this matter has not been seriously treated. I do not think that the Hon'ble Mover has been properly informed. He has also made the assumption that because the local people see that nothing is being done locally therefore nothing at all is being done. There is also the tacit assumption that Government are responsible for the protection of private land on the banks of these big rivers. Government do see fit on occasion to take measures of protection; but Government cannot accept any such responsibility as the Hon'ble Mover indicates."

Resolutions.Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur.

Now, Sir, I wish to say that in view of the fact that action has already been taken on the lines suggested in the resolution, Government are prepared to accept the resolution. The lines on which action has been taken are contained in the answer which was given at this morning's sitting; and with Your Excellency's permission I shall read the relevant portion.

Government have decided to construct a short length of protective revetment at a point on the river bank a little distance above the town, which, it is hoped, may have the effect of diverting the main current of the river outwards on the southern bank and thereby cause scour on that side and avert the erosive tendency of the river opposite the town.

'The proposed work is estimated to cost Rs. 2,60,000; and it is intended to complete the revetment before the coming flood season.'

That being so, Sir, it is incorrect to state, as has been stated in a pamphlet, which was circulated to the press this morning, but a copy of which has so far not been sent to Government, that it is the intention of Government to leave Pabna to its fate and to build a new headquarters for this district elsewhere. Such a rumour is entirely without foundation.

I should like to add that the two Chief Engineers as well as the local engineers have visited the place, both during the monsoon period and after the monsoon period; and I have personally inspected the conditions in the month of October last. On that occasion the attitude of the local people was not at all on the line which the Hon'ble Mover has thought fit to adopt. They thoroughly understood what the Chief Engineer had said to them; and they understood the position. As stated already, the resolution is accepted because action has already been taken to carry it into effect, namely, it has been decided that before the next monsoon a revetment will be erected to the west of the town, which, it is hoped, will have the effect which has been described in the answer to the question this morning."

The Hon'ble Rai Debender Chunder Ghose Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I have not that special knowledge which the Hon'ble Kumar Shib Shekhareswar Ray and the Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri have in the matter, but I have been supplied with certain facts and I confess that I am surprised at the repudiation of the obligation of the Government to protect the banks of the river Padma because it will result in the protection of private property—if I have understood Mr. Cumming rightly. I take it that the result will be as stated, but it is not to be expected that when a calamity of this magnitude threatens private property on the banks of a big river that the property owner is expected to protect his property with revetments of a magnitude which is equal to resist the force of the waters of the river. In an important matter like this Government should take the work in hand, but still as owners of property will be considerably benefited they should also pay towards the cost of the undertaking. That is all that the Government can properly say. But to say that they have no responsibility in the matter is an unjustifiable proposition. I am glad to hear, however, that Government do not stick to their theory of non-obligation and are really trying to erect protective works by next monsoon. It has been suggested to me that the erosion of the river towards the town of Padma was due partly to the building of a bridge some miles down and to the training works higher up necessary for the stability of the bridge. The suggestion has, I think, some force. If you restrict the course of the river on one point the water will go to another point and break through land either on the northern or on the southern side. That has happened in other cases and it may not be unusual that it has happened in this case also owing to the construction of the Hardinge Bridge. If that be so, then the obligation of the Government is quite clear. If the works of the Government have resulted in the injury of private property—I am not of course expressing a legal opinion—it seems that the property owners have a just claim on the Government for coming to their rescue and in helping them against future calamities. Therefore, I support this resolution."

The Hon'ble Kumar Shib Shekhareswar Ray said :—

"My Lord, I am much obliged for the acceptance of the resolution by the Government. The people of Pabna will undoubtedly be much relieved to learn that the Government have at last been roused to activity. I am sorry if any of the statements made in my speech are incorrect, but I should point out that they are entirely based on information received from most reliable sources. My Lord, I gather from the statement made by the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming that a sum of Rs. 2,60,000 is proposed to be spent on the protective works at present. But a leading citizen of Pabna who is present here to-day tells me that sufficient work cannot be done with this sum. He says that the protective revetment should be at least one mile in length. I therefore hope that the whole thing will receive proper and adequate consideration in the light of experiences gained during the next rains."

The motion was put and agreed to.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 21.

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur moved the following resolution :—

"This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that steps be taken forthwith to improve the pay and prospects of Government subordinates and other ministerial officers in various departments under the Government of Bengal, with a view to give them immediate relief from the grave economic conditions prevailing at the present time.

He said :—

"My Lord, the resolution which I beg to move is a very important one. I have been asked by the people of this Province to press this resolution for the judgment of the Council. In one form or the other the subject has come to the notice of Government. If I do plead for the subordinates who are in the service of Government, I do so under a conviction that Government must consider the justice of their claim to higher salaries than what they now get. For various reason the Government subordinates are feeling great difficulty in making two ends meet. The average price of principal food-stuffs in India has been ascertained (vide the report of the Food-stuffs Commission). In the year 1900 it was 116; in 1910-13, 105; in 1914-17, 124; in 1918, 136; in 1919, 235. I am talking about the index numbers average of 1900-1909-10. No doubt India escaped lightly in the first three years of the war. Compare the average price of food-stuffs in 1919 with that of 1900. Really, without any comment, it must be said that the present price has risen very high. It has not only pressed very hardly upon the poorer classes and on people on small fixed incomes in the town, but the effect of them has been felt by every section of the community. This is admitted by the Commissioner in his report.

My Lord, in 1909 a circular was issued by Sir Henry Wheeler, when he was Secretary to the Government of Bengal, dated 23rd December, containing certain arrangements for the improvement of the pay of ministerial officers in the offices of the Divisional Commissioners and District and Subdivisional offices based upon a report of the Ministerial Officers Salaries Committees (Volumes I and II). The subordinates of Government are thankful to Government for an appreciable increase of their salaries in the year 1909.

Resolutions.

Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur.

In March last I brought a resolution, in which I asked Government to increase the pay of the clerks. I submitted a tabular statement showing how other Provincial Governments increased their clerks' salaries.

I would solicit a reference to the rules published at pages 1812-1815, Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of the 19th November 1919, laying down certain regulations for the appointments in the clerical services of the Bengal Secretariat, from which it will be seen that a system of time-scale has been introduced, so far as the staff of the Lower Division is concerned. While this measure has given some relief to a large number of ill-paid assistants, it is most unfortunate that no steps have been formulated to improve the deplorable condition of other low-paid assistants in other offices. If the Lower Division staff deserves such recognition at the hands of Government, surely it is the duty of Government to consider the claims of innumerable ill-paid assistants whose pitiable condition in view of the present economic stress beggars all description. In view of the war conditions several mercantile and commercial firms, the Railway authorities, including the State-owned Eastern Bengal Railway, have given substantial increments to their assistants, but no recognition has been shown to the dire distress of the poorly-paid subordinate officers of Government in various departments. While thanking Government for the grant of war allowance to the whole-time Government servants up to a certain limit (5 per cent. of their pay to those drawing up to Rs. 50) yet this help is like a drop in the ocean.

My Lord, in the offices of the Accountant-General, Bengal, Comptroller-General, India Treasuries, and the account offices under the Postal Department under the Government of India, a time-scale pay has been sanctioned and introduced by substantially improving the position of the assistants in these offices. If the offices under the Government of India, located in Calcutta, could be remodelled in this way does it not appear reasonable and proper to improve the condition of those officers subordinate to the local Government and located in Calcutta?

I put an interpellation on the 19th November last in the Council to ascertain whether Government are inclined to make an inquiry on the lines indicated by the Salaries Committee in Madras. The existence of economic conditions in this country predicates the serious necessity of the consideration of this matter. I entertain the idea that Government will be in a position to grapple with this important demand of their subordinates. They are discontented with the small salaries allowed to them, while they toil day and night to cope with the work entrusted to them. It is for the Government to formulate settled rules for the increase of the salaries of all officers, including the menials. It is my business here to-day to bring this fact to the notice of the Council so that Hon'ble Members may recommend to Government to allow substantial increase to the salaries of their subordinate staff.

My Lord, Sir Henry Wheeler told us in September last in the Council : 'It is perfectly impossible for this Government with the best intentions in the world to save their servants from the effects which are common over so wide an area.' In another part of his speech he observed 'We have given relief to the extent of Rs. 4 lakhs ; the full scheme, if carried out, will cost us about 17 lakhs.' If I am told why this matter of the increase of the pay of Government subordinates is brought to the Council again and again I would draw attention to the answer to my interpellation in this Council on the 19th November by the Hon'ble Mr. Payne. He said : 'The question of assimilating the pay of ministerial officers in Eastern and Western Bengal is under consideration. Beyond this, no general inquiry is at present contemplated and in the existing abnormal economical resources of the province, the time for such an inquiry is scarcely opportune.

My Lord, I am led to think that the existence of the abnormal economical condition argues the absolute necessity of improving the pay of Government subordinates. The average price of the chief food-stuffs has gone up to a high figure. There is dire distress in this quarter and is there no way to afford them relief? These men cannot purchase food and cloth; they cannot properly maintain their family; yet they serve Government and no other master. They pay high rents for the houses where they lodge.

I am sensible of the fact that there is a strain on the finances of the Government.

My Lord, is it impossible to provide something for the benefit of those people for whose cause I am pleading before the Council to-day? My Lord, I find that there is an increase of pay in the Civil Service, the Educational and Engineering Departments of Government. The other day I learnt that it was difficult to get the service of a police constable on a salary of Rs. 10. Is there no money for the dumb lowly paid subordinates of Government? Cannot Government formulate a time-scale rule in all offices subordinate to Government? The entire increment will then not be paid in one year. It will be no doubt an additional burden on the finances of Government, but it is a burden which a sympathetic Government should be called upon to bear in view of the economic conditions brought about by the war.

"My Lord, I repeat that the practical part of my resolution is the introduction of a time-scale in all offices subordinate to Government."

The Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem said :—

"My Lord, as it is late in the evening I do not wish to detain the Council but I simply wish to support the resolution."

The Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri said :—

"I also do not wish to detain the Council, but I join wholeheartedly in the piteous appeal of the ministerial officers."

The Hon'ble Sir Henry Wheeler said :—

"My Lord, I also will follow the example of the previous speakers and be as brief as possible at this hour of the day.

First of all I invite the attention of the Council to the extraordinarily wide nature of this resolution which proposes to recommend an improvement in the pay and prospects of Government subordinates and other ministerial officers in various offices, which, if it means anything at all, practically means that we should take up the revision of the pay at least of everybody who is not within the category ordinarily known as gazetted officers, and the Council would do well carefully to consider the magnitude of that proposal before they endorse it.

This resolution is not a new one. It is an echo of the three resolutions which we had in Dacca in August last, which were preceded by a similar resolution in March 1919, which again, in its turn, was preceded by a resolution in August 1918. Therefore all the arguments that are available are fairly well known to the Council, and my answer to-night will necessarily be very much by way of repetition.

Our main reason on previous occasions, and on this occasion also, for demurring to the acceptance of the resolution is not that it does not propose in a very large measure what we have done, and what we are doing, constantly as different cases arise, but because, as interpreted by previous speakers and as it would be interpreted by anybody who looks at it, the resolution apparently would require us, in view of the fact that the cost of living has gone up, forthwith by a stroke of the pen to enhance the pay of all our non-gazetted employees by something approaching a percentage equal to the rise in the cost of living, and that is a step which it is not practical politics for us to take. We are perfectly well aware that prices have risen, and nobody can fail to be aware of it, when they now press so heavily on us all. But, as I have said on previous occasions, that is a hardship from which we cannot relieve our employees altogether, more specially our clerical employees. It must be evident to everybody—it is not true of India alone—that with the wide diffusion of elementary education in the world at present a clerical career is bound to be one of the worst-paid careers that any man can take up, and the clerical service cannot expect the same emoluments as a successful merchant or a professional man can earn. Clerks deliberately take up a career in which the prospects are poor. Nothing we can do can alter that fact.

We have again the repetition of the old statement that mercantile firms have done much for their clerical staffs while Government have done nothing. That is not the case. We gave relief on a large scale to our menials involving an expenditure of 4 lakhs of rupees a year; we gave relief to clerks on pay below Rs 50, which involves an expenditure of Rs. 3½ lakhs; we have just improved the prospects in the lower division of the Secretariat; we have got a further scheme before the Government of India affecting menials, which (taken with what we have already done) would amount to some Rs. 17 lakhs, and we are contemplating the raising of the pay of head constables, as also of the clerical staff of the Registration Department. This is merely to mention some larger schemes, but there are, of course, in addition the usual isolated instances of raising a pay here and a pay there. We have, therefore, done a good deal according to our resources and according to the relative urgency of different cases. There are indeed many other claims upon us which are equally, if not more, urgent, and which are pressed in this Council with equal persistence. How many times do we hear about the need of raising the pay of teachers in primary schools? How many times do we hear about the case of the sub-deputy collectors, the case of munsiffs and sub-judges, and in fact of nearly every cadre in Government service? Therefore, Sir, our objection to this resolution is that it cannot be interpreted in any other way than that of urging us to take action on more general lines than it is practicable for us to do. What we can do in individual cases we are doing and will continue to do."

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mittra Bahadur said :—

"My Lord, I have listened to the speech of Sir Henry Wheeler and I am disappointed. I find that there is no chance for the Government subordinates to get an increased pay. On three occasions the matter was brought to the notice of the Council; money is forthcoming for other officers in other departments, but for these people, the subordinates of Government, there is no money. That is news, Sir, which has disheartened me. We know the condition of the country and the Council will agree with me that these subordinates are in a very distressed condition. In view of the want of food and clothes all over the country—all over the world—is there to be no relief for these poor men working night and day? That is a point which pressed upon me, and I thought it necessary to bring it to the notice of the Council and Government. But if no money is available, what can be done? Let these poor clerks and subordinates work and work; they have got no other masters to serve and Government have shown no sympathy. What are they to do?"

Resolutions.Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur.

I have done my duty, I have brought it to the notice of the Council and I submit that it is highly necessary that some relief should be afforded to these people. That is all that I have to say."

The motion being proposed a division was taken with the following result :—
